Headpin Event Opens Sunday

A roll-off with a host of grand prizes is an added feature of the Eighth Annual Heart Fund Bowling Tournament to be held at all 42 lanes in Franklin County starting Sunday, Nov. 1, and running through Nov. 7.

The top winners at each of the participating lanes in a 47-county area will be eligible to compete for a $1 entry fee. The tournament is sponsored by the Franklin County Heart Association and has the endorsement of the Ohio BPA. Scoring is on the basis of the number of pins spilled over the bowler's established league average in a three-game series and all prizes for the roll-off, which will be held Sunday, Nov. 22, at Olentangy Village Lanes, have been donated.

YOUR FAMILY IS SAFER WITH SAKER

Wm Boyland, Secty., 467½ W. Fifth Ave.

THE CHARLES Varner family meets Lisa Kay for the first time in "Adoption," a WLW Television documentary Saturday, Oct. 31, at 8 p.m. on TV 4. The story of Lisa Kay, the baby by an unwed mother, and the search to give her a new home is true in the TV-4 special.

'Adoption' Tells Story Of Childless Couple

"Adoption," the true story of the adoption of a baby by the childless Charles Varner family, is set for Saturday, Oct. 31, at 8 p.m. on TV-4. The half-hour WLW Television documentary looks into the problems, anxieties, and many steps involved in the adoption of a child.

Written and directed by Gene McPherson, the program follows the Varners from their first call to the adoption agency through the formal signing of the adoption papers for little Lisa Kay in the Probate Judge's chambers.

The story was reenacted for the WLW cameras by the Varner family, their friends and neighbors, adoption agency personnel and civic authorities who were actually involved in their case.

The origin of the baby, surrendered to the adoption agency by an unwed mother, is revealed, but the role of the mother is portrayed by an actress. The mother of Lisa Kay is one of more than 200,000 unwed mothers this year who will put up their babies for adoption.

The Children's Home, the Catherine Booth Home and Hospital operated by the Salvation Army, and the County Probate Court were used in the reenactment.

TO CONDUCT

DONALD E. McGinnis will conduct the concert of the OSU Concert Band in its Autumn Quarter program at at Mershon Auditorium at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 1. McGinnis is professor of music in the School of Music and head of the instrumental department of the old school. Admission to the Concert Band's program is free, and the public is cordially invited.

Prairie Players Win Competitive Costume Award

Prairie Players won a special costume award in competition at the Ohio Community Theater Conference held in Columbus Oct. 16.

Little theater groups from all over the state entered costumes designed for 1963-64 productions.

The award was granted to a group of five costumes from the children's play, "King Patch and Mr. Simpkins."

Vonnie Sanford, chairman of the costume parade for the local group, announced the following members who participated: Phyl Krepps, Iris Carter, Wayne Krepps, Bob Sutton and Jo Henne.

Hast Amend Dates Pomp And Ceremony

Hast Amend presents Pomp and Ceremony, massed bands, drums, pipers and dancers at the Veterans Auditorium, Saturday, Nov. 7 at 8:30 p.m.

Season tickets, as well as single admissions, will be sold up to and including the night of Bob Davis' program on Oct. 30, at the Mershon ticket office.

'SPOON RIVER' DATED

"Spoon River," the Broadway drama of Edgar Lee Masters' famed anthology will feature a Broadway cast of actors and singers when it appears as a special event at Mershon Auditorium on the OSU campus at 8 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 6.

ON TV-4

PERRY COMO sings to start his fall season on NBC-TV Thursday, Oct. 29, at 10 p.m. on TV-4, WLW-C. Victor Borge, the University of Michigan Glee Club, Anne Bancroft and Stanley Holloway are Como's guests in a live telecast from Detroit's Cobo Hall. This is the first of seven special Como shows to be seen in 1964-65.

Play Is Scheduled

Harry Graham, of 3252 Stephen-dr, and Jan Nafzger, 189 N. Roys-av, have been cast in Village Little Theatre's 100th production, "The Fifth Season," to be presented on Nov. 19, 20 and 21 in Brownlee Hall, First Community Church.

Also in the cast are Jeanne Flanders, Ellie King, John Taylor, George Jamison, Bob Davis, Eris Long, Steve Jones, Virginia Jorgenson and John Wareham.

Bond Issues Is Topic

"What will the bond issues mean to you?" is the question being asked on Columbus Town Meeting Sunday, Nov. 1.

Earl Morris will moderate the program which will be telecast over WBNS-TV, 5:30-6:30 p.m. and rebroadcast on WBNS Radio at 9:10 p.m.

Case No. 219305

Newton A. Thatcher, Treasurer — Plaintiff, vs. Northwest Boulevard Company, et al—Defendant.

Court of Common Pleas of Franklin County, Ohio

In pursuance of an Order of Sale from said court to me directed:
I will offer for sale at public auction
AT THE DOOR OF THE COURT HOUSE
In the City of Columbus
Franklin County, Ohio
The following described real estate situated in the county of Franklin and State of Ohio and in the city of Grandview Heights, Ohio

Known as Adjacent to 835 W. Goodale St.
Vacant Land Only.

Being a strip of land of irregular dimensions running through Lots Numbers Eight (8) and Nine (9) of Northwest Boulevard Plat; No. 6 Addition, as the same are numbered and delineated upon the recorded plat thereof, of record in Plat Book 18, page 32, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio; said strip running eastwardly from the west line of said Lot No. 8 to the mid-part of said Lot No. 9, thence running in a general north-northeasterly direction to the north line of said Lot No. 9 at the mid-part thereof and being in the southerly line of Goodale Street and being more particularly bounded as follows:

On the northerly and westerly sides by the south line of Goodale Street; a tract of land conveyed to the W. W. Williams Company by deed signed Feb. 27, 1920 and shown in Deed Book 643, page 140; a tract of land conveyed to The Columbus Conveyor Co. signed June 16, 1919 and shown in Deed book 706, page 466; and the westerly line of said Lot No. 8; on the southerly side by a tract of land conveyed to H. F. Patterson on May 25, 1921 and shown in Deed Book 644, page 605, and on the easterly and southeasterly side by a strip of ground described in a contract by the Northwest Boulevard Company with the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Co. signed on Aug. 8, 1918 and shown in Miscellaneous Record 12, page 406, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio.

Appraised at $1,200.00

Mayor Sensenbrenner sent an inspirational missive via telegram to the Warhawks who went to the finals of the Babe Ruth league's tournament in California. City Auditor John Price refused to pay for it.

Juvenile—

driver whose insurance rate was recently hiked. But, unlike many other motorists, he has some good first-hand information to explain his higher premium.

A prime cause of all insurance rate hikes is the number of claims filed by those who carry insurance. And Kilburn knows from hard experience that many motorists who conscientiously avoid accidents are less than careful about reducing incidents of vandalism involving their automobiles.

More often than not, Kilburn reports, the motorist whose car has been damaged by vandals will file his claim with his insurance agent without even making a report to police. This, of course, limits information that might otherwise be used to determine specific trouble areas to be more closely checked.

Kilburn read off a list of 40 different reports of car vandalism reported on one recent week-end. Damage totaled almost $1,600 and ranged from slashed convertible tops to broken windshields, windows, windshield wipers and outside mirrors.

On Sunday of that week-end, Kilburn drove down a Hilltop street en route to church. He reported that virtually every car on the street was minus its antenna. Yet the week-end reports showed that only one such case was reported to police.

Many of the juveniles who commit these senseless acts of destruction travel from street to street in cars, Kilburn said. It is virtually impossible, juvenile officers say, for any widespread activity of this nature to be committed without somebody witnessing the acts. But police seldom get an eyewitness account or report of a license number.

"People seem to think it's none of their business," Kilburn said.

Meanwhile, Kilburn and his fellow officers — within the Juvenile Bureau and on patrol —will follow a course of doing "the best they can with what they have where they are."

When enough of the "witnesses" become "victims," the job of law enforcement will become easier.

IT'S A MATTER OF PLUMBING

Village Hackles Rise At Inspection Change

The Franklin County Board of Health has assumed the responsibility of making all plumbing inspections in its health district.

Although municipalities within the county that are classified as cities are not affected by the move, the villages are.

Letters have been sent to these municipalities informing them that as of Oct. 15 all plumbing permits must be secured from the County Board of Health, all plumbing must be done by plumbers licensed by the County Board of Health and all jobs must be inspected by the County Board of Health.

A recent ruling of the attorney general has brought this change into operation.

By the revised code, according to Howard Reynolds, sanitarian for the board, this function has legally belonged to the board but had been assumed by the building department.

The ruling, he says, only places it where it legally belonged.

He indicated the new responsibilities which involved the creation of an entirely new department for the board were not particularly welcome, but that it did not have a choice in the matter.

Two plumbers (the same number previously employed by the building department) have been hired, and the need for two more is foreseen.

Rates have been set so that the permit and installation of one fixture will cost the property builder or remodeler $5. Two dollars will be charged for each additional vented fixture which includes sinks, toilets, dishwashers, water heaters, etc.

Reynolds stated that the cost for an average home will be $20 or about double the fee generally charged.

Emphasizing that the Board of Health has no intention of making money on the deal, he stated that the rates were set up on the recommendation of the state to enable the departments to be self-supporting.

One of the first village councils to review the news was that of Groveport this past Monday.

The councilmen objected strenuously to this responsibility being taken from their own building inspector, and a fee other than the building inspection fee which the village collects, being billed to local builders.

Such terms as "It stinks" and "This is a rotten apple" were used.

A letter of protest will probably be filled within the next few days.

Gahanna has already started negotiation with the Assistant County Prosecutor Tommy Thompson, who is handling the matter, to see legally if they can continue their own plumbing inspections.

Reynolds pointed out that Gahanna is one of the few villages with a licensed plumber on the payroll, which puts it in a somewhat different position than others. (Most village building inspectors are not plumbers.)

With many councils meeting on the first Monday of the month Thompson agreed that he was prepared to brace himself against a battery of complaints next week.

He stated that he has not given the matter sufficient study to give an opinion on Gahanna's position or that of any other village.

He indicated that by next week he will have more information on hand, including the avenues that can be followed to insure compliance with the regulations set up by the Board of Health.

Voters Approve Bexley Operating Levy, Whitehall School Measure

Bexley Majority Five-To-One

Bexley voters renewed the city's three-mill operating levy Tuesday by a resounding majority of nearly five to one. Final, unofficial vote count was 4805 in favor, and 989 opposed.

In other election issues the traditional GOP stronghold mostly supported Republican candidates, with Barry Goldwater leading over Johnson in nearly all of Bexley's 17 precincts.

The final levy tally was close to Mayor William Schneider's predicted results with the loss of many of the 989 votes, in his opinion, due to so many other levies on the ballot. "There are some people who simply voted down all issues," he said.

Bexley voters received a letter last week, signed by the mayor and councilmen, pointing out the necessity for the levy, needed to pay one-third of the city's $476,000 cost of municipal government.

Mayor Schneider said that he received many calls in answer to the letter, all promising to support the levy. None of the caller opposed the measure.

Cost of the levy to a homeowner whose property would sell for about $25,000 will be $33.90 a year.

Record High Vote In Whitehall

A record high number of voters, 5571 strong, approved Whitehall's school levy renewal by a 72 percent majority. The unofficial total was 4022 for the levy, to 1549 against.

The renewal was for 2.80 mills, or a reduction of .20 of a mill over the three-mill levy approved in 1959. Followed reappraisal of a year ago, the levy was reduced to bring in no more money than originally.

Cost to homeowners, according to School Superintendent Robert Crabbs, "probably will be very slightly less than before."

Crabbs admitted some concern for the passage of the measure, saying, "I'll never take them for granted. And when I saw so many going to the polls, I was concerned that many of the voters would be uninformed, and not understand the need for the levy."

Whitehall's vote of 5571 was nearly 2000 more than the 3600 of last year, when citizens approved a 7.85 school levy by 2397 for to 1251 against.

ORIENTAL COSTUMES will be worn by Capital University Choir members, as they sing many of the selections included in the concerts during their summer tour of the Orient, at a program Saturday evening at Mees Hall. They include, Ann Zimpfer, Jenny Raidt and Susan L. Wise.

Cap Choir Reviews Tour In Pictures, Slides, Song

By BETTY DAFT

Capital University choristers will don native costumes they purchased at stops on their Oriental tour last summer to present an encore of their highly successful trip in the Far East, at a program Saturday, Nov. 7, 8 p.m. at Mees Hall.

Colorful scenes of Japan, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Manila and Okinawa, and 17 U.S. states, all part of the tour, will be shown in slides and photos. The program is free and open to the public.

The 48-voice choir, turned ambassadors for the summer, sang a song of America's culture in sacred and secular music throughout the Orient, performing one and sometimes two concerts a day in their three weeks in the Far East. They also entertained in unscheduled appearances at hospitals and churches.

The choir, directed by Dr. Ellis Snyder and accompanied by a group of University Associates, was gone for a total of seven weeks.

And the impact of a Christian choir in the land of The Buddhas was immeasurable, far exceeding Capital's Board of Regent's most optimistic hopes.

Appreciative audiences at each crowded concert enthralled with their music, demanding encore after encore, and critics wrote glowingly of the recitals that "worshipped God through song."

The Yankee ingenuity with which the choir responded to the demands of fast travel with mountains of luggage, in a foreign country, inspired the awe of the Japanese.

Japan's speeding trains, travelling at 70 to 90 miles an hour, make station stops of only two minutes. And the choir's success in loading themselves along with 76 pieces of luggage, boxes of robes and their risers in only 45 seconds, was televised throughout the country.

And the young people, sometimes staying in homes of their hosts, interpreted the ideals and culture on the person-to-person level of conversation, as well as through America's folk songs and sacred music.

They learned, in return, that "the people were wonderful . . . such friendliness and hospitality," the choristers enthused. "We stayed in their homes where we were entertained and given gifts, and were taken on sightseeing trips.

"We saw the 'rooftop schools' and understand, now," they continued, "where money for missions go and how badly it is needed." And they speak of a new understanding of the Orient, its hopes and despairs, gained through "understanding its people."

Woody Booker of Capital University staff, Dr. Snyder and the associates who accompanied the choir, are united in their praise of the choir members.

"This was a real working tour, not a fun trip," Booker emphasized. "The kids were so tired that they would sleep even on short two-hour plane trips. And they all paid

"THE TENTH MAN" will be presented by the Gallery Players at the Jewish Center, Nov. 14, with six subsequent performances planned. Josie Gockenbach will portray Evelyn in the play, and Sam McClintic will appear as Arthur.

Judges Announce 39 Homemaker Finalists

The Spectator's panel of judges trimmed the list of local Suburban Homemaker entries to 39 this week and are now in the crucial final judging process to decide the woman or women who will represent Hartley Newspapers at the national convention, Nov. 19-20 in Chicago.

Winners will be officially announced in The Spectator's special Homemaker Section, Nov. 18.

Local homemakers will travel to the Windy City as guests of The Spectator to compete with their counterparts from all over the country for $5000 and the title of Suburban Homemaker of the Year.

Here is the complete list of finalists in the local Homemaker contest:

Mrs. Alice Hussey, 3006 Crescent-dr; Mrs. Edwin Sparks, 96 S. Richardson-av; Mrs. Norman Ealy, 2468 Spaatz; Mrs. William Roecher, 4317 Micheal-ct; Mrs. Janice Fagan, 651 Raleigh-dr; Virginia Ruth Clark, 459 Larcomb-av.

Mrs. Roy VonIns, 51 S. Brinker-av; Carol Hart, 331 Burgess-av; Mrs. Martha Schneider, 584 S. Chestershire-rd; Mrs. Patrica Coontz, 652 Georgian-dr; Mrs. Belva Sines, 139 S. Westmoor-av; Mrs. Charles Elgin, 273 N. Wayne-av; Mrs. James Shelhart, 633 S. Wayne-av.

Players Polish 'The Tenth Man' For Nov. 14 Opening Performance

Paddy Chayefsky's Broadway hit, "The Tenth Man," will open Saturday evening, Nov. 14, at the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av, with an 8:30 p.m. curtain time.

The performance will be repeated Nov. 15, 17, 18, 19, 21 and 22. The production is directed by Harold M. Eisenstein.

The play, a combination of earthy comedy, religious mysticism, romance and incisive comment on the lack of faith in modern man, ran from 1959 to 1961 in New York.

The title refers to the tenth man required for a prayer service quorum in a converted store synagogue in a New York suburb. Sam McClintic, as Arthur, is the young lawyer with a bent to suicide who, after wandering the streets all night, is dragged in to take part in these rites.

The service is planned to help an 18-year-old girl, Evelyn, played by Josie Gockenbach. The schizophrenic grandchild of one of the members, she is about to be sent to a sanitarium, and her grandfather and his friends persuade themselves she is possessed of an evil spirit which they intend to exorcise.

Hersh Adlerstein, Julian Barnett, Abe Green, H. William Cupp and Harold Cohen have the roles of the lovable old men who, more out of habit and boredom rather than devotion, are regulars at the synagogue.

Larry Kent will be seen as an old, penitential believer, and Burt Louis as an energetic, go-getting rabbi.

John Crawford has designed the old synagogue, and Judy Wolcott is in charge of lighting design. Caroline Levi is production assistant.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling Gallery Players office, BE. 1-2731.

Open Hearings Set On Whitehall Issues

Interested Whitehall residents will have an opportunity to voice their opinion on three proposed council actions at public hearings during council session Saturday afternoon at 3, and on another issue at a hearing before the service committee, at 2 p.m.

During the council session, postponed to Saturday from the regularly scheduled Tuesday evening, Nov. 3 date, a hearing will be held on a proposed change in the city zoning code to permit the construction of indoor theaters in general commercial districts.

If approved, the action will open the way for a new indoor theater to be built on the north side of E. Broad-st, west of Yearling-rd.

A request to build a coin-operated car wash at 3850 E. Main-st, west of Beechwood and next to the service station, will also be aired.

The proposal, turned down by Planning and Zoning Commission, would take a six-to-one vote by council for passage.

A third hearing will be held on the construction of a plastics factory on E. Main-st, next to the municipal garage.

Residents of Westphal-av and E. Mound-st have been notified of the hearing scheduled before the service committee at 2 p.m., concerning the problem of water draining from Westphal into basements of E. Mound-st homes.

A resoultion, read for the first time at the last regular council meeting, is "authorizing the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the improvement of Westphal-av from McAllister-av to the north line of Pinecrest subdivision, the construction of paved streets, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, storm sewers and drains, and declaring an emergency."

RAY REPEATS

Grid Contest Check En Route To Pennsy

Football Contest winner Jerry Ray knows one thing this week. Where ever you go, it pays to take your Spectator.

Jerry won $50 this week for besting 204 other contest entrants and he did it the hard way — all the way from Beaver Falls, Pa.

Jerry's subscription to The Spectator has really paid some handsome dividends. Last year, Ray won round five of the contest and collected another $50, half for stopping all other contestants, half for being a paid subscriber.

This week's winner missed only five of 28 picks but scored his win on the strength of the tiebreaker as both Larry E. Link, 614 Wiltshire-rd, and James R. Menear, 3420 Livmoor-dr, also missed only five games.

Jerry's estimate on the score of the OSU-Iowa game (21-14) was the closest to the final count (21-19.)

Just to show how tight the contest was this past week, ten other contestants missed only six. Runnersup were: Mary Ross, 1635 E. Main-st; Robert Brown, 4180 Wright-av; Mrs. R. R. Mahr, 4701 E. Broad-st; Dave Ritchey, 757

Leaf Pick Up Is Under Way In Whitehall

Regular leaf pick-ups, started last week in Whitehall with the city's new vacuum collector are under way, with crews working "where the need is greatest," Service Director Jim Polzer explained.

"Crews watch for areas with the greatest leaf fall, according to the number and type of trees, and schedules are planned accordingly," Polzer said.

Residents are instructed to rake their leaves in piles along the curb or gutter, taking care to include no big branches of wood, and crews will collect them.

Shrubbery and bushes should be placed with the regular rubbish for pick up.

The new leaf collector has a vacuum action, gathers leaves and mulches them, and has a capacity equal to about ten trucks, according to Polzer.

Police 'Misconduct' Hearings Close With Clark's Dismissal; Ballenger Outcome Pending

Departmental hearings on misconduct charges against two Whitehall police officers have been concluded, with one officer dismissed from the force, and the outcome still undecided on the second.

John A. Clark was notified in a letter he was to have received Wednesday, by Safety Director Darrell Todd of his dismissal. His hearing was finished Monday on charges of "misconduct that reflected back on the force," stemming from an off-duty incident that occurred at the Sands early on the morning of Oct. 23.

Officer Al Ballenger, suspended along with Clark on Oct. 25 pending outcome of the hearings, was also charged with misconduct for allegedly hindering departmental investigation of the incident.

Ballenger, on patrol at the time, was called to the Sands early on Oct. 23. Charges were filed against him on the basis of his report.

A decision on the outcome of Ballenger's hearing, to have been concluded Wednesday, will be delayed for a few days to give Todd time to examine the testimony before reaching a decision.

Departmental action against the two officers was launched two days after the incident, when Clark returned to duty on Sunday, Oct. 25.

A closed hearing was held Wednesday, Oct. 28, with Todd present, Police Captain Roger Weatherby in the absence of Chief Ralph Walker, the officers and their attorney, James Maxwell, and wit-

Under law, decisions may be appealed to the Civil Service Commission and finally to the Municipal Court.

Bexley Legion Learns Of Death Of Dr. Alban Ahn

A life membership in the American Legion was voted by Bexley Post 430 at its Oct. 26 meeting for Dr. Alban A. Ahn, its first commander, before members learned that Dr. Ahn had died about a month earlier.

News of the death of the former Bexley physician on Sept. 28 was received by attorney Robert H. Smith, present post commander, in a note from Mrs. Ahn of Tucson, Ariz.

Dr. Ahn was elected commander of Bexley Post by World War I veterans who organized the post late in World War II.

He left Bexley years ago, first going to Florida and then to Tucson, where for a time he was on the medical staff of the Veterans Administration Hospital. Illness forced him to give up that position about three years ago.

Whitehall VFW, Legion Sponsor Veteran's Event

Whitehall American Legion Post 490 and VFW Post 8794 will co-sponsor an "Open-House" from 1 to 10 p.m. on Veterans' Day, Nov. 11, at the VFW Post 4100 E. Main-st.

Announcement of the event, open to all Whitehall area veterans and their families, was made by Robert Ruck, Post 490 commander, and Earl Funk, commander of Post 8794.

Admission will be free, and sandwiches and refreshments will be served. Bill Martin, VFW Post 8794, is arrangements chairman.

WHITEHALL RECREATION

Registration Is Still Open For Leagues

Edward Metzger still has openings in Whitehall's senior boys' basketball league, playing Wednesday evenings at Whitehall Yearling, 7 to 10 p.m.

Boys may pick up eligibility lists from Metzger at the boys' gym. They may either form their own team or be placed on a team.

JUNIOR BOYS

Don Sapp will conduct gym at Rosemore for boys in the seventh and eighth grades every Wednesday evening. He will form a league with seventh and eighth grades. The program is open from 7 to 10 p.m.

SATURDAY

Recreation at Whitehall Yearling on Saturday morning will be for the first through sixth grades only, with group games, relays, physical fitness test, trampoline and basketball, 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Children are asked not to come before 8:45 a.m.

ADULT MEN

Adult Men's League on Wednesday evenings at East Main Street has been filled with eight teams.

Teams are: Red Devil (last year's champions), Norton Church of Christ, Shady Lane Presbyterian Church, Willow Haven Trailer Court, Brennon's Bar, The Slims, Bope Team and Whitehall Coaches. The league is for men 27 years of age and older.

The young adult league is still looking for more teams. Men 19 through 26 years, who would like to get a team in the league on Tuesday evenings at Rosemore, may contact Edward Metzger at Rosemore.

Men who are not on a team and would like to play should stop at Rosemore on Tuesday evening from 7 to 10 p.m.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Last Thursday evening, the Senior Citizens held their Halloween party. Winners of the costume contest were Mrs. Dorothy Glasscock, ugliest; Mrs. Araninta Davis, spookiest; Mrs. Hugh Parker, prettiest; Mrs. Amley, most unusual, and Mrs. Louise Johnson, most original.

Champions in card playing were Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Catherine Miller and Mrs. Bertha Tudor. Special guests were councilmen James Toomey and Roger Stahley.

Refreshments included a surprise birthday cake for Mrs. Catherine Miller.

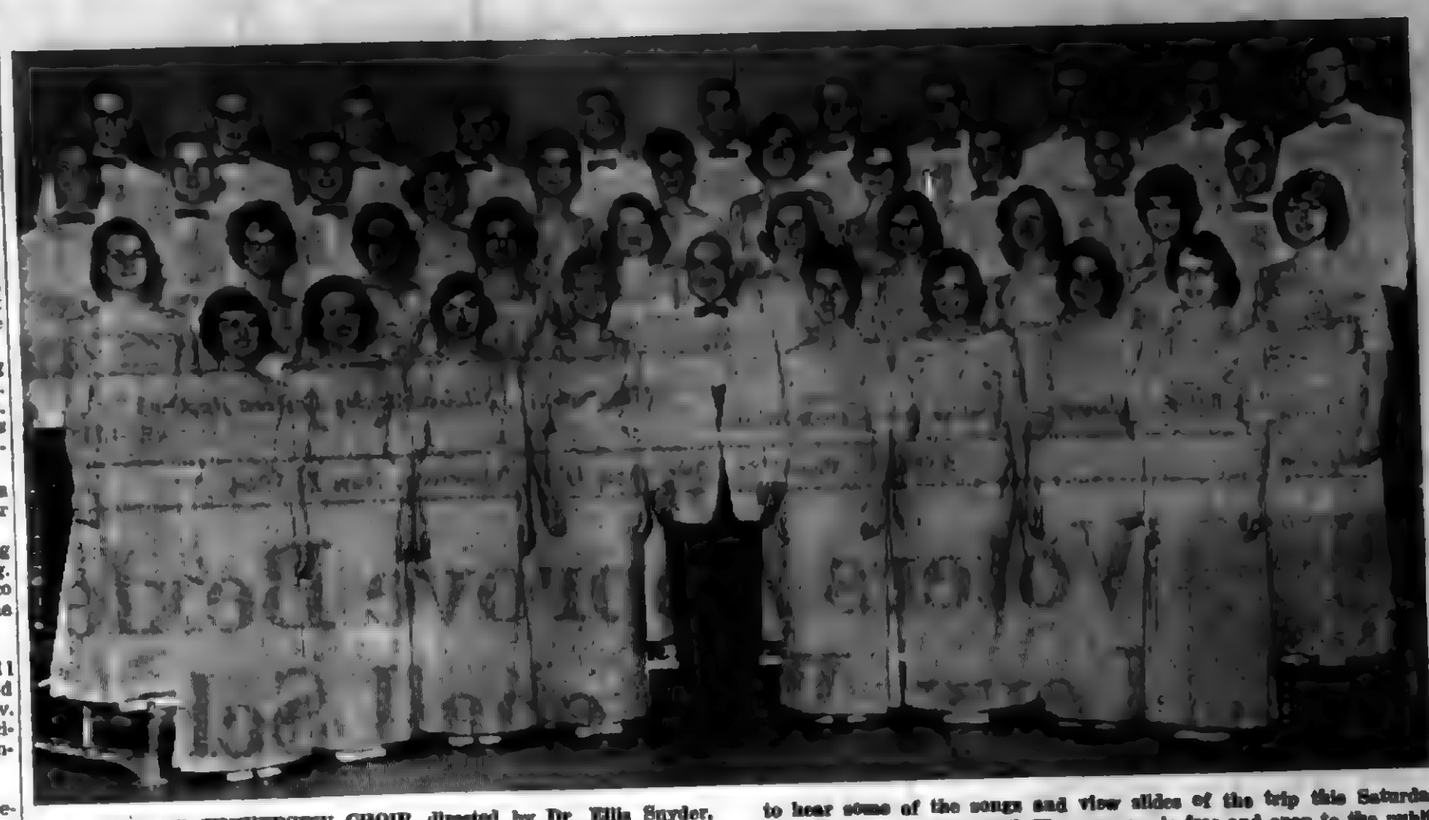
Mrs. Miller will be giving instructions on rug weaving. Senior citizens are asked to bring in old material for the rugs at the next meeting.

ADULT DANCE

Whitehall Recreation will hold its monthly round and square dance Saturday, Nov. 28, 8 to 11 p.m. at the Municipal Building, Recreation Center. Everybody is welcome.

WOMEN

Whitehall Recreation Department is sponsoring a Thursday night recreation program for women in the gym at Whitehall Yearling High. There is no cost for the program and all women in the city are invited.



The program is directed by Miss Charlotte Basnett who has had 11 years teaching experience in the field of recreation and physical education.

Activities requested include slimnastics, body mechanics, volleyball, basketball, trampoline and recreational games. The program will start at 7:30.

GIRLS

Girls' evening recreation program started Tuesday at Whitehall Yearling High School with 25 girls in attendance. Beginning trampoline was the main feature.

Future program will include individual and team sports, and physical fitness testing. A volleyball league for girls is now being formed. Those interested should submit their team lists by next Tuesday at the recreation session beginning at 7.

CAPITAL UNIVERSITY CHOIR, directed by Dr. Ellis Snyder, captivated audiances in appearances in the Far East and in 17 U.S. States during their seven-week summer tour. The community is invited to hear some of the songs and view slides of the trip this Saturday, Nov. 7, 8 p.m. at Mees Hall. The program is free and open to the public.

"The heat was oppressive at times, and four choir members fainted during a concert in Taichung. The humidity in Hong Kong was also memorable. But without exception they performed beautifully. We were so proud of them."

But their troubles fade in all the young people's minds when they recall the hospitality and friendliness of the people, and the warmth of their welcome.

And the treasures they brought home, along with jade, silk brocades, cashmeres and ivory, are memories . . . of fun and laughter and amusing problems.

"The Japanese who asked for 'little choir members' to stay in their homes because the roofs are so low, the time one of us got hit by a monkey, and Susie Kilpatrick lost her health card, and the sights we saw and the wonderful day we spent in Honolulu."

grown in enrollment, an adult-education program was begun as a community service, and a master plan for the college was developed.

A native of Newark, Sister Angelita received her final vows Aug. 5, 1931, and in 1961 was received into the Mother General Council.

She had taught school at Holy Trinity, Somerset, O., from 1928 to 1935 and at St. Francis de Sales School in Newark.

Survivors include three sisters, Helen, Alice and Ann Conley; and brothers, Edmund and John Conley.

Dance Group Is Organized At Jewish Center

A performing Israeli folk dance group has been organized, and plans are under way for its first presentation, according to Maizie Feinstein, chairman of the Jewish Center dance committee.

The group will meet in the adult lounge of the Jewish Center, Sunday, Nov. 8, at 4:30 p.m. under the direction of Lynn Nateman. Jewish Center members (both men and women) who are interested in becoming a part of this new group are invited to come at this time. Dance experience would be helpful but interest and enthusiasm are also acceptable.

For further information, call Maizie Feinstein, BE. 1-7747, or Lynn Nateman, BE. 5-4684.

WILLIAM T. ROBSON, 141 Dakota-av, topped 216 other contestants in last week's Spectator Football Contest. Bill won $25 for that feat and doubled his money by being a regular, paid subscriber to the Hilltop paper. Robson hit on 24 of the 28 contest games.

On Dean's List

Miss Margaret Taylor, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Donald A. Taylor, 1625 Bostwick-rd, has been named to Denison University's annual Dean's List.

Miss Taylor, a sophomore, is one of a select number of students who maintained at least 3.0 averages of a possible 4.0 during the entire 1963-64 academic year.

Baking Firm Chairman Dies

Service for Sterling Donaldson, 73, of 184 S. Parkview-av, chairman of the board of Donaldson Baking Co., was held Oct. 30 in the Bexley Methodist Church. Interment was in Green Lawn Cemetery by the Denton Donaldson-Kuhn Funeral Home.

Donaldson started the old Donaldson Baking Co. in Columbus in 1918. In 1925 he sold the bakery to the National Baking Co. which later became the Omar Baking Co. He then established the Donaldson Baking Co. in Louisville, Ky., and in 1929 he established the Sterling Bakery Co. in Canton.

It was in 1933 he founded the present Donaldson Baking Co. in Columbus. In October, the plant in Columbus was sold to Big Bear but the Donaldson company is still active in Louisville, Indiana and other parts of Kentucky.

Donaldson served in Washington during World War II as a liaison between the baking industry and the government.

He was a charter member of Bexley Methodist Church and a member of the board of trustees of the church. He was also a former member of the board of trustees at White Cross Hospital. Donaldson was also a member of the Athletic Club.

Survivors include son, Richard F., six granddaughters, grandson.

Shift Dress Not Always Easy To Fit

Figure irregularities and changes in fashion contribute to fitting problems in clothing construction and in buying and altering ready-to-wear, says Mrs. Orena Haynes, extension clothing specialist at The Ohio State University.

The shift or free-hanging dress currently preferred by many women is not as easy to fit as it would appear. There are not many seams and darts in which to make alterations. Mrs. Haynes offers these solutions to certain fitting problems.

If the side or underarm seam does not hang perpendicular to the floor, make the adjustment at the shoulder. When the underarm seam slants forward, the garment probably pokes out at the center front at the hemline. To correct this, lift the back of the garment at the shoulder — take a deeper seam allowance off the back than off the front.

To correct a side seam that slants toward the back, raise the front of the garment—take a deeper shoulder seam off the front. If this adjustment raises the bust darts too high, lower them to a normal position.

When the style permits, take a horizontal tuck across the garment for a yoke effect. This may be simpler than shoulder line alterations which involve collar and sleeves or neck and armhole facings.

Another relatively quick way to correct the hang of the skirt is to put a casing at the waistline with a drawstring or elastic to hold the garment in place. Hang the skirt correctly from the waist; permit the excess length to blouse above the waistline. This change of style is permissible as shifts are frequently worn belted.

These alternations will shorten the garment, so be sure the garment is long enough at its shortest point before you start to alter. If length is a problem and only slight adjustment is needed you may be able to let out the shoulder seam opposite the one that needs lifting.

Much of the attractiveness of a shift dress depends on the fit of the skirt. Remember that in the ideally fitted shift and any slim skirt, the legs are centered, Mrs. Haynes says, both from side to side and from front to back.

Golding Barn Fire Losses Set At $10,000

A fire of undetermined origin, fed by a brisk wind, caused about $10,000 damage to a barn and farm machinery before firemen could arrive at the scene on the property of David Golding, 7590 New Albany-Reynoldsburg-rd.

The fire was discovered about 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 1, by Bruce Carter, 15, of 8092 New Albany-Reynoldsburg-rd, who turned in the alarm.

Golding said the 80 by 90 foot, two-story barn contained his season's harvest of alfalfa hay and his farm equipment.

Dreamy Drinks

With the fall season comes football and once again mom can be a winner (even if the team wasn't). When the hungry fans drop over for a snack serve Honey Milk Shakes or Hot Choco-Nut . . . and watch the crowd chalk up your points.

HONEY MILK SHAKE

1 quart cold milk
¼ teaspoon mace or nutmeg
2 tablespoons honey

Add honey and spice to milk in a shaker or glass jar with a tight cover. Shake thoroughly. If a sweeter drink is desired, use more honey. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

HOT CHOCO-NUT

¼ cup creamy-style peanut butter
¼ cup chocolate syrup
1 quart milk
Dash of salt

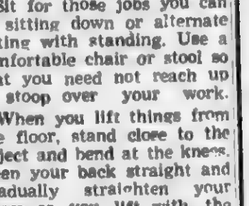
Mix peanut butter and chocolate syrup together in saucepan. Stir in milk. Heat to serving temperature over moderate heat, stirring constantly. Pour into cups and top with whipped cream, if desired. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Good Posture Makes Home Chores Easier

Posture in housework is closely related to a homemaker's health and efficiency, says Miss Catherine Knarr, Ohio State University extension home management specialist.

Needed for good posture are interest and willingness to practice good habits and to alter working conditions to improve physical comfort while doing household tasks. Homemakers also need to consider related factors—nutrition, rest, sufficient exercise, and a happy state of mind.

Today's homemaker may be surrounded by labor-saving equipment, but she must still lift, carry, reach, bend, and push, says Miss Knarr. To be efficient, she should know how to do this with the least possible strain. Good posture is a balanced position while standing, walking, or sitting.



Stand tall. When you work while standing, be sure the work surface — sink, table, mixing counter and ironing board is at the correct height for you. When you walk, carry the weight of the body forward on the outside of the foot from heel to toes. When you walk upstairs, hold your body erect. Use the thigh muscles to lift the body.

Sit for those jobs you can do sitting down or alternate sitting with standing. Use a comfortable chair or stool so that you need not reach up or stoop over your work.

When you lift things from the floor, stand close to the object and bend at the knees. Keep your back straight and gradually straighten your knees so you lift with the large leg muscles rather than your back. When you carry things, keep your shoulders level and your back straight.

If you must carry a heavy load on your arm, place it as near the elbow joint as possible, Miss Knarr suggests. Use a cart for heavy items. When you reach up, hold abdominal muscles tight to avoid strain. Everyday jobs, such as bed making and dusting, offer opportunity to practice tensing the abdominal muscles to avoid strain.

Of interest to Women

By JANET MICHAEL

Gail Groves And Lloyd Douglas, Jr. Take Wedding Vows At Holy Spirit

Miss Gail Gene Groves and Mr. Lloyd Douglas, Jr., exchanged marriage vows Sept. 5 at Holy Spirit Catholic Church. The brids is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Groves of Reynoldsburg. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd N. Douglas, 595 Robinwood-av. Fr. James Ogurchock performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie. The semi-sheath skirt featured a front slit at the hemline and was appliqued with re-embroidered alencon lace. The fitted empire bodice featured a rounded neckline and long tapered sleeves and repeated the alencon motifs. A detachable chapel train fell from the back waistline.

Her veil of imported silk illusion fell from a coronet crown of lace accented with miniature self rosettes. She carried a cascade of white butterfly roses centered with a white corsage.

Miss Judy Douglas, maid of honor, and Miss Patti Douglas, bridesmaid, sisters of the bridegroom, wore ballerina-length gowns of Capri blue satin and matching circular veils. They carried yellow carnations in a French colonial design.

Mr. Danny DeStefanis served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Gary Groves, brother of the bride, and Mr. Willard Douglas of Bridgeport, W. Va., cousin of the bridegroom. Mr. James Pease was the organist.

A reception was held at the home of the bride.

The new Mrs. Douglas is a graduate of Reynoldsburg High School and is employed at Western Electric. The bridegroom was graduated from Bishop Hartley High School and is associated with Belmont Casket Co.

Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the couple is residing at 4227 Rickenbacker-av.

OSU Freshman, Reva Shar, To Tell Of Trip To Israel

Liloh, evening group of Hadassah will meet Thursday, Nov. 12, 8:15 p.m. in the adult lounge of the Jewish Center.

Mrs. Michael Karr, chapter president, will install Mrs. Donald Cohen as the newly elected president replacing Mrs. Joseph Baskin and Mrs. Jerome Silverman as program vice-president. Mrs. Baskin will soon be leaving Columbus for Springfield, Pa., where her husband has taken a new position with Boeing Aircraft.

Reva Shar, speaker, will show slides of her recent trip to Israel. Miss Shar, past president of Junior Hadassah, was granted national, regional and local scholarships to attend the Junior Hadassah Seminar Institute in Israel this summer.

At present she is a freshman in education at Ohio State University, assistant pre-school teacher at Agudas Achim Sunday School and is starting a Young Judea Group for fifth and sixth graders.

Another highlight of the evening will be a display of current outstanding Jewish Books and a report on the Vocational Education program.

Mrs. Sidney Esco is program chairman assisted by the following hostesses: Mrs. Manny Sobel, Mrs. Sanford Soloman, Mrs. Marvin Horkin, Mrs. Benton Bernstacker and Mrs. Girard Levy.

Dessert and coffee will be served. Transportation may be arranged by calling Mrs. Harvey Rosenberg.

Sisterhood To Sponsor 'Tenth Man'

The Sisterhood of the congregation Ahavas Sholem will sponsor one evening performance, Tuesday, Nov. 17, of the Gallery Players production of "The Tenth Man" by Paddy Chayefsky. 'Hoe-Down-Hoot' Set In Whitehall

Family style fun, with something planned to interest every age group, is the theme of the annual hoe-down hootenanny, sponsored by Whitehall-Yearling PTA at the school Tuesday, Nov. 10, 7 to 10:30 p.m.

In addition to the hootenanny there will be square dancing with Ernie Winnestaffer as caller, and a sock hop. Refreshments will also be available.

Charcoal and pastel portraits will be done during the evening by local artists, Edson Howard, Mrs. Mary Jane Alford and Mrs. Rose Bellomy.

Local talent will be featured at the hootenanny.

Admission to the affair is 50 cents each, or $2 for a family of more than four.

Mrs. Roger Denick is chairman and Mrs. Oscar Early is PTA president.

Guidance In Daily Living

A seminar on "Religious Insights for Our Daily Living" will be held at the YWCA, Tuesday, Nov. 10, 12:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Costs will be 50 cents for luncheon, and $1 for family night supper at 6 p.m. Free baby sitting will be provided.

Dr. Nathan Vonder Werf, associate director of the Columbus Area Council of Churches, will speak at the dinner hour.

From 2 to 5:30 p.m., discussion groups will be held. Participants will have their choice of two workshops. These include:

"In Search of Life's Meaning," and "How One Meets Personal Crisis," such as death in the family, financial reverses, mental difficulties; led by Mrs. Betty Howard of Grant Hospital.

"Our World Responsibility," led by Mrs. Otis Maxfield, chairman of World Fellowship Committee of the YWCA.

"Racial Reconciliation," with Rev. Lester Stansberry, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

"The New Morality," Fred Faust, director of social service, Juvenile Court.

"Our Community Responsibility for the Socially Isolated in Our Own Community," led by Mrs. Jeanette Huhta, of the United Community Council.

Reservations are to be made at the YWCA, CA. 4-9121 no later than Nov. 6.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON REZONING REQUEST
Case No. 198

Public hearing will be held by the Council of the City of Whitehall, Ohio, on Tuesday, the 1st day of December, at 7:30 P.M. at the City Hall, 369 South Yearling Road, to consider the request of Lincoln Properties, Inc., for rezoning and variances of 123 lots in the proposed Fairway Oaks Subdivision, comprising 49.975 acres between Hamilton Road and Fairway Boulevard north of the proposed extension of Stan Road: (1) 118 lots from A-1-A to A-2-A Single Family Residential, (2) 6 lots from A-1-A Single Family Residential to A-10-A Apartment House District, and (3) variances on 36 lots of the Fairway Oaks Subdivision.

Plot plans, proposed ordinance, and the report of the planning and zoning commission are on file in the office of the Clerk of Council at the City Hall.

By order of the Council of the City of Whitehall.

Sarah V. Phillips
Deputy Clerk of Council
RS—10-29, 11-5

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed bids will be received by the Director of Public Safety, City of Whitehall, Ohio, 369 S. Yearling Road, until 12:00 noon Eastern Standard Time, on the 11th day of November, 1964, for the purchase of one station wagon with the trade-in of one used station wagon.

The specifications are on file with the Director of Public Safety, in his office at 369 S. Yearling Road, and copies are available to all interested bidders from the Chief of the Whitehall Fire Department, 390 S. Yearling Road.

Each bid must be accompanied by a $200.00 certified check on a solvent bank in Franklin County. Should any bid be rejected, such check will be returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted, such check will be returned upon proper execution and securing of the contract. Otherwise, the same will be retained by the City if said condition is not fulfilled.

The Director of Public Safety reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Capital Five Drills Daily

Coach Whitey Regan rolled out the round ball Monday to the scuffling of some 35 pairs of rubber soled shoes, 15 of them belonging to freshmen.

Capital' first game is Dec. 1 in a home affair against Denison's zone defense, then on to Oxford, O., for a date with Miami's classy man-for-man. So Regan knows his work is cut out for him, especially since the decrease in the overall height of the Crusader squad from last season.

The tallest returning veteran is all-conference forward Jim DeBerry at 6-3, who will be called upon to perform at center this season. Regan plans on going with co-captains John Beach and Dave Veenendaal at the forwards and Dave Mumau at one of the guard posts. The other backspot is open for grabs between Joe Besecker, Gary Walters and sophomore Chuck Gearhiser.

OTHER VETERANS include Jim Craycraft and Lee Drewes, both reserve forwards. Regan has to search for a backup man for DeBerry, since receiving the news that candidate Mark Mengering, a 6-5, 200-pound bull off the backboards, has had his athletic activities curtailed for a year under doctor's orders because of a bad back.

Cap plays 10 home games and will be in Akron Rubber City Classic in December. The schedule: Dec. 1, Denison; Dec. 3, at Miami; Dec. 5, Akron; Dec. 8 at Kenyon; Dec. 12 at Baldwin Wallace; Dec. 15, Marietta; Dec. 22-23, Rubber City Classic; Jan. 7, at Wooster; Jan. 9 at Heidelberg; Jan. 13, Ohio Wesleyan; Jan. 16, Hiram; Jan. 20, O. Northern; Jan. 30, Wright Patterson; Feb. 3 at Otterbein; Feb. 9 at Wittenberg; Feb. 13, Wilmington; Feb. 16, Muskingum; Feb. 20, at Mt. Union; Feb. 25, 26, 27 and Mar. 2, OAC Tournament.

Little Bucks Win Sixth

The Little Buckeyes won their sixth straight Conference game in the Ohio Valley Conference this weekend by downing the Lockbourne Sky Hawks, 54-6. Buckeye John Ferrante scored three TDs, two on 45 and 30 yard punt returns and another on a 47-yard jaunt.

Ace Buckeye back Kenny Levin accounted for two TDs, one on a one-yard dive and another on a 50-yard pass from John Ferrante.

End Lynn Stoner grabbed two passes from quarterback Billy Vest good for 10 and 23 yard scoring plays, while halfback Alan Kletecka made the last score for the Buckeye eleven on a 4 yard run. Lockbourne Sky Hawk ace back Kevin Astley made the lone score for Lockbourne on a six-yard sweep around end.

AT WOLF PARK

Buckeyes ...13 14 6 21—54
Lockbourne 6 0 0 0— 6

Buckeye scoring — Touchdowns: Ferrante 3 (45, 30, punt returns; 47 run); Levin 2 (50, pass from Ferrante; 1, run); Stoner 2 (10, 23, passes from Vest); Kletecka (4 run). EP—Flower (run); Kletecka (2, pass from Ferrante); Levin (run). Lockbourne scoring: Kevin Astley, six-yard run.

Cap's Still Tops In Loop Rushing

Capital remained in the top slot in the Ohio Conference rushing department last week with a total of 1507 yards for a 251.2 per game average and are currently in a two-way tie for the runnerup OC spot with a 5-1 mark.

Gordon McMaken, Cap's earthmoving fullback, is fourth in OC rushing with 499 total yards (no losses) in 80 hauls and the Crusader has yielded but 54 points all season. The Crusaders play at Wooster Saturday.

Snow Racing Clinic Ready

The Ohio Alpine Committee, under the auspices of the United State Ski Association — Central Division, is sponsoring a Racing Forum at the Olentangy Inn, Columbus, Nov. 8, starting at 12:30 p.m.

All skiers and parents of junior skiers are invited to attend.

The purpose of the Forum is to explain and discuss the eligibility and rules of sanctioned racing and how it fits into the United State Ski Association — Central Division and USSA racing program.

EAST'S 1964 CROSS COUNTRY SQUAD

LEE WILLIAMS' '64 cross country squad could produce some distance strength for the Bengals next spring in the City League cinder race, something that hindered the Tigers last spring. The Tiger harriers include (first row, from left) John Lewis, Frank Sullivan, John Wright, George Shropshire and Solomon Eagle. Standing: Carl Baker, Vance Carr, Archie Allen and coach Lee Williams.

EAST ONE AWAY AS . . .

Scotties Host Linden; Rams Battle Bobcats

East's title-bound Bengals inched one notch closer to their 20th City League grid crown last week, their first in nine years, following a landslide 58-14 win over hapless Aquinas as three different Tigers scored two times each.

John Slappy caught two TD passes from slick Paul Stith who ran one in from the 20; Gary Rispress tallied on a one-yarder; Chuck Wright caught two air strikes from Harry Belcher; Sherm Lundy tallied twice on runs and Reggie Hicks galloped 23 for a six-pointer to help boost the Tigers' mark to 8-0 going into Friday's finale at Brookhaven (5-2-1).

LUNDY'S SCORES kept him atop the City League scoring race with 66 points while East outgained the Terriers, 387-192, and tallied four times in 11 plays at one stage of the game.

Brookhaven is paced on the offense by Laird McNeal, Steve Kesterson and Don Polaski, plus quarterback Steve Campbell, who can throw the "bomb." The Tigers have to win this one to finish on top of the City and end a perfect season.

EASTMOOR 30, CENTRAL 16

Bob Stuart's Warriors upped their mark to 3-5 on the year as they disposed of the Bucs behind little Jerry Groves who scored once and added a conversion and passed 13 yards to sticky-fingered Kirk Sweet for another.

Eastmoor tallied in every period as flashy Ron Eiland and consistent Mike Allen added single TD's late in the game. The Warriors' tough defense held Central scoreless the first half while E-M conversions were counted by Ron Bollie, Groves and Sweet.

THE WARRIORS travel to North High (0-8) tomorrow night for a game with the Polar Bears who feature slingin' quarterback Chuck Globe and ace receiver John Postelthwaite. The Bears have sacrificed 168 points and scored but 62 in eight games and should provide little opposition with their dull, inside counter plays.

WALNUT RIDGE 14, NORTH 8

Ralph Webster's Scots trailed 8-0 against North going into the final frame but old reliable Dave Feyh led the Scotties out of the woods with a pair of scoring aerials late in the fourth period.

Feyh found Bill Masch all alone in the end zone and fired a 30-yard scoring aerial to him to up the tally to 8-6. With 22 seconds showing on the game clock, Feyh uncorked a 10-yard pass to Gary Carter who also converted to give W-R the hard-earned nod.

THE SCOTTIES, now 2-4 in the loop and 2-6 over-all, end the season at home tomorrow night against rugged Linden-McKinley (3-3-2) whose bread and butter runners are hard-running Lou Mello (six TD's) and John Mayo (28 points).

ACADEMY 22, NEW ALBANY 8

The Vikings, 2-3-1 over-all, relied on the two-touchdown scoring of Terry Larrimer to subdue the Eagles who didn't hit the board until the final chukker against Academy's fine defensive unit.

Tom Keny, however, provided the Viking fans with their biggest thrill as he grabbed the second-half kickoff and raced 84 yards for a touchdown behind a pair of "clean out" blocks by his teammates.

THE REVAMPED Vikings far (three last week). The Dick Price-coached Vikings will have some problems closing the season on a win note with the Raiders riding high on a win string.

ST. CHARLES 52, MT. VERNON ST. VIN. 0

John Finn upped his TD total to 15 last week as he helped the Cards to their sixth win against two setbacks. Finn racked up 211 yards on 25 totes and tallied four times on one, two, three and 49-yard runs while teammates Leo Dietlin (20-yard pass from Joe DiCesare), Larry Hummer (six-yard run), Tim Rooney (19-yard run) and Larry Amicon all scored once.

Press Southworth's two kicks and Jerry Jones' conversion run roundod out the host resurgent Reynoldsburg (5-3) tomorrow night, a team currently on a four-game win skein. Raider backs Jon Molnar, Gene Harshaw (175) and Gary Davis complement Jon Heischman's passing while ace receiver Harold Mattingly has caught six scoring aerials thus Carolian scoring after the Cards piled up 551 total yards and limited the Saints to a mere 30 net yards.

WHITEHALL 39, URBANA 0

Jim Bline's Rams gained their second shut out of the season against the Hillclimbers as the well-coached Whitehall club erupted for 32 second-half points after Bline pumped some venom into his lethargic charges at the half.

Tom Barton tallied twice and hard-running John McQuaid hit pay dirt three times to lead the Rams who also received a short touchdown pass from Daryle Hicks to Gary Stimmel.

Jim Rodenmayer's trio of perfect place kicks rounded out the Ram scoring and helped boost Whitehall's all-games mark to 5-3 with two games to go. The Rams' next foe is speedy and elusive Grandview, a team that coach Bline has great respect for due to the 'Cats fine backfielders (Kelly Kahler and Tom Holden and quarterback Steve Fekete).

THE BOBCATS (6-2) have a fine passer in Fekete, a boy who hit six of 12 passes for 152 yards (three TD's) against Bexley last week. The Rams have their work cut out for them but Bline has visions of a 7-3 season, so count Whitehall a winner.

WATTERSON 42, HARTLEY 14

Jack Ryan's Hawks were clipped after trailing by 12-8 at intermission as the Eagles flew the coop with 30 second-half tallies.

Hard-running Scott French ran six and 60 yards for scores in the second and last frames while sophomore Steve Grier added a conversion after the last Hawk TD.

THE HAWKS, 1-3 in the CCL and 2-4-1 on the year, travel to Dayton Alter Saturday night, a team that topped Ready, 14-8, earlier. Alter's Dale Fisher is the main running threat while sticky-fingered Jerry Berry is the key receiver.

GRANDVIEW 22, BEXLEY 8

Bexley was passed into submission by slingin' Steve Fekete last week as the Bobcat ace made connections on three TD throws and totaled 152 yards through the air.

Bexley's rock-like defense held the 'Cats to an 8-0 lead at intermission but the Bobcats still totaled 210 yards rushing. The Lions' lone score came in the third chukker when Paul Shultz scampered seven yards and Tim Greiner caught a conversion pass from Rick Weber.

DON DeJONG'S Lions (1-7) close out the grid season at Arlington (8-0) tomorrow night for a go at the state-ranked Golden Bears. The Lions will have to muster a hotter offense to go with their sticky defense in order to stay with the Bears Friday night.

Tenpin Tourney Rolling Along

This is the week that thousands of league bowlers are participating in the Eighth Annual Heart Fund Bowling Tournament, bringing in needed funds for the fight against the causes and prevention of heart disease.

The week long tournament, in which all 44 lanes in Franklin County are participating, got under way Sunday, Nov. 1. Bowlers pay a $1 fee in order to take part.

Anyone bowling in a league during the rest of the week can still take part. The man and woman with the highest score in the county will be awarded a trophy as well as sharing in cash prizes at their respective lanes.

A new feature this year is the grand roll-off, open to the top scoring man and woman at each of the lanes in the Central Ohio Heart Association 47-county area.

Grand prize is a four-day stay at the Yankee Clipper Hotel in Fort Lauderdale. Roll-off to determine the winners will be Sunday, Nov. 22, at Olentangy Village lanes.

Crusader Eleven Gunning For Fifth Straight Saturday

Capital goes gunning for its fifth straight win and a chance to tie for the most number of games won by a Crusader team—six—in one season at Wooster Saturday.

The Capsters, who bombed Marietta 24-0, will again rely on their defense, which has allowed but one TD in the last three games, to hold down the Scots speedy backfield trio of Rod Dingle, Mike Gordon and Walter Blaich.

Gene Slaughter feels they are "The three fastest men in one backfield in the conference. In Dingle, the Scots have one of the most outstanding backs in the league."

Wooster uses a multiple offense and "They throw something new at you all the time," says Slaughter. "We don't know what to expect."

THE CRUSADERS should have Ron Paxson ready to go. He entered the Marietta game in the third quarter and sparked the team to a two TD effort. Paxson connected once to Dick Angelou on a 12 yard pass, then engineered the Crusaders 46 yards in nine plays for a second final period score.

Chuck Daubenmier sailed through a field goal from 25 yards out, after Cap had marched 53 yards on its opening drive, and a Dave Eberhard to Larry Gornall payoff pitch accounted for the other TD.

The Cap defenders were led by Murphy Moultry, who recovered one Pioneer fumble, and Gary Maulier, who recovered two, one setting up Cap's second score . . ; and the two Smiths, Tom and Bob, each with one interception.

The Pioneers could gain but 35 yards on the ground and 84 in the air. Twelve times Cap threw Marietta runners for losses totaling 84 yards. Cap has won six games in one year but three times before . . . a 6-1-1 record in 1938 . . . 6-2-0 in 1954 . . . 6-1-1 again in 1957 . . Cap finds itself tied for second place in the conference . . . and all of the Crusaders' games are played in the conference.

The Crusaders are but eight points away from an undefeated season . . . a 22-14 loss to B-W is all that mars the record and Paxson has hit on 60 percent of his passes (24 of 40) . . . Saturday he went five for six against Marietta.

Jewish Center Plans Agenda

Marv Grossman and Mendy Snyder, the 1964-65 Jewish Center Little League and Pony League chairmen, announced that this year's basketball registration will be Sunday, Nov. 15, between 4 and 6 p.m.

The Jewish Center had its largest registration in history last year and is looking for a bigger registration this year. Don't be left out, register Nov. 15.

The Little League will again be divided into fifth, sixth and seventh grade divisions.

The Pony League is for boys in eighth, ninth and 10th grades and the Junior Jets are made up of boys in the fourth grade.

ANY FATHER or supporter of athletics who wishes to help in any of the programs as a coach, referee or scorekeeper is requested to contact Bernie Weston, BE. 1-2731. Your help is needed.

Spencer Alexander, chairman of the Jewish Center men's volleyball committee, announces the following men as members of the committee: Dr. Malcolm Robbins, Herb Mumm, Herschel Hausman, Irvin Flox, Sandy Goldston, Don Erkis and Sig Wasserman. The first meeting was held Sunday, Oct. 25, as the committee started making preparations for the coming season.

Spencer Alexander wishes to inform all adult male Jewish Center members that they are eligible to play every Sunday morning between the hours of 9:30 and 12:30. Kenny Solomon, the physical education director, will be on hand to help interested players.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON REZONING REQUEST
Case No. 196

Public hearing will be held by the Council of the City of Whitehall, Ohio, on Tuesday, the 1st day of December, at 7:30 P.M. at the City Hall, 369 South Yearling Road, to consider the request of Lincoln Properties, Inc., for rezoning and variances of 133 lots in the proposed Fairway Oaks Subdivision, comprising 49.975 acres between Hamilton Road and Fairway Boulevard north of the proposed extension of Stza Road: (1) 118 lots from A-1-A to A-2-A Single Family Residential, (2) 6 lots from A-1-A Single Family Residential to A-1-A Apartment House District, and (3) variances on 26 lots of the Fairway Oaks Subdivision.

Plot plans, proposed ordinance, and the report of the planning and zoning commission are on file in the office of the Clerk of Council at the City Hall.

By order of the Council of the City of Whitehall.

Sarah V. Phillips
Deputy Clerk of Council
25—10-29, 11-5

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed bids will be received by the Director of Public Safety, City of Whitehall, Ohio, 369 S. Yearling Road, until 12:00 noon Eastern Standard Time, on the 11th day of November, 1964, for the purchase of one station wagon with the trade-in of one used station wagon.

The specifications are on file with the Director of Public Safety, in his office at 369 S. Yearling Road, and copies are available to all interested bidders from the Chief of the Whitehall Fire Department, 369 S. Yearling Road.

Each bid must be accompanied by a $300.00 certified check on a solvent bank in Franklin County. Should any bid be rejected, such check will be returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted, such check will be returned upon proper execution and securing of the contract. Otherwise, the same will be retained by the City if said condition is not fulfilled.

The Director of Public Safety reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Darrell M. Todd,
Director of Public Safety,
City of Whitehall
10-29, 11-5

"BIDS FOR TRACTOR, LOADER, BACKHOE"

Capital Five Drills Daily

Coach Whitey Regan rolled out the round ball Monday to the scuffling of some 35 pairs of rubber soled shoes, 15 of them belonging to freshmen.

Capital' first game is Dec. 1 in a home affair against Denison's zone defense, then on to Oxford, O., for a date with Miami's classy man-for-man. So Regan knows his work is cut out for him, especially since the decrease in the overall height of the Crusader squad from last season.

The tallest returning veteran is all-conference forward Jim DeBerry at 6-3, who will be called upon to perform at center this season. Regan plans on going with co-captains John Beach and Dave Veenendaal at the forwards and Dave Mumau at one of the guard posts. The other backspot is open for grabs between Joe Besecker, Gary Walters and sophomore Chuck Gearhiser.

OTHER VETERANS include Jim Craycraft and Les Drewes, both reserve forwards. Regan has to search for a backup man for DeBerry, since receiving the news that candidate Mark Mengering, a 6-5, 200-pound bull off the backboards, has had his athletic activities curtailed for a year under doctor's orders because of a bad back.

Cap plays 10 home games and will be in Akron Rubber City Classic in December. The schedule: Dec. 1, Denison; Dec. 3, at Miami; Dec. 5, Akron; Dec. 8 at Kenyon; Dec. 12 at Baldwin Wallace; Dec. 15, Marietta; Dec. 22-23, Rubber City Classic; Jan. 7, at Wooster; Jan. 9 at Heidelberg; Jan. 15, Ohio Wesleyan; Jan. 16, Hiram; Jan. 20, O. Northern; Jan. 30, Wright Patterson; Feb. 3 at Otterbein; Feb. 6 at Oberlin; Feb. 9 at Wittenberg; Feb. 13, Wilmington; Feb. 16, Muskingum; Feb. 20, at Mt. Union; Feb. 25, 26, 27 and Mar. 2, OAC Tournament.

Walnut Heights Baptist Church, 1660 Lattimer-dr, has received a building permit to erect a masonry building. Valuation is $22,000.

Eastmoor Scholars Named National Semi-Finalists

Two Eastmoor High seniors have been named National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists, on the basis of test scores placing them in the top two-thirds of one percent, nationally.

Neal Milnor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Milnor, 140 Mayfair, and Ira Sully's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Sully, 6504 Carriage-in.

Neal is interested in a career in the field of physics and plans to attend Northwestern, and Ira, hoping for a career as a chemical engineer, hopes to enroll at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Neal is interested in music activities at the school and is a member of the band and choir. He is also president of Future Teachers of America, the school tennis team and Explorers Post 195 at Fairmoor Methodist Church.

Study of the stock market and coin collecting are Ira's choices of hobbies. He is manager of the school wrestling team and was president of the debate club last year.

Ira Sully

On Merit List

Cadet Jude H. Terhall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Terhall of 3507 Noe Bixby-rd, has been named to the dean's merit list for outstanding academic achievement at the U.S. Air Force Academy. He also has been selected for the position of squadron operations officer with the rank of cadet captain.

Cadet Terhall, a member of the class of '65, will be granted additional privileges and will wear the silver star of distinction on his sleeve in recognition of the honor accorded him by the academy dean.

Little Bucks Win Sixth

The Little Buckeyes won their sixth straight Conference game in the Ohio Valley Conference this weekend by downing the Lockbourne Sky Hawks, 54-6. Buckeye John Ferrante scored three TDs, two on 45 and 30 yard punt returns and another on a 47-yard jaunt.

Ace Buckeye back Kenny Levin accounted for two TDs, one on a one-yard dive and another on a 50-yard pass from John Ferrante.

End Lynn Stoner grabbed two passes from quarterback Billy Vest good for 10 and 23 yard scoring plays, while halfback Alan Kletecka made the last score for the Buckeye eleven on a 4 yard run. Lockbourne Sky Hawk ace back Kevin Astley made the lone score for Lockbourne on a six-yard sweep around end.

AT WOLF PARK

Buckeyes ...13 14 6 21—54
Lockbourne 6 0 0 0— 6

Buckeye scoring — Touchdowns: Ferrante 3 (45, 30, punt returns; 47 run); Levin 2 (50, pass from Ferrante; 1, run); Stoner 2 (10, 23, passes from Vest); Kletecka (4 run). EP—Flower (run); Kletecka (2, pass from Ferrante); Levin (run). Lockbourne scoring: Kevin Astley, six-yard run.

Cap's Still Tops In Loop Rushing

Capital remained in the top slot in the Ohio Conference rushing department last week with a total of 1507 yards for a 251.2 per game average and are currently in a two-way tie for the runnerup OC spot with a 5-1 mark.

Gordon McMaken, Cap's earthmoving fullback, is fourth in OC rushing with 499 total yards (no losses) in 80 hauls and the Crusader has yielded but 54 points all season. The Crusaders play at Wooster Saturday.

Snow Racing Clinic Ready

The Ohio Alpine Committee, under the auspices of the United State Ski Association — Central Division, is sponsoring a Racing Forum at the Olentangy Inn, Columbus, Nov. 8, starting at 12:30 p.m.

All skiers and parents of junior skiers are invited to attend.

The purpose of the Forum is to explain and discuss the eligibility and rules of sanctioned racing and how it fits into the United State Ski Association — Central Division and USSA racing program.

EAST'S 1964 CROSS COUNTRY SQUAD

Tenpin Tourney Rolling Along

This is the week that thousands of league bowlers are participating in the Eighth Annual Heart Fund Bowling Tournament, bringing in needed funds for the fight against the causes and prevention of heart disease.

The week long tournament, in which all 44 lanes in Franklin County are participating, got under way Sunday, Nov. 1. Bowlers pay a $1 fee in order to take part.

Anyone bowling in a league during the rest of the week can still take part. The man and woman with the highest score in the county will be awarded a trophy as well as sharing in cash prizes at their respective lanes.

A new feature this year is the grand roll-off, open to the top scoring man and woman at each of the lanes in the Central Ohio Heart Association 47-county area.

Grand prize is a four-day stay at the Yankee Clipper Hotel in Fort Lauderdale. Roll-off to determine the winners will be Sunday, Nov. 22, at Olentangy Village lanes.

Crusader Eleven Gunning For Fifth Straight Saturday

Capital goes gunning for its fifth straight win and a chance to tie for the most number of games won by a Crusader team—six—in one season at Wooster Saturday.

The Capsters, who bombed Marietta 24-0, will again rely on their defense, which has allowed but one TD in the last three games, to hold down the Scots speedy backfield trio of Rod Dingle, Mike Gordon and Walter Blaich.

Gene Slaughter feels they are "The three fastest men in one backfield in the conference. In Dingle, the Scots have one of the most outstanding backs in the league."

Wooster uses a multiple offense and "They throw something new at you all the time," says Slaughter. "We don't know what to expect."

THE CRUSADERS should have Ron Paxson ready to go. He entered the Marietta game in the third quarter and sparked the team to a two TD effort. Paxson connected once to Dick Angelou on a 12 yard pass, then engineered the Crusaders 46 yards in nine plays for a second final period score.

Chuck Daubenmier sailed through a field goal from 25 yards out, after Cap had marched 53 yards on its opening drive, and a Dave Eberhard to Larry Gornall payoff pitch accounted for the other TD.

The Cap defenders were led by Murphy Moultry, who recovered one Pioneer fumble, and Gary Mauller, who recovered two, one setting up Cap's second score . . ; and the two Smiths, Tom and Bob, each with one interception.

The Pioneers could gain but 35 yards on the ground and 84 in the air. Twelve times Cap threw Marietta runners for losses totaling 84 yards. Cap has won six games in one year but three times before . . . a 6-1-1 record in 1938 . . . 6-2-0 in 1954 . . . 6-1-1 again in 1957 . . Cap finds itself tied for second place in the conference . . . and all of the Crusaders' games are played in the conference.

The Crusaders are but eight points away from an undefeated season . . . a 22-14 loss to B-W is all that mars the record and Paxson has hit on 60 percent of his passes (24 of 40) . . . Saturday he went five for six against Marietta.

Jewish Center Plans Agenda

Marv Grossman and Mendy Snyder, the 1964-65 Jewish Center Little League and Pony League chairmen, announced that this year's basketball registration will be Sunday, Nov. 15, between 4 and 6 p.m.

The Jewish Center had its largest registration in history last year and is looking for a bigger registration this year. Don't be left out, register Nov. 15.

The Little League will again be divided into fifth, sixth and seventh grade divisions.

The Pony League is for boys in eighth, ninth and 10th grades and the Junior Jets are made up of boys in the fourth grade.

ANY FATHER or supporter of athletics who wishes to help in any of the programs as a coach, referee or scorekeeper is requested to contact Bernie Weston, BE. 1-2731. Your help is needed.

Spencer Alexander, chairman of the Jewish Center men's volleyball committee, announces the following men as members of the committee: Dr. Malcolm Robbins, Herb Mumm, Herschel Hausman, Irvin Flox, Sandy Goldston, Don Erkis and Sig Wasserman. The first meeting was held Sunday, Oct. 25, as the committee started making preparations for the coming season.

Spencer Alexander wishes to inform all adult male Jewish Center members that they are eligible to play every Sunday morning between the hours of 9:30 and 12:30. Kenny Solomon, the physical education director, will be on hand to help interested players.

EAST ONE AWAY AS . . .

Scotties Host Linden; Rams Battle Bobcats

East's title-bound Bengals inched one notch closer to their 20th City League grid crown last week, their first in nine years, following a landslide 58-14 win over hapless Aquinas as three different Tigers scored two times each.

John Slappy caught two TD passes from slick Paul Stith who ran one in from the 20; Gary Rispress tallied on a one-yarder; Chuck Wright caught two air strikes from Harry Belcher; Sherm Lundy tallied twice on runs and Reggie Hicks galloped 23 for a six-pointer to help boost the Tigers' mark to 8-0 going into Friday's finale at Brookhaven (5-2-1).

LUNDY'S SCORES kept him atop the City League scoring race with 66 points while East outgained the Terriers, 387-192, and tallied four times in 11 plays at one stage of the game.

Brookhaven is paced on the offense by Laird McNeal, Steve Kesterson and Don Polaski, plus quarterback Steve Campbell, who can throw the "bomb." The Tigers have to win this one to finish on top of the City and end a perfect season.

EASTMOOR 30, CENTRAL 16

Bob Stuart's Warriors upped their mark to 3-5 on the year as they disposed of the Bucs behind little Jerry Groves who scored once and added a conversion and passed 13 yards to sticky-fingered Kirk Sweet for another.

Eastmoor tallied in every period as flashy Ron Eiland and consistent Mike Allen added single TD's late in the game. The Warriors' tough defense held Central scoreless the first half while E-M conversions were counted by Ron Bollie, Groves and Sweet.

THE WARRIORS travel to North High (0-8) tomorrow night for a game with the Polar Bears who feature slingin' quarterback Chuck Globe and ace receiver John Postelthwaite. The Bears have sacrificed 168 points and scored but 62 in eight games and should provide little opposition with their dull, inside counter plays.

WALNUT RIDGE 14, NORTH 8

Ralph Webster's Scots trailed 8-0 against North going into the final frame but old reliable Dave Feyh led the Scotties out of the woods with a pair of scoring aerials late in the fourth period.

Feyh found Bill Masch all alone in the end zone and fired a 30-yard scoring aerial to him to up the tally to 8-6. With 22 seconds showing on the game clock, Feyh uncorked a 10-yard pass to Gary Carter who also converted to give W-R the hard-earned nod.

THE SCOTTIES, now 2-4 in the loop and 2-6 over-all, end the season at home tomorrow night against rugged Linden-McKinley (3-3-2) whose bread and butter runners are hard-running Lou Mello (six TD's) and John Mayo (28 points).

ACADEMY 22, NEW ALBANY 8

The Vikings, 2-3-1 over-all, relied on the two-touchdown scoring of Terry Larrimer to subdue the Eagles who didn't hit the board until the final chukker against Academy's fine defensive unit.

Tom Keny, however, provided the Viking fans with their biggest thrill as he grabbed the second-half kickoff and raced 84 yards for a touchdown behind a pair of "clean out" blocks by his teammates.

THE REVAMPED Vikings far (three last week). The Dick Price-coached Vikings will have some problems closing the season on a win note with the Raiders riding high on a win string.

ST. CHARLES 52, MT. VERNON ST. VIN. 0

John Finn upped his TD total to 15 last week as he helped the Cards to their sixth win against two setbacks. Finn racked up 211 yards on 25 totes and tallied four times on one, two, three and 49-yard runs while teammates Leo Dietlin (20-yard pass from Joe DiCesare), Larry Hummer (six-yard run), Tim Rooney (19-yard run) and Larry Amicon all scored once.

Press Southworth's two kicks and Jerry Jones' conversion run rounded out the host resurgent Reynoldsburg (5-3) tomorrow night, a team currently on a four-game win skein. Raider backs Jon Molnar, Gene Harshaw (175) and Gary Davis complement Jon Heischman's passing while ace receiver Harold Mattingly has caught six scoring aerials thus Carolian scoring after the Cards piled up 551 total yards and limited the Saints to a mere 30 net yards.

WHITEHALL 39, URBANA 0

Jim Bline's Rams gained their second shut out of the season against the Hilliclimbers as the well-coached Whitehall club erupted for 32 second-half points after Bline pumped some venom into his lethargic charges at the half.

Tom Barton tallied twice and hard-running John McQuaid hit pay dirt three times to lead the Rams who also received a short touchdown pass from Daryle Hicks to Gary Stimmel.

Jim Rodenmayer's trio of perfect place kicks rounded out the Ram scoring and helped boost Whitehall's all-games mark to 5-3 with two games to go. The Rams' next foe is speedy and elusive Grandview, a team that coach Bline has great respect for due to the 'Cats fine backfielders (Kelly Kahler and Tom Holden and quarterback Steve Fekete).

THE BOBCATS (6-2) have a fine passer in Fekete, a boy who hit six of 12 passes for 152 yards (three TD's) against Bexley last week. The Rams have their work cut out for them but Bline has visions of a 7-3 season, so count Whitehall a winner.

WATTERSON 42, HARTLEY 14

Jack Ryan's Hawks were clipped after trailing by 12-6 at intermission as the Eagles flew the coop with 30 second-half tallies.

Hard-running Scott French ran six and 60 yards for scores in the second and last frames while sophomore Steve Grier added a conversion after the last Hawk TD.

THE HAWKS, 1-2 in the CCL, and 2-4-1 on the year, travel to Dayton Alter Saturday night, a team that topped Ready, 14-8, earlier. Alter's Dale Fisher is the main running threat while sticky-fingered Jerry Berry is the key receiver.

GRANDVIEW 22, BEXLEY 8

Bexley was passed into submission by slingin' Steve Fekete last week as the Bobcat ace made connections on three TD throws and totaled 152 yards through the air.

Bexley's rock-like defense held the 'Cats to an 8-0 lead at intermission but the Bobcats still totaled 210 yards rushing. The Lions' lone score came in the third chukker when Paul Shultz scampered seven yards and Tim Greiner caught a conversion pass from Rick Weber.

DON DeJONG'S Lions (1-7) close out the grid season at Arlington (8-0) tomorrow night for a go at the state-ranked Golden Bears. The Lions will have to muster a hotter offense to go with their sticky defense in order to stay with the Bears Friday night.

Eastwood Pastor Serving Reynoldsburg, Grove City

Pastor Kurt Kurz

Pastor Kurt Kurz, formerly of Green Bay, Wis., has accepted a call to the Eastwood Seventh-day Adventist Church, 26 N. 21st-st. He will also serve as district pastor to the Reynoldsburg and Grove City churches. His assistant, Joseph Spicer, a graduate of Andrews University, began his internship in the Columbus district last June.

Pastor Kurz comes to Columbus after serving eight years as pastor of the Green Bay Seventh-day Adventist Church. He was graduated from Union College, Lincoln, Neb., in 1938 and has served in five conferences since his ordination in 1941.

Pastor and Mrs. Kunz have a son, Wilbur Dean, a senior at Andrews University, and a daughter, Mrs. Helgi Heidar, who is a registered nurse. Mrs. Heidar resides with her husband, a medical student, in Loma Linda, Calif.

A dinner honoring the pastor was held at the church's junior academy Oct. 25.

Pastor Kurz will be interviewed on the television program, Tom Ryan Reports, on WBNS-TV on Nov. 25.

Rabbi Folkman Will Preach On 'Worst Enemies'

"Their Own Worst Enemies" will be the title of the sermon to be delivered by Dr. Jerome D. Folkman Friday, Nov. 6, 8 p.m., at Temple Israel, 5419 E. Broad-st.

In announcing this subject, Dr. Folkman explained: "All of us who have dedicated our lives to the helping professions, who are trying to be helpful to our fellowmen, are amazed from time to time to discover how often people are their own worst enemies. The Biblical portion of this week reveals a remarkable insight into a problem which existed in antiquity and which plagues modern man even more."

At the 11 a.m. Saturday morning service, Brion Levin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Levin, 2831 E. Broad-st, will be the Bar Mitzvah.

If it can be said that you are what you eat, it is doubly true that you are what you read, for the magic process that carries the author's thoughts to your own mind by way of the printed page leaves a lasting image. Your Columbus Public Library can offer you a well-balanced diet of reading.

Derby Oils On Display This Month

Fifteen oil paintings by Gertrude Derby are on exhibit this month in the lobby of the Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd. She is a member of the Columbus Art League, as well as the Daubers, and has received awards in both oil and watercolor media. Her paintings have been shown at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, Capital University Art Gallery and in several local churches and libraries. In addition she was featured in a one-man show at the Bryson Gallery.

Mrs. Derby has studied at the Columbus College of Art and Design, and with the late Harriet Kirkpatrick, as well as Professors Carol Bradley and Gilbert Hall of OSU. She is art director of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Her work will remain on display through Nov. 30.

'Average Man' Is Rabbi's Tonic

Sabbath Services at Temple Tifereth Israel begin each Friday at 8 p.m. with Rabbi Nathan Zelizer conducting the services and Cantor Stanley Burstein chanting the traditional liturgy. Rabbi Zelizer will speak on "The Average Man."

The Bar Mitzvah of Cynthia Lou Paine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paine, 48 S. Drexel-av, will be celebrated. An Oneg Shabbat (fellowship tea) in the social hall will follow.

Services on Saturday morning begin at 9:15 a.m. Rabbi Zelizer will speak on "It Is Costly To Be Blessed."

Don't be in a hurry to cut your mums for indoor arrangements. Wait until they are fully mature. Mums are long-lasting indoors if properly prepared. Immediately after cutting, split the ends of the stems and place them in room-temperature water and store in a cool room overnight. This will extend their life considerably.

PEP Readies Petitions For Local Signing

Mrs. Eleanor Fourman has been selected to captain the Reynoldsburg drive in the Plan for Education Progress campaign.

The group has chosen petition circulars for the local area which will be circulated in the community within the next week. The group plans to meet tonight, Nov. 5, to discuss further plans.

Known as the PEP program, it is the result of years of intensive study. It is sponsored by the Ohio Council for Education and designed to strengthen Ohio's public school system by guaranteeing an adequate minimum education for every Ohio child.

PEP hopes to achieve its goals by presenting an initiated bill to the Ohio Legislature when it convenes again Jan. 6, 1965. The bill proposes to provide funds to revise and improve the school foundation program by increasing the state sales tax one cent on the dollar.

The Reynoldsburg Board of Education and the Ohio Congress of the Parent-Teachers Association have voted to support the PEP program.

A SYMBOL OF SAFETY

When the ship is in danger, we can depend on the life-boats to take us over the seas to safety. It is comforting to glance at the life-boat when the seas are rough.

Our Armed Services are a symbol of safety when our country is in trouble, when war threatens to raise its ugly head. In the past, when war has come, our servicemen have not hesitated to give their lives to protect and defend us.

There is a special Day each year when we remember and honor our servicemen who have died in the defense of our blessed country. Let us not forget, as individuals, to honor these dead and give thanks to God for those who protect us even now. Remember them as you attend church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Finalists Are Named For Senior Officers

By Sheila Kinder

First balloting for senior class officers at Walnut Ridge was held in the homerooms Oct. 29. A 2.0 scholastic average was required for eligibility.

Finalists for these offices are Jim Shipman and Pete Butterfield, president; Eddie Radcliffe and Jack Brown, vice-president; Linda Crandall and Linda Finn, secretary; and Melinda Simonds and Deanna Scott, treasurer.

Glena Endsley will write, and Carol McCue will narrate a three-minute play about our auto shop, to be shown Nov. 20 on the television program, "Looking With Long."

A Veterans Day program will be presented to the school Tuesday, Nov. 10, over the public address system during homeroom period. The program will consist of a message by a member of the Writers Forum and appropriate music.

The FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America) Club will sponsor a sock hop in honor of the football players Friday, Nov. 6, 10 to 11:15. Admission will be 35 cents.

Mary Jane Goldthwaite represented Walnut Ridge on WTVN radio, Nov. 4, on the program "Youth Speaks Out." She was one of two people chosen from the Columbus Public Schools.

County and parochial schools were also represented by two members. Director of the Department of Child Study and Student Counseling, E. F. Reichelderfer, was moderator for the panel discussion about "Responsibilities."

Pictures of clubs and groups were taken Nov. 4 for the yearbook, the "Tartan."

Citizens of the month for November are Tony Biscuso and Sandy Sanders, senior high, and John Kluge and Rita Burk, junior high.

A new policy for Walnut Ridge will go into effect at the next dance—no more tickets will be sold at the door. Students wishing to attend dances must buy their tickets before the dance.

The Chef Club has recently announced its new officers for this year. Danny Baxter is head chef; Tom Kreba, assistant chef, and Jerry Fields, treasurer.

The Chef Club will meet the second and fourth Wednesday of each month under the advisorship of Mrs. E. Jones. Its first project this year will be to learn how to make a pumpkin pie.

Senior High Red Cross officers have been chosen. Karen Blanton is president; Cathy Dick, vice-president; Kathy May, secretary, and Connie Chancellor, treasurer. Sharon Gandolf and Freida Clifton have been appointed senior and junior girl representatives, respectively, from Walnut Ridge to the Red Cross Council.

A sophomore girl and a senior, a junior and a sophomore boy remain to be chosen as representatives.

Eastmoor High School's Warriors' Spear-It

By MARCIA BEUOE and JOYCE FINKE

The means of making possible a much-needed field house in the stadium area were formulated at a recent meeting of the Eastmoor Athletic Boosters Association members with administrative officials of the Columbus Public Schools. It is felt that this is one of the most exciting developmental phases in the history of Eastmoor High School. There is a possibility that construction could begin on this facility before the end of this school year.

Included in the preliminary design are concession stands, restrooms, ticket offices, and accommodations for all outdoor sports.

In order to show the architectural plans and to discuss further promotion of this project, the Booster Association is calling a general meeting of all interested parents and school organizations in the Eastmoor auditorium, Thursday, Nov. 19, at 7:30 p.m.

The first ACT examination will be administered Saturday, Nov. 7, at both Capital and Ohio State Universities. This test is a requirement for admission to many Ohio colleges.

Eastmoor played Central Oct. 30, as their last home football game. This night was designated as Dads' Night. All the squad members' fathers sat on the sidelines wearing their son's uniform number.

The recognition banquet for Eastmoor's football squad is scheduled for Tuesday evening, Nov. 10, at Walnut Hills Country Club. Squad members will be the guests of the Eastmoor High School Athletic Boosters Association. Parents and other interested fans may attend. Tickets are $2.50 per person and may be purchased at the school office. Mr. Gene Slaughter, Capital University's varsity coach, will be the guest speaker.

On Veterans Day, Nov. 11, all Columbus Public Schools will be closed.

Student Council sponsored a mock election on Monday, Nov. 2. The students voted for President and Vice-President, U. S. Senator, Congressman-at-Large, Representative to Congress 12th District, Judge—10th Court of Appeals, Sheriff, and Coroner.

The Student Council officers for the '64-65 year are: president, Rod Richards; vice-president, Sharon Ijams; secretary, Mimi Culver; treasurer, Art Paul; and sergeant-at-arms, Mike Allen.

To help enforce school regulations, Student Court meets two days a week. The members try persons accused of violating the rules. If found guilty, the person is given a fitting punishment. This year's court members are chief justice, Jay O'Neill; senior judges, Carol Armstrong, Jerry Gerard and George Varga; junior judges Bunny Jenkins, Buzzy Thomas and Dixie Zinnecker; clerks, Birdie Colegrove and Jane Farson, and bailiff, Danny Goldberg.

Bexley High School LION'S ROAR

By MIMI DEATON

The junior class at Bexley is breaking traditions! Linda Schneider, junior, is going to graduate this year with the senior class. Next spring, Linda will have a total of 17⅓ credits — 1⅓ more than she needs to graduate. Congratulations!

Also, juniors decided to purchase oval class rings (the rings are traditionally rectangular); they won the float contest at homecoming; and the junior girls' hockey team won the school championship, defeating the freshmen and seniors on hockey night. The seniors downed the sophomores.

Girls on the senior hockey team were Cathy Malloy, Margaret Ingalls, Kathy Bellingham, Joyce Devine, Peggy Maise, Linda Beck, Janice Petzinger, Charlotte Buckner and Patty Buker. Dianne Kushner was captain and Toppy Thomas was the alternate.

Members of the junior team were Ronnie Altman, Sylvia Bornstein, Diane Loehnert, Sherry Smith, Kathy Holden, Carolyn Schneider, Diane Krech, Alice Schottenstein and Bev Slatzer. Carol Godofsky was captain. Barb Golden, Karen Gingrich, Carol Becker and Kris Ohmer were alternates.

Sophomore players were Patty Stewart, Chistie Lesher, Martha Milbourne, Judy Baumgardner, captain; Diane Bendoff, Kelly White, Susie Pixley, Linda Krech and Darcy Bown. Laurel Dachner was the alternate.

Freshman participants were Corine Fendell, Rose Kleski, Karen Fricke, Sherri Squeo, Loren Loving, Pippi Shustick, Melinda Thackery, Jessie Davidson, Julie Paine, Ellen Bryant and Debbie Harbold, captain. Alternates were Froncie Hauffine, Diane Frohenauer, Elizabeth Smith and Fram Grossman.

Co-chairmen of hockey night were Romi Altman and Barb Golden. Tammy Crow was program chairman.

The varsity "A" hockey team has won two games, tied one and lost one. The "B" team has won one, tied one and lost two.

Recently announced Y-Teens cabinet members are Diane Loehnert and Cathy Malloy, chairmen of the ways and means committee.

Bexley High had its first assembly last Wednesday. Olle Muhbeck, an American Field Service student from Sweden, was introduced; Debby Kayne, who lived in Brazil under the AFS program last summer, spoke about her experiences, and Carl Japikse, who spent last year in Ecuador, addressed the students.

Sergeant Milligan, of the Ohio State Highway Patrol, showed a movie about driving safety called "Wheels of Tragedy." The driver's education classes sponsored the assembly.

College-bound juniors took the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test on Saturday, Oct. 24. The PSAT had two selections — math and English. The purpose of the PSAT is to let the student know in which areas he excells and and in which areas he needs to improve before taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test and going on to college.

Freshmen and new students took the California test on Oct. 6. English tests were given to freshmen on Oct. 26 and 27.

Look Ma... No Seams

Would you like garments without seams? Such garments may be available in the not too distant future, says Mrs. Orena Haynes, extension clothing specialist at Ohio State University.

One development which eliminates seams is already in use. It is a type of flocking now used in foundation garments which enables the manufacturer to make a garment which has rigid sections and stretchy sections without two kinds of fabric being seamed together.

Another development which eliminates seaming is a result of U.S. Department of Agriculture research. This is a process that enables woven cotton fabrics to be molded into three dimensional shapes. This molding process may be used in making hats, brassieres, and toes of women's shoes. It is expected to produce more comfortable garments and possibly cheaper ones as less labor will be required.

To mold cotton fabrics, the fabric is first treated with a solution of sodium hydroxide. This causes the fibers and yarns to twist and shrink, giving the fabric stretch. The fabric is then wet with chemicals of the type used to make wash-wear cotton and stretched over a heated mold. The heat dries the fabric and causes the chemicals to "lock" the shape into it.

Hi-Y To Hold 'Bundle Days' Nov. 9-13

The Reynoldsburg High School Hi-Y Club will sponsor "Bundle Days" in the schools from Monday through Friday, Nov. 9-13.

Students in kindergarten through the 12th grade are asked to bring clean used articles of clothing and deposit them in the containers which will be located in the halls of each school.

The clothing will then be collected and bundled by members of the Hi-Y and shipped to Knoxville, Tenn., in support of the 23rd annual clothing drive of the Save the Children Federation. There, the clothing is dispersed throughout the year to needy families all over the United States.

Staff advisor, Harrold E. Layman, said the Hi-Y Club will also sponsor a Soc Hop in the gymnasium following the final football game of the season, Friday, Nov. 13. Price of admission will be an article of clothing or a small cash donation.

Layman said the club will appreciate the cooperation of parents and children in this project. Most needed are: sturdy shoes, warm coats, summer and winter dresses, suits and blue jeans.

Autumn is the time for taking long walks through the many parks and wooded areas of Ohio. You'll have more fun and your whole family will enjoy these field trips more if you learn to identify the trees, the birds, and other wildlife. Your Columbus Public Library has an excellent selection of nature guidebooks.

Whitehall-Yearling RAM-blings

By SARAH WINGO

The first six-week grading period at Whitehall-Yearling High School has come to an end and honor rolls have been issued. Students maintaining a straight "A" average are: Mary Hughes, Cheryl Dague, Patti Strawser, Sharon Swain, Cheryl Welsch, Karen Shadwick, Carol Solomons, Wendy Brummel, Kristin Cottingham, Willa Hsueh, Kendall Lewis, Pat Paterson, Sally Shadwick, Sharon Nicholson, Bruce Turkel, Jan Lavender, and Patty McCord. These students will receive a principal's pass which admits them to all school sponsored activities free and also serves as a hall and library pass. The pass is valid for six weeks.

The second honor roll includes all students who maintain a "B" average. Seniors are: Dan McCarty, Sharon Pugh, Sherry Gregory, Carol Hoyda, Charles Bradley, Ron Wibel, Barbara Bang, Lorraine Kolb, Edgar Lakey, Tom Trouten, Linda Allton, Gay Clark, Linda Darnell, Rita Kryaztofik, Tavi Sallee, Anita Bird, Terri Bardi, Donna Burke, Darryl Bojanowski, John Scott, Patricia Dearth, Sue Sanborn, Bill Reuter, Dave Hurst, Diane Burdine, Kathy Hackenberger, Melissa Hawkins, and Vicki Kronk.

On the junior honor roll are: Teri Hiatt, Rhonda Hopkins, Tim Sandor, Pat Mancello, John Andrews, Kathy Darnell, Pam Forester, Jane Lavender, Linda Jordan, Diana Lemley, Coral Winner, Jean Taylor, Jo Ann McKinster, Sharon Quigley, and Kathy Morell.

Sophomores are: Greg West, Becky Bridges, Phyllis Curtis, Pat Allread, Linda Bradley, Cheri Crawford, Stan Finkelstein and Gene Ochsendorf.

Honors in the freshman class go to: Elizabeth Boyd, Glenda Clark, Sherry Gordner, Terry Shipe, Donna Vindish, Sheila Waite, Terry Jessup, Kathy Crawford, Gary Richwine, Jan Davis, Carolyn Jackson, Jan Lesher, Denise Porter, Cathryn Yarrington, Rhonda Neese, and Andrea Watson.

A school assembly has been scheduled Nov. 13 for the initiation of fifteen charter members of Whitehall's troupe of the National Thespian Society. Ten points, which are equivalent to 100 hours in the field of drama, must be earned to become a member. Points may be earned by acting in and working on plays. Intangible qualities such as promptness, reliability, and cooperation may influence membership.

Students who will be initiated are Darryl Bojanowski, Linda Ray, Rhonda Hopkins, Kim Heffelfinger, Jack Miller, Larry Shanks, John Nimitz, Mariene Smith, Teri Hiatt, and John Holtsberry. The officers are Jim Arbuckle, president; Danny McCarty, vice-president; Karen Roberts, secretary; Tom Richwine, treasurer; and Willa Hsueh, clerk.

LADIES SEIZE MANAGEMENT FOR SALE

DEMANDING THE KEYS to all departments of the J. C. Penney store at Town and Country Shopping Center, the ladies take over to present a two-day Ladies' Day Management Sale, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 6-7. With the keys—and the authority—the ladies will offer "Penney-Saving" shoppers two delightful days crammed with dollar-saving items. Exciting new styles and delightful displays will be featured throughout the store. Directing the sale will be (l to r) Mrs. Margarete McQuaid, balcony manager, Mrs. Martha Kincade, basement manager, Miss Sarah Karn, assistant store manger, Mrs. Olive Harold store manager, and Mrs. Margarete McDowell (not in photo), main floor manager. Smiling, but showing uneasiness as he turns over the keys is Bob White, acting store manager. He fears "Penney-Saving" shoppers will empty the store when they glimpse the dollar-saving buys the ladies have planned.

The wise profit today from the mistakes they made yesterday.

A contest to pick the name for the new district now being formed in the Bexley-Gahanna - Whitehall area has been announced by the chairman of the new district, Charles Bright.

All dens, patrols, crews or units that are members of the new district are eligible to enter. Entries must be original and of historical or geographical significance to the East Side area.

Each entry must include the name suggested, the name's significance, the name of the den, patrol, or crew and the troop number. All names must be mailed to "District" Contest, Central Ohio, B.S.A., 1428 E. Broad-st., before 5 p.m., Nov. 19.

Judging of the contest will be handled by the chairman's staff. The final name will be voted upon at the district meeting, to be held Nov. 24. Announcement of the winning name will be made at that meeting.

ASSIGNED

AIRMAN SAMUEL S. Chiappetta II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam S. Chiappetta, Sr., 1049 S. Kellner-rd, will undergo training as an aircraft maintenance specialist at Sheppard AFB, Tex. He is a 1964 graduate of Columbus Central High School.

Training Ends

Michael R. O'Neal, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. O'Neal, 6605 Taylor-rd, Blacklick, recently graduated from recruit training at the Coast Guard Recruit Training Center, Cape May, N.J.

The training included military drill, small boat handling, small arms training, firefighting, seamanship, atomic and biological warfare, first aid, law enforcement and Coast Guard history.

O'Neal will be assigned to one of the many Coast Guard units or to a technical training school and will be used in one or more of the major missions of the Coast Guard, law enforcement, search and rescue, merchant marine safety, aids to navigation and military readiness.

Holiday Trash Collections Set

Whitehall's regularly scheduled garbage and rubbish collections, when falling on a holiday, will be made on the following working day, rather than waiting for next weekly pickup.

Holidays when no collections will be made are, New's Year's Day, Fourth of July, Memorial Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas.

Kiwanis Receives Added Awards

The Reynoldsburg Kiwanis Club was presented the state achievement award during Kiwanis International state convention in Toledo, Oct. 5.

This is Kiwanis' highest award which indicates the best overall club and committee achievements in the state among 107 clubs with 30 or less membership, participating.

Special note was made in the presentation to president-elect William H. Haight, that the local club has only been formed for two years and is the youngest club to win both the state and international awards.

The international award was presented in September and was the highest achievement among nearly 2000 clubs throughout the world.

Oren W. Spilker, division chairman of agriculture and conservation, was also presented with the A and C award for outstanding achievement as state chairman.

Plans are being made for the 50th golden anniversary celebrations of Kiwanis International in 1965.

Wins Wings

Navy Ensign Robert L. Kiem, son of Captain and Mrs. Edwin L. Kiem of 3176 Dale-av, recently had his wings of gold pinned on by his wife, the former Miss Letty A. Lee of Palmetto, Fla., upon being designated a Naval Aviator.

Gahanna Is Well Represented In 4-H Club Honors

Franklin County 4-H Club advisors will be honored during the annual county 4-H advisors Recognition Banquet to be held at the Hilliard Grange Hall Thursday evening, Nov. 5.

The advisors will be honored for their service to youth. Heading the list is the dean of county 4-H club advisors, Mrs. Harry Waldren, 97 Orchard-dr, Gahanna, with 34 years of service. Others include: Mrs. Dale Van Bibber, 4898 Thompson - rd, five years, and Charles Graham, 5364 Thompson - rd, five years.

4-H advisors will be treated to the banquet courtesy of the Franklin County Agricultural Society. Another treat is a year's subscription to the National 4-H News magazine.

The advisors will also receive an official 4-H leaders planning calendar, donated by Landmark Farm Bureau Cooperative of Franklin County. This memo type of calendar, is designed especially for leaders and will help them plan their club's activities.

Another highlight of the banquet will be the election of representatives to the county council which formulates policies and acts as the governing body for all county 4-H activities.

NAA Awarded Navy Contract

The U.S. Navy's Bureau of Naval Weapons has awarded North American Aviation's Columbus Division a contract to make a comprehensive study of exterior lighting systems on all aircraft in the Navy's inventory.

Purpose of the study contract is to determine whether the various lighting systems on Navy aircraft are adequate to fulfill the tasks for which they were designed.

Area Electorate Proves To Be Selective

Rhodes, Coleman Are Blamed For Losses

By FRANK RYAN

Columbus and Franklin County election results mixed the amazing with the normal, marked the electorate as both independent and selective, and stirred intra-party bitterness in both political camps.

Franklin County voters resisted the national landslide proportions given to President Johnson, but mirrored the Ohio sweep for the Democratic standard bearer by giving him a surprising 54 percent plurality. But results below the "top" of the partisan balloting was a return to almost normal procedure.

The record turnout of 292,000 voters reflected, as expected, an increase in votes cast for Democratic candidates. But only two candidates with Democratic backing bucked the tide in contests where Republicans were favored.

Jerry O'Shaughnessy edged Lytle G. Zuber in the State Representative race to join the six incumbent Republicans who won re-election, and Municipal Court Judge Fred J. Shoemaker moved up to Common Pleas Court at the expense of incumbent Republican Judge Kenneth L. Sater.

But if the majority of local campaign managers for Democrats were unhappy, they were no less so than some of the area Goldwater stalwarts. As the Johnson sweep became apparent, the Columbus Goldwater - Miller headquarters was the scene of some very un-Republican-like comments about Ohio Governor James A. Rhodes.

The Ohio top Republican was bitterly criticized for his less - than - enthusiastic support of the Goldwater-Miller ticket. Some of the Goldwaterites made no secret of their belief that Rhodes was more responsible than any Johnson popularity for the Arizona senator's loss of the state.

But no less criticized was Democratic State Chairman William L. Coleman. Some local Democratic workhorses vowed they would join any movement to remove Coleman from office, claiming that he "prevented" President Johnson from making a Columbus visit.

The new members of the anti-Coleman local group say they will make a careful study of election returns in areas of the state where Johnson appeared to boost local Democratic candidates. They claim that a Columbus visit by the President would have helped all local Democrats, but particularly Robert L. VanHeyde, who lost to incumbent Republican Congressman Samuel L. Devine by a 55-45 percent margin.

Two years ago, Devine won over his Democratic opponent by a wide, 74-26 percent margin. This time out, Devine ran about 6,000 votes behind fellow Republican Robert Taft, Jr., but about 15,000 votes ahead of another Republican on the national ticket, Oliver P. Bolton. Taft bested incumbent Democratic U. S. Senator Stephen M. Young by more than 30,000 votes in Franklin County.

Bolton got a much stiffer local test in the Congressman - At - Large race from Democrat Robert E. Sweeney, finishing with less than an 11,000 vote margin.

One veteran Democrat opined that even a visit by President Johnson would not have materially affected the outcome below the top party race. This politico's claim to "veteran" status went unchallenged when he said he was in the area when Franklin County was "Democratic." But his opinion - notwithstanding, the initial post-

SIGN OFFERS 'FOOD FOR THOUGHT'

UNSIGNED MESSAGES seldom find their way into newspapers, but this anonymous author penned three words so universal that no signature is needed, "I Love God." The scrawled words appeared recently on the fallout shelter sign near the north entrance of the Southern Hotel. Some may read a conflicting story of mankind between the sign's two significant messages.

SUM AND SUBSTANCE

Sirens, Gunfire Mingle With Closing Campaign Speeches

North Side, West Side, all around the town . . . Violence.

Foreshadowing the tumult of a national election was the local eruption of trouble in the North and West areas of Columbus.

Donald T. Tice, 37, of 108 W. Fifth-av, a cab driver, admitted the butcher-knife slaying of Miss Mary E. Workman of the same address.

A prowler from Holly Hill was shot and wounded after allegedly window-peeking from a fire escape at 297 W. Eighth-av.

Jack Arthur Bell, 23, of 1048 Scott-st, was charged with shooting at police officer Sgt. Robert Hoffman as the officer answered a disturbance call at the address.

Clifford Myers, 39, of 112 Columbian-av, was found wandering in his front yard with a bullet wound in the right temple. His wife was found dead of a gunshot wound in the house. Police theorize a murder-suicide.

Three elderly Hilltop men were wounded after two of them argued over a young girl, deputies reported.

After such a week, elections were a relief.

"Bookburning" was the cry of Dr. William Warner, faculty member and advisor of the campus Conservation Club as coed Gayle Maxman, library aide, removed 40 books from an OSU browsing library at Ohio Union, contending they were "political" and presented a single ideology.

The irate professor who donated the books demanded that they go back on the shelves.

Instead of burning the books, Ohio Union officals decided to render a policy decision later in the week . . . after the election.

Children's Hospital is some $900,000 richer as it fell heir to six downtown properties. The land reverted to the hospital following the death of Harry F. West, 1214 Madison-av, last major beneficiary of the property of Campbell Chittenden who succumbed in 1916.

The cobwebs of the state's conservancy laws will be spun more clearly by the Nov. 9 special session of the Ohio Legislature. An aide to Gov. Rhodes confirmed the agenda will be expanded to include a bill to clarify vague sections of the laws.

Ring a ding ding! For those who can afford its purchase, a sleek, new business jet plane to be sold in the Midwest by a firm being established at Port Columbus by retiring Air Force Gen. Olbert F. (Dick) Lassiter was on display. From the looks of it, most firms would have trouble footing the gas bill.

Nov. 16 is the first day one can drive into the 1200-car statehouse underground parking garage.

A gambling raid here Friday netted Internal Revenue agents some $14,600. A bookmaking ring is suspected. Also, IR agents bagged an Upper Arlington man for failure to purchase a federal gambling stamp. The U.S. Government is apparently FOR gambling revenue but AGAINST gambling.

Boozers will be billed up to 65 cents a fifth more if a Liquor Department proposal gains legislative acceptance.

Reports have it the department wants a maximum markup of 35 percent instead of the present 30 percent.

Profits would be used for higher education, penal, correctional and juvenile delinquent programs.

State officials unloosened to Nov. 18 the opening dates on the southeast section of the Innerbelt Expressway and the first section of the Outerbelt.

Zapp! went the darkness. Howard J. Stemm, Columbus

COUNTY-WIDE WRAPUP

Voters Like School, City Tax; Veto Charter, 'Thirst' Issues

Voters in Franklin and neighboring counties were benevolent Tuesday to all bond, school, fire tax, city and village operating levies (with one exception, in Obetz).

Not so favored by those who visited the polls were charter issues, zoning and local options.

Here is the county-wide breakdown (parenthesis indicate unofficial vote totals):

Bexley . . .

Tax Levy

Bexley voters went four to one in favor of a tax levy renewal for the rate of three mills per $1 valuation to extend five years and cover current expense (5130-1130).

Canal Winchester

Tax Levy-Local Option

Eyeing current expenses for general construction and maintenance of roads, every two of three village voters okayed a two-year tax levy renewal of two mills (512-246). An option to allow sale of intoxicating liquor within village boundaries was defeated.

New Albany . . .

Local Option

New Albany residents agreed with C-W's stand on boundaries, voting to keep the liquor sale within the village village dry.

Grandview . . .

Tax Levy-School Levy

Grandview voters strongly expressed their desire for the maintenance of a strong school system by providing a healthy 6-1 nod for school tax levy renewal (6.2 mills), extending five years for current expenses (3134-569).

City voters also okayed a five-year, four-mill tax levy renewal by a whooping 8-1 margin (2914-422).

Obetz . . .

Tax Levy

It will be "patch on patch" for Obetz roads after village voters said "no" to a new tax levy of three mills (252-188) for five years. The levy would have benefited current expenses, primarily road improvements.

Reynoldsburg . . .

Charter-Tax Levy

Reynoldsburg voters provided a three-year, three-mill tax levy to meet current operating expenses (2251-1650). The controversial charter adoption proposal went down to defeat for the second time by a 2-1 count (2657-1219).

Groveport . . .

Tax Levy

Voters okayed a new five-year, two-mill operating tax levy (395-318), basically geared at repairing village streets.

Jefferson Twp.

Tax Levy

An increase in tax duplicate allowed township voters a bargain in an expired tax renewal levy which was okayed (.6 mill, decrease of .15 mills, three years) to cover current expenses (590-507).

Westerville . . .

Bond Issue-School Levy

City voters provided funds for building of fire and police facilities by okaying (1873-1215) a $200,000 bond issue (.9 mills for 20 years). Also "ayed" (4051-1917) was a five-year, seven mill school tax levy, representing a renewal (4.6 mills) and increase (2.4 mills).

Blendon . . .

Fire Tax Levy

Voters were granted fire protection via the City of Westerville by passing a five-year one-half mill fire tax renewal by a four to one margin (1545-425).

Hamilton . . .

School Levy

Hamilton Local District voters renewed (3.8 mills) and increased (2.2 mills) their

Thanksgiving Deadline

Since Hartley Newspapers will be closed in observance of Thanksgiving (Thursday, Nov. 26), early advertising and editorial copy will be appreciated.

Final editorial copy deadline for the Nov. 25 edition will be 10 a.m. Monday, Nov. 23. Display ads must be in by noon Saturday, Nov. 21, and classified ads will not be accepted after noon Monday.

U. R. Issue May Have Second Try

The "no" vote cast by Columbus residents on one of the six capital improvement bond issues denies a $6 million expenditure for urban renewal projects, and could mean the loss of an additional $12 million in matching federal funds.

Although the issue was favored by the voters, it did not gain the necessary 55 percent majority. All other city bond issues passed, as did the Columbus school bond issue, the county welfare levy renewal and the $15 million county bond issue for hospitals.

A spokesman for the city said that the administration would meet with council in an effort to solve the problems created by defeat of the urban renewal bond issue. Council may be asked to approve necessary funding to continue planned programs until the issue can be re-submitted to the voters next May.

The closeness of the vote, administration officials say, indicates that Columbus voters would approve the issue if it is presented again.

Glue-Sniffing Law Studied

Glue-sniffing, a crime provoking, health endangering teenage fad which has alarmed police and parents in many communities throughout the United States, will carry a stiff penalty in Columbus, if Council amends Code 2387.02 as proposed by Councilman Harvey H. Alston at last Monday's session.

The 30-day measure was referred to the Safety Committee for study. If approved by the committee, the glue-sniffing measure will be acted on in open hearing by City Council at the regular meeting, Monday, Nov. 9.

Councilman Alston's measure as drafted provides a penalty of $25 for a first offense, with a maximum penalty of $300 in fine, 90 days in jail, or both, for subsequent of-

Offenders are defined as: "Any person who deliberately smells or inhales any compound, narcotic, drug, solution, or mixture containing ketone, aldehyde, organic acetate, ether, chlorinated hydrocarbon, or other substances containing volatile solvents releasing noxious or toxic vapors so as to cause a condition of excitement, intoxication, stupefaction or dulling of the brain or nervous system."

Particularly mentioned in the ordinance are fingernail polishes, model airplane cement, plastic cement, airplane dope, fast-drying enamels and other substances containing a volatile which has an effect on the brain or nervous system.

It specifically excludes anesthesia and drugs or medicines prescribed or used in legal practice by the medical profession.

Parents, teachers and others interested in child protection against the dangers inherent in glue-sniffing are invited to an open hearing on the important measure when City Council meets at 7 p.m., Monday, Nov. 9.

IN SALUTE TO VETERANS . . .

Night Parade Is Arranged

Franklin County's Veterans Day tribute this year will be double-barreled.

The traditional Nov. 11 morning service and 11 o'clock bomb salute will be held at Veterans Memorial, 250 W. Broad-st.

Then, Wednesday night, one of the largest Veterans Day parades in 18 years is anticipated. Robert A. Billups, coordinator, said he expects between 1200 and 1400 marchers.

Billups said that Franklin County Council, American Legion chose to hold the downtown Columbus parade at 7 p.m., rather than in the morning, so that hundreds more could take part and be spectators.

All veterans and the general public are invited to attend the rites which begin at 10:15 a.m. in the Memorial Room (East Wing) of Veterans Memorial.

Paul M. Herbert, associate justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, will give a 20-minute talk on the significance of this day. Rev. Harrison Gruendler will give the invocation and Judge William C. Bryant will read the official order of the Signing of the Armistice in 1917.

A three-bomb salute to the dead and Taps will conclude the program. William L. Schnug is chairman.

Starts at Broad-Fifth

The three-division parade will begin at E. Broad and Fifth-sts. The marchers will head west on Broad-st, past a reviewing stand in front of City Hall.

Among the guests in the reviewing stand will be Mrs. Leo McElroy, president, Ohio American Legion Auxiliary; and Columbus Fire Chief W. G. Strickfaden, who has been named honorary parade marshal.

Escorted by a Columbus police motorcycle unit and the Paul D. Robinson Post 567 Drill Team will be Parade Marshal Charles W. Kaiser; assistant John L. Worrell; adjutant Roger Myers, Jr.; chief of staff William C. Bryant, and past district and county council commanders of the American Legion 12th District.

First Division

The first division will be headed by Marshal Maj. Julius C. Taylor, Jr., and his aides and troops from the U.S. Army Corps, garrisoned at Ft. Hayes; the 301st Combat Support Group from Lockbourne AFB; the 37th Infantry Division Band and troops; the 338th U.S. Army Reserve Band and troops from Ft. Hayes; and Air Force ROTC Band, Drill, Rifle, and Angel Flight teams from Otterbein College, Westerville.

Second Division

The second division of the parade will be headed by Marshal Otis R. Lowe, David Wallace and Lloyd G. Hane, past commanders and county council of Veterans of Foreign wars, and VFW representatives from the following posts: Caldwell Post 3490 and band, Robert W. Hood Post 180, Ohio Governor Post 356, Northway Post 495, Buckeye Post 1598, Scioto Trail Post 2505, Benson W. Hough Post 3424, Westway Post 3441, Linden Post 3826, Tri-Communi-

Schools Have Various Plans For Holidays Next Week

Some schools and businesses will be closed on Veterans Day, next Wednesday, while others will remain open.

All Columbus Public Schools, Columbus Diocesan Catholic schools, Grandview, Upper Arlington and Whitehall schools will have a holiday Nov. 11.

Franklin County School system will be open Nov. 11 but will be closed Friday, Nov. 13, for a meeting of the Franklin County Educational Association meeting at the State Fairgrounds. These schools include Canal Winchester, Hamilton Local, Jefferson Local (Gahanna), Madison Local, Mifflin Local, Plain Local, Reynoldsburg, Scioto-Darby, and Washington Local.

South-Western City Schools, Bexley and Worthington Schools will remain open all week.

The Columbus Public Library and its 13 branches will close for Veterans Day, as will most city, state and federal offices.

Where Does The Road Ahead Take Us?

No real problems of this country have been solved with the election on Tuesday.

Many are saying that the one accomplishment is to have it over.

We have elected public officials but the real good that should have come out of the campaign just passed is that we certainly have been made aware of our weaknesses.

Ed Johnson, a layman of our church recently spoke from the pulpit, pointing to the need for each individual to search his own soul. He pointed out that we need to turn the pages of history and take a good look.

Will history repeat? One of the most widely read books of all times is "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," written in 1788 by Edward Gibbon, it sets forth five basic reasons why that great civilization withered and died. These were:

The undermining of the dignity and sanctity of the home, which is the basis for human society.

Higher and higher taxes; the spending of public money for free bread and circuses for the populace.

The mad craze for pleasure; sports becoming every year more exciting, more brutal, more immoral.

The building of great armaments when the real enemy was within—the decay of individual responsibility.

The decay of religion; faith fading into mere form, losing touch with life, losing power to guide the people.

The oft-heard warning that "history repeats itself" has the ominous meaning in the light of the above. The average age of the world's great civilizations has been 200 years. The nations progressed through this sequence.

From Bondage to Spiritual Faith
From Spiritual Faith to Great Courage
From Courage to Liberty
From Liberty to Abundance
From Abundance to Selfishness
From Selfishness to Complacency
From Complacency to Apathy
From Apathy to Dependence
From Dependence Back to Bondage.

In 12 years the United States will be two hundred years old.

Will this country better the world's average?

He's Come A Long Way

It was a pleasure to visit the fine new plant of the W. A. Storing Co., down on Lockbourne-rd, this past week.

It was a special joy to know how far Wilbur Storing has come in these past several years.

We both recall the old days 30 years ago when we started in business. At that time his "Orange Shirts" distributed our newspaper and it was not an uncommon occurrence for each of us to finish a job and then go out and try to collect for it in order to make the week-end payroll.

The Storing firm is one of the largest direct-mail advertising firms in the country.

We add our greetings to Wilbur Storing and his associates on the occasion of his big expansion program.

Under Buckeye Skies

Shoot-'Em-Up . . .

Now that November has come and election day has gone, many sportsmen around Spectatorland are turning their attention to the opening of the upland game hunting season on Nov. 16.

Ken McCreary

With pheasant, quail and cotton-tail rabbit all becoming legal game on that Monday it's traditionally THE hunting day of the year, and probably sees as many nimrods afield as any day of the year.

IF YOU'RE looking forward to making this the most enjoyable upland game season in several years, now's the time to start getting ready for it. If you haven't taken the time already, why not spend a few hours this weekend getting reacquainted with your farmer friends who provide you with a place to hunt?

In case you don't already have prime locations set for the season, now's the time to scout the countryside and find places. I've discovered that most farmers, if you'll take the time to stop and introduce yourself in a pleasant manner, will be happy to give you permission to hunt.

Of course, there are some landowners who won't permit hunting. They usually have plenty of reason, such as inconsiderate gunmen who have trampled and cut fences, killed stock, and generally made themselves unwelcome in past years.

THOSE OF US who own hunting dogs are spending every available hour at this preseason time getting our beagles, spaniels, setters, pointers and retrievers in shape for the pleasant days ahead.

A few training sessions before opening day will not only settle your pooch down so he's ready for business, but will also give him a chance to work off some of that lard he's accumulated as a homeloving member of the family.

And, let's face it, the exercise will make the first full days in the field a heap easier for you, too.

OVER 400 STATE conservation workers are smiling these days — effective last Sunday they received badly needed pay boosts. The governor hit it right on the head when he commented: "The pay scale for conservation work in Ohio has not been sufficient to retain qualified and experienced personnel who are essential to solve the complex outdoor recreation and natural resources management problems."

Some of the classifications of Natural Resources Department men who got the raises: game and fish supervisors, research specialists, game protectors, forest rangers and biologists.

If we might put in a quick plug for the old home community — the Reynoldsburg Lions Club is holding its seventh annual Turkey Shoot each of the next three Sundays through Nov. 22.

If a fine ham or tasty turkey sounds like good Thanksgiving eating, grab that old full-choke blunderbuss and head for Gold Land on East Main Street come this Sunday.

WHILE RUMMAGING through our desk looking for a picture we came across what is certainly one of our favorite quotations. If you don't own a dog perhaps it won't make much of an impression. Penned by novelist Edith Wharton, the quick quote goes like this: "My little old dog; a heartbeat at my feet."

Wit 'n wisdoM

by Jack Wittenmeier

HARTLEY SPORTS EDITOR

Side-Show . . .

That pugilistic windmill of heavyweight proportions known as Cassius Marcellus Clay or Muhammed Ali (depending on which side of the movement you're on) is making noises again.

Clay has exhibited much more restraint this fight than he did last. The taunts, boasts and "I'm the greatest" have been few and far between during this particular campaign. Perhaps the mantle of champion has mellowed Cass.

FOR EERE we are, only 11 short rounds from that first one in Boston, and the columns of mouth emitting from the champion (depending on which state in which you reside) have been trimmed exceedingly.

One of the most interesting comments from Clay is strangely out of character. That's the one he made upon entry in Boston last week—the one in which he expressed fear of a "dirty loss."

Our first impression was of the father telling his young son "it's gonna' hurt me more than you" right before he warms the boy down under.

For those that remember, Liston's win over Patterson smelled bad twice and Clay's victory over Liston stunk. The way this one's shaping up, you might be wise to dump all your resources into air freshener stock.

The early odds favor Sonny boy, 11-5, and the even money says young Ali will have his tent folded inside 10 gongs.

Either Cassius is looking for an escape mechanism (something he's needed as bad as another mouth) or Liston is set to join the late Mr. Patterson in the select club of heavyweight crown reclaimers.

Clay says he knows "something is wrong." Well, so does just about everybody else who looks objectively at the whole boxing business.

Cassius, who never does much in small proportions, has the Massachusetts state police investigating the matter, has arranged for private photographers to take movies of every round and has promised to see that 15 delegates from the UN be present to see everything is above board.

Apparently big time boxing has given up on pitting two young huskies against each other in the ring with their fists doing all the talking. This is out-moded and can't bring in the gate.

College wrestling doesn't pack 'em in like pro grappling because he isn't showy enough. Al Haft calls his exhibition a show, not a sport.

We wonder when pro-boxing is going to stop hiding behind the mask and admit that it's outgrown its affiliation as a sport. The suit no longer fits. It's clumsy and embarrassing.

Cassius Clay has accomplished one thing. Everybody knows who he is and what he is. Ezzard and Jersey Joe could have been a new Chevrolet model or homogenized milk to a lot of people.

Ticket sales for ringside and movie-TV seats will be brisk.

Promoters who have all six eyes on the till know that people like to be entertained. Clay is good box office—boast or bleed.

The fans will be entertained whether they come to see that "mouthy kid get beat up," if the "plot" really comes off or because they've never seen 15 United Nations delegates all at one time.

But we wonder how "entertained" the old, died-in-the-wool fight fan will be. No matter who wins, the guy who invited everybody else in for the game is due for another misdeal.

'Fearless' Predictions

The "Fearless One" faces the final full week of high grid games riding on his best percentage in three years. "Fearless" added a 20-2 listing to his right-wrong standings last week to pull his mark to 132-35.

Through eight weeks last year, "Fearless" stood 114-43. This time he's 18 more to the plus side and just under a .750 percentage.

Here's the lineup from round nine:

AQUINAS-SOUTH — Terriers' last game ever. They'll be sky-high. Aquinas.

CENTRAL - MARION - FRANKLIN—Speed vs. brute strength. M-F.

BEXLEY - ARLINGTON—Bears gobble up CBL title. Arlington.

The world of dairying is enlightened by the news that the huge world surplus of dairy products will be gone by the end of 1964. At latest report from several authoritative sources, this is the word. A shortage will actually be felt primarily in the developing nations of the world. This, we of the cattle and dairy industry hope to solve with additional marketing for a somewhat balanced world market.

Agriculture Secretary Freeman has decided to endorse a plan to set aside part of the farm surplus stock pile as a national security reserve. This would be a bookkeeping operation to label commodities like corn, wheat and cotton as the reserve.

Ask 3 dryer owners which kind lasts longer.

2 will say electric.

NOV 1964

Electric sets pace as 1,011 women tell why and how they pick and choose dryers

Over 1,000 homemakers in The Electric Company service area recently took part in an independent study of why and what they preferred about certain appliances.

Naturally, automatic clothes dryers were included and compared.

This big cross-section of "experts" left no question about the overwhelming preference in this area for flameless electric dryers.

Area homemakers offer you buying hints for dryers

In fact, if you've never owned an automatic clothes dryer, here's a buying hint for you: 8 out of 10 local women who begin enjoying all the time-and-work-saving convenience of automatic clothes drying start with a flameless electric dryer.

One of the reasons more women prefer electric dryers is their longer life — a built-in feature of electric! Because an electric clothes dryer has fewer moving parts to wear out, it lasts longer, gives you more use over the years — and stretches your investment farther!

And with electric, your investment is lowest from the start!

Flameless electric dryers preferred 9 to 1 for low initial cost!

It's a fact: electric clothes dryers cost less to buy. And most women like that, too!

Nine times out of 10, women surveyed mentioned this money-saving advantage of flameless electric dryers. (There was very little doubt — even among owners of all types of dryers — that electric dryers, feature for feature, cost less to buy).

Prove it to yourself. Visit your favorite appliance dealer and compare dryers. You'll find electric dryers do cost less to buy.

Significantly so.

Women prefer more features of flameless electric dryers

While you're looking, there are some things you won't see — and these unseen features are more of what makes electric dryers most preferred by homemakers in the Columbus and Southern Ohio area.

You see, far more than the low price of an electric dryer appeals to women.

Once you get it home, you continue to save with electric.

Here's why:

There's only one connection to make. Electricity runs the dryer and dries the clothes. Pure radiant electric heat gently dries everything from your daintiest lingerie to Dad's work clothes; and because flameless electric heat is so clean, it protects clothes as it dries them fluffier, brighter and fresher.

You save time and steps because you can put your electric dryer wherever it's most convenient for you — upstairs, downstairs, in the kitchen, even in the garage. Put it any place you can run a wire!

It's easy to see why, in homes that have automatic dryers, you find 7 out of 10 dryers are flameless electric!

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric!

Someday, you will want a new automatic dryer for your home.

The chances are good you're thinking about one right now.

Before you buy, shop around. Compare closely. Check the prices. Then remember that the important advantages of flameless electric dryers don't show up until you get one home.

Those are the benefits that count.

And they're the ones preferred by more homemakers like yourself.

You'll prefer a flameless electric dryer, too.

Even more when you get it home.

FOR PUBLIC EDUCATION

Increase Sales Tax?

Legislation designed to add about $116 million annually to state support of public education will be presented to Ohio's 106th General Assembly, which convenes in January.

The extent to which this serious problem is solved will depend upon the capacity of legislators and the general public to become "educated" on the subject of education.

Legislators will be dealing with two prime factors when they tackle the question of the state's responsibilities to children in our primary and secondary grades:

1. The statewide trend of enrollment increases means more teachers, more school buildings and more service personnel. This, of course, means that legislators will be obliged to appropriate millions of dollars more just to maintain present standards. And this does not assume that present standards are universally adequate.

2. A serious problem of imbalance has too long existed between the educational financial responsibilities of both the state and the local property owners. Everybody seems to agree that property owners have reached or exceeded the saturation point of local taxation. But the gap between recognizing the problem and doing something about it continues to widen.

The current plan to meet the challenge in education is being presented by the Ohio Council for Education, representing 10 statewide groups of school teachers, boards of education, non-teaching school employes, school administrators and PTA. It is known as the PEP Bill — Plan for Educational Progress.

But the bill has a severe political handicap. It proposed a one percent increase in the sales tax in the face of pledges by Gov. James A. Rhodes and most members of both political parties that they will oppose any tax increase.

The Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants opposes any increase in the sales tax, and the Ohio AFL-CIO says that such a tax increase would be "restrictive." Gov. Rhodes' administrative assistant, John McElroy, seems to have summed up the general feeling by saying: "It just looks like it will have pretty hard sledding in the legislature." He said it is "premature" for the governor to comment "because the bill hasn't come before him."

Sponsors of the bill say they will put the issue on the November ballot in 1965 if the legislature fails to act, or passes unacceptable legislation. This is the right of OEC, or of any other group securing enough petitions to place questions before the electorate.

But we would rather see the legislators face up to their responsibilities than to chance such an important issue being decided, perhaps, by whichever "pressure" group makes its influence most felt with the voters. Under normal circumstances, members of the legislature should be in the best position to reach an objective, honorable decision.

We hope they will meet the challenge.

Applaud Our Farmers

Harvest time is a good time to consider how much (or how little) we really know about an important "minority" group in our land.

America's farmers are feeling the pinch of increasing operational costs and declining prices for farm products. But production records over the past 15 years prove that the nation's farmers have the capacity to solve their problems.

Technical advances permit today's farmer to produce as much in one hour as he did in two-and-one-half hours 15 years ago. The American farmer now feeds 30 persons in addition to himself, while his Russian counterpart is producing enough for only five or six persons.

And while the average European pays 30 to 40 percent of his take-home pay for food, Americans now spend less than 19 percent — a decrease of seven percent from the food costs of the late 1940's.

To quote Winston Churchill: "Never have so many owed so much to so few."

Aspirin Season Ahead

Announcements of 1965 editions of the Internal Revenue Service's annual best sellers is a grim reminder that now is the time to make decisions favorable for 1964 taxes.

'THE GRIST'

(Ground Out by Dusty Miller)

PROPHECY — One late October afternoon in 1932, a foursome on the old Indian Springs golf course watched a special train, bearing President Herbert Hoover, go by. One said to the others: "The time will come when the whole world will agree with what we think now—that Herbert Hoover is a great President and a great man in every sense of the word." It did.

ALF-ALFA — A bit of sunflower philosophy by the not-yet-forgotten Alf Landon: When asked by a Columbus reporter if he thought the recent personnel changes in Russia would ease East-West tensions, he replied: "You can't tell how a horse is going to work till you hitch him up."

BORES — An American Olympic entrant won the small-bore rifle contest. Any of the half-dozen ranters in the political campaign could have won the big-bore contest.

OVERHEARD — Lady across the aisle on the bus, telling of the crowd at New York airport when they were leaving after attending the World's Fair: "They backed in another plane, and filled it; then they backed in another plane and filled it." What won't they do next!

In a department store: "Oh, she's got their pictures all round her room and sits and moons over them." The disease is known as "Squeal zeal."

BREVITY — Laying aside "Gray's Elegy" with its magnificent phrasing to answer the 'phone, Occupant was asked: "Are you watching 'Undressed Town'?" The answer was in two well-chosen words, with a total of six letters.

An Editor's Outlook . . .

THE COMPUTER AGE

LONG BEACH, Calif.—There was a time when the general manager walked into the engine shop and said to the foreman:

"That's enough engines for a while. They're having trouble with that new fuselage linen so you'd better send Hank and Joe and Horace over to the skin shop to give 'em a hand. Pete and this kid, Williams, are low on seniority so they'll have to lay off for a week or 10 days.'"

Jones

And that was how it was.

For most things in America were made by hand and sometimes there'd be more blodgets than widgets and then the blodget-makers would have to lay off or sit around or go help make widgets.

Henry Ford, it was true, had perfected mass production of a simple vehicle. But he had done so only with the most vigorous standardization.

"You can have any color as long as it's black," said Henry. He wasn't really being flippant. The idea of the confusion on the line if customers were permitted to order a rainbow of Fords simply staggered him.

Now you order your car from an arm-long list of options. You want it Tahiti Blue with turquoise upholstery. You want power steering and brakes but a stick shift. And air conditioning. And whitewalls.

And a few days later at some assembly plant a computer digests a punched card and somewhere down the line your special transmission arrives at a chassis. Away off in the body shop a shell is getting blue paint and turquoise upholstery and back on the line the body swings down and the air-conditioner is hooked up and the whitewalls are waiting. Maybe the plant will produce 1,000 cars that day, but not another one just like yours.

The computer age. It's wonderful and getting more so every day. And just a little frightening.

Down here in Long Beach, Douglas Aircraft has the first of its two-engine short range jets, the DC-9, on the line. The competition in the transport airplane business is savage. In spite of a steady succession of air travel records, bigger, faster planes mean that airlines can get along with fewer of them. Yet the jets cost from $4 to $6 million apiece, and the manufacturer has to sell around 250 of each type in order to recapture his development costs.

Convair took a horrible bath in the 880's and 990's. The Comet IV was a financial belly-flop. The DC-8 got into the race late against the Boeing 707's and 720's and only a few weeks ago began to smell the sweet air of net profit. The DC-9 is attempting to carve a place between the excellent three-pod Boeing 727 and the well-liked French Caravelle. And standing right in the way is the British-built BAC-111 which has already made sales to two big American airlines.

Under these pressures you pay attention to costs. Europeans can build good airplanes and European wages are low. So Douglas has devised something called COMPASS, which stands for Controllable Overhead Management Performance and Standards System, and, believe me, you step right into the 21st Century.

At the end of the day each workman reports exactly what he has accomplished. The data goes into a computer and all night the computer grinds. The next morning the workman is handed a punched card with some printing on it. It's his work order for the day. I have a sample:

"Target hours 7, man load 1, production assembly No. 9911500-401, station 51407, ship serial No. 45695 DC9, shop order 50001." The card divides the man's day into two operations. It tells him the serial number of every part he will need and what to do with each. At the end of Operation 1 it says "Assemble INAJ DPS 2.70," and at the end of Operation 2 it reads "Drill in AJ1-401 JTDI."

The shape of things to come!

Perhaps the man doesn't finish the jobs. This may not be his fault. A piece of metal might break. A part could be misshapen. But the computer wants to know exactly what has happened. For the next day the work orders of hundreds of men will be slightly changed.

Impersonal? Certainly. Scary? A little. But if America hopes to sell to the world while retaining the highest wage scale in the world our computers will proliferate and their drums will spin faster. For we are not the only people bright at drawing boards and clever with machines.

Things were more human back in the days after World War I when young Don Douglas came out to Santa Monica with $600 and began to design airplanes in the back of a barber shop. But while we were chummier we were also inefficient and only the rich had the really fine things and some of them they could only buy in black.

The Brave New World comes at a price. Part of the price is the computer.

Frosting On The Cake

Well, well, well, the sun rose as usual Wednesday morning. Millions of dog-tired people who stayed up all night, same as I did, will get over the political binge rapidly and sooner than the losers will ever admit. Americans will get back onto the beam of work, play, study, and all of the assorted nonsense that has to leave the main stage for three months every four years.

Operating this great country is far different from "running the country." Tending to business, making some adjustments in regaining some degree of emotional sanity — all these are still the warp and woof of the American Way of Life.

Many people who do not understand the real thesis of live and let live, are never going to get over the election and be just the same ever afterward. The winners will be temporarily swelled up out of all proportion and the losers will start in right now planning how to "cut the wrong ones down to size" four years from now.

State governments, county governments, city governments will keep right on battling like crazy, over gnats and swallow over and over again the always present "camels" that constantly infest the political circus. Those who didn't care enough about anything to get out and vote, will bellyache the loudest about "the crooked and fat headed politicians."

Those of us who worked hard and long and in deadly earnest for our beliefs will sluff off the hysterics and stupidities and bad manners that smelled to high heaven for twice too long, and again go about the business of "fighting city hall," cussing the boss, driving like crazy on the freeways, and go back to work.

The basic issues will be ever with us and ever unsolved because lazy and ignorant and dishonest people are not interested in any solution of any problem. Too many are solely interested in learning how to live without working and how to keep right on "keeping up with the Joneses."

"Ain't we had fun" and meanwhile this still great land of opportunity for the thrifty and studious will roll right along.

What a difference just half a century can make! Europe, with its millions of trained and poised troops, was called the "world's powder keg" in 1914. Now the entire world is the nuclear barrel of 1964.

In 1914, one hundred thousand Americans were stranded in Europe trying to get home before the war started. Now millions all over the earth live in fear of nuclear death and know not where to turn. A fisherman can change his lie. A golfer can't. Nor can the people of the earth. There's no place to go for safety.

He who drive like idiot is. (Remember the Confucius fad of a few years ago?) Likewise, a race that fights like crazy is. Hasn't war been man's chief occupation for most of this century? Man seems to sense somehow that the greatest mystery of life is death, and that in wholesale death he may solve it.

Winter is a sleeping introvert. Summer is an exploring, joyous extrovert. Spring is emerging, a bourgeoning. Autumn is a closing, a withdrawing. These are things to wonder about. But man has been too busy fighting his wars to give them much attention.

Some say that despite all religious, political and cultural influence, you can't change human nature. This and many other things could well be discussed if we had more time and space. Meanwhile, we can and should "do what we can with what we have where we are."

It says here . . . . .

A greeting: Peace be with you. The response: And with you, peace.

Men And Nations Responsible To God

Rev. Buchholtz

When you read these words the election of a President will very likely be an event of recent history. Citizens will have had the opportunity to vote for the candidate of their choice, and the electoral majority will have prevailed.

Under our American concept of complete separation of church and state, it is irrelevant to ask what religion, if any, a public servant has, just as it is immaterial to ask of what race or national background he is. Neither religion, race, nor national heritage is listed under the personal qualifications which a President must have: that he be a natural-born citizen, at least 35 years of age, and a resident of this country for at least 14 years.

In addition to these, of course, there are many other considerations that enter into his qualifications. These include his political philosophy, experience, judgment, capacity to grow mentally and to take advice, physical stamina, and the like. Most other matters of "practical" politics take, more often than not, a rather dim view of the American electorate: that people will more likely vote on the basis of their prejudices than on the basis of their reasoned judgment.

Of the issues receiving emphasis both privately and publicly in this fall's presidential campaign, two have been the matters of personal integrity and public morality. I daresay that these have been factors, quiet or public, in every election. They are legitimate considerations insofar as they enter into the question that each voter must resolve to his own satisfaction: "Which of the candidates is best qualified to serve me and my fellow citizens in public office?"

The American people have every right to consider these matters, or not, as they choose. Inevitably, however, the public officials elected will tend to reflect the thinking of the majority on these matters. This is at once the danger of the democratic way, and its strength.

But complete separation of church and state, and public morality or its lack, do not mean that the nation is removed from judgment nor from the consequences of its choices. The President, be he Catholic, Jew, Protestant, or atheist is responsible to God for his leadership. The nation, be it heathen or devout, is responsible to God for its actions; just as each person is responsible, whether he recognizes it or not or wishes to accept it.

We cannot evade this responsibility before God simply by disowning it, or by burying our heads in the sand and pretending it isn't there. God isn't going to crawl into a hole simply because someone says that He's dead. The responsibility is there, built into the universe.

A university professor of political science was once asked by a student, in what book he could learn the best politics. Without hesitation the professor replied, "In the second Book of Kings." Here, breathtakingly portrayed, is seen what it means to be a nation living under the judgment of Almighty God. And the judgment applies to all nations, not just to ancient Israel. This is the one lesson that history teaches the wise. It applies equally to the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.

"Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." (Proverbs 14:34)

WHAT PRICE 'HURRY'?

It can happen here in Columbus! It did happen here two Sundays ago—a golden autumn morning when all Nature was, and all men could have been, in tune with God.

It happened at 9:25, just at the time when many people were driving to church to worship. It happened on a busy main street—West Broad.

A small, well-kept, glad-to-be-alive puppy crossed the street and was struck down. He struggled to his feet, hoping to finish his trek across the frightening thoroughfare.

Mrs. DeWitt

Two small boys stood on the sidewalk and watched his plight. He was struck down again. Helplessly, the unbelieving boys waved their hands and tried to stop the frantic traffic. They stepped into the street and tried to warn oncoming drivers. Cars swerved, barely missing the boys, but not one stopped.

Sixteen cars passed over the little body. Sixteen carloads of Americans intent on getting someplace in a hurry—perhaps even to their place of praise to God.

We stooped and picked up the battered-but-living body. The eyes begged for mercy and a pat of friendship before death. Tenderly we placed the puppy on the soft grass.

The two boys, on their way to Sunday School, looked at the drama of death.

A Columbus policeman, gentle and kind, stopped his cruiser and helped officiate at the last rites. The small group of four mourners spoke about death. "Death itself is not the tragedy. The real tragedy is the apathy of all those who 'passed by on the other side.' That is the real death — not to care."

Our 17-year-old son says it this way:

"Hurry, oh, run like hell,
Toward that place unknown.
The place for those who hurry—election feeling among area Democrats does not auger well for peace and harmony.

The bitterness directed by some Republicans toward Governor Rhodes is less serious from the local standpoint because he has two years to mend fences and seven friendly legislators in the Franklin County delegation to the Ohio General Assembly.

Incumbent Republican State Senator Richard B. Metcalf was returned to office. The six returning Republicans to the House of Representatives include Robert E. Holmes, Thomas M. Herbert, Keith McNamara, Archer E. Reilly, Jacob A. Shawan and Chalmers P. Wylie.

Franklin County voters joined the statewide trend in the contests for the four judgeships in the Ohio Supreme Court by returning incumbents C. William O'Neill, Charles B. Zimmerman and Lynn B. Griffith, and replacing Rankin Gibson with Paul W. Brown.

In county judgeship races, all incumbents were retained with the exception of Sater. The winners included Judges John C. Duffy, Court of Appeals; Henry L. Holden, Common Pleas Court; Clayton W. Rose and John W. Hill, Domestic Relations Court.

The electorate seemingly disregarded party labels by returning all incumbents to the other county offices. Republican Sheriff Stacy R. Hall outpolled all other candidates, including President Johnson, in scoring the easiest victory of all. Other incumbents returned to office included Glenn L. Myers and Henry A. Koontz, county commission; Arch Warren, auditor; C. Howard Johnson, prosecuting attorney; Joseph M. Cliffor[illegible], clerk of court, and Robert A. Evans, coroner — all Republicans — and Democrats Guy Elbin, engineer; Newton A. Thatcher, treasurer, and James A. Schaefer, recorder.

Who besides Police Chief George Scholer, has heard of the Mounted Columbus Police? Only oldtimers. Scholer has asked City Council to provide him with monies to form another mounted platoon.

City Council President William R. Fornof is disgusted with "hand clapping zoning." He suggested to adjourn council to a small conference room and call one witness at a time. There is an old Zen Koan about the clapping of one hand.

Hans W. Rawe surprised the city in a Cash McCall move by becoming the sole operator of the Columbus Plaza Motor Hotel. He bought out the interests of Francis A. Sifferlin.

In other high finance news, the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce and the Development Committee for Greater Columbus have been asked to ferret out members interested in forming a syndicate to buy out the Columbus Transit Company. Frederick B. Hill, chairman of the Citizens Transit Study Committee made the request.

While passing through the city, former vice president Richard M. Nixon stated a continuation of the present foreign policy would involve the U. S. in war. Nothing alarming . . . he was just passing through.

school operating levy by 60.2 percent (910-590). The levy is for five years.

Madison . . .

School Levy

Madison Local kept pace with an exploding school population by okaying a renewal and increase in school operating levy of four mills (3.1 mills new) for nine years. The winning margin was a narrow 51.5 percent (1373-1291).

Teays Valley . . .

School Levy

Voters "ayed" the first school operating levy on the ballot in five years providing a six-mill package (3.7 renewal and 2.3 new). Winning unofficial count was 1225-1068.

Arlington . . .

Charter Amendment-

Arlington voters got the point across that they don't want sidewalks by okaying a charter amendment preventing council from constructing sidewalks without owner's written consent (8186-7995). Voters underlined their point by defeating a resolution declaring a necessity for constructing sidewalks (8188-7479).

Whitehall . . .

School Levy

City voters provided a vote of confidence to its school system by okaying the renewal and decrease (.2 mills) of an existing school tax levy of 2.8 mills for five years. Whitehall voters "ayed" the proposal 4136-1620.

Gahanna . . .

Charter Amendments

Gahanna residents were no kinder to six charter amendments than was neighbor Reynoldsburg to charter adoption. All six items were rejected by some 200 ballots. Amendments concerned powers of the planning commission, appointment rights of the mayor and provisions for removal and residence of village appointees.

Worthington . . .

School Bond Issue

District voters went better than 2-1 in favor of a $1,250,000 school bond issue, covering 20 years at a rate of 1.6 mills (5269-2214). The millage will provide construction and improvement of fireproof buildings and acquisition of real estate.

Plain Local . . .

School Bond, Tax Levy

Two to one was the count on both a school tax levy renewal (3.6 mills) and increase (2 mills) and a $275,000 bond issue (2.3 mills for 22 years). The levy (694-311) will cover current expenses; the bond approval (688-316) allows an addition to the elementary school, incinerator and sewage treatment and site improvement.

Wash. Twp. . . .

Zoning, Schools

In Washington Township, one vote made the difference in the zoning of Precinct B and a portion of Precinct A. This was voted down 99-98, defeating the issue for the fourth time. Washington Local School's bond issue was approved, 933-763.

Scioto-Darby . . .

The Scioto-Darby School District bond issue and tax levy were both passed by district voters. Bonding was approved 2536 to 2113, while the tax levy carried almost the same margin, 2561 to 2052.

Hilliard . . .

Hilliard's operating levy was also approved—by a slim margin. The voting went 1,074 for the levy and 1,005 against. Councilman Glen Merryman said he was "real happy" with the outcome, and felt that this was the first time the "people really put their confidence in the city."

Norwich . . .

In the same area, Norwich Township's fire renewal and increased levies were passed, with 2,375 for and 1,712 against.

Prairie Twp. . . .

Both of Prairie Township's fire levies were voted in, with nearly 1,000 more voters for the issues than against.

S-W Schools . . .

Voters in the South-Western School district passed the bond issue by nearly a 2-1 margin, 7,958 to 4,195. Superintendent Paul Hayes said he was extremely pleased with the majority vote.

TODAY'S REPORT

By ABE MELLINKOFF

The new leaders in the Kremlin decided to give Ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev a little send off in the papers after his retirement by telling everybody what a bum he had been for the past 10 years.

They campaigned hard against him after he no longer was in office. Of course he could have expected it. All the time he was trying for the job, nobody had a bad word to say about him in public.

We are naturally amazed at these Russians because over here we do it the other way around. We give the candidate for President almighty whatfor. But once let him get elected, serve his years in the White House, and quit, why you couldn't find a finer fellow anywhere.

YMCA NEWS

The fall and winter basketball schedules swing into action at the Central Branch YMCA's two gyms this week under the direction of Dana W. Helmick, assistant physical director.

The Over 30 League plays Monday evenings at 7:15. There are still openings, with seven teams lined up at present.

In the Open League, CBU, "Y" Dorm, TAT Carry-Out, Three Lads, Nationwide Insurance, Viereck's Floriest and two Franklin University teams play each Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:15 p.m.

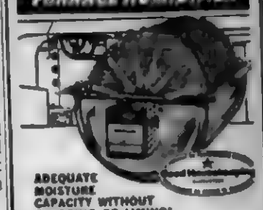
The Physical Education Committee announces that new hours are now in effect. Physical activities from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday. Closes Saturday at 9:30 p.m.

ALUMNAE PARTY SET

Kappa Alpha Theta Alumnae and friends will meet in an "Autumn Atmosphere" for the annual bridge-dessert and fashion show, Nov. 11, 8 p.m. at the Theta house.

Local Youth To Be Given 'Pat On Back'

"Youth Appreciation Week," Nov. 9 through 15, will be highlighted by an Awards Banquet at the Youth Center on the Ohio State Fairgrounds, Thursday, Nov. 12.



The banquet, sponsored by the Optimist Clubs of Columbus and Franklin County, is part of the program developed throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico by Optimist Clubs to give deserving youth a "pat on the back."

Young men and women representing schools throughout the county will hear Charles L. Spohn, Jr., director of the Ohio State Marching Band, speak at the affair when recognition is given, not to the juvenile delinquents who too often are headlined, but to those whom the Optimists feel deserve honor merely for being "good kids."

Roger Davis is general chairman of Youth Appreciation Week.

COFFEE BREAK

My Children Think I Look Like Ma Barker

By ADELINE DALEY

My new driver's license arrived in yesterday's mail, and I'm trying my best not to find fault with my latest likeness as captured by the Department of Motor Vehicles still photographers. Let's just say that I don't think I'll have an oil portrait, suitable for framing, made from it.

The picture resembled a gun moll I'd seen portrayed on a "B" gangster movie on the late, late show. I think her name was Isabel Jewell and her big dramatic scene called for her to shout from behind a machine gun, "O.K., you coppers, come and get me."

That's why I'm a little hesitant about using my new license for identification purposes. Not only will somebody be apt to refuse to cash my check, but I'm afraid a police squad car will be called to come and pick me up.

Of course, I felt the same way about my last operator's license. I had to control myself from clobbering with my purse those who had no difficulty recognizing me from it.

My husband tried to assuage my feelings by showing me his driver's license picture. For a split second I thought I must be married to George Raft or Convict No. 6975954.

In either case, it's somebody you wouldn't want to meet in a dark alley. And when we compared our full-face pictures side-by-side, I could visualize the newspaper caption, "Couple Sought in Extortion Plot."

It would take a little checking but I wouldn't be a bit surprised to learn that the Motor Vehicle photographers are actually old-time movie cameramen who shot such classics as "20,000 Years at Sing Sing" and "I Was a Fugitive From a Chain Gang." I know one thing — one portrait sitting with them and a young sweet thing like Hayley Mills could start testing for character parts.

Either that or a special course must be conducted to become eligible for the job. To qualify you make sure of the following: (A) Add at least one extra chin; (B) Line deep, dark circles under eyes; (C) Turn smiles into sneers. And, in the case of my husband — make sure everyone appears to have an advanced case of five o'clock shadow.

I'm also wondering if it's possible that these same department photogs do a little moonlighting and are responsible for the pictures taken of your kids at school. The ones that come back looking as if they'd run all of the little moppets through special wind tunnels to make sure they look tousled enough.

But as I wasn't downhearted enough, it took my own children to apply the mortal sting. They looked at the picture and cried: "Terrific, Mom, it looks just like you."

"EVERYPLACE WE'VE seen has been beautiful, clean and very friendly" say Nita and Tonian Bolognone. The two visited St. Mark's Square in Venice, Italy, the last country they will visit before coming home.

Cavorting Cousins Seeing The World

Nita and Tonian Bolognone are out to see the world.

The dark-haired, 23-year-old cousins decided a year ago that they would have no rocking chair regrets, so they're leaving no stones (or countries) unturned.

Months of scrimping, planning and scrambled excitement followed. Nita of 1282 Glenn-av, Grandview, took a leave of absence from Mutual of New York, as did Tonian, 2363 Clime-rd, better known to her associates at Patricia Stevens College as Toni Thomas.

In June the girls boarded the S. S. Rotterdam for Europe and from then on it was "look out world . . . here we come."

Their "up like a rose bud" attitude has led them to many exciting experiences.

With money at a minimum and plenty of time on their hands, the budget-minded lasses have avoided hotels like a plague. They simply search a town for a homey family who will accept roomers. After establishing a base, the girls take in the sights, art museums, famous buildings and all the things they used to view wistfully in magazines.

The evening meal at "home" is devoted to discussions of the day's happenings. The two agree that the only part of the trip they don't like is saying goodbye to their friends.

In Geneva, an elderly American woman spotted the girls standing on a corner with their suitcases, Toni and Nita explained that the hotel they were looking for had been torn down and immediately the woman "sprouted angel wings." She found suitable quarters, planned what they should see and treated them to dinner in a quaint Swiss restaurant.

Home Radio Operators 'Keyed' For Time Of Disaster

JOHN HULL, of 695 Park-rd (W8ERJ), Worthington, is informing W8TO control center that the portable generator for emergency power during the test, is en route to W8UHZ operated by Everett (Smoky) Clutter, 820 Loveman-av, Worthington. Hull is electronic project engineer at North American Aviation.

ED HOWISON of 175 Deland-av, (W8AXB) acted as net control operator for 50 megacycle traffic at W8TO, Disaster Control Center, during recent test. Howison, a group supervisor for the Internal Revenue Service, is president of CARA (Columbus Amateur Radio Association).

"A valuable potential emergency communication system" — Gov. Rhodes

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

Girding Greater Columbus as tight as an Allen belt is an electronic network manned by amateur radio operators who, for sheer civic philanthropy, deserve a specially struck medal of Congress.

They are alert at night while the city, and rural acres, sleep.

Day or night, wives and husbands and children man the federally licensed amateur radio stations, maintaining contact, alert to any threat that might endanger the community.

When danger does appear, hundreds of home and mobile stations are tied together within minutes into a network which, for efficiency and flexibility, rivals commercial and official facilities.

Difficult for an average citizen to envision is a disaster that could knock out normal channels of communication upon which he and his family depend.

It is a frightening thing when it actually happens.

And it does happen.

During the recent earthquake in Alaska, amateur radio opertors were called upon to handle all air traffic for a 36-hour period until normal facilities could be restored.

They did the job, then retired to their usual anonymity.

Not always do they go unrecognized.

This year, Governor James A. Rhodes proclaimed the week of June 21-27 as Amateur Radio Week. The proclamation hangs proudly in the window of W8TO, amateur radio control station located at the Center of Science and Industry, 280 E. Broad-st.

Held Test Recently

Recently AREC, Amateur Radio Emergency Corps in Franklin County, conducted a simulated emergency test. It was part of a nationwide drill which has been faithfully conducted for nearly two decades by the American Radio Relay League and the Amateur Public Service Corps.

The simulated disaster was dramatically staged.

Locally, W8TO acted as Disaster Control Center. Two emergency mobile control centers were set up, one at Hoover Dam, another at Josephinum Pontifical College. Eight fixed stations were operating on normal power. Two others on emergency power (portable generators owned by the amateur operators.)

Cruising and reporting were 11 mobile units. Contact and cooperation was established with airports, Red Cross, Civil Defense, and other official agencies.

Amateur radios crackled with warnings, reports, official messages, and SOS calls. The network was tied in with the amateur's National Traffic System for swift communication with points outside the local area.

For two hours and 14 minutes and 28 and 50 megacycle air lanes were "hot" as the amateurs calmly and efficiently took over the task of rescuing a city and is people from a major disaster.

When the test was over, the alertness, training, and discipline of the amateurs was dramatically revealed.

What the test didn't reveal, and should have revealed, and is revealed here—is the civic contribution being made every day by this group of sincere people.

They receive few plaudits, and take no encores.

Pay Their Own Costs

They receive no support from private or public funds.

The build or buy their own equipment, pay their own power bills for fixed stations, buy gas for their emergency stations and mobile units.

The ask nothing, except a chance to aid people, communities, this nation, in time of distress.

Pioneers in deed, as well as spirit, they have contributed much more.

Many, if not the majority, of radio communication devices and techniques now in general use were pioneered by amateurs.

Thirty-five years ago, before the commercial living room miracle occurred, they were experimenting with TV. Frequency modulation was an old story to them years before World War II.

Many are now involved in the area of Laser, and space communications.

Have Satellites

A group of amateurs designed, developed, and with the assistance of NASA, put into orbit two communication satellites known as Oscar I and Oscar II. Oscar III will be orbited shortly. Amateur radio stations throughout the world cooperated in the tracking and telemetry of the Oscar series and contributed valuable information.

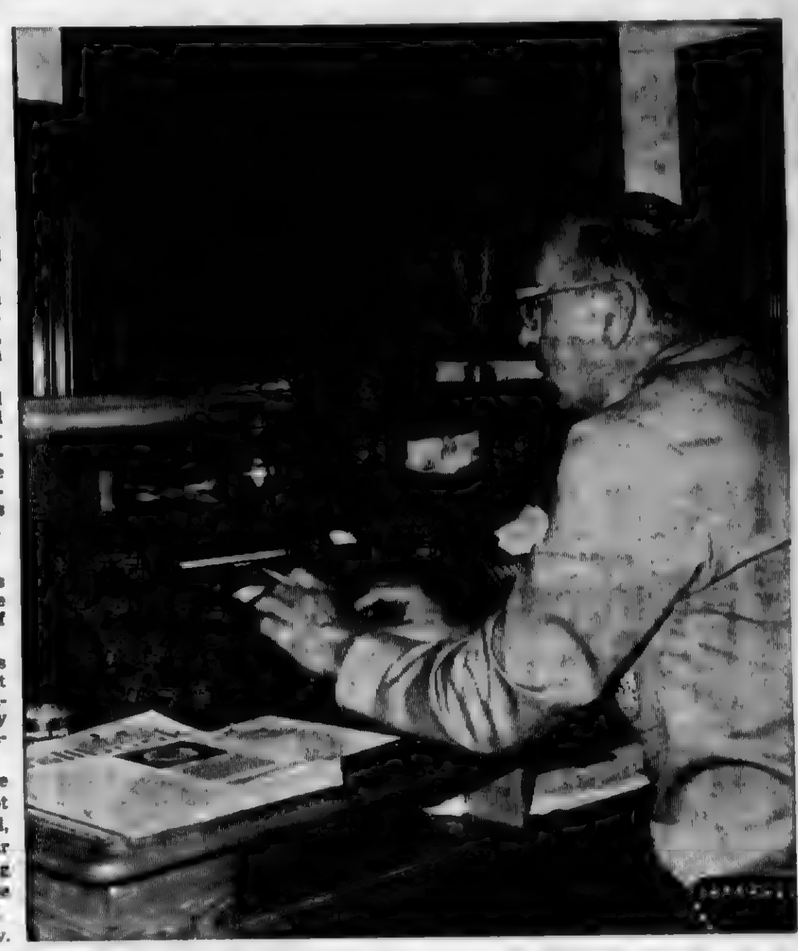
To youths, who seek clean thrills in a stimulating atmosphere of accomplishment, amateur radio offers diversion and education.

Classes in radio code and theory for beginners as well as advanced students are conducted periodically by professional instructors at the Science Center under the auspieces of CARA, Columbus Amateur Radio Association.

Meets At Science Center

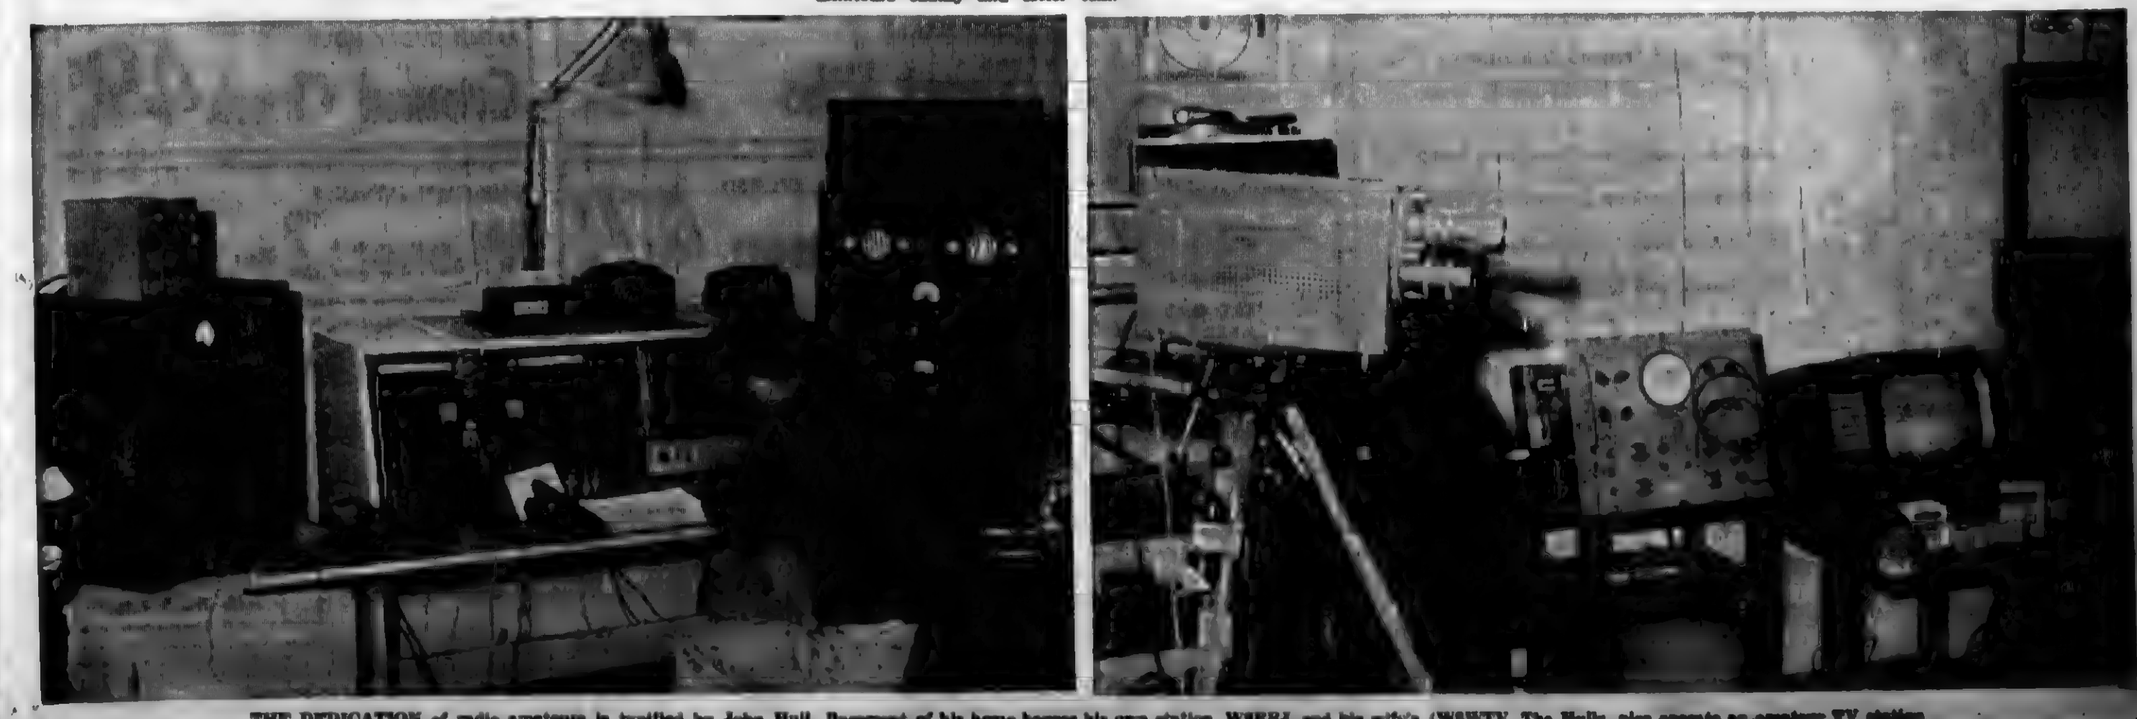
CARA meets in the Lazarus Auditorium of the Science Center on the first Friday of each month at 8 p.m.

Citizens, often beneficiaries of unknown sacrifices, might look in the window of Amateur Station W8TO as they pass through the Science Center.



The transmitter they see there, in which they have not a single tax dime invested, might one day transmit their personal SOS. The receiving sets might bring hope for the relief they desperately need.

The proclamation by Gov. James A. Rhodes that hangs in the window of W8TO sums up the story:



"A valuable potential emergency communication system."

NET CONTROL operator for 28 megacycle traffic at W8TO during the test was Richard A. Egbert of 6479 Red Fox-rd (W8ETU). Egbert is also involved in missile electronics at North American Aviation.

MOBILE W8INO, one of the emergency control stations during test, is owned and manned by Bob Gunderman, 1342 Vinewood-dr, Forest Park. Gunderman is also in missile electronics at North American Aviation.

THE DEDICATION of radio amateurs is typified by John Hull. Basement of his home houses his own station, W8ERJ, and his wife's (W8WTV. The Hulls also operate an amateur TV station.

Bradston Rattan Products
Whitecraft, Inc.

(above) An ensemble that will make dining a real pleasure. Durable construction plus smart styling. Table is 48" x 60" and extends to 72." See this group and many others in our big selection.

Excellent Financing Available

(right) Party Set is just right for bridge time or other game activities. Walnut finish with beautiful Mother of Pearl top. Continental height (25"). A beautiful and comfortable addition to your family or recreation room. See it today!

SWIVEL ROCKER will give you many hours of leisure comfort. Deep foam cushions covered in high fashion decorator fabrics in solids and floral combinations. Walnut finish, durably constructed. Fine for TV watching, reading or just relaxing.

Fits most Danish-style, rattan and wrought iron chairs, sectionals and sofas. Seat size: 22" wide x 27" deep. Back size: 22" wide 19" deep. Zippered covers with foam cushions included. Choice of attractive decorator fabrics in wide variety of colors.

Driftwood Sconces ALL SIZES . . . hand rubbed to natural honey dew wax finishes. We recommend Driftwood to the smart homemaker . . . it different!

Beauty and quality features usually found only in exclusive custom design! 42" octagonal shaped table extends to 42" x 64" with the addition of two 11 inch leaves. Top has beautifully grained, mar-resistant Royal Walnut finish. Deeply padded, curved back chairs are upholstered in supported vinyl, with inside seat and back in beautiful Melon Tone; outside back in a vinyl that matches the Royal Walnut Micalite table top finish. Add new dining luxury to your home, now, at these special budget prices!

"GUARANTEED RESULT" WANT ADS

RESULTS ARE GUARANTEED or money will be refunded to persons placing Want Ads in the Miscellaneous For Sale columns.

If you have paid for the ad in advance and have not sold the item by 9 a.m. Tuesday just call and ask that it be run again . . . this time FREE. Call before 10 a.m. Tuesday.

IF you do not sell the item the SECOND week just call again before 10 a.m. Tuesday and ask that the ad be run FREE again.

If the item is not sold after the THIRD insertion your money will be refunded if you return your receipt to our office within eight days.

Your ad must be paid for prior to publication before the "Guaranteed Results" are in effect . . . The offer applies only to private individuals and ONLY to Miscellaneous For Sale items. When placing ad you must request a "Guaranteed" ad.

If more than one item is advertised in an ad, the free re-run offer is not good after one item in the ad has been sold.

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Sat., Nov. 28th — 10:00 a.m.

Case No. 219808
Newton A. Thatcher, Treasurer — Plaintiff, vs. Northwest Boulevard Company, et al—Defendant.

Court of Common Pleas of Franklin County, Ohio

In pursuance of an Order of Sale from said court to me directed:
I will offer for sale at public auction
AT THE DOOR OF THE COURT HOUSE
In the City of Columbus
Franklin County, Ohio
The following described real estate situated in the county of Franklin and State of Ohio and in the city of Grandview Heights, Ohio

Known as Adjacent to 995 W. Goodale St.
Vacant Land Only.

Being a strip of land of irregular dimensions running through Lots Numbers Eight (8) and Nine (9) of Northwest Boulevard Plat; No. 4 Addition, as the same are numbered and delineated upon the recorded plat thereof, of record in Plat Book 12, page 23, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio; said strip running eastwardly from the west line of said Lot No. 8 to the mid-part of said Lot No. 9, thence running in a general north-northeasterly direction to the north line of said Lot No. 9 at the mid-part thereof and being in the southerly line of Goodale Street and being more particularly bounded as follows:

On the northerly and westerly sides by the south line of Goodale Street; a tract of land conveyed to the W. W. Williams Company by deed signed Feb. 27, 1920 and shown in Deed Book 642, page 140; a tract of land conveyed to The Columbus Conveyor Co. signed June 16 1919 and shown in Deed book 706, page 486; and the westerly line of said Lot No. 9; on the southerly side by a tract of land conveyed to B. F. Patterson on May 28, 1921 and shown in Deed Book 644, page 608; and on the easterly and southeasterly side by a strip of ground described in a contract by the Northwest Boulevard Company with the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Co., signed on Aug. 3, 1918 and shown in Miscellaneous Record 12, page 406, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio.

Terms of Sale: To be sold for not less than 2/3 the appraised value. $100.00 cash at time of sale Balance, cash, on confirmation.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Everybody around here gets headaches. At least all we people do. Sometimes our cat, Johnny, acts like he has one too. Possible? If so, do I break one of my aspirins in half?—B. A.

DEAR B. A.: If Johnny is subjected to the same stresses that make your house a headache haven, it would be surprising if he didn't get headaches. Break your aspirin in in two if you like, but DON'T give Johnny either half. Aspirin can kill cats! If your diagnosis is accurate, Johnny's best hope for a clear head is peace and quiet.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Would you please give us some short answers to the following: (1) What is the earliest age that a male cat should be fixed? (2) Is this advisable? (3) Is the operation considered difficult or dangerous? — G. T.

DEAR G. T.: (1) Eight months. (2) Yes, (3) No.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have a Strawberry Finch and a friend has what is called a Red Avadavat. We would like to try breeding these two. They are about the same size. Do you think we would have any success in such an attempt? — B. N.

DEAR B. N.: Provided you have one of each sex, the chances of such a mating should be excellent. Strawberry Finch, Red Avadavat (and Tiger Finch) are merely different names for the same bird.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Can anything be done about a dog who doesn't have enough sense to go out in the rain? He will go out but he refuses to go, I mean do anything. Recently it was 25 hours before he relieved himself. Jason is a 70-pound Pointer and I just can't imagine why he is so stubborn about this. — O. B.

DEAR O. B.: Somehow Jason is going to have to take this competition from Mother Nature in stride. Perhaps you can bring along another dog on these tours who is less sensitive about being overshadowed. Once Jason notes that other males don't try to hold out for a dry spell, he may give it up, too.

DEAR DR. MILLER: The decision rests with you. We can't agree what to do for our Sheba. She is a lonesome, eight-year-old Spitz who lost her sister two months ago. Since then she has gone down hill, even though the doctor said there was nothing wrong with her.

We don't know if getting her a new baby sister dog would make her happy or jealous. Is there something better that could be done? We just hate to see her moping around all the time even if she is still sweet to us.—A. B.

DEAR A. B.: There seems to be little to be lost by offering Sheba a new playmate. Chances are the "infant" would have a doting Mama, and both would benefit from the relationship. In fact, the young often have an almost magical rejuvenating effect on the not-so-young.

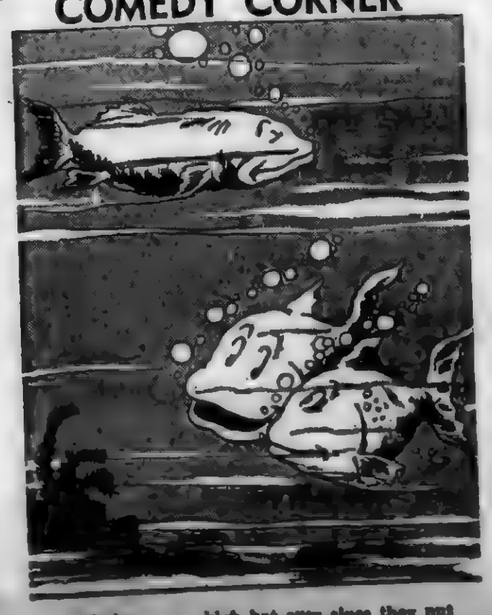
DEAR DR. MILLER: I have been interested in horses for years and now have a chance to buy a seven-year-old thoroughpin. He looks like a pretty good horse to me. What do you think he should be worth on today's market? —C. V.



DEAR C. V.: It would be rather hard to determine the value of a thoroughpin as the term is used to describe a puffy swelling at the side of the hock joint. While a thoroughpin is a relatively unimportant defect in a horse it could hardly be considered an asset.

Other points being equal, most buyers, if offered a choice of a horse with thoroughpins and a Thoroughbred horse would choose the latter. (The Thoroughbred is a distinct breed of horse best known for its ability to come in "out of the money"—when it's your money.)

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

MS Patient Activities Need Volunteer Help

As part of its recreational program for patients, Franklin County Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, organized a "wheel chair bowling league" last year, held the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at Fiesta Lanes.

A ramp, similar to a very short ball return, is placed alongside the patient's wheelchair and the patient pushes the bowling ball off the ramp and down the alley. Regulation 16-pound balls are used, and some of the scores would put a novice bowler to shame.

In addition to the bowling programs offered the MS patients, the Local MS Chapter provides an Arts and Crafts program, bingo, movies and games the first and third Thursdays of each month from 1 to 3 p.m. at St. Albans Church, 333 Drexel-av; and also a "nights-out" program of taking MS patients to the Jet baseball games, Kenley Players, concerts and other civic activities.

Volunteers are desperately needed to donate their time a few hours a week. Persons interested in helping out in this community project, please call the Multiple Sclerosis office, 237-5449, for further information.

Libraries Celebrate Children's Book Week

Columbus Public Library system plays host to thousands of local school children during this, the 35th anniversary of National Children's Book Week, Nov. 1-7.

All 12 library branches in Columbus, the children's department of the main library, and library branches in Hilliard, Reynoldsburg and Whitehall have extended special invitations to nearby schools to arrange classroom visits through Friday, Nov. 6.

Colorful posters, streamers and mobiles proclaim the happy theme of this year's observance, "Swing Into Books," and bookmarks are being given away as souvenirs to the young visitors.

Most of the agencies have held back new children's books for several weeks so that the young guests may have the thrill of looking at brand new ones.

Adults planning to give books as Christmas gifts to small fry traditionally visit library agencies during the week to get expert advice on and firsthand inspection of books that will be read and treasured by recipients.

National Children's Book Week, first observed in 1919, was the outgrowth of a suggestion to the American Booksellers Association by Franklin K. Mathiews, chief Boy Scout librarian.

Ohio School Boards Hold 'Back-To-School' Session

Three thousand school officers and board members will go "back to school" Nov. 10-12 to learn how to do a better job in improving public education.

The school is a three-day conference, held at Veterans Memorial, involving 41 meetings and sponsored by the Ohio School Boards Association, the Ohio Association of of School Administrators, and the Ohio Association of School Business Officials.

Board members, superintendents, and community leaders from more than 70 school districts will serve as the "instructors" in sessions dealing with school-community relations, better and more efficient operation of the schools, and such controversial issues as civil rights, religion and taxation.

The conference theme is "Schools and Communities: Partners for Progress."

The conference sessions will be divided into large-group sessions with formal presentations and panel discussions and informal clinics with experts from state agencies and school districts on hand to answer specific questions.

One general session will honor school administrators and another will honor the Ohio Council for Education, an action group composed of the ten major educational organizations which is sponsoring state-wide school improvements to the 1965 legislature.

Throughout the conference, the Ohio School Boards Association will sponsor a 200-booth exhibit of commercial products and supplies used in the modern school plant. A special display of architectural drawings will be staged by the Architects Society of Ohio.

Those attending and participating in the sessions and question clinics include: Dr. Harold H. Eibling, superintendent of Columbus Schools; Lyle R. Hamilton, director, publications and public information, Columbus Schools; Watson H. Walker, member, Columbus School Board.

Howard Wilson, coordinator, Workmen's Compensation, Columbus Schools; Harold Nelson, guidance counselor, Dominion Junior High School; Warren Beers, direction, research and school plant studies, Columbus schools, and John C. Young, city attorney.

Spain Takes Lead In Tourist Derby

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM — Tourism is big business in Europe. One of the biggest. Now that the summer season has ended, European Common Market countries are counting up the results, and they are not happy.

Every year the tourist industry grows at least 10 percent in Europe. France led the field for the decade after the war. Then Italy took over.

But this year Spain, which can't even get full membership in the Common Market, is hot on Italy's heels and may be the new champion.

Little Yugoslavia reports hotel business up 45 percent this summer. Portugal is doing 38 percent better than last year, and Greece has an increase of 25 percent.

On the other hand, tourist trade is down in France, and Germany continues to lose money on tourism because its people go to other countries to spend their marks.

Hotel business is down two percent in Holland, and the rest of the Common Market nations aren't talking.

"Tourists Flee France!" was the front page headline in Paris-Presse. It added: "French tourists themselves are fleeing France. Twenty percent of them vacation in foreign countries."

The French prefer Spain, Italy, Switzerland, Germany and England, in that order. Germans head first for Italy, then Austria, Switzerland, Spain and Yugoslavia.

The major vacation factor is price. The most expensive countries are the United States, France, Sweden, England, Germany, Italy and Switzerland. The cheapest are Yugoslavia, Spain, Greece, Austria, Belgium and Holland.

Next to a bargain price, the European now seeks sun, preferably with plenty of water to go with it. Thus he heads south.

The French Riviera and Italy were ideal until their costs rose too high. Now Spain, Portugal, Yugoslavia and Greece have become popular. Tourist officials in the Common Market fear that North Africa will become the next attraction.

Vacation hotels report that their business dropped 30 percent this summer because Europeans love camping. As early as May, the Bavarian Bureau of Statistics announced a 143 percent increase of campers in Germany.

Camping sites are now situated in castles and parks, and come equipped with swimming pools, tennis courts, kitchen stoves, washing machines and electric shavers. In Italy, princes and contessas rent their palazzos to wealthy tourists and leave town for the summer. Their rents cover a year's living expenses and the innkeepers lose that lush business.

Touring clubs in the Common Market countries now build their own "vacation villages," and reap in all the profits for themselves.

Fighting back, the hoteliers and restaurateurs try to make up for the loss of customers by inflating their prices. They also cut expenses by reducing the service.

The result is unhappy customers who threaten not to come back again. Governments and the press try to watch prices and discipline offenders. They don't do much good.

Senior Citizens Center

"Questions being answered to inquiries made indicate that the 1964 Senior Citizen's Selling Mart should be exciting from the time it opens Nov. 9 to its close Nov. 13," according to Mrs. J. A. Davis, general chairman.

The Mart, sponsored by Columbus Recreation Department will be open during the week from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. and on Wednesday and Friday the hours will extend to 8 p.m. It will be held at the Senior Citizen's Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st.

Mrs. J. R. Christy and Mrs. Leslie Diehl, co-chairmen for intake, are anticipating nearly 200 contributors to the Selling Mart this year. These contributors must be 60 years of age or older and residents of Franklin County. Items to be sold, with the entire proceeds going to the entrants, should be brought to the Senior Citizen's Recreation Center, between the hours of 10 and 4 on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 4 and 5.

Mrs. Karl Ausenheimer, chairman of sales, says that many sales people will be there to assist buyers, free parking is available at the Center, and the Canteen is open during the lunch and supper hours for shoppers' convenience.

TB Lecture

Friday, Nov. 6, Dr. Harold Humphrey will speak on "TB In the Older Adult" to members and guests at the Senior Citizens' Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st. This program will mark the end of a series of lectures on health at the center. These have been held at 2:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

On Friday, Nov. 13, the TB chest X-ray cruiser will be at the center in the parking lot all day for not only center members but for persons in the neighborhood.

Members are reminded that the health consultation clinic at the center is open for appointments each Friday from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. and any senior citizen may make an appointment by calling Mrs. Catherine Gillie, center director at 221-6090.

AGENTS HONORED

James R. O'Donnell, 2780 Elm, and David R. Story, 558 S. Hampton-av, representatives of the Aetna Life Insurance Company's Burton C. Holmes General Agency, were honored Nov. 7 at a dinner at the Columbus Plaza for outstanding effort in the company's national life insurance sales campaign

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Here Are Tips For November Food Shopping

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Apples, cider, bananas, Emperor grapes.

Vegetables — Potatoes (white and sweet), broccoli, Brussels sprouts, hard shell squash, lettuce.

Meat, Poultry — Beef specials, pork butt roasts, spareribs, bacon, fryers, eggs (medium).

Other — Canned and frozen vegetables (specials); peanut products.

Fall's horn of plenty will stay filled to the brim in November! A good supply of turkeys — especially hens will complement continuing meat counter attractions . . . beef, pork and broilers.

Then, from the produce division will come ever favorite cranberries, lots of apples, increased amounts of Florida citrus and fall vegetables — cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts. To top these off will be an increasing supply of Ohio greenhouse vegetables and tender vegetables from the south.

Mrs. Franks

Retail prices for beef and pork should continue close to October levels. Specials on both meats can be anticipated in early November with poultry and ham taking over the spotlight toward the end of the month.

Livestock is being marketed in volume. Last Monday saw the second heaviest receipts of cattle at 12 major terminals for this year — 116,500 head. Hog receipts at these markets were the second largest for a Monday of this year. Slaughter of cattle "off grass" has been reasonably high and the largest in several years, resulting in larger than usual supplies of hamburger. We suggest pot roast, meat loaf, hamburgers, and meat pies as ways of using the leaner, less tender cuts of cow beef that sell for less than U.S. Choice Grade of beef.

Soon to capture the poultry spotlight will be the ever traditional holiday turkey. Since turkey supplies are somewhat greater this year, prices are expected to be the same to slightly lower than last year.

In contrast to years past, hens may be the featured item in many retail stores . . . at least if retail practices reflect expected wholesale supplies. Some retailers are bound to feature tom turkeys and there will be ample offerings of turkey parts, frozen turkey rolls, and the other array of turkey products.

The fruit outlook for November is encouraging. Apples will continue in good supply as harvest ends and movement from storage begins. A larger-than-average crop of cranberries is waiting to be marketed, along with the colorful pomegranates that are at their best. Banana imports are heavy and many special prices on them will continue. Florida grapefruit is now in heavier production, quality improving, and retail price is low on fruit in four and five pound bags.

For holiday baking you can look forward to larger supplies than last year of filberts, almonds and walnuts but there will be fewer pecans.

OFBF Meet To Hear Talk By Gov. Rhodes

Governor James A. Rhodes will address delegates at the 46th Ohio Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 10, according to an announcement by D. R. Stanfield, executive vice-president, OFBF.

Delegates will be meeting Nov. 9-11 at the Neil House to discuss and adopt 1965 state and national policies for Farm Bureau.

Albee Appoints New Ad Director

Howard Senor of Cleveland has been appointed national advertising director for Albee Homes, Inc., producers of "customerized" homes, with offices in 72 cities.

Senor

Senor formerly operated his own advertising agency in Cleveland, and was advertising and promotion diping centers in California and southwestern United States.

EXHIBIT DATED

Oil paintings and etchings by Leslie Cope, an Ohioan whose work has won national recognition, will be on exhibit in the Battelle Auditorium through Nov. 30. The public is invited to view the Cope exhibit on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sorry--We Only Sell To Capitalists

PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA — A Westerner went into a store off Wenceslav Square and asked for a complete set of musical scores of the Beethoven sonatas. The clerk hesitated as she looked around the room to make certain that no other Czech was within hearing distance. She then said softly:

"Officially, we do not have them, but I think that I can help you out."

The clerk then reached under the counter and brought up a complete set of 30 compositions — for four dollars, about three times cheaper than in the West.

When cultural-minded West German and Austrian visitors come here, they really load up on classical records and books. But the local citizens are complaining that they cannot purchase items that are readily available to Westerners.

The officials also have been urging the natives to keep the streets and the railroad stations clean so tourists won't have an excuse to condemn socialism over a scrap of paper.

Prague which has about a million inhabitants, is still a beautiful city, but it now reminds one of an old jewel that has been accumulating a lot of dust and rust and needs a good scouring. The buildings, houses and streets are rundown, and the streetcars are so ancient and shabby that they could well be passed off as museum pieces.

People seem in better spirits —more relaxed and ready to talk with Westerners than before. And most of them seem to be united against Red China.

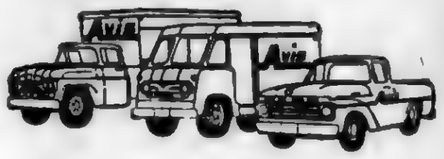
In the early days of the Sino-Soviet dispute, some of the Czechs were on the fence. Now they are cracking jokes all over the place about Communist China — with Mao Tse Tung on the butt end.

Yule Workshop Slated Nov. 18

Mrs. John Woodrow, 430 E. Kanawha-av, will again conduct the annual Christmas Workshop at the YWCA, 65 S. Fourth-st, Wednesday, Nov. 18, 9:30 a.m. to noon.

The workshop is open to all interested persons. Participants will create their own decorations from materials in a kit which will be available for $1. Participants are asked to bring their own scissors, all other supplies will be provided.

Baby sitting services will be available for a limited number of children age two to five at the rate of 50 cents per child and 25 cents for each additional child in the same family.



Reservations may be made at the YWCA, CA. 4-9121 on or before Nov. 13.

STUDENTS 'TIP HATS' TO COACH RALPH WEBSTER

by BETTY DAFT

It was "Hats Off" to Coach Ralph Webster last Friday at Walnut Ridge Junior-Senior High, as the entire student body and faculty enthusiastically responded to the day-long surprise planned in his honor by Student Council.

The huge hall show case was filled with his plaques and trophies mementoes of his highly successful, 37-year career, and signs and displays throughout the school were arranged in his honor.

And each student and teacher wore a paper top hat, inscribed "Ralph Webster Day."

He was further honored during the game, last of the season, by the band who reversed its usual W-R formation to R-W, and at the sock hop following the game.

The heart-warming expression of appreciation was planned, "just because the kids really adore this man," one faculty member explained. "Just because it's been a hard season with lots of injuries, and they wanted to show their love for him."

"It seems," Coach Webster said wonderingly, "that everything that happens to me is better than anything that ever happened before." And he added, "But I hope this doesn't mean that they expect me to retire; I have no intention of quitting!"

It is his eager approach to each day as something new, something better than ever happened before that contributes most to his timeless quality of youth.

Those who knew him 'way back when he started coaching at East High in 1931 are unfailingly impressed by his unchanging youthful enthusiasm and appearance.

Coach Webster says his private fountain of youth is "the kids — associating with them keeps me young."

As for retiring from coaching — he tried it once and it didn't work.

"He quit coaching and just taught his last four years at East High, from 1957 to '61," his wife said laughingly. "They honored him with an affair at the Ohio Union — there were gifts and a banquet, and speeches by many of his former football players like Dr. Sol Maggied and Dr. Perry Ayres and Woody Hayes was there.

"It was very grand — but Ralph was very unhappy."

And so, in 1961, when he was transferred to Walnut Ridge after thirty years at East, he was back to his familiar status as head coach.

Championship teams, and players he developed who went on to greater heights marked his years at East High.

Ten city champion football teams, seven city championship basketball teams including 1931's squad that went on through the semi-finals to the state tournament, and four champion wrestling teams compose his impressive record.

And included among "his boys" is Bill Willis, OSU All-American, Cleveland Browns' player for eight years and now a member of the Ohio Youth Commission.

"I'm proud of so many," Webster said thoughtfully, "I couldn't possibly single them all out. But when a group of my friends sponsored a 'brick' for me in the Football Hall of Fame I was permitted to take one of my former players — I chose Bill Willis."

His honors, plaques, trophies and certificates awarded during his career are many, but perhaps none of the high points of his career rank above the experience of having his two sons on his own teams, and seeing the boys distinguish themselves in athletics.

Eddie, an All-City quarterback at East, was graduated from Annapolis and is now living in Monterey, Calif. "And I have three grandchildren," Coach Webster beamed. "Deborah is four, Stephanie, two, and David Charles, whom I have never seen, is seven months."

Ralph C., All-City center while at East, was graduated from Capital University and is now attending Electronics School.

A member of the Central District Board of Ohio Athletics Association for many years, Webster has managed all district tournaments in Central Ohio for the past 14 years, including basketball, track, wrestling and baseball.

He was also on the State Athletic Board of Controls, and was president of the group in 1956-57.

A native of Russelville, Ind., Webster was graduated from the University of Illinois, and was teacher and coach in Kentland, Ind., from 1928 to 1930.

He then wrestled professionally for a year, coming to Columbus to wrestle for Al Haft.

In 1931 he joined the Columbus School System, and was assigned as head coach at East High. He met his former wife at a game there. "I had graduated from the school," Mrs. Betty Webster explained, "and went to a game with my sister. I met Ralph in February and we were married the following August."

Mrs. Webster is also well known to East High graduates, and she and her husband operated a "soda shop," favorite hangout for the youngsters on E. Main-st at Miller-av during his early years at the school.

Coach Webster's contributions to high school athletics in Columbus, best measured by the thousands of young men he tutored, is immeasurable.

And his lessons in sportsmanship and team play as a way of life, might best be expressed in Grantland Rice's tribute:

"When the Great Scorer comes
To write against your name
He'll write not if you won or lost
But how you played the game."

A FAMILIAR figure on the sidelines at Columbus high school games, Ralph Webster was head coach at East High from 1931 to 1957 and, after four years of teaching only, happily returned to coaching at Walnut Ridge in 1961.

New Whitehall Theater Plans Aired

Whitehall Council, meeting in its postponed regular session Saturday afternoon, took a dim view of a suggested change of site for the proposed new $.5 million indoor theater on E. Broad-st.

Developer Charles Sugarman, through his attorney, Robert Shamansky, indicated he was considering a three-acre tract on the south side of E. Broad near Beechcreek, rather than at the northwest corner of Broad and Yearling.

Council also tabled until next meeting, at the request of the developer, consideration of a request for a car wash at 3850 E. Main-st, and tabled indefinitely an ordinance for improvements on Westphal-av, to be replaced by one asking for storm sewers only.

Sugarman indicated that the Broad-Yearling corner site council had in mind for the theater was only one of several being considered, and that it was never made definite.

However, councilmen, City Solicitor Paul Haytcher and the mayor all sharply disagreed, saying that it had been their clear understanding that selection of the site had been firmed.

Discussion of plans for the theater was held during a public hearing on an ordinance that would change the city's zoning code to include indoor theaters in a general commerical district.

Passage of the measure would open the way for construction of the movie house, without the necessity of a special use permit.

The original Broad-Yearling corner location, with the theater site encircling the service station and drive-in restaurant on the corner was much more desirable, according to Haytcher. He pointed out that the traffic pattern at the site, with entrance on Yearling-rd, as well as on Broad, was highly favored.

The proposed location on the south side of Broad, he continued, would move all the traffic onto busy E. Broad-st.

Speaking against the ordinance was James Maxwell, who questioned the blanket effect of legislation that would permit the construction of any indoor theater in a general commercial district.

Sugarman, emphasizing that the issue before council is for a change in zoning code, pointed out that specific plans for location of the theater were not under consideration at this time.

The first - run luxury motion picture house would be equipped to show cinerama, cinemascope, and any other [illegible] now on the market,

THIRTY-THREE CAPTAINS, and 33 teams after he started his coaching career in 1928, Walnut Ridge's '64 team captain Dave Feyh congratulates Coach Ralph Webster on "his day," last Friday at the school. "I am certainly not ready to quit," Webster says firmly, "why, I look forward to each Monday, and to each Friday, and to each September and each June."

Henley To Assume Bexley Zoning Post

Mayor William Schneider's appointment of James Henley to Bexley Zoning Board was approved by council at its Tuesday night meeting.

Henley, of 971 S. Remington, fills the vacancy created by the death of Jim Eicher last summer.

Council also heard a request for permission to construct a four-family apartment on Ferndale, and approved legislation banning parking near the intersections of Cassingham and Fair, and Dale and Cassingham.

Developer Jack Weiner, making his fourth return visit to council to request a permit to construct a four-family apartment on two lots on Ferndale, fared no better than he had on previous tries.

He was told that the 11,200 square footage of the two lots was under the required 14,000 square foot minimum for a four-family unit.

Weiner's first request for an eight-family apartment on the lots, zoned for two-family dwellings, dropped to a bid for a six-family structure.

When he learned Tuesday night that the only possibility for constructing a four-unit building on the tract was rezoning procedures, complete with a public hearing, Weiner conceded defeat and settled for a two-family structure.

He had pointed to the higher expense involved in laying deeper foundations on the lots, since they are located over the city's old landfill, in requesting permission for a multi-family dwelling.

The parking ban on the two corners near Bexley Schools has been in effect since Sept. 24, after it was requested as a safety measure for children crossing at the intersection.

It has been enforced on a temporary basis until council had time to pass legislation making the ban permanent.

Motor Buses Will Service East Broad

East Broad-st bus patrons soon will enjoy the convenience of motor bus transportation replacing the present trolley bus service. The proposal by the Columbus Transit Company for upgrading the W. Broad-st service was approved Monday night by Columbus City Council.

Under the plan for replacing the W. Broad-st section of the Broad-Oak-st line, the West Broad and East Broad lines will merge. The Oak-st section of the operation will remain as trolley bus service.

The new plan is expected to become effective about Dec. 15. Confirmation of the effective date and the route and schedule changes will be announced soon by CTC officials.

Speed Limit Request Made

Columbus Traffic and Transportation Commission has requested the State Highway Department to generalize a 25-m.p.h. speed limit on Astor-av, from James-rd to Waverly.

In other action, the commission ruled they will no longer hear requests for additional exits or entrances at E. Broad-st at Shoppers Fair Store or Courtright-rd at Livingston.

GOP THEME: UNITY

Moling Will Accept Whitehall Tax Post

By FRANK RYAN

Whitehall Mayor Bill Holzhause and former mayor Walter B. Moling have apparently altered their head-on crash course for the 1965 GOP primary. And Senator Barry M. Goldwater may well be the one to blame (or credit).

The specter of national election results on Nov. 3 has made "UNITY" the key word with most local Republicans who are planning 1965 campaign strategy. And right now, the "odds" are much less than "even" on a Maytime showdown between the two leading Republican candidates for the mayor's office.

Nobody was talking "for the record" on Tuesday. But the likelihood of Moling becoming Whitehall's next tax commissioner was as apparent as anything ever gets in politics.

The "unity" move is responsible for the offer to Moling of jobs within the administrative branches of city government. He was offered the job of tax commissioner by Treasurer Francis (Red) Shaeffer, and asked by Holzhause if he would accept the post of service director.

Moling gave a flat turndown to the possibility of becoming service director, but considers the tax job as "still open" to him. And he says he's "still considering it."

Moling, who served as mayor for eight years before his whisker (49-vote) loss to Holzhause in 1963, had also served as Whitehall treasurer for eight years.

Past Experience Cited

Those who urged him to accept the tax collector's job cite his experience as treasurer and another 23 years as secretary to a coal company. They say these jobs have given him a background in both administration and accounting.

The post of tax commission-

Discharged Policeman Appeals His Dismissal

John A. Clark, dismissed from the Whitehall Police Force last week for "misconduct that reflected back on the Department," Tuesday filed an appeal with the Civil Service Commission.

The charges stemmed from an off-duty incident that occurred on Oct. 23 and he, along with Police Officer Al Ballenger, were suspended from the force two days later, pending outcome of departmental hearings.

Ballenger was notified this week by Safety Director Darrell Todd that he had also been found guilty of misconduct, on charges that he "hindered departmental investigation of the incident," and he was given 15 days suspension without pay.

The days started at the time of his suspension, Oct. 25, and Ballenger is due to report back to duty Sunday, Nov. 15.

Clark's appeal, based on seven points, was filed by his attorney, James Maxwell, and will be heard within ten days, according to Civil Service Commissioner Joseph Shannon.

Under Ohio's Civil Service laws, any suspension of more than five working days can be appealed to the Civil Service Commission, who may concur with the findings, amend the findings, or reverse the decision.

Both Todd and Clark have the further right to appeal the commission's decision to the Court of Common Pleas.

Other members of the commission, in addition to Chairman Shannon, are Mrs. Idola Keller and Sylvester Pittman.

Clark was to have received the letter notifying him of dismissal Nov. 4, but couldn't be located on that day. The the letter was delivered later.

Two Rezonings Gain Council Nod

Area zoning public hearings before Columbus City Council Monday night resulted in two approvals, one rejection and a tabling action.

Council authorized a zoning change for the southwest corner of Lvingston-av and Brice-rd from single-family to two-family residential to permit construction of twin-single units. The existing commercial designation was also changed to permit operation of a service station and construction of a bank building.

Also approved was the rezoning of a tract of land on the northeast corner of E. Broad-st and the Reynoldsburg-New Albany-rd from Restricted Rural Residential to a C-4 Commercial designation. The change will permit construction of a motel, bowling alley and stores.

Denied by council was a request to rezone 26 lots on

Judges Pick Four Homemaker Winners

Did you ever have a secret you just couldn't keep?

We have at The Spectator. We weren't supposed to announce our Suburban Homemaker winners until next week. But we just can't wait.

The four ladies selected by the judges to represent Hartley Newspapers Nov. 18-20 in Chicago at the national Suburban Homemakers Contest are: Mrs. Roy Vonlns, 51 S. Brinker-av; Mrs. Robert Arnold, 72 W. Main-st, Hilliard; Mrs. Lindley Kumler, 891 Linwood-av and Mrs. Paul Morris, 78 N. Plum Ridge-rd, Reynoldsburg.

In Chicago, the ladies will compete with other homemakers from all over these United States for the title, "Suburban Homemaker of the Year" and the grand prize is $5000.

The four local homemaker winners will be sent to the Windy City as guests of The Spectator. Mrs. Glenna DeWitt and Mrs. Patty Jones will accompany the homemakers as Spectator hosts.

In next week's Spectator, the ladies will be honored in a special Homemaker Section.

Mayor, Cabinet Set Neighborhood Forum

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner and his cabinet members will be asked for answers to a wide range of near East area problems at their Neighborhood Forum meeting Wednesday, Nov. 18, 7:30 p.m. at First English Lutheran Church, E. Main-st at 22nd-st.

East-Central Area Council, with a membership of more than 1000 families, will sponsor the program. Everyone in the area is urged to attend.

This will mark the 14th time the mayor and his heads of municipal government will "go to the people" in a Neighborhood Forum, for a frank view and review of a localized civic situation, specific problems and their solutions.

Council President Linwood Walker outlined as topics to be discussed with Mayor Sensenbrenner and his administrative heads, such problems as:

RECREATION — generally city plans for recreation and park facilities on the East Side, and in particular whatever plans may be under consideration for improving or building on the Blackburn Playground at 18th and Richsts.

POLICE — generally city plans for greater police protection on the East Side, and in particular the possibility of having foot patrolmen on Oak-st between Parsons and Miller, and closer observation of trouble spots on Oak at 18th, Wilson and Miller-avs. Also, what steps can be taken to handle problems created by youth attending the Rollerland Skating Rink at 18th and Mound-sts.

TRAFFIC — what changes if any the city is planning with the completion of the East Freeway.

EXPRESSWAY—what can be done about dirt which falls from trucks carrying diggings away from the East Freeway.

LIGHTING—generally the need for better and more street lights will be discussed with many residents now afraid to leave home at night.

SANITATION — progress city has had with getting old, abandoned cars off streets. These now cause health probwith seating for 1600.

Big productions, playing for perhaps several weeks would be shown, with some movies presented on a reserved seat basis, Sugarman explained.

The request for a special permit for construction of a car wash at 3850 E. Main-st, applied for by Richard F. Broughton, would take six affirmative votes by council since the measure was turned down by Planning and Zoning.

With the absence of Councilman Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, recovering from back surgery, the vote would have to be unanimous as there are presently only six active councilmen.

Westphal-av residents appeared at a public hearing held by the Service Committee before council meeting Saturday afternoon, to protest proposed legislation for the improvement of the street by paving and the construction of curbs, gutters, sidewalks, storm sewers and drains.

The action was proposed to relieve homes on E. Mound-st whose basements are periodically flooded from water backing up from Westphal.

The ordinance was tabled indefinitely, and Haytcher was instructed to prepare new legislation for the construction of storm sewers only.

Moling—

er pays $7,200 annually, just $800 less than that of mayor. Appointment to the tax post will save Moling the expense of running for office and will be considerably less demanding than the responsibilities that go with sitting in the mayor's chair.

Acceptance of the tax post will also save Moling from the prospects of saying "no" to some former appointees, had he regained the mayor's office. Those who had agreed to back a Moling bid for mayor made their support contingent upon denying the return of some of the former mayor's past top appointees.

Beck to Retire

The tax commissioner's job was "officially" up for appointment, with the announced resignation of present jobholder Irvin Beck. Beck said he will put his house up for sale in the spring and will move to Florida and retirement. He said he could delay his resignation until Mar. 1, 1965, if the naming of his successor is delayed beyond Jan. 1.

The offer to Moling of the service director's job carried a more explosive charge, because that job is currently held by a Holzhause appointee, James C. Polzer, who has no intention of resigning.

If Polzer is replaced, it won't be by Moling. The former mayor said he declined the Holzhause offer with the candid comment that he does not consider himself qualified to assume the job.

Polzer's less-than-secure reign as service director stems in part from persistent rumors that he may be preparing to enter the GOP mayoralty primary. Polzer has just as persistently denied that he has given the matter any "serious thought." He maintains that his only present interest is to "do a good job" as service director.

And even those who accuse Polzer of less-than-100-percent loyalty to Mayor Holzhause are quick to credit him with being an able and dedicated service director. Republicans concerned with party "unity" are hopeful that the mayor and his top appointee will meet soon for an "air clearing" session which will decide the issue "one way or the other."

Rezone—

Council tabled for further study a request to rezone the east side of McNaughten-rd, north of E. Main-st, from Restricted Rural Residential to Rural Residential.

'STARS' TO SHINE AT JOHNSON PARK

A CHORUS LINE of dubious grace and pulchritude will be featured in Johnson Park Junior High's annual variety show, "A Night Of Stars," planned Thursday and Friday, Nov. 12 and 13, 7:30 p.m. at the school. Tickets, usually a sell-out for both nights, should be purchased in advance from any member of the cast or at the school, at 75 cents each. If any are still available, they will be sold at the door. The cast for the production numbers more than 350. From left, Christy Batteiger, Rosemary White and Doug Turner, critically eye an impromptu rehearsal by chorus line members, Mike McClain, Chuck Depoy and Mike Crews. The review is directed by John Davis, vocal music, and Glenn Herriman, instrumental. Proceeds are used to buy supplies for the school's music department.

LIONS UP TO THEIR OLD TRICKS

THE TV SET presented to Siebert Street School by the Southeast Lions is the end result of the sale of last year's Lions Roar. The annual distribution of this newspaper has permitted the Lions to make more than 300 visits to southeast schools, leaving behind them equipment which enriches the curricula. The number of schools that will hear the Lions' knock at their door this year depends upon the generosity of the public when the organization hits the streets with the 1964 edition Friday, Dec. 4. From left are Lion Herb Germain, Principal Nettie M. McAllister, Mrs. Jack Hickman, who serves as PTA president, and Lions John Marshall, John Lane, Jim Wagner and Carl Snedaker.

Growing Hope Baptist Plans Revival, Building

Revival services will be conducted at Hope Baptist Church, 3556 Noe-Bixby-rd, Nov. 16-22, according to Rev. Norman Bosworth, pastor. A different speaker has been scheduled nightly at 7:30 p.m.

Slated to speak are: Pastor Clark Spaulding, First Baptist Church, Lancaster, Nov. 16; Pastor Vernon Billington, Memorial Baptist Church, Columbus, Nov. 17; Rev. Earl Umbaugh, Stow, O., State Missionary for the Ohio Association of Regular Baptist Churches, Nov. 18; Rev. William Brock, Immanuel Baptist Church, Columbus, Nov. 19; Pastor Martin Holmes, Grace Baptist Church, Sunbury, Nov. 20.

On Sunday, Nov. 22, Baptist Mid-Missions missionary Ben Kendrick will speak at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Kendrick is a veteran missionary who served in what is now the Central African Republic.

Special music will be provided by talent from the local church, directed by Del Moore, Jr., The nursery will be open.

Hope Baptist Church is a newly organized church having been in operation only three months. The church has purchased three acres of land on the southwest corner of Watkins-rd and new highway Rt. 33 where construction of a new building will begin immediately.

A full schedule of services is being conducted each week with Sunday School classes for all age groups, pre-school junior church, nursery facilities, and children's classes along with adult Bible study and prayer meeting on Wednesday nights.

Pastor Norman Bosworth extends an invitation to all interested persons to attend the revival services and all the regular services of the church.

Wins First Prize In Art Contest

Ralph Edward Williams, 1963 and '64 outstanding art student at Eastmoor High, has been awarded first prize and $500 in Seventeen magazine's annual international art contest.

A scholarship student at the Columbus College of Art and Design, the 18-year-old Williams won over 231 finalists chosen to illustrate top stories from the magazine's annual short story contest.

His painting of water colors, oils and lead casings for the story, "The Beginning," required heating by torch so that the hard casings could be melted and smoothed into the composition. It will appear in Seventeen's January, 1965, issue.

Williams, of 72 N. Washington-av, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams.

He became interested in art during his junior year at Eastmoor, and has received blue ribbon awards for industrial art projects. Last spring he had a one-man exhibit at Ohio State University that included 15 abstract paintings, pottery and sculpture.

He hopes to become a commercial artist.

HOUSING INSPECTION—pleased with the progress achieved in one of the city's first two pilot housing code enforcement programs, council will seek to have housing inspections extended in East Side.

Mayor Sensenbrenner has pointed out that from the first 12 neighborhood forums, plus more than 100 individual meetings with citizens and mayor, the administration decided on what priorities to give the city capital improvement campaign, which resulted in the passage of five of six bond issues.

BEXLEY'S '64 LINE STANDOUTS

DON DEJONG'S Lions were known for their hard-nosed play on defense this fall but Bexley also received some fine blocking efforts from these seven gridders. The Bexley line includes (from left): End Fred Grimm, tackle Tom Williamson, guard Dave Herwald, center Jim Nowacki, guard Chris Harbold, tackle Bob Simcox and end Tim Greiner.

FROM THE HEART OF HARTLEY'S LINE

THE HAWKS played a rough schedule this year but the Eastside eleven rose to the occasion every week and made their presence felt in the Central Catholic League behind the all-around play of these twelve boys. The Hawk linemen include (front row, from left): Senior guard Joe Filippi, junior tackle Mike Federer, senior guard John Bayly, junior end Jerry McElvenny, senior tackle Pat Burkey and senior tackle Ray Riley. Back row: senior 'backer Ray Posey, junior linebacker George McNamara, soph halfback Danny McKeever, soph halfback Jerry Dill, senior 'backer Joe Kuhner and junior 'backer John Kuskowski.

FRIDAY FINALE AS . . .

Rosary Quits Football; Enrollment Blamed

Rosary's grid date at Centerburg Friday night will mark the school's final inter-school football game.

Crusader coach and athletic director Steve French announced this week that the Berkeley-rd school will drop football with the close of the '64 season.

A drop in male enrollment was listed as the reason for the departure of Rosary from the present Franklin County League alignment. The varsity roster listed only 24 gridders this season.

The school will compete in all other competitive sports (basketball, baseball and track).

French added that the sport would be renewed at the school in the event of increased enrollment by 1966.

Rosary's last period as a football power closed in 1960 as the Crusaders notched their second consecutive FCL title. The team went undefeated both in '59 and '60, going unscored upon the former season.

The school compiled better than 30 trophies during the period between '57-'60.

Otterbein-Cap Grid Rivalry Set For Renewal Saturday

This is the week that will be. A fine Capital team, boasting a 6-1 record, meets a fine Otterbein team, 6-2, in the 38th renewal of an arch-rivalry that is the season's finale for both elevens. The Otters have a 20-17-1 edge in the series that originated in 1894.

The Crusaders, conquerors in their last five outings with the latest a 43-3 bit over Wooster, come to the game on the hard running legs of their "M and M" boys, fullback Gordon McMaken and halfback Jim Makar, and the pass-run artistry of quarterback Ron Paxson, plus one of the most improved offensive lines in the conference.

PAXSON, who has played but the equivalent of four games this season, leads the Crusaders in total offense with 577 yards — 254 on the ground, 323 in the air. Close behind is McMaken with 542 yards, all rushes — 91 of them. Makar, leading team scorer with 36 points, has rushed for 266 yards, caught nine passes for 77 yards, returned punts seven times for 78 yards and kick-offs three times for 93 yards.

Against Wooster, he pounded for 68 yards, returned a punt 58 yards for a TD, collared one pass for 21 yards, a performance that netted his 142 yards in all.

Statistics show that when Cap meets the Otters, it will be the number one rushing team against the number

Rams-Hartley Tilt Closes '64 Campaign

East made like a magician last week as the Tigers transformed five Brookhaven fumbles into a 13-6 win and their first City League championship in nine years.

The Tigers, in spite of one fumble and a -14 yards mark rushing in the first frame, played ferociously on defense and got six-point scoring from quarterback Paul Stith who sneaked one yard for the score after East hopped on a Bearcat bobble on the B-H 18 in the third quarter.

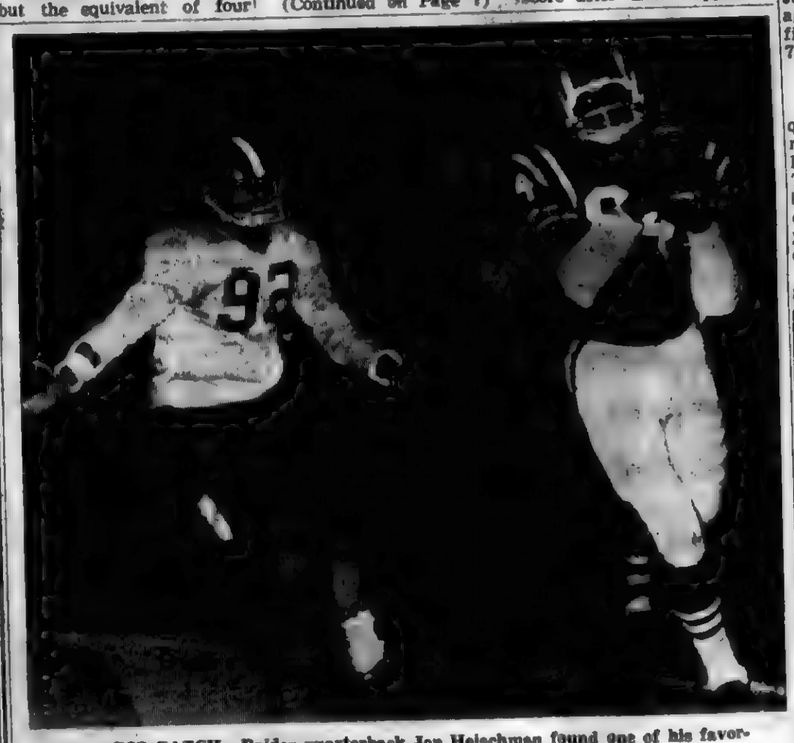
THE TIGER clincher came in the last frame as Kent Schoolfield caught his sixth TD toss in the loop from halfback Chuck Wright after East recovered another B-H miscue on the Bearcat 42.

Wright converted and the Aureallius Thomas - coached Tigers emerged with their 20th City League title. Rugged middle guard Willie Jackson led the East defense again and helped the Tigers finish 9-0 for the season and 7-0 in the circuit.

EASTMOOR 38, NORTH 14

Eastmoor's 16-point first quarter was all the Warriors needed as speedster Ron Eiland couldn't be contained. The esstwhile track hurdler broke loose for three scores on runs of 60, 45 and 30 yards and added a conversion catch from Jerry Groves.

Other E-M scores were logged by quarterback Jerry Groves who galloped 20 yards on an option play and tossed 35-yards to halfback Mike Allen for another six-pointer.



Kirk Sweet and fullback Ron Bollie caught conversion passes to round out the Warrior scoring that gave E-M a 4-3 slate in the City and 4-5 mark overall.

WHITEHALL 7, GRANDVIEW 6

Grandview's backfield speed was reduced to a standstill last week as Whitehall's rock-like defensive wall stymied the Bobcats to a single score in the second period as Tom Holden gathered in a Steve Fekete bomb and cruised in for the score and a 6-0 G-C lead at intermission.

Jim Bline's spirited Rams couldn't get on the board until the last quarter when Tom Barton weaved and dodged for a six-yard score, Guard Jim (The Toe) Rodenmayer split the uprights with the conversion kick and the Rams upped their season

BIG CATCH—Raider quarterback Jon Heischman found one of his favorite targets, end Harold Mattingly, in the clear on this first period pass pattern Friday at Academy and clicked with the senior receiver for a 21-yard gainer that earned Reynoldsburg its first touchdown. Raiders added five additional scores later, winning 42-12.

EASTMOOR'S '64 PACESETTERS

BROILED CURRY BUTTERED POTATOES

½ cup butter (one stick)
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 to 1½ teaspoons of curry powder, as desired
6 medium-sized raw potatoes, peeled

Melt butter in small pan, stir in salt, pepper and curry powder. Cut potatoes into lengthwise sticks about twice as thick as French fried potatoes. Lay potatoes in a single layer on a foil lined broiler pan. Brush generously with curry butter. Broil about 5 inches from heat source until potatoes are tender and attractively browned (about 10 minutes). Turn potatoes, brush with curry butter and brown remaining side, about 10 minutes. Makes six servings.

The Fabric Doctor
"Do Modern Fabrics Catch Fire Spontaneously?"
—MRS. S.I.D.

Dear Mrs. S. I. D.:

Some do. You or a friend may have had the experience. A number of drycleaners and launderers did until they learned how to avoid such fires.

Many modern garments and articles of wearing apparel have rubberized linings or pads to stiffen or form them. Some of these are hidden from view and the labels won't tell you they are there. When these garments are taken hot from a dryer and left in a hamper or bundle, the other garments insulate them. Heat builds up and you have a blaze started. The same thing can occur with some of our modern non-woven fabrics.

Many a drycleaning plant or laundry has been destroyed by such fires started after the garments were dried and wrapped in bundles or left in hampers overnight to be finished the next morning. They were. So was the plant. The same thing can happen in your home if these garments are bundled up or packed in a hamper while still hot from the dryer.

So when removing garments from a dryer, make certain that they have been aired and cooled before packing them away or stuffing them in a basket or hamper. You may avoid a tragedy by this simple precaution.

Latin Club Holds Initiation In Roman Way, Togas Et Al

By SANDY SANDERS

The Walnut Ridge Chapter of Junior Classical League held its initiation Nov. 4.

Trumpeters, Dave Amstutz and Elson Lefever, announced the arrival of the 37 initiates who were instructed to bring apples and to wear paper chains on their wrists.

Flag bearer, Michael Scoles, carrying a purple banner, preceded the high priest, Tony Biscuso. After his welcoming speech, Tony introduced the Four Spirits of Latin Club.

Sue Tatman, Spirit of Latin I, lit the first candle and told the newcomers to "journey back to the seven hills of Rome." The Second Spirit, Lynn Stephenson, also dressed in a toga as were the others, lit the second of four candles on the purple and yellow decorated altar and said, "You will come to me well-informed and I will tell you of the life and customs of ancient Rome."

Lighting the third candle, Spirit Judy Rhodes said, "During your third year in Latin, you will study the life of the great poet Cicero."

"The highest goal is fourth year Latin," said Spirit of Latin IV, Suzanne Fisher.

As high priest, Tony lit the Fire of Interest which was surrounded by the four candles lit by each of the spirits. He then pulled from his toga the Knife of Study and warmed it over the Fire of Interest.

The high priest used the Knife of Study to cut open each initiate's apple, to insure good studying habits. To promote interest in Latin class, the initiates dropped their apple seeds into the Fire of Interest.

After the apples were eaten, everyone joined the high priest in the Classical League Pledge. The last requirement before becoming a full-fledged member was to take off the chains and place them on the altar.

Under the direction of Paul Stein, Latin teacher and sponsor of Junior Classical League, the Latin students made the paper chains worn by the initiates. The togas were made and brought by the flag bearer, high priest and the four spirits.

Other members of Latin Club are Joanne VerBurg, Grace Dickson, Hazel Johnston, Carolyn Shaheen and JoAnn Richardson.

Karl Kack, Gary Wilkings, Gail Reddetson, Tom Reddig, Neil Hirsch and John Knouff witnessed the initiation.

CITIZENS OF THE MONTH

WALNUT RIDGE Junior-Senior High students, chosen as Citizens of The Month for November are, at left, Sandy Sanders and Tony Biscuso, representing senior high, and Rita Burk and John Kluge, junior high.

To Be In Play

East Side residents taking part in the Independent Players production of "Anything Goes," slated for the Hartman Nov. 19, 20 and 21, include Carol Anthony, Jeannie Boggs, Glenn S. Bittner, Roy J. Coffey, Mary Jo Fallon, Patricia Hardy, Annette Plasterer, Goldie F. Salmons, Shirley Stare and Dick Miles.

Whitehall-Yearling RAM-blings

By SARAH WINGO

Parents' Night was held Nov. 6 for senior band members and Ramettes. It was the last time they performed on their home football field. After the halftime show, senior band members and senior Ramettes were introduced, with their parents.

Seniors in the band are Kathy Bailey, Ron Bell, Mike Blacker, Darryl Bojanowski, Patti Burgess, Diane Jewell, Vicki Kronk, Edgar Lakey, Bambi Markham, David Millard, Bill Reuter (president), Karlyn Ruble, Tom Shipe (drum major) and Ed Williams.

Senior Ramettes are Sarah Wingo, Karen Roberts (captain), Rita Krystofik and Becky Moses. Corsages were presented to mothers of the seniors.

Mary Hughes, a distributive education senior, was elected president of the Distributive Education Clubs of America of the southeastern region of Ohio, at the annual leadership conference held Nov. 4 at OSU.

The junior class has started plans for the Junior-Senior Prom. Rick Foltz was elected general prom chairman by his class.

Other committee chairmen are Tom Barton, theme; Terri Hiatt and Rhonda Hopkins, floor managers; Willa Hsueh, tickets; Kim Glass and Linda Lamme, art design; Wendy Brummel and Carol Winner, floor design; Glenna Henson, refreshments; Kendall Lewis, finance, and Harvey Eader, construction materials.

Auditions were held Nov. 4 and 5 for casting of the five one-act plays which Yearling Players and National Thespians are putting on to help raise money for the production of "Music Man" this spring.

Future Teachers of America held a bake sale at the school Nov. 3. Approximately $39 was made, Karen Lees, president, said that profit will be used to get speakers for future club meetings.

Eastmoor High School's Warriors' Spear-It

By MARCIA BRUCE and JOYCE FINKE

Due to the general interest in the advantages of the possible construction of a field house in the Eastmoor High School stadium area, a large audience is anticipated for the Athletic Booster meeting to be held in the auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 19.

Preliminary design of the building calls for concessions, public restrooms, ticket offices, and facilities for all outdoor sports.

At the meeting on Nov. 19, a three-dimensional model, as well as the architect's preliminary design, will be shown and discussed.

IS PROMOTED

Charles S. Manns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Manns of 984 Nelson-rd, has been promoted to airman second class in the U. S. Air Force at Homestead AFB, Fla. The airman is a graduate of Eastmoor Junior Senior High School.

Don't forget! Tomorrow night, Friday, Nov. 13, and Saturday night, Nov. 14, "Rebel Without a Cause," the story that brought fame to the late James Dean, will be presented in the Eastmoor auditorium. Curtain time for both performances will be 8 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or by calling BE. 5-3447 and asking for Mr. Wilson, director of dramatics.

The Dramatics Club met Nov. 4 to amend many club rules. It was decided that no member may miss more than three meetings during the school year. Each member must earn at least five points a semester by participating in dramatic activities.

Dramatics Club officers are, president, Dianne Biggs; vice-president, Stuart Tiskkoff; recording secretary, Roger Starrett; corresponding secretary, Suzanne Goldberg, and treasurer, Joyce Finke.

Newly formed Eastmoor Pep Club held a bake sale Nov. 10. Officers are Carol Armstrong, president; Pam Richards, vice-president, and Angela Graves, secretary. The purpose of the club is to promote school spirit.

Bexley High School LION's ROAR

By MIMI DEATON

Letters of commendation will be awarded to 11 Bexley seniors for their performances on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test last spring. Seniors receiving a letter are Mark Bookspan, Steve Broidy, Bill Caplan, Bob Greene, Alan Katz, Mike Melton, Jessie Mordoff, Bob Schwartz, Joel Seiferas, Lynne Skilken and Maury Topolsky.

Recently selected members of the girls' ensemble are Norma Meizlish, Betsy Kearns, Lonny Rosen, Cynthia Thomas, Muguet Smith, Ellen Williams, Diana Harnett, Cathy Smith, Sandy Tilton and Sandra DeLong.

Bill Cohen, Phil Levoff, Dave Johnston, Steve Gutter, Fred Grimm, Jim Davis, Tom Myers, Bob Karr and John Staker are members of the boys' ensemble.

Choir officers are Norma Meizlish, president; Stan Cohen, secretary, and Cynthia Thomas, social chairman. C. Robert Myers is the director.

"The Egg," a cubist painting by Sonya Robbins, is the first painting the Art Club has borrowed from the Columbus Art Gallery and displayed in the lounge. The artist, Miss Robbins, is a 1956 graduate of Bexley.

James Ort, guidance counselor, has initiated and will instruct a new "How to Study" course for freshmen. The class is based on articles from magazines and newspapers. Freshmen will attend twice a week for a period of four weeks.

Mike Talis, senior, was awarded a season basketball pass for correctly picking the winners of four Bexley football games, and most nearly guessing the score of the Bexley-Mt. Vernon game in the TORCH football contest. Mike also won the contest when he was a sophomore.

Goldwater was elected president according to the straw ballot taken recently in Bexley High. The results were 225 for Goldwater and 221 for Johnson. Robert Taft downed Steven Young 306 to 143 for the Senate race.

Bexley students are participating in many club activities. Ollie Murhbeck, the American Field Service student from Sweden, spoke at the French Club meetmg; the Pep Club had a party; Debby Kayne, last year's AFS representative from Bexley to Brazil, spoke at the Y-Teens meeting.

A panel of Bexley teachers answered students' questions at the FTA meeting; Jack Haunty, a commercial artist, addressed the Art Club; members of Dramatics Club acted out skits and played charades at their last meeting; and GAC members formed committees to revise their constitution, formulate a new awards system, and redecorate the GAC lounge.

Students who achieved at least 10 points of "A" and are on the first honor roll are Sandra DeLong, Joyce Devine, Seth Hock, Marc Gertner, Carl Japikse, Jon Kaplan, Carol Lubin, Norma Meizlish, Joel Seiferas and Arlos Shultz, seniors.

Juniors on honor roll are Carol Becker, Cynthia Blatt, Jeff Bloom, Bruce Byrnes, Charles Burkam, Bill Cohen, Judy Engleman, Rosalie Garner, Karen Gingrich, Steve Gutter, Richard Jones, Betsy Kearns, Diane Kreth, Fritz Laird, Phil Levoff, Penny Main, Tom Myers, Louis Pobereskin, Steve Samuels, Linda Schneider, Tom Shafer and Phil Spohn.

Jon Alspaugh, Kim Barkan, Harriet Baker, Beth Cooper, Gary Freidenberg, Sue Germain, Steve Karr, Brian Kotzin, Kurt Krouss, Linda Kreck, Kathy Lackritz, Murray Lamp, John Long, John Main, Suzy Pixley, Jeff Schuster, Sandy Simmons, Sam Webster, Sue Weston and Martha White are sophomores with at least 10 points of "A."

Freshmen on the honor roll are Kenneth Becker, Dianne Frohnauer, Marsha Hallet, Debbie Jo Hawley, Kathy Little, Linda Long, Tom Lutzy, Elizabeth Moras, Rick Pree and Sherry Zox.

YOU WITH THE BLUES
It's time for a light-up! Life gets everybody down every so often. A beau blows up, a promotion passes you by or something awfully important slips away and down goes your heart. Let us help you "go bright." Half the secret is to "think light," stop hunching your shoulders, start lifting your chin and SMILE. Turn on some lights in your imagination and we'll turn them on in your hair.

BRIGHT UP
The moment we lighten your hair, you'll start to feel a lift in your heart. Maybe you'd like us to tip your hair with little glimmers of sunshine. That's the fabulous lift we call "frosting." As we sprinkle sunshine through your hair, your skin takes on a pearly appearance. These tips are especially nice for they need no touch-ups.

BLONDE TOP
Be brave . . . let us make you really blonde. Have you secretly wished you were? Well, why not? Blondes do have fun, get more attention and feel extra-important. New beauty salon 'bleaching' methods are gentle and quick. Bleached hair can be washed with beauty-tones to give you an aura all your own. Don't wait — whisk yourself to the telephone and dial BE. 1-4100! We'll set the date and right away you'll start feeling great.

FROM UNDER THE DRYER
Has anyone told you about our "illusion lighting?" We bring out your best features by lighting hair here and there. Better ask us about it.

Ohio's Flag On Display In Germany

Ohio soldiers stationed somewhere in Germany now can see their state flag as the result of a recent gift by Bexley Post 430, American Legion, in response to a request.

And boys in Pack 369 at the Reformation Lutheran Church, Whitehall, have a new U. S. flag and pole presented by the Legion group.

George C. Lehmkuhl, post Americanism chairman, said the Ohio banner was requested by Maj. Robert Lee Harris of the 318th U. S. Security Agency Bn. for display along with other state flags in a hall and for use in parades.

The U. S flag was presented to Cub Pack 369 at a recent meeting by M. M. Carothers, post publicity officer, and was received by Packmaster Donald Cook.

WOMEN'S DAY SET

PARENTS' RESPONSIBILITY

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6

Ask anyone what his most precious possession is, and he will almost invariably say, "My children." The desire for the welfare of our children enables us to "move mountains". We will do anything, give them anything, if we think it will help them.

The one most important thing we can do for them, however, is to instill in them a love of God, and a desire to obey him. The church can help you in this endeavor, inspire and strengthen you. We invite you to take your family to church this week. It may make a great difference in the life direction taken by your children.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

FOUR-FOR-FOUR IS A PERFECT BA

AS BASEBALL averages go, you can't do better than .1000 percent. That's what an all-winning Three Lad-sponsored team accumulated in four softball leagues this past summer. The Lads-men won titles in the Southview Monday Night, Tuesday Deshler Slo-Pitch, Wednesday Freeway Slo-Pitch and Thursday Eastern Slo-Pitch leagues. The team racked up a 72-8 final mark. Front row (from left): sponsors Tom Richards, Gary Krigbaum and Bob Woodward. Back row: managers Don Laird (Tuesday), Ralph Kelley (Thursday) and Duane Phelps (Wednesday). Missing is Monday night manager Jerry Huddleston.

WAIT TILL NEXT TIME—Academy's Al Unetic (65) put the skids on this punt return by Reynoldsburg's Craig Shade Friday night, driving the Raider runner out of bounds near midfield. Shade showed his heels to the Vikings shortly later, however, streaking down the sidelines for a 69-yard TD on a similar play. Viking pursuer at right is Dan Fouche.

BOUNCY, BOUNCY—The 'ole pigskin was batted around on this first half pass tossed by quarterback Jon Heischman Friday night at Academy. Three Viking defenders got a hand on the hot football but Raider end Harold Mattingly (84) wanted it most, clutching the toes for a Reynoldsburg first down.

McMaken Still 4th In Rushing

Capital's hard-running fullback, Gordon McMaken, continued in fourth place in the Ohio Conference rushing race with a no-loss 542-yard mark on 91 hauls as the Crusaders crushed Wooster, 43-3, last week.

Cap still leads the OC rushing list as a team with an average of 249.1 yards per game and ranks fourth in pass defense by yielding but 73.6 yards per game. Cap currently ranks second in the OC grid standings with Muskingum at 6-1 as the Crusaders prep for Saturday's home fray with arch-rival Otterbein.

and Aquinas in the lineup of parochial high schools to end football competition with the '64 season. Opening of four centralized parochial high schools (Watterson, DeSales Hartley and Ready) in recent years resulted in enrollment drops at all three schools.

Rosary's decision to drop football also once again clouded the FCL picture. Three other loop members are known eager to play elsewhere.

Frank Pennington Top SE Turkey Shooter

Eight Southeast Archers traveled to Lancaster for a turkey shoot recently and Frank Pennington and Don Sheets received turkey awards.

A novelty shoot was also held and Frank Pennington won a pair of turkeys, two pies and a cake with his deadly accurate bow.

Rivalry—

three as Cap leads the conference, averaging 249 yards a game, Otterbein averages 217.5.

In rushing defense Cap ranks seventh, Otterbein fifth. Otterbein holds eighth spot in passing offense, third in pass defense. Cap is fourth in defense. The Crusaders lead the Otters by one notch in the total offense department, fourth and fifth respectively. In total defense the Otters are second, Cap fourth.

"THOSE statistics," pointed out Gene Slaughter, "show what a fine team Otterbein has. In the last part of the season, they've come into their own. Quarterback Dick Reynolds has found himself, after adjusting from playing defense."

Slaughter feels the Otters have the best all-around backfield Cap will face. "Their line is mobile and aggressive. I have every respect that a coach can have for this Otterbein team.

"If we are physically solid, we'll have a 50-50 chance of winning. If we are not, we'll just have to wait and see."

One of the "un-solids" is linebacker Gary Mauller. It required 26 stitches to sew up cuts in his mouth when his chin came into contact with some cleats at Wooster.

And as Slaughter says, "During the last five weeks of the season, I'm always afraid of what I'll find around that corner on Saturday."

"I DON'T believe I can ever remember being a three or four touchdown underdog against a Capital team but I guess that's what we'll be facing this week," commented Otterbein's Bob Agler.

"I saw Capital against Wooster Saturday afternoon and there's no doubt about it, they are a great team . . . they have plenty of depth and have to be the greatest team in Capital's history," Agler continued.

Now Agler and his Otters aren't raising the white flag and offering to surrender . . . that never happens when these two arch rivals meet.

We've played three mutual opponents . . . Capital beat Heidelberg 29-19, we lost by 3; Capital beat Marietta 24-0, we won by 9; and Capital trounced Kenyon 39-7, 10 points more than we defeated them. We're the underdog, perhaps a big underdog . . . but we'll show up Saturday . . . however, I'll guarantee you one thing, we won't be overconfident," Agler smiled.

Martin, Mills Hot Pinsters

June Martin scored a hot 212 singler en route to a 619 season high series at Berwick Plaza Lanes in the Ladies' Refugee League last week while Larry Mills of the Happy Couples loop shot a fine 252-611 combination.

The junior keglers weren't to be shunned, however, as Skip Yassenoff fired a 218-591 setto. The Weekly Honor Roll included the fine Mills and Martin combine along with the high team series set by the Demmiers with a 1011 mark. The Durthlers shot a 2749 team series match while the Ladies' circuit saw the Kenley Players bomb an 867 and the Highlights a 2415 composite.

The Mustangs (764) and the Rockettes (2288) were high in the Mixed Four group with the latter's total a season high. In the Mixed Five set, the B&C Keglers totaled 941 and the Coin-Op Laundry scattered a 2570 bracket.

WMNI To Broadcast Clay-Liston Rematch

WMNI Radio will provide mid-Ohio radio listeners with exclusive live coverage of the Cassius Clay - Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight, Monday, Nov. 16, at 9:45 p.m.

The blow-by-blow account from the Boston Gardens will be given by Russ Hodges with color and commentary added by Van Patrick, Bill Stern and Floyd Patterson.

For the benefit of shift workers, WMNI will broadcast a taped relay of the complete fight at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Capital Five Drills Daily

Coach Whitey Regan rolled out the round ball Monday to the scuffling of some 35 pairs of rubber soled shoes, 15 of them belonging to freshmen.

Capital's first game is Dec. 1 in a home affair against Denison's zone defense, then on to Oxford, O., for a date with Miami's classy man-for-man. So Regan knows his work is cut out for him, especially since the decrease in the overall height of the Crusader squad from last season.

The tallest returning veteran is all-conference forward Jim DeBerry at 6-3, who will be called upon to perform at center this season. Regan plans on going with co-captains John Beach and Dave Veenendaal at the forwards and Dave Mumau at one of the guard posts. The other backspot is open for grabs between Joe Besecker, Gary Walters and sophmore Chuck Gearhiser.

OTHER VETERANS include Jim Claycraft and Les Drewes, both reserve forwards. Regan has to search for a backup man for DeBerry, since receiving the news that candidate Mark Mengering, a 6-5, 200-pound bull off the backboards, has had his athletic activities curtailed for a year under doctor's orders because of a bad back.

Cap plays 10 home games and will be in Akron Rubber City Classic in December. The schedule:

Dec. 1, Denison; Dec. 3, at Miami; Dec. 5, Akron; Dec. 8, at Kenyon; Dec. 12, at Baldwin Wallace; Dec. 19, Marietta; Dec. 22-23, Rubber City Classic; Jan. 7, at Wooster; Jan. 9, at Heidelberg; Jan. 13, Ohio Wesleyan; Jan. 16, Hiram; Jan. 20, Ohio Northern; Jan. 30, Wright Patterson; Feb. 3, at Otterbein; Feb. 6, at Oberlin; Feb. 9, at Wittenberg; Feb. 13, Wilmington; Feb. 16, Muskingum; Feb. 20, at Mt. Union; Feb. 25, 26, 27 and Mar. 2, OAC Tournament.

CBS Speedway Set For Action

CBS speedway had some fast and furious action last week at the blacktopped go-kart oval located four miles north of Lancaster on Rt. 33. Charley Sparks, the local flash, had lots of competition in his super class but the "old pro" came from behind to take three hard-earned wins in a row.

Skip Waterman and Larry McDermott cleaned house in their respective classes last week and CBS expects a capacity turnout this Sunday for the 2 p.m. races.

Other winners last week included Parkersburg (W. Va.) residents Kendall Busch, Dale Fouse and Eldon Guinn; Columbusites Bob and Skip Waterman and Bud Geehring; Lee Emerick of Belpre, George Hansley of Cambridge and Paul Rhymer of Amanda.

Jacobs Cagers In Opening Win

Last Sunday night the powerful Jacobs and Son Moving and Storage five copped their '64 cage opener by a 71-57 count over Dollar Federal with a well-balanced scoring attack led by captain John Gatewood who rimmed 14 points.

Gatewood's chief scoring support came from mates Bob Moore and former OSU cage star Tom Bowman who garnered 12 counters each.

Jacobs will face Dollar Federal again tonight at Hilltonia Junior High and will take to the road to face top-rated Bowman Funeral Home later this weekend.

WOMAN'S WORLD?

Mrs. Fishking Collects $25 In Football Contest

Mrs. Lee Fishking, 1343 Picard-rd, proved for the third time this season that the female of the species can out-guess the male in the realm of football.

Mrs. Fishking won $25 in The Spectator's Football Contest by missing only three of 28 games. The winner admitted she received a generous amount of help from her husband in topping 186 other contest entrants.

Had Mrs. Fishking missed one more game, the tiebreaker would have really come in handy for the Contest Editor since four other contestants were deadlocked at four misses.

Runnerups included: Tom Cotter, 768 S. Warren-av; John S. Buck, 736 Daulton-ct; Anita Carroll, 3585 Cushing-dr and Scott McIntyre, 1665 Carstare-dr.

It was a good week for the entire McIntyre family as Virgil and Mary McIntyre finished close in the running with five misses. Others with five incorrect picks were Eileen Wilson, 78 E. Gates-st, Joe Uhl, 866 E. Stewart-av and Pat Carroll, 3585 Cushing-dr.

If you have yet to compete in The Spectator's Football Contest, remember the season and the contest are drawing rapidly to a close.

You can win up to $100 next week simply by filling out the contest blank and sending it to: Football Contest Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad Street, 43204.

There's nothing to buy. Just enter the winners next to the names of advertisers who carry contest games in their ad blocks.

Regular paid subscribers to The Spectator will double their earnings in the contest.

World food production per person was slightly less in 1963-64 than in 1962-63, despite increases in total food output in the developed regions, according to OSU Extension economists.

Wrap-Up—

mark to 4-3 in the CBL and 6-3 overall.

TOMORROW night the Rams travel next door to Bexley (2-5-1) for a neighborhood scrap with the defensively-tough Hawks, who have slick-handed Tom Schlager at the controls and hard-running backs in Scott French and Joe Gatto.

The match should be a toss-up since Whitehall has some pretty big defenders in Tom Barton, Rick Foultz, Dan Kaufman and Don Gale just to mention a few.

REYNOLDSBURG 42, ACADEMY 12

The Vikings were a victim of a 379 yard offensive by the Raiders who won their fifth straight game since losing to powerful West Jeff, 20-8.

The Raiders scored quick as they held a 6-0 lead with 4:12 gone in the second frame. Academy fumbled and the Raiders scored four plays later. After kicking off, the Raiders got the ball back after three Viking plays.

THE ENSUING punt never touched the ground as Craig Shade ran 70-yards to paydirt to put the game on 'ice' for the Readers.

Viking scores were logged by Dan Fouche who hauled in a 50-yard pass from Herb Lape in the last quarter and by Terry Larrimer who galloped three yards late in the fourth chukker.

The Dick Price eleven finished 2-4-1 in the FCL and 3-4-1 on the campaign following the loss to Reynoldsburg.

ARLINGTON 48, BEXLEY 19

Rick Weber slithered 14 yards and Kenny Stone converted early in the first quarter to give Bexley a brief 7-6 margin to work with but the CBL champs put the game and the CBL title out of reach a short time later with a 21-point second stanza.

Hard - running sophomore Paul Shultz tallied once in the third and fourth quarter but the Lions couldn't pull out the nod and fell to a 1-8 mark overall and a final 1-6 CBL log.

LINDEN 38, WALNUT RIDGE 6

The Panthers scored 18 points in the first half and held on for the win as the Scotties hit the scoreboard one time when all-around quarterback Dave Feyh plowed over from the one-foot chalkline.

The W-R defensive charge was led by little Roy Andrews, Pat Beveridge, John Snider and John Cruse but the Scots still finished 2-5 in the City and 2-7 for the year.

DAYTON ALTER 20, HARTLEY 16

Jack Ryan's tough-luck Hawks were nipped in the final frame last Saturday night at Kettering Fairmont stadium where a vastly-improved Alter club scored a final six-pointer on a 24-yard pass play.

Hartley took an 8-0 lead in the first quarter on a five-yard run by Scott French and a conversion pass catch by end Dick Timko. Hartley's final score came in the last inning when French hit the line on a dive and junior end Larry Irwin caught the PAT pass.

THE LOSS lowered Hartley's season slate to 2-5-1 going into tomorrow night's rivalry battle with Whitehall (6-3). Offense will be the key to the game since both clubs have established defensive records and the final outcome will be on the board.

Foreign trade in livestock, meat and meat products in 1963 showed exports amounted to $364 million, compared to $319 million in 1962. Most of the increase was in pork, according to OSU Extension economists.

DECA WEEK, observed throughout the country from Nov. 8 to 14, is also marked in Whitehall, honoring Whitehall-Yearling's 54 Distributive Education Clubs of America's members and supporting the Distributive Education program. From left are, seated, William Ruth, DE coordinator at Whitehall-Yearling, and Mayor William Holzhause, signing the proclamation, and in back, Austin Peel, Whitehall High principal; and DE students, Danny Deardurff, Dan McCarty, sergeant-at-arms; Ron Shadrick, vice-president; Ray Strasbaugh, president, and Mary Hughes, newly-elected president of the 21-county southeastern region, DECA.

Whitehall High's Mary Hughes Heads Southeast Region DECA

Whitehall High senior Mary Hughes became the latest of the school's Distribute Education students to distinguish herself and bring honors to the school, with her election as regional president of DECA, Nov. 4.

The election was part of the annual leadership conference held at Ohio State University, with 31 DE Departments from a 21-county area attending.

Last year, Whitehall-Yearling's Glenna Henson was named the outstanding DE student in Ohio.

In 1962, Whitehall Chapter was ranked among the top three in the state, and Bill Schaaf placed third in the state advertising contest. Bob Speakman won the same award in '61.

Mary, daughter of Mrs. Nannie Hughes, 211 Parklawn-blvd, will preside over regional meetings, and be a member of the Executive Committee of the State Association of DECA, a planning group of all affairs related to DECA.

She will work with educators, business leaders and students, and help in preparation of the State Leadership Conference, to be held in Columbus in March.

A half-day of school attendance, and a half-day of employment is part of the DECA educational program, designed to train young people for proficiency in marketing and distribution.

Mary is employed at the Union, Town and Country, and plans to attend Ohio State University after graduation.

Whitehall Chapter, DECA, chartered in 1957 was at that time one of only five in the county.

There are now 115 chapters in the state with a total of 2600 DE students, and 1700 chapters in the country, with a total enrollment of 50,000.

DE students have an opportunity to develop leadership abilities through school, community and business outlets, and compete among themselves in advertising, display, sales demonstrations, public speaking, merchandise information, job interviewing, parlimentary law, marketing projects and business vocabularies.

Winners at district contests are eligible to enter state competition, and finalists go to the national DECA convention, held in Chicago in April.

This year, Whitehall DECA students have been invited by Mayor William Holzhause to conduct the city's government for one day in January, with students filling each official position.

They will also help repair toys at Christmas for distribution to children in the community, appear before local civic organizations, help a local pharmacy inventory the story, and conduct an employe-employer banquet in cooperation with Cooperative Office Education and Diversified Cooperative Training Classes at the school.

Last year, Whitehall DECA expanded to two DE programs, with W. B. Ruth and Robert E. Smith as coordinators. First coordinator, when the charter was chartered in 1957, was John Barton.

WHITEHALL RECREATION

Basketball Leagues, Programs Under Way

Last Wednesday evening, Whitehall adult men's basketball league got under way at E. Main-st school. There will be three games of pre-season in November.

In the first game, Whitehall Coaches defeated Shady Lane Presbyterian Church 59-32. Gene McEndree was high scorer with 18 points for the Coaches.

Willow Haven Trailer Court 66, Bope team 46. Don Harrison was high with 29 points. Slims 36, Brennons Bar 35. Steve Mills was high with 19 points, Red Devils 56, Norton Church of Christ 33, with Ray Roehrenbeck of the Red Devils high with 19 points, were the other results.

Registration is still open for the young adult league on Tuesday at Rosemore Junior High. Men 19 through 26 years may contact Edward Metzger at Rosemore. The gym will be open every Tuesday evening for free play until league gets under way.

JUNIOR BOYS

There are openings in the league for boys in the seventh and eighth grades, playing every Wednesday evening at Rosemore, 7 to 10 p.m.

WOMEN

The Women's program is every Thursday evening at Whitehall Yearling in the boys' gym. Miss Charlotte Bassnett teaches slimnastics, body mechanics, volleyball, basketball, trampoline and recreation games. The program will start at 7:30 p.m. There is no charge.

ADULT DANCE

Adult round and square dance is planned Saturday, Nov. 28, at the Municipal building from 8 to 11 p.m. Ernie Winnestaffer will call Eastern and Western square dances. This program is free of charge.

SATURDAY

Saturday recreation program for elementary age youngsters will be held at the Whitehall-Yearling High School, 9 to 12.

Rosemore Junior High School is open to all boys and girls 9 a.m. to 12. Activities under the leadership of Chuck Nielsen, include tumbling and basketball.

SENIOR BOYS

Boys in the ninth through 12th grades may report Wednesday evening at the boys' gym, 7 to 9 p.m. for basketball.

NEW LOW PRICED HEARING AMPLIFIER PERFECTED

Hearing is rapidly becoming the most neglected of the senses. Thousands of Ohioans having sub-normal hearing live with mounting strain and tension because they cannot afford expensive aids.

A PERSONAL AMPLIFIER has just been perfected that offers new hope to these people. Designed for those who can hear when sounds are louder and for those who can hear but do not always understand, this tiny compact unit can provide the help people need to live full active lives. Weighing only a third of an ounce, without wires or cords, this amazing electronic marvel hides behind the ear. Space-age techniques make it possible to offer the PERSONAL AMPLIFIER at a very small fraction of the cost of a hearing aid.

IMPORTANCE TO THE COMMUNITY

DECA members have made numerous studies and surveys to aid the economic development of their own community. Creative marketing projects continue to encourage this type of contribution.

Many businesses favor hiring DE students because of their interest in the job and their related school study of that particular business. Many leaders in business and government have praised DECA for its civic-related activities.

IMPORTANCE TO THE STUDENT

DE students have common objectives and interests in that each is studying for a specific career objective. Club activities have a tremendous psychological effect upon the attitudes of students, and many have no other opportunity to participate in necessary social activities of the school or to develop responsibilities of citizenship.

DECA members learn to serve as leaders and followers, and have opportunity for state and national recognition that they would not have otherwise.

THE DECA EMBLEM

The emblem is diamond shaped with the words "Distributive Education Clubs of America" surrounding a wrapped package. The four diamond points symbolize:

- VOCATIONAL UNDERSTANDING
- CIVIC CONSCIOUSNESS
- SOCIAL INTELLIGENCE
- LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

The wrapped package symbolizes the close cooperation of student, teacher, parent and merchant in assisting DE students to acquire a well-rounded education.

IMPORTANCE TO THE SCHOOL

DECA Chapter activities are always school-centered, thus contributing to the school's purpose of preparing well-adjusted, employable citizens. Chapter activities serve the teacher-coordinator as a teaching tool by creating interest in all phases of marketing and distribution study, and serve as an avenue of expression for individual talent.

The Chapter is the 'show window' for student achievement and progress. It attracts students to the DE program who are interested in marketing and distribution careers, and assists in subject matter presentation.

Boy Scout News

By CARL JAPIKSE

Jeff Macklin

An East Side Boy Scout will be presented the Eagle award, the highest rank in scouting, at a formal Court of Honor to be held by Troop 166, Monday, Nov. 16.

Jeff Macklin of Bexley, will be awarded the badge by Harold Mason, district executive. The Eagle presentation speech will be given by T. Kline Hamilton, president of the Diamond Milk Company.

Jeff has been active in scouting for three years. At present he is serving as assistant senior patrol leader in Troop 166.

A freshman at Bexley High School, Jeff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Macklin, 81 S. Cassingham.

Among the other awards to be presented at the court of honor, Carl Japikse will receive an Eagle Palm; Steve Nelson, John White and Richard Bagley will be awarded Star; Grant Drennon will be presented Second Class; and Jeff Harriman, Edward Hart and Michael Mendlin will be inducted into the troop.

Leadership Training

Leadership training for cubbers and scouters in the White Oaks District was held last Tuesday and Wednesday at the FTD Building, Lockbourne AFB.

Dr. A. J. Weiner, leadership training chairman for the district, led the conference in which the basic functions of cubbing and scouting were discussed. The main emphasis was placed on the necessity for good den and patrol meetings.

Advanced leadership training will be offered Dec. 1-2.

Reynoldsburg, Marion-Franklin Bands In Show

The Reynoldsburg High School Band, directed by John Nawrocki, and the Marion-Franklin High School Band, under the direction of Charles Geedey, will be among the 12 bands from Central Ohio high schools participating in the third annual High School Band Day Show at halftime of the Denison-Kenyon football game Saturday at Denison's Deeds Field.

The show, featuring some 750 marchers, will be under the direction of John Durst, Granville and Myron Pearce, Newark High School.

In its three-year history, Band Day at Denison has tripled in size from four bands in the 1962 inaugural to this year's 12 participants.

In Play Cast

Cynthia Husted, a graduate of Eastmoor High School, is in the cast of "Once Upon a Mattress," University Theater play presented at Denison University, Granville, Nov. 3 through 7.

A senior, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Husted, former residents of Columbus now of Middletown.

POTTS ON TAIWAN

Potts recently participated in Exercise Sky Soldier VI, a nine-day coordinated Republic of China and U.S. Army exercise conducted on the island of Taiwan.

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

"That Was the Week That Was" is back with us for a new season on NBC. It is one of the major miracles of modern television that it is still on the air because it manages to fang the Establishment in some rather touchy areas.

There are two things that I like about this lively newssatire: (1) It demands a certain degree of intelligence in its audience and if you don't do your homework by reading the papers, you'll miss the fun.

(2) You may laugh at the treatment others are getting, but don't be smug because eventually they'll get around to you! (Generally speaking it seems tasteless only when the mirror is held up to oneself.)

Few Fortresses

In the opening program most of the old gang was back including the Britisher David Frost and together they managed to poke fun at the following:

Politics: "Senator Goldwater indicated that he might make Richard Nixon Secretary of State if elected. Other probable appointments: He will send Senator Javits to Egypt, Senator Keating to Cuba, and Governor Rockefeller back to his first wife."

Sex: "They've published the love letters of President Harding but the shocking thing is some of them were addressed to Calvin Coolidge."

"TW3" has been given a brighter setting and the color helps but its major problem is still one of taste. There are very few fortresses that cannot be tumbled by satire and wit. But there is something to be said for the British version, which is off the air at present. The political stuff is far too one-sided.

'Mickey' Worst

After viewing the premiere of "Mickey" I rashly called it the worst comedy show of the new season. It is not. I have just watched something called "Gilligan's Island" and it is so preposterously bad that it makes Mickey Rooney look like Sir Laurence Olivier.

It is difficult for me to believe that "Gilligan's Island" was written, directed and filmed by adults. For CBS to have scheduled this dog at prime time Saturday marks a new low in the network's estimate of the public intelligence — and it was already low indeed.

Judging from the advance information, director John Rich was aiming at "zany comedy." Writers Lawrence Cohen and Fred Freeman presented him with something so corny it would have been rejected by a junior high school drama class.

The plot concerns seven castaways and their efforts to get off a tropical isle after their day-excursion boat has been wrecked on the island's reef. Presumably they aren't more than a day's sail away from home port, but it is more than a day's sail from being funny.

Avarice Alone

The cast is heavily larded with actors who should know better. I can only assume they were motivated by avarice alone. Bob Denver as Gilligan was funny when he had amusing lines written for him in "Dobie Gillis," but not here.

Alan Hale as his skipper is robustly unamusing. Jim Backus plays an empty-headed capitalist — a role that hasn't been seen since Communist infiltration of the movies in the thirties tried to make the rich look silly.

Natalie Schafer, Tina Louise, Russel Johnson and Dawn Wells are also involved. It is a disaster that will likely succeed because it is programmed following the popular Jackie Gleason Show and it has been proved that some people are too lazy to get up and switch the dial.

She walks and talks but doesn't say "Mama." "My Living Doll" is unusual for two things: the good looks of Julie Newmar and the bad make-up of Robert Cummings. Like most of the new situation comedies, it is more "situation" than comedy.

Miss Newmar plays a robot left in the custody of bachelor Cummings. There is no question of the beauty of her construction. Indeed, this young robot has everything going for her and there's a lot there to move. Encased in this lovely piece of machinery is a mechanical brain that has been fed 1,575,700 facts. Furthermore, she does what she is told.

As any fool bachelor can plainly see, this is the sort of raw material from which could be molded the perfect woman. Cummings — who always plays the bachelor fool — is immediately aware of the possibilities when this transistorized doll is left in his custody. This is the situation.

First TV Break

The situation rolls along happily enough, largely because of Miss Newmar's projection — if that is the word, and I think it is. This is her first TV break and she deserves it.

I first met her when she was playing "Stupefyin' Jones" in the Broadway production of "Li'l Abner" and her agent asked if I minded sharing a cab with a starlet as long as we were both taking the same plane. I did not mind. In fact, I was so overwhelmed I forgot to ask her name until it was too embarrassing to do so and I had to phone her agent from California to find it.

Shortly afterward, she played the supporting role in "Marriage-Go-Round," which won her the Antoinette Perry Award in 1959. More recently she played in "Stop the World" and demonstrated that she had the discipline and talent to carry her beyond the Amazon roles that had occupied most of her time.

When this robot nonsense is over she should bloom like a big, beautiful flower.

Obsessed With Youth

After even a short session with Cummings in person, it is apparent that he is obsessed with the idea of youth, vitamins and diet. This is a subject that is near and dear to everyone's heart and becomes even nearer and dearer with the passing years—particularly to American actors.

For a time, Cummings had his own vitamins on the market, and he has written a book on the subject, titled "How to Stay Young and Vital." I had the distinct impression that he should stay young, by all means, but stop being so vital about it.

Cummings admits to 54 and is probably older. If not, he is the first actor in history to tell the truth about his age with the possible exception of Lassie (and I even suspect him — or is it her?).

In person, Cummings' roeye lining making him look far younger than he is. But on CBS's black-and-white television, his face is a pale mask with evident lip rouge and eye lining making him look like a cross between a silent-screen actor and a Kabuki dancer.

An informant of mine in the make-up department explains that a flat white make-up can take the additional amount of light required to wash out the wrinkles. Unfortunately, it washes out everything else, too, including the lips and eyes which must be made-up heavier.

These are tricks of the trade which should be unimportant — indeed unknown — to the public is they are successful. If they are obvious, something is wrong.

Ransom Now Called Counter-Concession

By ROYCE BRIER

When Julius Caesar was an unruly youth he was captured by pirates off Rhodes and held for ransom. He told the pirate captain that when he was released he would return and hang him to his yardarm.

So he was ransomed, raised a private army ashore, captured the pirates, and hanged them.

This story is remembered only because of Caesar's involvement, for capture with a ransom demand was a commonplace in the ancient Mediterranean world. In the modern time, however, ransom and hostages came into disrepute, appropriate only to primitive political societies.

This column has many times found occasion to uphold President Nasser of Egypt in some of his controversial acts, and the writer is not an ardent admirer of Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congolese Republic.

Notwithstanding, Nasser's detention of Tshombe in Cairo for a price was questionable in international ethics.

The price was not money, but removal of a militia blockade on Egyptian and Algerian diplomats in Leopoldville. So it was not technically ransom, but Tshombe was indubitably a hostage.

It is bad practice all around to detain a visiting chief of state, even if the visiting chief's diplomatic acts are irregular. It was of course frequently done in the ancient Mediterranean, and even among unlucky monarchs in medieval Europe.

Last year the United States was compelled indirectly to pay ransom for the release of the Bay of Pigs prisoners. Such a ransom demand is what you would expect of a primitive political character like Fidel Castro. Fortunately, this turned out well, as did the Tshombe affair.

Now it is revealed the East German government is playing a ransom game, which is what you would expect of a primitive like Walter Ulbricht.

Comrade Ulbricht recently announced amnesty and release of some 10,000 political prisoners. But before that some 800 West Germans held prisoner in the East were secretly released to go home.

You will not be surprised Comrade Ulbricht pulled a stickup demanding goods from West Germany for the release. Figuring in this is thousands of pounds of butter, the Comrade's broad acres being on the shorts in cows.

It was reported $8 million in goods was involved, and they have come up with a new one—it was not a case of ransom, but of "counter-concessions."

You will not find in Plutarch that young Caesar's captor told the messengers bringing forty talents that he was releasing his prisoner as a counter-concession, but those were earthy and straightforward times.

Area Building Permits Granted

Two building permits have been granted in the area.

Hackman Construction Co., 1339 E. Broad-st, has received a building permit to erect a frame dwelling and attached garage at 6225 Cherry Hill-dr. Valuation is $45,000.

Christ Methodist Church, 1480 Zettler-rd, has received a building permit to alter a brick building. Valuation is $201,000.

A 90-second color auto commercial took more than 200 people in five states four months and over $27,000 to produce.

The U. S. government subsidizes crops and livestock. It is estimated that doubling the wages of stoop labor — still used to cultivate and collect some vegetable crops — would increase the retail price of tomatoes by a mere penny a pound.

A HIGH SCHOOL PARKING LOT . . . 'WHR RE HAVE ALL THE BICYCLES GONE?'

Advanced Vocational Centers Proposed

Future Of Programs Lies With 14 Districts

By JANE ROBINSON

Franklin County high schools are busy preparing too many students for jobs that no longer exist.

And those students who formerly "quit school and went to work" are now "quitting school and joining the ranks of the unemployed."

To correct this situation a joint vocational school district has been proposed. The administrators and boards of 14 area districts have been asked to consider the proposal and give a decision by the middle of January.

The crux of the problem lies in the fact that the college prep program in Ohio high schools is attracting 81 percent of the students enrolled. However, fewer than one-third of these students ever enter college, and only half of those who do, graduate.

Of the employment opportunities in Ohio only 7.6 percent require a degree and 42.2 percent of the job potential exists for craftsmen and technicians. The rest of the jobs are in the fields of distribution, clerica -office and agriculture.

14 Districts Listed

The school districts that are seeking a joint answer to these facts are Canal Winchester, Grandview, Hamilton, Jefferson, Madison, Mifflin, Plain, Reynoldsburg, Scioto-Darby, Upper Arlington, Washington, Westerville, Whitehall and Worthington.

Thomas Quick, county superintendent, has provided the leadership for the proposal. Its recommendations are based upon the findings of a study completed this year by Ohio State University on the youth, vocational study and work world in the county and a vocational education community survey of Franklin County area schools made by the Ohio State Board of Education in 1962.

With demand for vocational training beyond that now offered, the joint district is considered the most attractive of several alternates. The broad tax base provided by the 14 districts can offer an extended program at a relatively low cost to residents of these districts.

Two Centers Eyed

If the plan is approved, two centers will initially be built, each to accommodate 900 junior and senior students.

These facilities were proposed after the studies indicated 39 percent of the 6,246 students who will be in the 11th and 12th grades in 1967 (the earliest date the centers could be put into operation) are potential vocational students.

Quick considers 39 percent a conservative estimate as state-wide statistics indicate 48.78 percent of the students without college plans desire vocational training at a high school level, and another 26.13 percent who expect to attend college also want vocational training.

The centers, as planned, are estimated to cost $1,650,000 apiece for land and construction, with an additional $412,000 necessary to equip them.

With approximately half the operating expense of Ohio vocational schools borne by the state, the net cost to taxpayers is foreseen at $436,800.

Millage Estimated 1.6

With a tax duplicate of over 500 million, land, building and equipment as well as operating costs could be covered with levies totaling 1.6 mills.

This tax would be subject to the vote of the residents of the 14 school districts involved.

In estimating the costs, the study has not included the financial aid expected from the federal government. Experience leads Quick and others to believe that through the Federal Vocational Act of 1963 as much as half of building costs will be met by the U.S. government, and by use of National Defense Education funds and surplus property, equipment costs may be halved.

Tentatively, four general areas of education have been included in the proposed curriculum. These are agriculture, business education, distributive education and trades and industry. Units of English, history and government are also planned to allow the students to complete the requirements for graduation under one roof.

Duplication Avoided

Agriculture would not duplicate the programs now offered in several of the schools, but would consist of advanced units in landscaping and grounds keeping, horticulture and non-farm agricultural occupational training.

It is suggested that schools

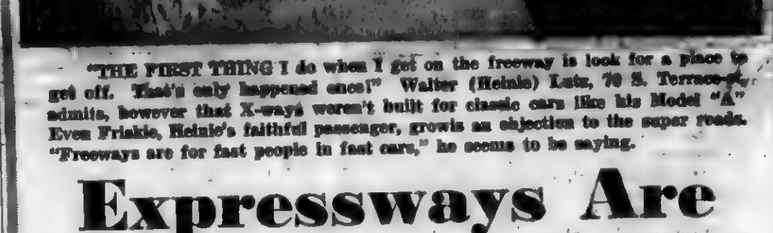
Kennel Club Hoping For Howling Success



The 26th annual All-Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial sponsored by the Central Ohio Kennel Club will be held Sunday, Nov. 15, at Veterans Memorial from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

More than 800 dogs in six classes, sporting, non-sporting, working, terrier, toy and hound, will be judged with American Kennel Club rules in force.

The unbenched show, one of the largest in the midwest, will benefit the American Cancer Society. Supporting the show will be the Heart of Ohio Great Dane Club, Columbus All-Breed Training Club and the Columbus Collie Club.

Show specialties include the Buckeye Bulldog Club, Columbus Ohio Boxer Club and German Shepherd dogs which will be permitted for the first time in conformation and obedience. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Show chairmen include: Roy M. Kibler, 6158 Sunbury-rd, Westerville, COKC president; Miss Louise Ackerman, 4396 Bright-rd, Dublin; Mrs. Eunice Reed, Trav-Lers Motel, West Jefferson; Richard W. Hensel, 356 Mayfair-blvd; Mrs. Dorothy Otto, 3611 Delamere-av; Miss Margaret Busch, 3803 Granden-rd; Herbert Miller, 209 Di Santis-av; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schaaf, RFD 2, Westerville, and Mr. and Mrs. John Binns, RFD 3, Pataskala.

"THE FIRST THING I do when I get on the freeway is look for a place to get off. That's only happened once!" Walter (Heinie) Lutz, 70 S. Terrace-pl, admits, however that X-ways weren't built for classic cars like his Model "A" Even Frisbie, Heinie's faithful passenger, growls an objection to the super roads. "Freeways are for fast people in fast cars," he seems to be saying.

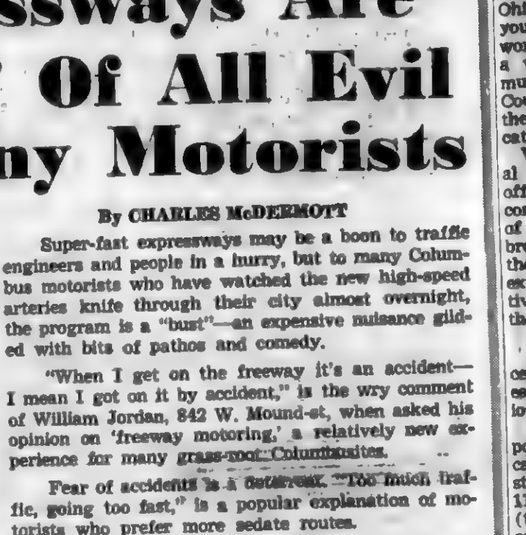
Expressways Are 'Route' Of All Evil To Many Motorists

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

Super-fast expressways may be a boon to traffic engineers and people in a hurry, but to many Columbus motorists who have watched the new high-speed arteries knife through their city almost overnight, the program is a "bust"—an expensive nuisance gilded with bits of pathos and comedy.

"When I get on the freeway it's an accident—I mean I got on it by accident," is the wry comment of William Jordan, 842 W. Mound-st, when asked his opinion on 'freeway motoring,' a relatively new experience for many grass-root Columbusites.

Fear of accidents is a deterrent. "Too much traffic, going too fast," is a popular explanation of motorists who prefer more sedate routes.



"Streets in Columbus were laid out nice and square," said another, "If you want to go 'round in circles—take the freeway."

Another advises, "You use the freeway when you don't care where you're going. The signs don't tell you a thing."

In the interest of confused drivers, Dave Egy of 284 S. Harris-av offers map makers and highway engineers a suggestion.

"What people need is a map that shows you the same signs you'll see on the freeway." He suggests

IT'S NO PLACE for a lady! A flat tire on the freeway . . . impossible to drive with, probably illegal to change, and improbable that one of those "knights of the road," so helpful on highways, would slow his truck to lend a hand.

'Sniffing' Outlawed

Glue-sniffing, the teenage fad that has received wide attention in recent months, is now an offense punishable by a fine and imprisonment.

Columbus City Council, by a unanimous 7-0 vote, passed the significant "sniffing" ordinance No. 1227 at the regular meeting Monday, Nov. 9.

The ordinance amends Sec. 2387.02, Columbus City Code, 1959, as amended, relating to suspicious persons.

Introduced by Councilman Harvey C. Alston, the new ordinance provides a penalty of $25 for the first offense, with subsequent offenses calling for a maximum of $300 fine, 90 days in the workhouse, or both.

The ordinance applies to anyone convicted of deliberately smelling or inhaling any substance so as to cause a condition of excitement, intoxication, or dulling of the brain or nervous system.

MD March Set Nov. 15

John D. Herbert, treasurer of the State of Ohio, is serving as campaign chairman for the Franklin County Chapter, Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc.

He urged Franklin County residents to give active support to the March for Muscular Dystrophy, to be held Sunday, Nov. 15.

No cure or effective treatment has yet been found for the malady, which cripples its victims by progressively destroying muscle tissue.

The Seasons Roll

It was an all too short summer, but fall has been so pleasant—who could rightfully complain?

Out our way in the country only a few more trailer loads of leaves remain to be raked, jonquils have been transplanted, we've made the last jug of cider, some corn is in the crib and a load of firewood is at the living room door.

Another season will soon be upon us, and with it a new type of beauty, new comforts of an open fireplace, and rest for Mother Nature so she can blossom out in even finer raiment next spring.

No need for monotony when we look for the pleasures that are present as the seasons roll!

Hope It's True, Don!

Now that the big election is out of the way the local political pot is already starting to boil.

Next year we elect some city councilmen and already political hopefuls are being mentioned by name.

We like one suggestion: Don Hollenback for Council. We hope he will take a good look at the job and if he can spare the time, we'd like to see him toss his hat in the ring.

Don is a fine young businessman from Clintonville, associated with his dad, Rand, publisher of The Clintonville Booster.

While he is perhaps listed as a Democrat, Republicans could also be proud of his contribution to public life.

Mammoth Dragnet Gets Duling; 'Lame Duck' Solons Face Tests

By TED BEARDSHEAR

Police Lt. Allen Fraley was shot during a routine investigation. His wounding touched off one of the most intensive manhunts in the history of Columbus. Nabbed after nearly two days of seaching was Eugene Wyle Duling. In a hearing at the hospital where he was being treated for a broken leg, Duling pleaded not guilty in a first-degree murder arraingnment. Fraley died shortly before Duling's capture.

The shooting occured on the city's north side . . . the scene of a number of violent crimes in the past few months.

For the uninitiated, "lame duck" is a term used for a session of the legislature after the election but before new legislators take office.

This special session of the Ohio Legislature is a lame duck. On the agenda is a $250 million bond issue to be submitted to Ohio voters at next May's primary. The bond issue would help finance such projects as a new prison to replace the Ohio Penitentiary, a new Boys Industrial School and a new Girls Industrial School.

Also on the slate is a consideration of constitutional amendments to reapportion the legislature.

For a lame duck, the legislature waddles well with such a weight.

OSU Perpetuates Memory Of War Hero With 'Curl Drive'

Ohio State University Friday named a new campus street in memory of a graduate killed in air action over Germany during the closing days of World War II.

"Curl Drive," which will wind through Ohio State's north dormitory complex, honors the late Lt. Col. James G. Curl, much - decorated Army Corps hero from Bexley who was shot down while piloting a P-51 fighter on Mar. 19, 1945.

Curl-dr will begin at the intersection of N. College-rd and Woodruff-av, and will extend to Neil-av at a point between W. Frambes and W. Lane-avs. Ten residence halls in this area also have been named in memory of Ohio State men who lost their lives in the armed forces.

Lt. Col. Curl received the degree of bachelor of science in business administration in 1940 and was commissioned in the Army Air Corps in July, 1941, before the United States entered the war. He had completed 144 missions and was on his second overseas tour of duty at the time of his death.

BANDS OF BRILLIANT conventionalized symbols are attached to the vestments by women of the Tabernacle Society. These bands provide a beautiful contrast to robes made in church colors of deep purple, green, red, white, gold or black.

AT THE TABERNACLE SOCIETY

Each Stitch Is An Act Of Love And Every Work.....A Prayer

By PATRICIA WOODY

Machinery may do everything bigger and better these days, but the women of the Tabernacle Society of St. Joseph Academy agree that there is one thing machinery cannot supply—love.

This they give as they meet once a week to sew vestments and altar linens for their churches here and abroad. Their handiwork is in use around the globe, except where prevented by war or governments.

The Columbus Society was first organized in 1897 under the auspices of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur. At present they have a nucleus of 20 active members, and an inactive membership of some 250. Many of the present members have been with the Society for 20 to 30 years.

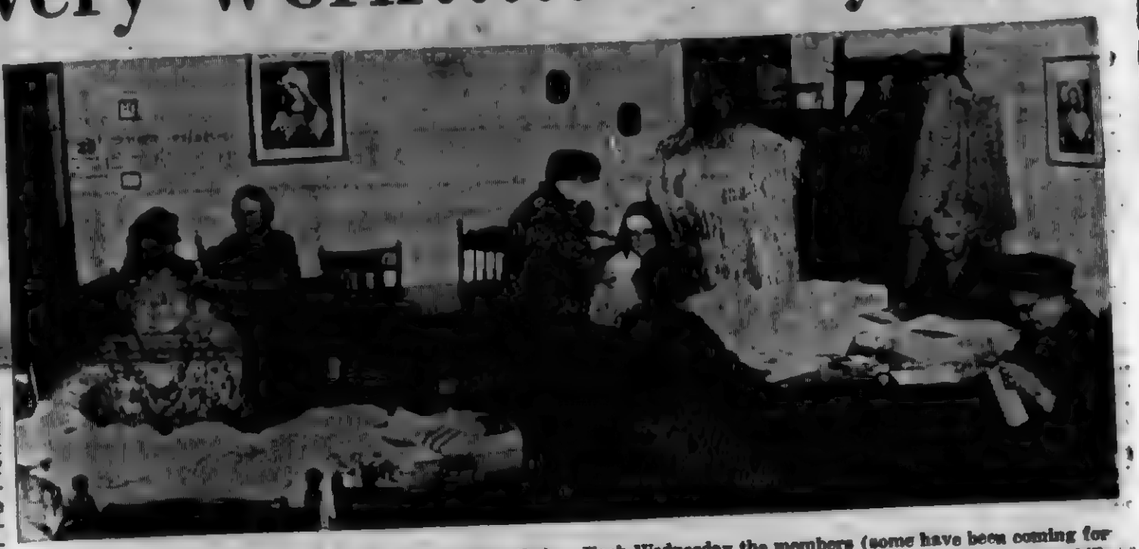
Mrs. Rose Kramer, now inactive, is the oldest present member with 62 years service, and Mrs. Emma Boyle is the newcomer with two years service. One of the present active members, Miss Agnes Rinehart, is the daughter of the first president, Mrs. Henry A. Rinehart.

The society under the direction of Sr. Mary St. Agatha, meets Wednesdays from nine to four. Many of the women bring their lunch and spend the day. Others come in for what hours they can spare. They gossip good-naturedly about their church activities as they tat a delicate lace or turn up a hem.

"Each stitch is an act of love, and each work a prayer," says Sr. Mary St. Agatha. One has only to look at their exquisite work to realize the truth of this statement.

All altar linens are made of pure linen. Rich materials such as brocade, pure silk, or satin are used for the vestments (robes). The materials are very expensive, and are cut only after much placing of patterns to avoid waste.

Many of the chalice covers (which cover the communion host) are made from wedding gowns given by a happy bride as a service to her Lord.



The cintures (worn about the waist) are often crocheted at home by women no longer able to attend because of illness or age.

The vestments are the most striking of their work. They are made in the church colors of deep purple, green, red, white or gold, and black. Bands of brilliant embroidery provide contrast.

The most exquisite of their efforts are the baptismal robes worn about the babies' shoulders. These are all hand-made. Each has a candle — symbol of the light of faith, and a dove—symbol of the Holy Spirit. The emblems are embroidered or hand-painted on the linen. The entire robe is edged with fine lace or binding.

The Society is holding an exhibition of its many beautiful works Nov. 14-15 in the high school auditorium of St. Joseph Academy, 331 E. Rich-st. The public is invited. Proceeds go back to the Society for purchasing materials to carry on their work for their Lord.

Each Wednesday the members (some have been coming for 30 years) replenish their faith in God and their own abilities by sewing vestments used the world over.

JUST AS EATING and sleeping are essential to their existence, the members of the Tabernacle Society find their spiritual food and rest while sewing for their Lord.

A DOVE, THE SYMBOL of the Holy Spirit, adorns a satin robe. No machine could ever compare with the delicate stitches made by sensitive hands.

A GOOD EYE, a willing hand and hours of patience turn out an embroidered emblem that will be attached to a liturgical garment. Parishioners in Puerto Rico may be the next to see the beauty of the women's work.

The average yard has room for two or three shade trees. With this in mind, you will be years ahead to purchase the largest trees you can afford.

COFFEE BREAK

Our Next Extra Addition Better Be Hard Cash

By ADELINE DALEY

Looking back, I can now view the two years my husband and I lived in an apartment, instead of owning our own home, as the most blissful, care-free days of our marriage. I can also understand why Gauguin ran off to Tahiti. And if I'd been his wife, I would have joined him.

Of course, when we first bought a home we thought we were purchasing a mortgaged paradise and were delighted with the prospect of escaping from the clutches of a wicked, crochety landlord.

After two weeks as a homeowner, however, we discovered what made him so ill-tempered.

First, we were informed that we MUST install weather-stripping on all of the outside doors. (For an additional fee over and above the mortgage payments.) Otherwise, with the arrival of the first winter storm we were likely to be blown out of our living room.

But all we had to do was take out a simple home improvement loan of $5.98 a month for two years and we could rest cozy and warm in our little nest.

Came the next spring, and we were informed by another salesman that we were sure to bake during the summer months if we didn't install rock wool insulation in the attic—another home improvement loan of $12.47 a month would handle it nicely, thank you.

Then another workman crawled underneath the house and emerged with the worst news since word arrived that the Comstock Lode was finished — our foundation was full of termites. Five hundred dollars worth of termites.

In the meantime we were also taking out little loans to install a patio (an important status symbol), landscaping and a fence.

Before long, we had so many installment books we needed a bookshelf to store them. And if I wasn't at the bank promptly on a Monday morning to pay a few, I felt that the bank tellers would send me a "Get Well" card, figuring something was wrong.

Right now, the aluminum siding people are hinting rather broadly that our faded stucco exterior is a disgrace to the block.

And we are also faced with an unknown force beneath the ground which is causing the linoleum tiles in the basement rumpus room to buckle and warp. We're hoping it's oil.

1964 Crop Estimates For Tree Nuts Given

By Estelle B. Franks

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruit — apples, grapefruit, bananas, Emperor grapes, cranberries.

Vegetables — potatoes (all-purpose), leaf and Bibb lettuce, broccoli, turnips, dry onions.

Meat, Poultry — pork roasts (loin and shoulder), beef "specials," ground beef, hams, fryers, eggs (medium)

Other — canned fruit and vegetables (specials), tree nuts.

The new crop of tree nuts is coming in—timed perfectly for your holiday baking and for nibbling on frosty evenings.

This year's crop estimates for the important tree nuts have just been released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. And, according to the report, total production of the four edible tree nuts —almonds, filberts, pecans and walnuts—is about a third that of last year.

However, homemakers and bakers have nothing to worry about. They'll still have plenty of nuts for holiday baking and other uses. The 1963 crop was record high. So the drop in production this year isn't as bad as it seems. It will be above average.

In fact, production of some tree nuts is up. The almond — always a favorite— is forecast at 30 percent above average and the quality is good. The walnut crop is also a good one and the price picture for walnuts is favorable. The filbert crop is better than last year and imports are expected to be heavy—spelling lower prices on filberts.

THE PECAN CROP is, however, in especially short supply — about 67 percent below the 1963 record and 27 percent below average. The light crop is due to unfavorable growing conditions throughout the season, and the fact that the trees produced so heavily last year. Additional reduction was caused by the hurricanes this season. So, firmer prices on pecans can be expected.

Imports this year are likely to be down. Cashews and Brazils are the important foreign nuts we import, and crops for both of these are reported to be light—particularly for Brazil nuts.

The peanut, of course, is not a tree nut but one that is widely used for holiday baking. This year you can use lots of peanuts and peanut products — the 1964 crop is up 16 million pounds over last year.

WHEN YOU FIND BARGAINS on tree nuts, keep these storage tips in mind:

- Nuts in the shell keep better than shelled ones.
- Unsalted nuts keep better than salted because salt speeds rancidity.
- Shelled nuts keep best in airtight containers in a cool dark place.
- Nuts will keep fresh indefinitely in a home freezer if they are put in polyethylene bags and sealed to keep air out.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: This cool cat, name of Nipper, occasionally seems to lose his mind. Sometimes these attacks are mild and all he does is stalk around switching his tail and looking mad. Usually he rumples the skin over his back up and down, twitches his tail, and then goes tearing madly around the room. Does he need a headshrinker or is he hopeless?—C.A.

DEAR C.A.: Psychiatry would probably prove ineffectual. Nipper's problem is more likely located at the other end. Frequently, the anal glands (on either side of the rectum) become plugged and swollen. The resulting irritation may set off the unhappy reactions described above.

Other possible causes include nerve inflammation and abdominal cramps. An accurate diagnosis might best be made as soon as possible after Nip has one of his spells.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have a goldfish named Gill. He is very tame and will swim right into my hand for food. He isn't even scared much when I touch him. Mother said I should ask you if it is all right to pet a fish. I thought it was all right because he doesn't mind. Is it? Thank you.—E.Y.

DEAR E.Y.: There isn't anything wrong with letting Gill nestle in your hand if he wants to, but it really is better if you don't pet him too much. This petting would remove some of the protective slime that naturally covers him. Once that protective coating is broken, there is danger of an infection getting started in that spot.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Some say that once a dog is grown he won't get worms any more. My Cocker had a lot of stomach worms when he was a pup. Now that he is older, will he be safe or should I give him something just to be sure?—E.A.

DEAR E.A.: Roundworms are most dangerous in young puppies and the adult often develops some resistance to reinfection. It would be safer to take a stool sample to the hospital and have it checked to see if worming actually is needed.

Attempting to worm the dog may be at least useless, and often dangerous. (Tapeworms are more of a problem in the adult dog, and home worming for this parasite should never be attempted.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: I I have two parakeets (male and female) and also I have six books on breeding them. I thought that if I put all the books together I was sure to have eggs. (My girl friend has helped.) One book said separate male and female (check), put them in the same cage for about a month (check), put nesting box in cage (check) and in about one week the first egg will appear. My female will sit in the nesting box — but nothing! It's been three weeks now.—K.T.

P.S. Please answer, I think something is wrong!

DEAR K.T.: As you have learned by this time, it isn't getting the books together that's most important. While you obviously have planned things very carefully, success is unlikely right now. The reason is season. It's a lot easier to go along with nature's schedule than to try to set up one of your own.

This just isn't the honeymoon season for parakeets. Better concentrate on getting these two in the pink of condition between now and next spring and then go through your check-list again. By that time your birds should be willing to cooperate.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, in care of this newspaper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

TODAY'S REPORT

By ABE MELLINKOFF

The Space Agency has hung out the "Help Wanted" sign. They already have enough fellows to pilot the capsules. Now they need passengers.

This looks like easy work, but be sure to read the fine print before you apply. Just as machines nowadays become more specialized, so do the people who go with them. In this case, anybody over six feet and 34 years is barred. Also a doctorate is required.

But if you can meet the specifications, it looks like a good job. The pay and fringe benefits are excellent. And goodness knows, it's safe work. As of this date, riding a space capsule is many times less dangerous than driving to work on a freeway from the suburbs.

Two Ohio 4-H Club boys won top ratings as dairy judges recently at the National Dairy Congress in Waterloo, Iowa. Philip Keener of West Salem was highest scoring individual in the Holstein judging, winning over 101 other youthful contestants. Raymond Jones of Rt. 4, Circleville, was the champion Guernsey judge, scoring more than 100 of the nation's best 4-H dairy judges.

Both Jones and Keener were members of the Ohio 4-H dairy team that placed 14th in a field of 34 at the Waterloo event. Franklin D. Findley, Wayne County 4-H Club agent, and C. D. McGrew, Ohio State University Extension Dairy Specialist, accompanied the team to Iowa.

Several readers of our column have inquired as to the recommended fruit trees for fall planting. Eldon Banta, extension fruit specialist at the Ohio State University suggests dwarf trees. Banta says that miniature trees bear the same size fruits as their large counterparts, produce fruit at a younger age and usually more heavily in relation to their size.

Fall-planted trees, shrubs and evergreens should be given a mulch of at least three to five inches after thoroughly watering them. Loose, dry soil around their roots will usually freeze deeper than when moist and covered with a mulch.

Any new range bakes.

So why is electric baking preferred 2 to 1?

Good cooks know accurate control of pure electric heat means better baking!

1,011 women in The Electric Company service area recently compared ranges, feature for feature, in an independent study. One thing more of these homemakers prefer is being able to bake better electrically.

It's easy to see why!

Every good cook knows that dependable, accurate heat is vital to best baking results.

Flameless electric baking is naturally accurate because an electric oven is a precise, fine-tuned instrument. Set the dial for 350° and you're sure it will be 350° inside the oven as long as it's "on."

An electric oven is insulated on all six sides, so little of the heat escapes. (That means a cooler kitchen, too!)

It's the same with surface cooking. You've got perfect control of every cooking temperature merely by flicking a switch.

But better baking and surface cooking are only two of the features more and more women prefer about modern flameless electric ranges.

Electric ranges preferred 10 to 1 for keeping kitchens cleaner!

Women who recently purchased a flameless electric range are positively enthusiastic about the way their kitchens stay cleaner and cooler.

Most of them were in a position to compare — and said so! They've found there's less all-out kitchen cleaning to do, because walls, cabinets and curtains stay fresh-looking longer.

(Even owners of other kinds of cooking appliances admit electric ranges keep kitchens cleaner and cook cooler!)

Electric ranges preferred 3 to 1 for cleaning ease!

Recent purchasers also expressed decided preferences for the easy way both electric ranges and ovens clean up, and other more modern features.

It doesn't take long to discover how much time and work electric ranges save all around. You see, electric heat is pure, radiant heat, exactly like a light bulb. And just as clean. Pots and pans stay "bright-as-new." You clean the surface unit of an electric range by turning it "on." Drips and spills burn away quickly. And an electric oven, glass-smooth inside, wipes clean in a jiffy. Some new models even clean themselves!

No wonder more women mention how clean electric cooking is.

More and more families plan to buy flameless electric ranges!

That's an indication why an increasing number of women said they plan to replace their present cooking appliance sometime this year with a flameless electric range.

We even found out from a group of women planning to buy new houses that 7 out of 10 preferred electric for their new range — and some of them wouldn't buy the house if it wasn't.

Today's younger homemakers revealed a definite preference for electric, too. The majority of recent range buyers were under 40, and they chose electric 3 times out of 5.

Women who cook electrically are convinced it's best!

In fact, more than 8 out of every 10 women who own an electric range said they wouldn't have any other kind. Right in their own family kitchens, they've proved flameless electric cooking is as easy, as fast and effortless as cooking can ever be!

Only owners of electric ranges are that convinced!

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric!

Someday you will want a new range for your home.

The chances are good you're thinking about one right now.

By all means, visit your appliance dealer's showroom. That's the best place to slam doors, turn knobs, feel finishes. Think about your choice of colors, too, and compare prices.

But remember that the important differences of flameless electric ranges don't show up until you get one home. And those are the benefits that count.

They're the features perferred by more and more women like yourself.

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric.

You'll prefer electric, too.

Even more when you get it home.

A 'Mandate' For What?

There is an element of danger to a national election victory of the magnitude accorded to President Lyndon B. Johnson. The first serious post-election challenge facing our President and his advisors is to determine the quality and scope of the "mandate" voiced by the electorate.

The 15-million-vote plurality for Mr. Johnson is positive proof of a landslide. But a landslide is not necessarily an endorsed blank check. Perhaps never in our history has it been more important to know WHY people voted the way they did.

During the campaign, the Johnson administration was accused of being soft on communism. It would be ridiculous to say that the national landslide for the Democrats means that the people want our government to be soft on communism. It would be just as foolish to think that the voters endorsed every action, program and promise made during the campaign.

And, although many Democrats were swept into office as "coattail" candidates, most "defecting" Republicans returned to the GOP fold after the presidential contest. It is a fact that many of the people who admired Senator Barry Goldwater for "speaking his mind" regardless of the political consequences, feared him as a potential president because of this same quality.

But his denial by the voters to the highest office in the land does not constitute a repudiation of every platform plank, principle and promise he enunciated during the campaign. Thoughtful consideration should be given to the fact that the Goldwater "minority" report was endorsed by 25 million Americans.

It is to be hoped that the Johnson administration will not construe the election results to mean that Americans have totally rejected conservatism as a philosophy. If they do, they may discover in subsequent elections that the people did not say "no" to Goldwater—but just "not yet."

Suits Pressed While You Wait–And Wait

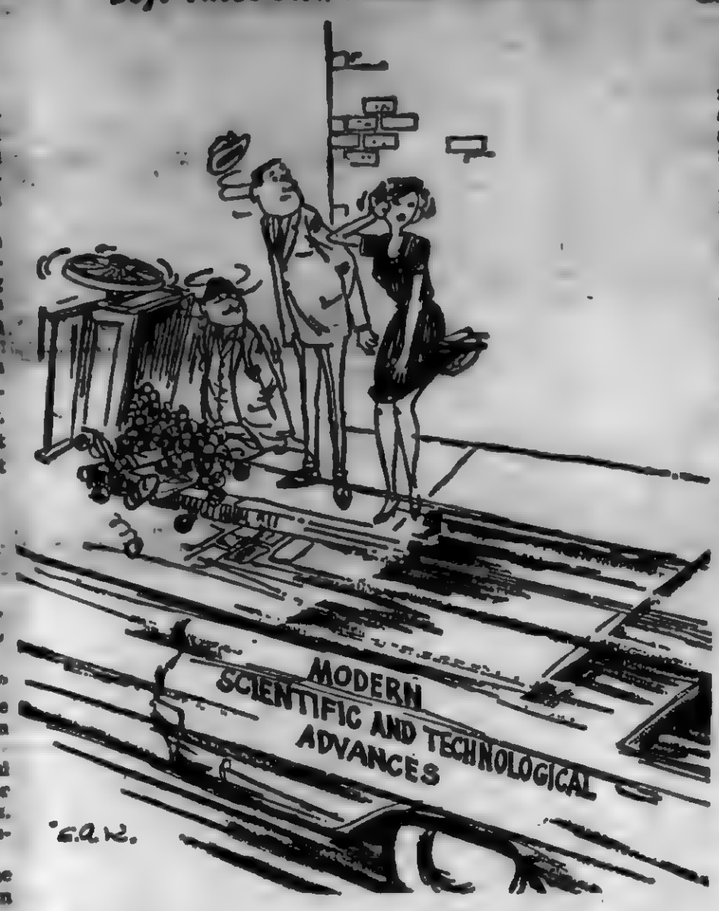
For the 12th year the Institute of Judicial Administration of New York University has taken the pulse of the nation's judicial system.

Diagnosis: Hardening of the legal arteries. Prognosis: Still critical, but improving.

The statistics show that it takes an average of 17.6 months for a personal injury case to reach jury trial from the date on which a defendant files an answer to a complaint. Last year it was 18.6 months.

The annual survey is devoted to personal injury cases because they account for a substantial amount of litigation. Courts may be up to schedule in other areas such as criminal or commercial calendars.

Not all the delays are to be blamed on the courts. Time has elapsed from the date of an injury to the institution of a suit, and more time to the filing of an answer to the complaint.



Even after a case is on the docket, "the law's delay" is often lawyers' delay. Many trial adjournments are caused by counsel who have not prepared their cases in time.

At any rate, out of 107 principal courts of general jurisdiction throughout the United States, 14 courts, or 13.1 percent, reported delays of more than 30 months. In general, legal congestion paralleled population congestion.

Far and away the national leader again was the Circuit Court of Cook County, Ill. (Chicago), with an average delay of 57.6 months. (It was 68 months in 1963.)

At the other end of the scale was the District Court of Yellowstone County, Mont. (Billings) with a wait of only 1.7 months.

Boy! Those New Models Sure Move

Challenge Remains

Columbus area motorists have reason to be heartened by news that three important highway "openings" will take place next week. Two sections of the Innerbelt and a section of the Outerbelt will begin service following a dedication ceremony at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 18.

On Thursday, Nov. 19, State Highway Department officials will open the 80-mile Interstate 71 section between Harrisburg and the Cincinnati Outerbelt. This is good news worth reporting.

And both the local and national economy pictures were brightened by the ending of the 31-day nationwide strike against General Motors, including settlement of local issues. But the strike settlement accentuates the need to continue a sound local program of highway planning and construction.

The new model cars are out, and word from the manufacturers is that a record production of eight million-plus is planned for the current models. Modern technology has permitted a wide range of design changes, while at the same time maintaining a competitive price.

Franklin County's growth pattern and potential indicates that this area will be a state pace-setter in motor vehicle registration increases. The present 346,895 registration total will increase substantially over the next few years. When statistics for 1965 are released, it is predicted that the state will advance from the present 4.8 million vehicles to more than five million.

Speed is still the big word in autos—both in horsepower and production. We have done comparatively well, locally, in the area of highway construction. But we are still a long way from meeting the challenge of a finely-tuned and equipped auto industry which just can't stop and wait for us to catch up.

And Clean It Up, Too!

The National Committees of both the Democratic and Republican parties should join in rendering a much needed service to the American public, their respective candidates and themselves. This they can do by scheduling the 1968 national conventions for late August and September.

There is no message the candidates may have to deliver that cannot be properly and fully imparted throughout the nation in 30 days. The costs of campaigns would be reduced by millions of dollars—hopefully, reflecting a corresponding decrease of vote and candidate buying.

But the best reason (and least likely to be considered by most politicians) is that it would just make good common sense.

Frosting On The Cake

The election campaign is over and millions of Americans are saying "Thank God."

Those of us who have been watching the political "circus" in this country for nearly half a century have never seen anything like it. The stench of name calling and every other ill-mannered stupidity rises to high heaven.

The important thing for us to bear in mind now is that we are still a great and powerful nation with an even greater challenge to meet and master than millions will ever realize. There are some decisions that make sense if the new administration has the wit and the real political wisdom-integrity to truly sense the will of the people.

This country is still fed up on (1.) giving the entire country away to the rest of the unwashed and ignorant world and getting our teeth kicked in for the trouble, and (2.) squandering billions of dollars that go only to fatten a growing army of professional "soldiers of fortune" in every benighted land on earth.

These utterly ruthless and untrustworthy opportunists are still a dime a dozen insofar as any credit to Uncle Sam is concerned. Scoundrels rise and fall in a constant stream of exploiting ignorance and cupidity of their own masses who have not a single faculty for self-government.

So, the new president is at once face to face with a brand new responsibility to all of the country, not to some privileged pressure group.

Most of us are aware of the moral decline; the loss of respect for law and order by an increasing number of anti-social adult infants who will do anything in order to live without working. Professional indigency is now a recognizable disease. It makes sense for able-bodied men and women to work—or not eat. On the other hand, the genuinely helpless and destitute who can't do anything but sweat out the grim reaper are with us in growing numbers.

The next four years are going to be no picnic for President Johnson.

Coverage Is Appreciated

To the Publisher:

Thank you for your wonderful coverage in The Spectator of the League's Voters Information Bulletin and for the fine front page story on our political workshop at which John Vorys was the featured speaker.

We were happy to be able to distribute 65,000 Bulletins in the pre-election period, the largest number ever circulated in Franklin County.

We are always appreciative of the interest you have shown in the League's program of service to the citizens of our community.

CAMPAIGN—"The campaign is over; now we can settle down."—Editorial. Settling up is the hard part.

At the foot of a winding mountainside highway a sign reads: "Resume Breathing." Maybe we can.

The name-calling could have been simplified if the candidates had used the method of the schoolboy who was collared on the playground by a playmate and called all the names in the third-grade category. When the vilifier halted to get his breath, the victim gasped: Are you fru now?" To a nodded assent he blurted: "All them things you called me, you is!'"

FINALITY'S FANCIES—One September afternoon in West Branch, Iowa, a Hawkeye pill-peddler said to a Buckeye pep-pill pusher: "Here is where Herbert Hoover will be buried." Wordlessly, they stood for a moment near what they considered hallowed ground.

Reciting the lad-learned "Or flattery soothe the dull, cold ear of death" is involuntary when driving by the impressive tomb of the Ohio-born President.

Near an iron fence along a narrow sidewalk in Philadelphia is the simplest of gravestones, bearing the name, Benjamin Franklin in the manner of Irwin Cobb's observation: "When I die they will put a tombstone in the graveyard, and put on it my name, when I was born and when I died — the only three things in my life I didn't have anything to do with."

WARNING — From the home newspaper: "Members of the Friends Church are invited to the golden wedding of a former pastor and his wife in Indiana. It is requested that no gifts be taken." In Quaker "plain language," "Thee keep thy cotton-pickin' fingers off our presents."

MERRILY, MERRILY — Chet's voice: "I think Bill has the commercial ready to roll." Next voice, Ann's. Why doesn't that station put on live shows?"

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

When All Else Fails, Ask An Amateur

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va.—I am sitting at my hotel window looking across the wide waters of Hampton Roads toward the Norfolk Navy Base. And there in distant silhouette is the America, newest of Uncle Sam's great aircraft carriers, which will have its first sea trials this week.

Jones

And I am thinking about the marvelous un-experts who shook up the science of war on this very bay 102 years ago.

There was this obscure lieutenant in the Confederate Navy by the name of John M. Brooke. And because the Confederate Navy was more a hope than an organization, Lt. Brooke reasoned that only a revolutionary warship would do the cause any good. So he sold Confederate Naval Secretary Mallory on the idea of an iron-clad ship. But he didn't know how to build it.

Fortunately, Naval Constructor John L. Porter knew how to build a ship but there was no machinery in the Confederacy capable of moving the huge inverted breadpan, with slanting sides and squared ends, which Brooke had conceived. Then Brooke got the idea of putting the thing on the scuttled and sunken hull of the old U.S.S. Merrimac, the engines of which had been under water for six months. The result was an awful mess of a ship —top speed four knots.

Now the Union Navy heard immediately about the Confederate plans for turning the Merrimac into an iron fort so its secretary, Gideon Welles, called for counter ideas. Fourteen plans came in, including one for an iron galley rowed by 90 sailors and another for a ship with rubber sides for bouncing off the shot.

Eventually it was decided to try three designs. One was a wild idea of a huge revolving turret on a hull that was practically awash. There was so much controversy over the latter that the argument over whether to build it went all the way to Lincoln. In the end the go-ahead signal was given with the understanding that if the ship were a failure the government would recapture every penny it had paid—$250,000.

Well, the trials were the laughing stock of America. The turret stuck. The rudder wouldn't work. The fires wouldn't draw and the crew was overcome by coal gas. For John Ericsson, the Swedish-born designer, was an expert on guns and screw propellers, but he had never built a ship before.

Even while the contraption, named the Monitor, was being towed down to Hampton Roads to meet the threat of the Merrimac, renamed the Virginia, everyone on Ericsson's ship was rushing around patching, inventing and improvising. At that, it almost sank in a moderate gale.

But the wonderful thing about the story of the Monitor and the Merrimac is that they encountered each other on their maiden voyages, cancelled each other out in a drawn battle, and at the same time figuratively sank all the wooden navies in the world. Yet they were such bad ships that both were gone within the year, the Merrimac scuttled because it couldn't retreat up the James River, and the Monitor, victim of a blow off Hatteras.

Now, the lesson to be drawn from that stirring event is that, no matter how expert you are, it's sometimes smart to listen to the amateurs.

There's the story of the transport truck hopelessly stuck beneath a low railroad overpass. And the learned engineers who were summoned were equally divided. One group wanted to cut the rails and jack up the overpass. The other thought it would be cheaper to take the top off the truck with cutting torches.

And finally one 10-year-old boy bystander piped up: "Why don't you let the air out of the tires?"

On Oct. 7, 1870, Major Patrick Ferguson of His Majesty's Rangers, commanding a group of British regulars and southern Tories, fell dead before the wild charge of John Sevier's over-the-mountain men at King's Mountain, S. Car. In his lifeless hand he grasped a rifle —a breech-loading rifle.

Major Ferguson was an amateur tinkerer and his breech-mechanism was crude — an awkward screw that fit off the end of a paper cartridge and exposed the charge to the priming pan. But it was a tremendous idea, for a man could lie prone in the shelter of a rock and fire shot after shot.

Yet more than 80 years later American Civil War soldiers were still presenting themselves as fine targets as they stood erect, struggling with ramrods and wadding. The experts had paid no attention to the obscure major.

The best business leaders, scientists, and government officials keep an ear open to the amateurs. Most amateurish suggestions are crackpot, screwball and utterly impractical. But once in a long while the guy who doesn't know any better takes a fresh look and comes up with a break-through.

Like building a slant-walled floating fort on a wreck, or loading a gun from the back, or letting the air out of the tires.

NOTICED THE MARKERS?

The Franklin County Historical Society has placed a great number of markers to call attention to highlights of the county's history. They are of different sizes of a one-piece standard bronze design with raised lettering.

The society's latest is the one on the southeast corner of E. State-st and Pearl, the first alley east of High-st. Sponsored by the City of Columbus and the Loew's Theatres, it was dedicated by the society in April, 1964.

In the upper right corner is the society's emblem with a solid image of the state house on an outline silhouette map of Ohio. In the upper left corner is a bas-relief picture of the old City Hall that stood on the site.

According to the marker, construction of the City Hall was begun in 1869 and it was completed in 1872 at a cost of $175,000. It stood 140 feet high, was of Gothic design, and was made of Amherst dark cream stone.

The first of three floors was occupied by the U. S. Post Office, the Columbus Public Library, and the City Board of Trade. The city's council chamber and offices were on the second floor, while a 3000-seat auditorium was on the third.

The building was destroyed by fire on the night of Jan. 12, 1921. Construction of the present Loew's Ohio Theatre on the site was completed Mar. 17, 1928. Mayor James J. Thomas delivered the dedicatory address.

For a time after the fire the city's government was sheltered in the Columbus Public Library at 96 S. Grant-av.

It says here . . .

No building lasts forever. Most become obsolete or are destroyed by accident or design.

Preserving Liberty Means Extending It

The issue of the Spectator carrying this article will be "off the presses" and ready for distribution on Nov. 11, 1964 — Armistice or Veterans Day.

Rev. Buckey

On this day, we in America remember the sacrifice made during World War I, and other wars, that we might enjoy the liberty we have in our land today. It is fitting, therefore, that we should ask ourselves in this moment, "How stands liberty in our nation today?"

If we are honest with ourselves, we would have to reply that the liberty of our own people as well as the liberty of all peoples is being threatened. Certainly a strong case could be built for the charge that there is a grave tendency in our land to forget the God who is the only true ground of our liberty. We find the pages of the Old Testament filled with words of warning from the prophets that the people dare not forget God. Just as faith in God was the original source of liberty, so faith in Him today will bring liberty to our nation and our world.

Another factor involved in answering this question is the recognition of the danger of being concerned only with our own liberty. Sure we want freedom here in our own land, but we need also to be concerned with the freedom of people all over the world. We not only need to be concerned about the freedom of ourselves but also the freedom of other persons. History is filled with the downfall of nations who became far too interested in their own freedom and did not reach out for others.

To raise such replies as these to the basic question does not suggest that liberty is not worthwhile. We have always felt that it is most important to defend this rich heritage of ours. Liberty—liberty of all nations, of all peoples—is hard to come by. It will not come about through miracles or through neglect. We must apply ourselves to the task, as others have done before us. We must affirm our faith in God and we must be concerned about the freedom of people everywhere.

"And proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." Leviticus 25:10.

Under Buckeye Skies

By KEN MACK McCREARY

H-Hour . . .

Many areas of Spectatorland will sound like a full-scale war has broken out come next Monday. The H-Hour—9 a.m., when the vanguard of some 600,000 Ohio hunters take to the fields and fencerows for the opening day of the 1964 upland game hunting season.

Ken McCreary

The primary targets for this army of nimrods will be the colorful ring-necked pheasant, the scampering cottontail rabbit and the tough-to-tag quail.

HOW DOES the field forecast stack up for this season? The experts say the pheasant population is down slightly in the prime ring-necked area of northwestern Ohio and about the same elsewhere, including south-central counties.

Since over 65 percent of the corn crop has already been harvested, the Chinks are expected to be more concentrated. The daily limit on pheasants is two cock birds—the season runs through Dec. 19 on private lands and Jan. 30 on public hunting areas. The same season and bag limit holds true for Hungarian partridge.

The prospects for rabbit hunting are slightly better than last season, particularly in the hilly counties of southeastern and southern Ohio, where reproduction and survival have been above average.

Your daily rabbit limit, as in past years, is four — the season lasts through Jan. 30.

THE OUTLOOK for quail hunting success is spotty. The fast-flying birds are up in northwestern and southeastern counties and down slightly in other areas. Some 184-thousand acres of Central Ohio have been signed up for quail hunting.

If you aren't certain about the farms you're hunting, better check with the landowner. The season for quail extends through Dec. 19 on agreement lands, and through Jan. 30 on public hunting areas. The daily hunting hours for all upland game species is 9 a.m. till 5 p.m.

If you haven't lined up some favorite farms for hunting, it might pay you to search out some of the more than 134-thousand acres in central Ohio which are available under the Division of Wildlife's Cooperative Hunting program.

STATEWIDE, there are also over half-million acres of public lands available to you. Of course in many instances these areas are overcrowded to the point of danger, particularly during the first few days of the season.

Also becoming legal game next Monday (at a minute past midnight) are mink, muskrat, opposum and raccoon. The seasons for 'coon and 'possum runs through Feb. 15, while the hunting and trapping seasons for mink and muskrat extend through Feb. 28.

One point to remember is that all your traps must have a tag with your name and address. The hunting hours for racoon and opposum are from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. The daily bag limit for raccoon is four per hunter; there is no limit on the other species.

WITH THE opening day of the upland seasons only four days away, around the corner of the weekend, this seems like the best time to pass along a few reminders on courtesy and caution. Sure, I know you've heard them many times, but remember they might save your life.

KNOW YOUR GUN. Be sure the weapon and ammunition are in good condition. Sight in your gun before hunting with it and get in some practice.

HANDLE YOUR GUN PROPERLY. Treat EVERY gun as if it were loaded. Always point the muzzle in a safe direction. Be sure it's game before you aim. Keep your finger out of the trigger guard until you're ready to fire. Open the action and unload your scattergun when you cross a fence or stop for a rest and when you leave the field.

FULFILL YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES as a safe, mature hunter. Observe the rules of safe, courteous hunting. Know and observe the game laws. Respect the farmer and his property at all times. Insist your companions be safe hunters.

If you take the time to faithfully practice these essentials of safe hunting you will prevent hunting accidents and make this time-honored sport a far more enjoyable pastime for everyone.

One final point — if you're getting a little anxious for next Monday to arrive, welcome to the club! Even my old beable-buddy, Clipper, seems to know that it won't be long now — til "hunting-time", 1964.

Evergreens in Ohio, especially yews, sometimes suffer from severe winter burn, from cold, dry winds, and from lack of moisture.

EAST'S CITY LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

THE TIGERS cruised through a nine-game schedule undefeated this season under the tutorship of Aurealius Thomas and copped their first City League grid title in nine years with a perfect 7-0 mark. The Bengals, who outscored their City League foes, 239-70, include (first row, from left): Reggie Hicks, George Strickland, Sherm Lundy, John Gaston, George Boston, Ed Johnson, John Slappy, James Griffin, Chuck Wright, Gary Rispress and Ron Bailey. Second row: Paul Stith, W. Allen, Chuck Roberts, R. Smith, Floyd Jordan, Howard Burks, Pete McKinnon, Roland Martin, Dick Saunders, Willie Moore and R. Jones. Third row: Larry Morton, Grady Bobo, H. Belcher, Isaiah Jones, J. Broadnax, James Rand, John Smith, Eric Evans Kent Schoolfield, I. Kelly and Lou Davidson. Fourth row: Harvey Alston, Willie Jackson, Fred Allen, coach Pete Basich, coach Jim Roseboro, head coach Thomas, G. Hardgrow, P. Cousins and T. Spencer. Fifth row: H. Parks, John Sprinkle, Keith Stevens, Waverly Jackson (head manager), H. Bass and M. Bradley.

Area Cagers Bolster Otter Hopes For Another 16-5 Year

Curt Tong, in his sophomore year as Otterbein's cage coach, greeted 35 prospects, including seven lettermen, five of whom were starters last year when the Otters recorded a 16-5 record, the best in more than a decade.

A quiet, soft-spoken, personable coach, Tong readily admits he expects a good team this year. "We should be able to make a good showing," he calmly predicted, but cautioned immediately, "Don't expect another 16-5 year . . . we're playing a much tougher schedule this year and can't expect miracles from these boys."

Tong expects to trim his squad from 35 to about 20 in the next two weeks and then concentrate on preparing for the opening game, Dec. 5, at Central State.

LETTERMEN returning include senior Dick Reynolds, 5'10", guard who is currently quarterbacking the football team and will report at the conclusion of the grid season. The only other senior letter winner returning is Dave Bouslog, who filled in at forward and center last year. The 6'1" forward is a former Dayton Belmont star.

Junior lettermen returning include starters Mike Grayem, 6'1" forward from Reynoldsburg, and Bill Patterson, 6'3" forward from Charleston, W. Va. Two other non-starting junior lettermen returning include Gary Peffly, 5'10" guard from Dixie's Class A championship team of three years ago, and Tom Martin, 6'5" center from Euclid.

Two sophomores returning as lettermen and starters are Tim Pond, 5'8" sparkplug guard who was honorable mention all conference as a freshman and the conference's top scorer, Don Carlos, 6'4" center from Eastmoor, who averaged 26.8 points per game in his first year and also walked off with the conference rebounding honors as he averaged 16.2 grabs per game. Carlos was co-captain of the All Ohio Conference team, the first freshman ever to be named co-captain and was named honorable mention Little All American.

Freshmen who have caught his eye in the early sessions include Jerry Ferris, 5'9" guard from Bishop Hartley; Eddie Harris, 5'8" guard from Grove City; Terry McCammon, 6'4" forward from Lexington; John Peters, second team All Ohio Class A guard from Strausburg, and Wayne Wolfe, 6'4" forward from Columbus Whetstone.

As of now, Tong is content to go with his starters from last year, but says, "We have a few on the bench who are determined to earn a starting post . . . the spot is theirs if they earn it."

'Fearless' Predictions

The "Fearless One," nearing the finish line of his most successful season in three years of grid-gazing, beefed off his percentage again last week by hitting on 19 of 22 cylinders and upping his total grid mark to 151-38.

"Fearless" closes out his football lineup this week with a light schedule but announced today that he would have a special announcement to make to make his legions of devoted and loyal fans next week.

Here's the final football outlook:

HARTLEY - WHITEHALL—Hawks best opportunity to win their first of this East Side series. Hartley.

ROSARY - CENTERBURG—Crusaders bow out as winners. For old times sake . . . Rosary.

FRANKLIN HGTS. - MIAMI TRACE—Fine finish to fine season. F-H.

DUBLIN - HAMILTON TWP.—Rangers just too big. Hamilton.

GROVE CITY-PLEASANT VIEW — Panthers — but no picnic. P-V.

NEW ALBANY-MT. VERNON ST. VINCENTS—Saints won't lose two. Mt. Vernon.

REYNOLDSBURG - WESTERVILLE — Raiders extend win streak to '65. Reynoldsburg.

CARROLL - LIBERTY UNION—Union jacked. Carroll.

YMCA NEWS

Harold Schwartz, former AAU 143-pound champion, will coach the competitive weight lifting team now being formed at the Columbus Central YMCA. Plans are for one instruction class each week and two workout sessions weekly. Meets will be held Saturdays with teams from Toledo, Chillicothe, Cleveland Central, Akron and Dayton YMCAs. Both beginners and advanced weight lifters will have the opportunity to make the team.

Dana Helmick, Central assistant physical director, also announced that junior and senior division wrestling teams are being formed. A once-a-week class plus twice-weekly team workouts under the direction of several former AAU champs are planned. Tentative matches with YMCA teams from Cleveland, Akron, Cincinnati, Warren and Wheeling, W. Va., are scheduled.

Wrestling will again be on the Central Branch agenda in March, when the "Y" will host the Ohio-West Virginia Area YMCA 1965 championships.

"A snarl of cars with snarling drivers," rural Ohioan Mary Gest said after the glares and unintelligible words of several 70-mile-per-hour freeway drivers led her to exit. "And I was pushing the legal 50," she added, puzzled.

Some motorists who drive out of their way to avoid the expressways snort at the mention of speed, and saving time.

"Who's in that big a hurry?"

Chronologically, their answers span a period of time. One said, "Maybe we'd better go back to horses." Another retorted, "If I want to save time I use the telephone."

In this respect, the Bulletin of Commerce estimates that motor vehicle operators" will pocket $2.9 billion in time and cost savings this year from usage of the nation's interstate highway system. Locally, of course, users of the Columbus expressway system will share a cut of that profit.

But others, apparently, will sacrifice their share of such profits to preserve their peace of motoring.

"When your car breaks down, then you're really in trouble," many women drivers fear.

They point to lack of telephone facilities, increased service and towing costs, discourtesy of other motorists who ignore their distress, and the danger of being a lone pedestrian in the event of a breakdown.

Some drivers, who ignore the expressway, question its economy and fairness to taxpayers.

"Wouldn't four good, limited-duty streets, equally spaced each direction across the city, serve more taxpayers more fairly?" asks Clarence Carlisle, 1670 E. Main-st.

Along this line, John P. Coleman, executive director of the Ohio Municipal League, recently said that although the state maintains interstate highways within unincorporated areas, it places the "burden" on the larger municipalities through which the superhighways run.

Coleman said street funds go first for freeway maintenance, since interstate highways are considered high priority, at the expense of other roads and streets within corporate boundaries.

In any event, the expressway is probably here to stay. In time, maybe many now-wary motorists will venture onto it and, like one motorist, find reward for their daring.

"When I get on the expressway," he said, "I often find myself visiting a part of Columbus I haven't seen for years. It's refreshing, unless I'm in a hurry."

Boys Industrial School has caused a furor of late. Most state officials, especially those who toured the place, agre that it needs something. But what? Solons reportedly said $5 million to rebuild the 105-year-old school may just be "pouring money down a rathole."

Other solons said BIS officialdom has suffered a "complete breakdown from top to bottom."

Once again, the state astutely recognizes one of its own problems and is stumped as what to do with it.

Centers—

having no vo-ag program of their own utilize the facilities of those such as Groveport-Madison, which do have, probably on a tuition basis. This procedure would make courses available to those interested in farming per se through programs established. The centers would offer only what cannot now be obtained.

The business education courses taught in the district schools are considered adequate at the level offered. However, with employers asking for high stenographic, mechanical-clerical, office duplication and data processing and accounting skills, the centers will provide advanced training in these areas.

In the field of distributive education a general unit would be set up to serve only the students from schools where no program is plausible in the home district. A need is seen for specialized units in fields of food service, recreation and commercial art, display and advertising.

To Offer 13 Trades

In the area designed to prepare students to enter a trade or industry as an advanced learner, 13 courses are envisioned. These were selected after analysis of student interest and skills in demand.

They are machine trades, auto mechanics, radio and TV (including electronics), cosmetology, auto body and fender repair, drafting, sheet-metal and welding, dental assistants, practical nursing, chemical lab assistants, electric motors and their controls and wiring, commercial art and carpentry.

Although student interest is currently low in the machine trades, electrical motors, body repair, welding and sheet metal, electronics and carpentry, the employer demand for such skills is sufficient to merit an effort to arouse this interest in potential trainees.

Nine Boardmen

The proposed school district would be governed by a board made up of members of the boards of the 14 districts. State law requires that the districts be proportionately represented. It is likely that the suburban districts would each have one seat (totaling five) while the county districts would have four seats divided among them.

Terms which would be put on a staggered basis would be for two years, and it would be this board which would determine the actual location of the centers.

Students in the program would be considered part of the enrollment of their home district schools, continuing extracurricular activities in the individual schools, utilizing the guidance and counseling of those schools and graduating with their respective classes.

Transportation Studied

Although transportation details are incomplete, it is believed the students would be collected at their regular high schools with special bus runs from these schools to the vocational centers. (It is the transportation problems that led to the inclusion of the academic courses necessary for graduation to be included in the vocational school curriculum.)

Quick stated that careful screening of students must be developed by the future board and probably will be based upon student interest, ability and performance, close working relations with parent and student, available space and the recommendations of the local district guidance counselors.

Uneducated Become Dependents

Economists have pointed out that no longer can we afford to turn out uneducated young people from our schools who will become dependent upon welfare programs for their existence.

It is estimated that the county will be asked to provide 250 new workers a week from 1970 on. Not one of these will be needed in non-skilled or common labor categories.

The problem has been spelled out, but Quick stressed that the job of carrying out a program which will meet the need remains with local school people, their boards of education and the general public.

A timetable has been recommended which started with presentation of the proposals to the participating schools two weeks ago.

If the districts decide in favor of the program it can be presented for approval to the State Board of Education at its February meeting.

Final Okay in March

Approval in March by the local boards can clear the way for appointment of the joint vocational district Board of Education, and the organization, study research and planning which will determine the procedures which must be followed.

November of 1965 or May of 1966 would be the earliest that a bond issue could be put on the ballot. An okay from residents of the new district at either date would permit completion of at least one center by the fall of 1967.

THEY PLAY CARDS AND TRICKS WITH THE SAME ENTHUSIASM

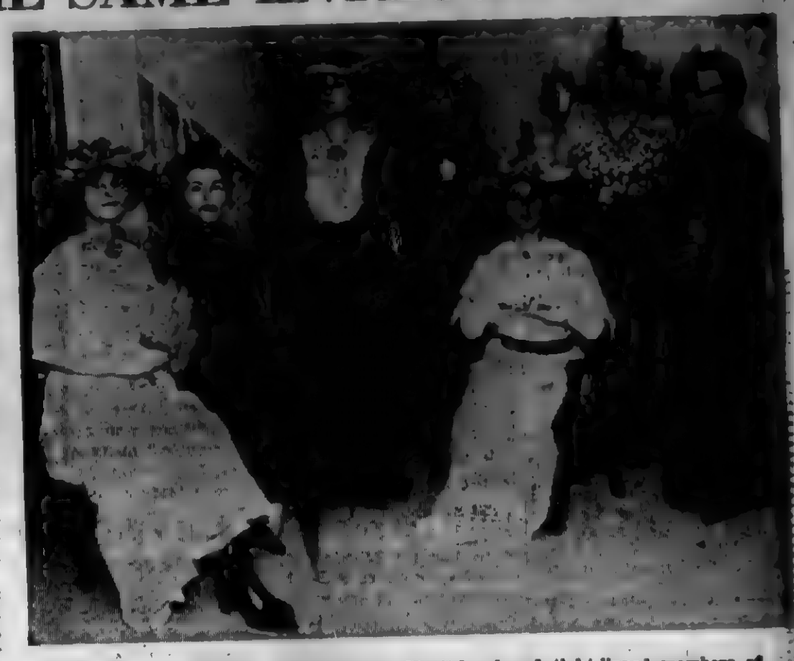
One of the liveliest bridge clubs in town got its start 10 years ago and hasn't slowed down since.

The still nameless club, composed of Lincoln Village women, met through Welcome Wagon in 1954. The only times the gals let up on their shenanigans is, according to one member, "when one or more of us are pregnant."

A recent prank was pulled on Ann Butler. The Butlers moved to a new home in the village, giving the "sneaky seven" a good reason or at least a little reason for trickery. And for these gals a little reason is all it takes.

Ann is the owner of about 300 Early American and Gay 90s costumes. One member was delegated to "borrow" a costume from Ann on the pretext that her neighbor was going to a masquerade party. Unsuspecting Ann readily loaned them and even threw in a few extra so the neighbor could take her pick.

The picture best describes what happened next. Garbed in their Victorian garments, the seven enlisted a photographer and posed, poker faces and all, for the picture.



Late one evening they drove to the Butlers' new home and Ann and her husband watched as the gals unveiled a huge mural type portrait. "My clothes! My bridge club!" screamed Ann. "Yes, and it's going to hang over your fireplace," stated one of the girls.

Another incident, involving Carol Clark, happened when Carol and her husband moved to Upper Arlington—a very reserved section of Upper Arlington. Dressed in the shabbiest of rags, the gals went from house to house, and in all seriousness asked, "Do y'all know where our cuzins Carol and Bob Clark is livin'?"

Carol, though she thought it was very funny, was eyed suspiciously by her neighbors from that night on.

But perhaps the most recent joke was instigated by Ann. She shared with us the picture and the story printed here. None of the other gals ever had an inkling that this picture would ever leave its spot over the fireplace.

You've had your laugh, Ann, but watch out — this gives them another reason for making you their pigeon.

HOLIDAY SHOPPERS ARE INVITED

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS, shoe totes and stockings will be among the items on sale when the Virginia Wright Mothers' Guild Inc., holds its annual card party and holiday bazaar. Items and baked goods will go on sale beginning at 10 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 18. From left are: Mrs. Edward Lind, 2669 Donna-dr; Mrs. William L. Clancy, 459 Oakland Park-av, and Mrs. Paul Wolfe, 2899 Fishinger-rd. Tickets may be obtained at the door.

TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Dr. Harvey S. Galloway, district superintendent of the Central Ohio District Church of the Nazarene will be guest speaker at the District Center Church of the Nazarene, 2590 Morse-rd, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 15. Rev Richard L. Strickland is pastor.

YOUTH APPRECIATION WEEK was kicked off last Thursday when Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner spoke to a group of youngsters who were luncheon guests of the South Side Optimists. The young men had been chosen to represent their schools as typical of the youth who fail to make sensational headlines as delinquents, but instead, day by day have built reputations as outstanding school citizens. The boys heard the mayor challenge them to climb the mountains, swim the rivers and span the canyons before them. This Thursday, Nov. 12, the boys will join similar groups from all over the city at a Grand Awards Banquet, sponsored by Columbus Optimists at the Fairgrounds Youth Center. Charles Spohn, Jr., director of the Ohio State Marching Band, will be the principal speaker with Dr. Jimmy Hull emceeing the affair.

Interest Lost In High-Cost Liquor Law

It has cost Ohio taxpayers almost $12,000 to find out that neither they, their city councils nor county commissioners have any widespread interest in the issuance or location transfer of retail liquor permits, it was reported by Ohio Department of liquor control Director Donald D. Cook.

Cook's agency has been compelled by law since 1963 to notify local legislative authorities of every application for new liquor licenses or location transfers and hold hearings on local objections.

The director claims more than 2,000 notices were mailed to local authorities during the law's first year and only five percent (110) were acted upon at all by local areas.

In 44 of the 110 instances, department hearings went to waste because no local officials appeared, as required, to testify on the objection.

In still another 17 cases, the objections were improperly filed, reducing to just 49, two and a half percent of the possible total, the number of hearings which could be fully conducted.

Of these 49, the majority, 26, found the department's hearing officer overruling local objections because of inadequate evidence.

In only 23 of the potential 2,000 cases were local protests found valid.

It has cost the department's legal section an estimated $10,000 to conduct the hearings, mail correspondence, take and maintain records and provide hearing officers since the law became effective. The department's permit division has expended another $1,500 to $2,000 in notifying local officials of pending permit changes in their jurisdiction.

"This has been a costly lesson. We are presenting the facts to all Ohioans because we believe they should be aware of the situation," commented Cook.

OSU Strollers Slate Comedy

The Strollers Dramatic Society, Ohio State University's independent student-drama group, has scheduled the New York comedy hit by Arthur L. Copit entitled, "O, Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad," through Nov. 14 at University Hall on the OSU campus.

Jane Reynolds directs the fantasy while Edye Mendelson, a Bexley housewife, portrays Madame Rosepettle, a predatory mother. Mrs. Rosepettle's romantic interest, Commodore Roseabove, is played by Samuel Arnoff, who was trained at New York's Goodman Guild. Gary Tucker, a participant in the Antioch Shakespeare Festival, plays the inhibited son, Jonathan. Danny Philips is Rosalie, Jonathan's girl visitor.

The Midsummer Nights Dream" The ABC-TV special will mark The Beatles' longest appearance on American television.

'Anything Goes' Is Scheduled At Hartman

On stage at the Hartman Theatre Nov. 19, 20, and 21 will be a revival of Cole Porter's musical comedy "Anything Goes," about a young man in love, who assumes the identity of public enemy No. 1, aboard a luxury liner to win his sweetheart.

This farce is presented by the Independent Players. Seven tunes from the show lasted through the years. The title song, "Anything Goes," catapulted Ethel Merman to fame in 1934. Also "Blow Gabriel Blow," "It's Delovely," "You're the Tops," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "All Thru the Night," "It's Friendship," and others will delight the Hartman audiences.

Tickets are available from any IPC member or call AM. 2-8709.

COMEDY DATED

The first production of the new season for Grove City's Little Theatre On Broadway will be presented Nov. 20-22.

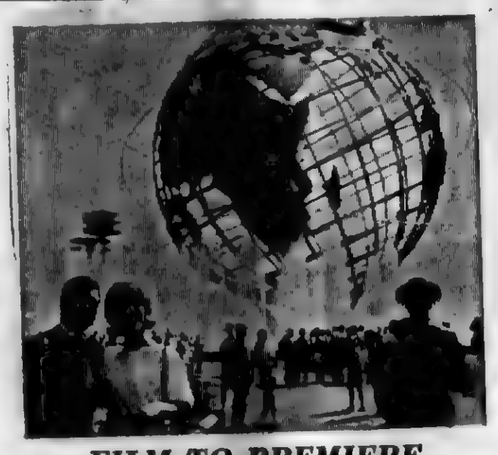
Anniversary Waltz, a situation comedy, will play at the new Brookpark junior high school.

Seminar On Commercial Writing Set

A seminar on writing commercials, free to the public, has been set for Tuesday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m. at the Columbus Center of Science and Industry, 280 E. Broad-st.

The program is one of a series sponsored by the Columbus Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

Participating in this discussion will be Dr. Robert Monagham of the Ohio State University Department of Speech, Robert Kingwell of the Continuity Department of WBNS-TV, and Dick Winn of the Continuity Department of WLW-C TV.



Students, advertisers, and others interested in this seminar may call Charles Widney, special projects chairman of the Columbus Chapter of NATAS, at AM. 3-5441 for more information.

Mifflin Alumni Group Forming

A group of graduates of Mifflin High School is trying to organize an alumni association.

An organizational meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov. 17, in the Mifflin Junior High gymnasium. A dance will follow the meeting.

All graduates and guests are asked to attend. For more information call Virginia Reed at 253-1975.

FILM TO PREMIERE

"WORLD'S FAIR Encounter," the latest dramatic production by Evangelist Billy Graham, will premiere in Central Ohio Nov. 15 through Dec. 5. The film may be seen at host churches listed in the advertisement on this page. The show tells the story of two young people, a graduate nurse from Montana and a Swiss-French exchange student enrolled as an architect major at New York University, who visit the World's Fair.

DUO APPEARING

LINCOLN LODGE, 4950 W. Broad-st, presents the talented vocal and instrumental duo of Foster and Ferrell for a three-week engagement which began Nov. 9. The shows will be presented in the cocktail lounge between the hours of 8:30 p.m. and 1:30 a.m. nightly.

'Finest Hour' To Be Shown

"If the British Empire and its Commonwealth last for a thousand years, men will still say 'This was their finest hour.'" In these immortal word, Winston Churchill summed up the "Battle of Britain."

A one-hour documentary on this period, which began in May, 1940, when Nazi air armadas began to pound the British Isles, will be seen Monday, Nov. 16, at 10 p.m. on TV-4. Richard Basehart narrates "The Battle of Britain."

MUSICAL COMING

The celebrated Stratford Festival Company of Canada will bring the Tyrone Guthrie-directed production of "HMS Pinafore" to Mershon Auditorium at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 18, as the third program of OSU's Great Artist "Scarlet" Series.

Tickets are available at

WMNI Starts New Program

WMNI started a new program last Sunday, titled "We Believe In Our Community" which will be aired for 13 weeks 9:05 to 9:30 p.m. every Sunday.

This Sunday, Nov. 15, Ed Hughes, president of the Central Ohio Better Business Bureau will be the guest.

During the three-month run of "We Believe In Our Community" WMNI plans to talk with other civic and business leaders as well as educators, and labor leaders, extracting from them their part in, and plans for, the continued growth of the Central Ohio community.

WMNI also announced that there is a contest connected with this series, with a $100 prize for the best letter from a listener telling why he believes in his community.

NOV 1964

With This Ring . . .

Last year in Franklin County alone 3079 couples made application for matrimony.

Marriage is not a unique happening. But to each and every couple who pronounces the words, 'I Do,' it is, for most, the most significant and special occasion of their entire lives.

In the dawn of civilization, when a man decided he wanted a mate, everything was settled by his supplying the demand. Social order and the coming of religion gave birth to our present system of nuptial procedure.

The 1964 system, though quite an improvement morally, is nevertheless extremely complex — at least in the eyes of our ancestors.

But the whirl is a happy movement. The preparations, the search for the nest and necessities prove well worth the effort and provide warm bonuses of memories so many years later.

Friday, Nov. 6, marked the end of pre-nuptial preparations and the beginning of wedded life for one such couple who graciously allowed The Spectator camera to follow them down the path to the altar — a path usually reserved for only bride and groom.

The bride and groom — Bonnie McEntire and Roger Street — were the subjects. This is basically their story but if you look close you might see a glimpse of a young couple you once knew.

Their particular story even has the story book twist. He was the senior class president; she, the Homecoming Queen.

But Roger and Bonnie were not strangers when they attended West High School. They had dated for more than five years prior to their wedding day and known each other well before that as members of the same church.

Roger succeeded in convincing Bonnie that she should be his wife the second time he proposed, and the setting was nothing like the great writers would have you believe — the important answer to the important question coming "one evening over at her parents' house."

Since that evening, the couple has spent most after-work-hour time piecing together all the items which need to be done before the church ceremony.

The pictures here on this page only represent a few of the preparations which Roger and Bonnie and thousands of other couples faced before exchanging vows.

There were rehearsals, meeting with the photographer, selection of bridesmaids' dresses, purchasing of gifts for members of the wedding party, arrangements for flowers, purchase of wedding cake, mints and nuts, checking on furniture delivery, arrangements for gas, light and water at the apartment, honeymoon plans, etc., etc., etc.

The busy whirl of events are memories of the past now for Bonnie and Roger (that is, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Street). One kind of life has closed, another is just beginning.

But there are other couples dreaming through the same store windows; walking through those vacant apartments which suddenly belong.

And somewhere today—in fact, right at this moment—there is another Roger meeting another Bonnie and beginning to walk down that long but short, tiring but happy path toward a ring and an agreement before God.

SELECTION OF the wedding ring, symbol of marriage union, took its place on the busy schedule of Bonnie McEntire, 840 Wilson-rd, and Roger Street, 102 N. Brinker-av. Since both bride and groom filled daylight hours with their respective jobs, many evenings prior to their Nov. 6 exchange of vows were spent making those 1001 preparations.

THERE'S A TIME TO LISTEN . . . A TIME TO LAUGH

METICULOUS CARE is given to every detail of the wedding gown. Bonnie's dress of white velvet is given careful scrutiny by the bride on final inspection. Like most other girls, Bonnie spent some eight hours looking for "the" gown, spent two more hours in two fitting sessions.

SERIOUS REFLECTION on the step they are about to take is mirrored by Roger and Bonnie (above) in session with Hillcrest Baptist pastor, Rev. David L. Fish. Rev. Fish pointed out that marriage is religious more than social ceremony in which the bride and groom make an agreement before God to make the most of their marriage. Plenty of window shopping (below) is a must for every young couple planning for the big day. Bonnie and Roger agreed readily upon color, differed in other respects while selecting furniture for their apartment.

ALONE TOGETHER in the vacant Worthington apartment soon to become "home," Roger and Bonnie are silhouetted in their kitchen making moving plans. Like most young couples, bride and groom spent many hours searching for their initial residence as man and wife, looked two months before deciding on north location.

DEPUTY CLERK Cecil S. Glynn administers oath to Bonnie and Roger (picture at left) as they apply for their marriage license at Franklin County Court House. Ohio law stipulates five day waiting period before issuance of license, one of final steps leading to couple's wedding day.

AS HUSBAND and wife for the first time, Bonnie and Roger depart (right) from Hillcrest Baptist Church following the wedding ceremony amid a flurry of well-placed rice.

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Sat., Nov. 28th — 10:00 a.m.

Case No. 215852

Newton A. Thatcher, Treasurer — Plaintiff, vs. Northwest Boulevard Company, et al—Defendant.

Court of Common Pleas of Franklin County, Ohio

In pursuance of an Order of Sale from said court to me directed:
I will offer for sale at public auction
AT THE DOOR OF THE COURT HOUSE
In the City of Columbus
Franklin County, Ohio
The following described real estate situated in the county of Franklin and State of Ohio and in the city of Grandview Heights, Ohio

Known as Adjacent to 885 W. Goodale St.
Vacant Land Only.

Being a strip of land of irregular dimensions running through Lots Numbers Eight (8) and Nine (9) of Northwest Boulevard Plat; No. 6 Addition, as the same are numbered and delineated upon the recorded plat thereof, of record in Plat Book 18, page 22, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio; said strip running eastwardly from the west line of said Lot No. 9 to the mid-part of said Lot No. 8, thence running in a general north-northeasterly direction to the north line of said Lot No. 9 at the mid-part thereof and being in the southerly line of Goodale Street and being more particularly bounded as follows:

On the northerly and westerly sides by the south line of Goodale Street; a tract of land conveyed to the W. W. Williams Company by deed signed Feb. 27, 1926 and shown in Deed Book 648, page 140: a tract of land conveyed to The Columbus Conveyor Co. signed June 16, 1919 and shown in Deed book 706, page 486: and the westerly line of said Lot No. 8; on the southerly side by a tract of land conveyed to B. F. Patterson on May 28, 1931 and shown in Deed Book 644, page 609: and on the easterly and southeasterly sides by a strip of ground described in a contract by the Northwest Boulevard Company with the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Co., signed on Aug. 2, 1918 and shown in Miscellaneous Record 12, page 464, Recorder's Office, Franklin County, Ohio.

Appraised at $1,200.00

Terms of Sale: To be sold for not less than 2/3 the appraised value. $100.00 cash at time of sale. Balance, cash, on confirmation.

Critics' Forum Selects Novel For Discussion

The third and final Critics' Forum will be held Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 8:15 in the St. Charles Seminary Little Theatre with Rev. John N. LeBauve of Indianapolis, Ind., reviewing "The Keepers of the House" by Shirley Ann Grau. This novel is involved with the issues of integration and miscegenation.

John Jones, vice-president of the Columbus Interracial Council, will moderate the forum and conduct the question and answer period.

Mrs. James Walz is general chairman. Mrs. William McCarrick, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Thompson and Mrs. Walter Holden, will host an informal reception following the forum.

Critics' Forum is sponsored by the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, Columbus Circle. Tickets are available at the door

Organizer To Appear Here

James Bevel, director of Direct Action for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, will be in Columbus Nov. 17 as guest speaker on the Ann Walker Show, WVKO, and will answer questions from the listening audience on the WBNS 'Open Mike' Show.

Jim Bevel was one of the organizers of COFO and of the Mississippi Free Press. He also was one of the organizers of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, and has worked in most of the action projects in the south including Birmingham, Savannah, Albany, Ga., Nashville, and other cities. Jim was responsible for organizing the mass demonstrations in Birmingham and for preventing riots there.

Join 25-Year Club

Nine employes of the White Castle System were recently honored at a 25-Year Club dinner held at local company headquarters, and presented with engraved gold watches by E. W. Ingram, Sr., president of the firm. Seventy of the club's 85 members are still on the active payroll, Ingram said.

Ohio School District Officials Meet In Three-Day Conference

More than 3,000 school officials from Ohio school districts arrived in Columbus Nov. 10, for a three-day look at the problems and issues facing public education. They met in the Veterans Memorial Building.

In 42 separate sessions, board members, superintendents and business officials discussed school policies involving the civil rights movement, recent U. S. Supreme Court rulings on religion in the schools, improved school financing both on local and state levels and the everyday problems of keeping the public informed about its schools.

During the conference, school board delegates from the 672 districts making up the Ohio School Boards Association, a co-sponsor of the conference, met to determine policies of the statewide organization.

Among considered proposals was one which authorized a study of possible use of private capital in the construction of school buildings. Other proposals included support of legislation making it unlawful to trespass, loiter or remain on school grounds in violation of board regulations and legislation to allow boards to purchase group insurance for teachers and other personnel.

The delegates elected officers for 1965.

In addition to the Ohio School Boards Association, sponsors of the three-day conference were the Ohio Association of School Administrators and the Ohio Association of School Business Officials.

Official delegates from Franklin County included: James Dougan of Franklin County; representatives from Bexley and Canal Winchester Local; Paul Langdon of Columbus City Schools; Martha Agler of Grandview Heights; Ralph Roof of Hamilton Local; Judith Gast of Jefferson Local.

John D. Hummell of Madison Local; Albert Haegele of Plain Local; John Irvine of Reynoldsburg Local; J. Brewster Holding of Scioto-Darby Local.

E. Bruce Taylor of the South-Western City; E. E. Barnett of Upper Arlington; Lee R. Headlee of Washington Local; T. G. O'Keefe of Westerville; William Lewis of Whitehall and Dr. Charles Dambach of Worthington.

Who's To Say Where Art Ends, Junk Begins?

MUNICH, GERMANY — Police are planning a crackdown on the unlicensed street-selling artists in this city's bohemian section of Schwabing, announced Criminal Police Director Herman Haering in a recent newspaper interview.

The Abendzeitung, Munich's leading evening paper, also quotes the city council's intention of adopting a new official line of "no license, no peddling" in its attempt to rid the street of jumping dolls, wire poodles, mosaic tabletops, painted stones and other tourist "souvenirs" that now clutter the traditional artists' market on Leopold Strasse.

As ominous as it sounds, however, the unofficial announcement remains unofficial to date — being greeted by snarls and scoffs from the artists themselves. Police Chief Haering insists that the change would be as unobtrusive as possible.

Since the Schwabing riots two years ago, the police have maintained a "velvet glove" policy toward the artists' quarter to avoid the buck publicity that descended on them in the world press. Nevertheless, with the submerged hostility on both sides, it's unlikely that any big change will take place without some rumbling.

Complaints against the open-air "Painter's Row" arise from several quarters. A main one is from old-time Schwabingers who say that the quarter has changed too much. They used to lovingly call it Schwabylon. Now they say it's more like Babylon.

Another series of complaints come from the owners of arts and crafts shops. Aside from their high rents, they pay taxes, which the street artists do not. They also want permission, so far denied, to stay open at night to cope with the severe street market competition.

The police have their own complaints, especially against those who make colored chalk drawings on the sidewalk and then pass the hat. They say this is only a high type of begging. Many of these chalk-artists are students who "go chalking" from town to town and pay for their vacations this way.

The group the police are most anxious to crack down on are the "wholesalers," whom they insist are dumping loads of Woolworth-type "Kitsch" landscapes on the street and hiring students to unload them on tourists for a percentage.

One of the big questions that the police have yet to answer is what the artistic standards are for selling in an open-air artists' market.

This isn't so easily answered. Inevitably, the question will arise as to whether the oil painted kitsch is any more artistic than jumping dolls or tinted wine bottles. And if it is, who is to decide?

A jury would have to be appointed, and who would appoint them? Also, who would pay them? These are some of the questions that any police crackdown faces, or as it was expressed by one painter: "It might all be over but the shouting, but the shouting can go on for a long, long time."

Local Scenes To Be Shown In WW Film

Critics' Forum Selects Novel For Discussion

The third and final Critics' Forum will be held Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 8:15 in the St. Charles Seminary Little Theatre with Rev. John N. LeBauve of Indianapolis, Ind., reviewing "The Keepers of the House" by Shirley Ann Grau. This novel is involved with the issues of integration and miscegenation.

John Jones, vice-president of the Columbus Interracial Council, will moderate the forum and conduct the question and answer period.

Mrs. James Walz is general chairman. Mrs. William McCarrick, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Thompson and Mrs. Walter Holden, will host an informal reception following the forum.

Critics' Forum is sponsored by the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, Columbus Circle. Tickets are available at the door

Organizer To Appear Here

James Bevel, director of Direct Action for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, will be in Columbus Nov. 17 as guest speaker on the Ann Walker Show, WVKO, and will answer questions from the listening audience on the WBNS 'Open Mike' Show.

Jim Bevel was one of the organizers of COFO and of the Mississippi Free Press. He also was one of the organizers of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, and has worked in most of the action projects in the south including Birmingham, Savannah, Albany, Ga., Nashville, and other cities. Jim was responsible for organizing the mass demonstrations in Birmingham and for preventing riots there.

Join 25-Year Club

Nine employes of the White Castle System were recently honored at a 25-Year Club dinner held at local company headquarters, and presented with engraved gold watches by E. W. Ingram, Sr., president of the firm. Seventy of the club's 85 members are still on the active payroll, Ingram said.

Ohio School District Officials Meet In Three-Day Conference

More than 3,000 school officials from Ohio school districts arrived in Columbus Nov. 10, for a three-day look at the problems and issues facing public education. They met in the Veterans Memorial Building.

In 42 separate sessions, board members, superintendents and business officials discussed school policies involving the civil rights movement, recent U. S. Supreme Court rulings on religion in the schools, improved school financing both on local and state levels and the everyday problems of keeping the public informed about the schools.

During the conference, school board delegates from the 672 districts making up the Ohio School Boards Association, a co-sponsor of the conference, met to determine policies of the statewide organization.

Among considered proposals was one which authorized a study of possible use of private capital in the construction of school buildings. Other proposals included support of legislation making it unlawful to trespass, loiter or remain on school grounds in violation of board regulations and legislation to allow boards to purchase group insurance for teachers and other personnel.

The delegates elected officers for 1965.

In addition to the Ohio School Boards Association, sponsors of the three-day conference were the Ohio Association of School Administrators and the Ohio Association of School Business Officials.

Official delegates from Franklin County included: James Dougan of Franklin County; representatives from Bexley and Canal Winchester Local; Paul Langdon of Columbus City Schools; Martha Agler of Grandview Heights; Ralph Roof of Hamilton Local; Judith Gast of Jefferson Local.

John D. Hummell of Madison Local; Albert Haegele of Plain Local; John Irvine of Reynoldsburg Local; J. Brewster Holding of Scioto-Darby Local.

E. Bruce Taylor of the South-Western City; E. E. Barnett of Upper Arlington; Lee R. Headlee of Washington Local; T. G. O'Keefe of Westerville; William Lewis of Whitehall and Dr. Charles Dambach of Worthington.

Who's To Say Where Art Ends, Junk Begins?

MUNICH, GERMANY — Police are planning a crackdown on the unlicensed street-selling artists in this city's bohemian section of Schwabing, announced Criminal Police Director Herman Haering in a recent newspaper interview.

The Abendzeitung, Munich's leading evening paper, also quotes the city council's intention of adopting a new official line of "no license, no meddling" in its attempt to rid the street of jumping dolls, wire poodles, mosaic tabletops, painted stones and other tourist "souvenirs" that now clutter the traditional artists' market on Leopold Strasse.

As ominous as it sounds, however, the unofficial announcement remains unofficial to date — being greeted by snarls and scoffs from the artists themselves. Police Chief Haering insists that the change would be as unobtrusive as possible.

Since the Schwabing riots two years ago, the police have maintained a "velvet glove" policy toward the artists' quarter to avoid the black publicity that descended on them in the world press. Nevertheless, with the submerged hostility on both sides, it's unlikely that any big change will take place without some rumbling.

Complaints against the open-air "Painter's Row" arise from several quarters. A main one is from old-time Schwabingers who say that the quarter has changed too much. They used to lovingly call it Schwabylon. Now they say it's more like Babylon.

Another series of complaints come from the owners of arts and crafts shops. Aside from their high rents, they pay taxes, which the street artists do not. They also want permission, so far denied, to stay open at night to cope with the severe street market competition.

The police have their own complaints, especially against those who make colored chalk drawings on the sidewalk and then pass the hat. They say this is only a high type of begging. Many of these chalk-artists are students who "go chalking" from town to town and pay for their vacations this way.

The group the police are most anxious to crack down on are the "wholesalers," whom they insist are dumping loads of Woolworth-type "Kitsch" landscapes on the street and hiring students to unload them on tourists for a percentage.

One of the big questions that the police have yet to answer is what the artistic standards are for selling in an open-air artists' market.

This isn't so easily answered. Inevitably, the question will arise as to whether the oil painted kitsch is any more artistic than jumping dolls or tinted wine bottles. And if it is, who is to decide?

A jury would have to be appointed, and who would appoint them? Also, who would pay them? These are some of the questions that any police crackdown faces, or as it was expressed by one painter: "It might all be over but the shouting, but the shouting can go on for a long, long time."

Local Scenes To Be Shown In WW Film

The first showing in Columbus of a new documentary film, "The Welcome Wagon," will be held before a specially invited audience at the Jai Lai Restaurant, Nov. 23, 8 p.m.

Featured in the film is a round table discussion at Franklin County Council of Churches. Mrs. Norma Kientz of Hilliard will be shown making a call on a newcomer. There are also scenes shot in Grove City, downtown Columbus and on the Hilltop.

The organization is also planning a field training class for women who wish to train as hostesses. Classes will be held Nov. 16 through 24, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily at Olentangy Inn. For further information call 274-9903.

Theater, Moling Appointment Aired At Council

'HAPPINESS IS A HOLIDAY WARDROBE'

"MODEL" PRACTICE for poise and grace, in the time-honored "book-on-head" technique, is tried by members of Bexley High's Girls' Athletic Club members, in preparation for their style show Monday, Nov. 23. "Happiness Is a Holiday Wardrobe" will be presented at the school at 3:45. Parents and students are invited and tickets, at 25 cents, are available at the door. From left are Carol Bartholomew, Janie McKenny, Carol Lowenthal, Linda Loeffler, Sue Blase and Jessie Davidson.

The attention of Whitehall Councilmen was divided Tuesday night between plans for construction of a new theater, and political theatrics.

Republicans, indicating disapproval at the last meeting of a blanket change in the city code that would permit construction of any indoor theater, did an about face and joined Democrats in unanimously approving the ordinance.

The measure opens the way for a new, luxury theater on E. Broad-st near Beechcreek.

And as was expected, a Democratic reaction was registered to the recently announced intention to name former Mayor Walter B. Moling as Whitehall tax commissioner.

Moling is slated to replace Irvin Beck, who has announced his retirement effective Dec. 31.

Local Republicans, in the name of party unity, prevailed upon Moling to accept the appointment and abandon his plan to challenge Mayor William H. Holzhause in the May GOP primary.

Councilman Marvin H. Levine, in a statement read at the close of council meeting, said that, "The tax commissioner's position is not a political plaything. It should not be used to fulfill a political sellout."

Levine served notice that he has asked City Solicitor Paul Haytcher to prepare legislation returning the tax commissioner's department to the auditor's office, and placing the tax department under civil service.

Levine concluded, "The mayor has previously stated that City Hall isn't large enough for Mr. Moling and himself. Since we haven't enlarged City Hall, I would like to arrange it so that Mayor Holzhause won't have to put up with, and I quote, 'an intolerable situation.' "

The new $5 million theater, proposed by developer Charles Sugarman, would be a first-run, luxury motion picture house, equipped to show cinerama, cinemascope and any other process now on the market.

The change in the city's zoning code, passed Tuesday night, permits the construction of indoor theaters in general commercial districts.

In other action, council authorized the construction of storm sewer and drains on Westphal-av from McAllister-av to the north line of Pinecrest Subdivision.

Council also approved a resolution for the improvement of E. Main-st from the east to the west corporation lines, in participation with the state.

Plans call for resurfacing, installation of new curbs, sidewalks, drainage and utility work.

An ordinance to provide for a special permit for a new car wash at 3850 E. Main-st was tabled indefinitely, after council was advised that the request had been withdrawn.

The city code was also amended when it was discovered the section which prescribes penalties for traffic violations omitted the proper penalty for reckless driving.

Council 'Dumps' Plans For Berwick 'Landfill'

By FRANK RYAN

In his heyday, Fred Astaire never danced a more deft routine than was exhibited Monday night by Columbus City Council members.

They "dumped" the idea of locating a "landfill" near the Berwick area; "pirouetted" away from any criticism for the proposal, and then awarded Service Director Warren J. Cremean their version of the "purple heart" for the wounds he suffered in the skirmish.

In short form, the city's problem, alternatives and solution looked like this at Monday night's session:

The city must find additional "landfill" area because the "landfill" operation south of the Frank-rd sewage treatment plant is usurping an area supposedly reserved for disposal of sludge from the plant. The city is "flirting" with a citation from State Health Department officials.

The three alternative areas available included a Morrison-rd site, the Refugee-rd - Alum Creek location (near Berwick), and expanded use of property owned by the City Recreation Department at Third-av and Olentangy River-rd.

The Morrison-rd proposal called for purchase of 105 acres for $367 500. The Berwick area plan would cost the city about $243,000 for 170 acres. The former offered the advantage of a relatively safe distance from any centers of population. Not so with the latter.

The dilemma for council was that choice of the Morrison-rd site might seem less than fiscally sound, while a vote for the Berwick area spot would be less than astute politics. But there were many more voters than economists in the council chamber, and it appeared that the Morrison-rd proposal was going to be chosen.

The previously tabled proposal was brought back for action after a unanimous vote to suspend council rules. But just prior to the call for a vote, City Auditor John H. Price reminded the legislators that he had not certified the availability of funds for the land purchase. It was at this point that council showed its collective adroitness.

In quick succession, council voiced 7-0 decisions to:

Place back "on the table" the Morrison-rd proposal; assure the Berwick residents by resolution that the Refugee-rd - Alum Creek location would be permanently banished from consideration, and resolved that Cremean should further explore use of the Recreation Department property as a temporary solution.

Although the Recreation Commission must give its approval before its lands can be used for purposes other than recreation, there was no argument on the suggestion. There was also no representative of the Recreation Department or Commission at that section of the council meeting.

It must be said to the credit of Berwick residents that they presented a compelling and orderly case for their unalterable position against any "landfill" anywhere within sight or smelling distance of the residents.

They presented tangible evidence of past and present "landfill" conditions against what they termed a "theoretical" condition proposed by Cremean.

Cremean argued that there is little relationship to some areas presently referred to as "landfills" and the operation proposed by the city. But, lacking visible proof that a "landfill" does not have to be odorous and unsightly, Berwick residents were unmoved by the promise of eventual beauty and expanded recreational facilities.

Cremean, who has been working on the "landfill" problem since last February, was forced to settle for the dubious honor of a vote of

Barnett Still Not Ready For Pupils

Barnett Elementary School opening, postponed from Sept. to Oct. 1, then to Oct. 15 and finally to Nov. 1, is still not ready for occupancy, and Columbus school officials have stopped predicting a completion date.

The new elementary, on Barnett-rd just north of Livingston-av, has been delayed mostly by the slow delivery of material, according to C. L. Dumaree, assistant school superintendent.

Students scheduled to attend Barnett are being transported by bus to other schools. They will continue to attend classes in their temporary schools that are clean, orderly and warm until Barnett is completed.

CSSO HEARS COURT VIEW OF DELINQUENCY

Families Now Held Together Only By Mutual Happiness

Homes in which interdependence has vanished were pinpointed as the root of juvenile delinquency by Frederick L. Faust of the Demostic Relations and Juvenile Court.

Speaking before the members of the Council of South Side Organizations last Thursday, the director of court services stressed that youth simply hasn't learned to accept a family-life that is held together only by the happiness to be gained from it.

In previous generations each person took a role that was necessary for the family's very survival. Dad was the breadwinner, mother was the homemaker and Johnny kept the woodbox full.

Dad Can Push Buttons

Today, Faust states, Mother is trained to make her own living, Dad can push the button on an automatic washer or put the frozen French fries in the oven and Johnny is a complete economic liability.

When a family "works" based on mutual satisfaction, according to Faust, it is wonderful, but it is delicate, and can easily fall apart.

He quoted statistics showing that 10 years ago cases of home truancy and incorrigibility for boys was eighth in frequency of cases in Franklin County and seventh for girls. Today it is second for boys and first for girls.

He touched upon the "gutteral syndrome" which has put some children a year and a half behind their contemporaries by the time they enter school.

Members Grunt at Each Other

These children come from homes where communication is limited to monosyllables such as "Yeah," "Huh?" and "Nope." The child enters school without a workable vocabulary or the benefit of the parents' experience.

Conceding that delinquency is serious and that Columbus has its share, escaping only the problems of organized gangs and drug addiction known to many metropolitan areas, Faust stressed that at least 95 percent of the children between six and 18 are unknown to the courts.

And in Columbus, of the five percent who get into trouble, little more than one-fourth ever repeat.

Few Hard-Core Delinquents

"This leaves us with about one percent hard core delinquents, and they can raise a lot of h——," he said.

Faust broke the problem down into three areas, those of identification, diagnosis and treatment.

The first is easy, with the chronic offenders well-known to police and potential trouble makers tagged by their teachers.

But diagnosis, the factor which makes the difference in the handling of adults and juveniles, is difficult.

"We feel it is the obligation of society to learn the 'why' of anti-social acts when there is still a chance that the culprit's thinking may be changed," Faust explained.

He went on to say that the nature of the offense is not nearly as important as the motivation behind it. He gave as an example the boy picked up for school truancy who might be so emotionally disturbed that only 24-hour confinement could benefit him, while investigation of a case of assault might show that it was a "one-shot deal" with there not being a chance in a million the youth would ever break the law again.

Diagnostic Services Inadequate

While praising our diagnostic centers as to the quality of their work he termed them entirely inadequate for quantity of cases handled.

With the waiting line for their services from three to six months long, the 30 percent of the cases which need psychological diagnosis are in trouble.

Five percent of the kids coming into court get such

Volunteer Worker Claims She's Selfish In Helping Helpless

Mrs. William Eason read in the Spectator last spring of the need for women with love and patience in their hearts to help at the Peck O' Wee Dam.

She hesitated before volunteering for the task — she knew it wouldn't be easy to face the severely mentally retarded children who have found haven in the home at 4200 E. Broad-st.

But she took her courage in hand and asked the director, Otto C. Heinzerling how she could help.

He told her what was needed — women who would feed and change the babies, help in the laundry, and give them the love that he describes as their "life line."

"It really shook me at first," the young woman who moved to Columbus from New York three years ago, explained.

"But now, I no longer see the handicaps of the children — just hear their desperate cry for attention."

Mrs. Eason claims that her motives in working several hours a week have become almost selfish. "I feel wonderful when I leave, knowing that I've helped these little ones whose needs are so basic."

"It's such a pleasure to see the children respond, some of whom can't even see you, when you speak to them in a soft voice," she smiled.

Mrs. Eason is one of a handful of women who devote a few hours a week to the children of the home. Ten times as many could be used.

Heinzerling explained that each child demands almost constant attention from the time he wakens in the morning until after the dinner hour, and the regular staff is overburdened.

The status of the home was changed recently with official recognition by the United States Treasury as an institution run only for charitable and educational purposes.

This has actually been the function of the foundation since its inception, but until the official sanction came from Uncle Sam this fall, the home was restricted from public appeal.

Now all contributions to its operation and building fund confidence from council for his efforts to date.

But if the residents of Berwick will hear no more from council on the subject of "landfills," it does not mean that council will not hear from the residents about other matters.

Obviously pleased by their victory through unity approach, Berwickites indicated that they will soon bring other matters to the attention of their legislative representatives.

There was enthusiastic talk of forming a Berwick Civic Association — with primary business calling for visits to council chambers on such matters as traffic signals, speed regulations and other area problems.

And yesterday's heroes may yet be tomorrow's bums.

diagnosis: in the balance, the judge just hopes he can make a good guess.

Faust believes that treatment is just as inadequate as the diagnostics.

He rued the fact that once a boy or girl gets in trouble and winds up in court, the school, the comunity and even the family have a tendency to "wash their hands of the whole affair."

"It is not the function of the courts to provide the resources that can prevent further delinquent acts," he emphasized.

School's Job to Educate

"It is still, for example, the job of the schools to educate the child. With its authority, the most the court can do is hold him still."

Faust listed several specific preventatives to delinquency which he feels are the key to the problem.

They all have something in common — they will cost money.

The first was the establishment of foot patrols in high delinquency areas, not only as a crime deterrent, but to allow the children to group up with respect and even affection for law enforcement.

A second field he mentioned was the placement of qualified teachers in the Sunday schools.

"The dedication of volunteer teachers does not make them well qualified to teach moral principles in a day when Judgement Day is no longer feared," he stated.

Don't Fear Damnation

The answer "Because the Bible says so" is no longer an adequate answer to youth's inquiry as to why he should not fight or steal, according to Faust.

And he was emphatic in the fact that schools are failing to train the child to meet the world as it is.

"Long division isn't enough," he said. "The young person today can better benefit from knowledge of installment buying, credit and interest rates."

He also believes that parents themselves are ignorant on how to help their children adjust to family life as it now exists.

Parents Need Training

To correct this he believes adult training in adolescent psychology should be offered through the recreation centers, schools and community councils.

He answered the doubt that parents could be convinced to participate, with the prediction that once they heard there was something which would actually help them, they would show up.

He also hit at the pocketbooks when he said that the diagnostic facilities which are supported largely through United Appeal cannot be expanded until the public digs a little deeper.

"When enough Cain is raised by the public, the money will appear," he predicted.

Churches Not a Cure Today

He left the CSSO the impression that delinquency is not a simple problem, and that a lot of people will have their fingers in the pie before it is solved.

Warning them that good parenthood cannot be legislated and that churches as operated today are becoming part of the disease rather than the cure, he put the burden on society as a whole.

Report Given

A total of 463 military and civilian base members received a free Christmas Seal X-ray during the annual visit of the Columbus and Franklin County Tuberculosis cruiser at Lockbourne AFB recently.

There were no actual cases of TB detected, but one case of emphysema and five other chest abnormalities were found, according to E. C. Strickland, base civilian personnel officer.

'Thread Of Community' Fashion Show Theme For Hadassah Chapter

Mrs. Jesse Shapiro, vocational education chairman of the Columbus Chapter of Hadassah, announces that this year's Hadassah Fashion Show, which will open on Tuesday, Nov. 24, 12:30 p.m. at the Columbus Plaza, will include an array of high-style modes enhanced by embroidery in vivid colors and intricate designs.

Entitled "The Thread of Contunity," the Hadassah collection comprises 28 chic costumes featuring ancient motifs from many lands, which have been applied to latest fashions by the students of the fashion department of Hadassah's Alice Seligsberg Vocational High School in Jerusalem, Israel.

Mrs. Ben Goodman who will narrate the show states that this year's fashions include avant garde evening gowns, hand-loomed woolen suits, and dresses of silk print and vivid blocked linen.

The Hadassah Fashion Show is touring the United States to help raise funds for Hadassah's network of vocational education institutions in Israil. Admission is $6 including lunch. Hadassah members and guests are welcome. Reservations may be made with any of the group chairmen: Mrs. Irvin Abromovitz, Chai; Mrs. Joseph Schaeffer, Shalom; Mrs. Alvin Schottenstein, Mitzvah; Mrs. Samuel Rosen, Ziona; Miss Helen Smith, B&P; Mrs. Allen Ringer, Lilo.

Mrs. Eugene Hammeroff, chairman of models, has named the following women as models: Mrs. Martin Adler, Mrs. David Brilliant, Mrs. Bernard Byrnes, Mrs. Edwin Cohen, Mrs. Alan Fireman, Mrs. Bernard Feitlinger, Mrs. William Gilbert, Mrs. Lou Goodman, Mrs. Melvin Kobre, Mrs. Henry Leeds, Mrs. Bernard Ruben, Mrs. B. Lee Skilken, Mrs. Pep Sinton, Mrs. Herbert Wiener and Mrs. Harris Jaffee.

Other committees include chairman of hostesses, Mrs. Martin Greenberg; decorations, Mrs. Howard Ucko, Mrs. Simon Dinitz; favors, Mrs. Bernard Barrish; awards, Mrs. Edward Ghitman; reservations, Mrs. Samuel Rosen; special guests, Mrs. George Molar; opening prayer, Mrs. Jack Marks and Mrs. Milton Levitan, accompanist.

Menorah Ball Proceeds Aid Many Youths

Two B'nai B'rith chapters in Columbus, Zion and Candlelight, are planning the 1964 "Menorah Ball" to be held Sunday, Nov. 22, at Tommy Henrich's. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m., followed by a special floor show featuring Ray Anthony and his Revue.

Proceeds from this project will benefit youngsters, adolescents and college students.

Bellefaire Children's Home, Cleveland, works with emotionally disturbed boys and girls who cannot adjust without professional guidance. The B'nai B'rith slogan reads: "None May Enter Who Can Pay . . . None Pay Who Enter Here."

Leo N. Levi Hospital, Hot Springs, Ark., treats arthritic and kindred diseases. Many patients are in wheel chairs and the members of both chapters knit lap robes and afghans for them.

The National Jewish Hospital in Denver has both adults and youngsters in treatment for tubercular and related diseases. Members carry on a year-round project of knitting sweaters for the young patients.

B'nai B'rith has a scholarship fund loan for boys and girls with aspirations for a college education. This help is given on the basis of need and is non-sectarian.

The Hillel Foundation at Ohio State University and Athens is a "home away from home" for many young people. They have access to books, music and lecture series . . . a kitchen for meals . . . counselling with Rabbi Harry Kaplan and his staff to help them with any problems that may arise.

Tickets for the ball may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Bernard Caplan.

Bar Mitzvah Of Scott Brandon To Be Saturday

Sabbath services will be held at Temple Tifereth Israel Friday, Nov. 20, 8 p.m. Rabbi Nathan Zelizer will speak on "On Thanksgiving." An oneg shabbat (fellowship tea) in the social hall will follow.

Services on Saturday morning begin at 9:15 a.m. Rabbi Zelizer will speak on "The Complete Man." The Bar Mitzvah of Scott Marsh Brandon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant G. Brandon, 68 S. Merkle-rd, will be celebrated.

If you've had disease problems in your graden this season, control next year will be easier if you rake up and burn all remaining plant debris, such as leaves, stems rather than composting or turning them under. If your soil needs organic matter, use and fruits, and burn them peat moss or similar material to be on the safe side.

PLAY SET AT BEXLEY HIGH

COLUMBUS JUNIOR THEATER of the Arts opened its second season of children's theater Nov. 15, with a sell-out performance of "The Princess and the Swineheard" at Battelle Memorial Institute auditorium. For those missing the opening, other performances are scheduled at Bexley High School Sunday, Nov. 22, at 3 p.m., and the Friday after Thanksgiving, Nov. 27, at Worthington High School, 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Cast includes, from left, seated, Sandy Simmons, 111 S. Cassingham-rd; Janet Pine, Worthington, and standing, Laurie Schaefer, 2435 Plymouth-av. Tickets are available from Mrs. Kiehner Johnson 235-7528; Mrs. Tom Hamilton, HU. 8-7771, or at the door.

Eastwood Adventists To Build On Napoleon

Services were held for the last time Nov. 14 at the former address of the Eastmoor Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

The property at 26 N. 21st-st, which has been the home of the Eastwood Church for the last 37 years, was sold recently to the Pilgrim Baptist Church.

Until the new church is built, services will be conducted in the auditorium of the church's junior academy, 270 Napoleon-av.

The church will be constructed on the same property on which the school and principal's home are located on Napoleon.

Pastor Kurt Kurz said construction on the new church will begin as soon as final plans are completed.

If there's desirable grass on less than 50 percent of your lawn, it's usually best to get rid of all the grass, prepare a new seedbed, and replant. Early fall is the best time. Mow closely, rake, then apply a chemical weed killer. Rake vigorously or cultivate to loosen the soil surface. Fertilize, lime if needed (a soil test will tell you), and plant the same way you would a new lawn.

Thanksgiving Service Set By Women Of Scottwood

The Women's Association of the Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd, will direct the Thanksgiving Service at 10:30 a.m. Nov. 22. Pulpit guest will be Mrs. Sherwood Carver, wife of the parish minister of First Community Church. A graduate of the University of Massachusetts, she is active in the Council of Community Churches, and was a representative to their Northern Ohio Conference last spring. She has selected as her topic, "Our Divine Discontent."

Laywomen participating in the service include Mrs. Henry Stark, 1442 Oakwood-av, Mrs. Virgilene Butler, 1310 Oakwood-av, who will lead the devotionals. Other women of the congregation will act as ushers and assume various duties of the church ordinarily delegated to laymen.

A family worship service is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. in lieu of church school, and children are encouraged to participate in this service with their parents. Lay minister, Keith Dull, 3302 Liv-Moor-dr, will lead the worship, assisted by Church School Superintendent S. D. Briggs, 3301 Scottwood-rd.

shrubs and evergreens may result in more winter injury than usual. Fruit trees are especially susceptible. Better wait until spring. Spring-flowering plants should be pruned right after flowering. Others can be pruned just before they leaf out.

Notice of Public Hearing
On Re-Zoning and Request for Special Permit
Case No. 199

A public hearing will be held by the Council of the City of Whitehall, Ohio, on Tuesday, Dec. 15, 1964, at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall, 390 S. Yearling Road, to consider the request of Simeon Enterprises, Inc., to re-zone (from General Commercial to Industrial) property on the north side of East Main Street, being Lot No. 199 of the Lowrie Brothers, East Broad Street, acre allotment, also known as 3618 E. Main Street, and to grant a special use permit for a machine shop for the fabrication of reinforced plastics and metal parts.

Complete legal description, proposed ordinance, and report of the planning and zoning commission are on file in the office of the Clerk of Council at City Hall.

Sarah V. Phillips
Deputy Clerk of Council

Sometimes the desire to run out the door and chuck it all is overpowering when we are confronted with the mess of an after-dinner table!

Sometimes, insight lets us see that our lives are quite a mess too. In fact, things seem such a jumble, that our reaction to this truth, if acknowledged, is, "What's the use?"

Well, of course, the only thing to do with the dishes is to take them to the sink, put them in hot water, and wash them with a good cleansing agent until they shine.

Less obvious, perhaps, is what to do with a messed-up life. We invite you to seek an answer in church this week. You are sure to find there the Power who will help you with your problems, a power who cares immeasureably for your soul.

"Casting all your care upon him, for he careth for you." I Peter 5:7

"And the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain." Isaiah 40:4b.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Society And Entertainment Editors To Exchange Vows

Mrs. John W. Johnson of Hillsboro is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Janet Ann Michael, to Mr. Edward Lee Beardshear, son of Mrs. Gerald D. Armstrong, of Granville. The bride-elect is the daughter of the late Harold D. Michael, Jr., and her fiance is the son of the late Edward Lee Beardshear, Sr.

Miss Michael was graduated from McClain High School, Greenfield, O., and Nationwide Beauty Academy. She attended the Chillicothe branch of Ohio University and is employed as Society Editor of the Spectator.

Mr. Beardshear is a graduate of Newark High School and attended Ohio State and Denison Universities where he became a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity. He is Entertainment Editor of the Spectator.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Prairie, L-V Garden Clubs Invite All To Open Meeting

The members of the Prairie Gardeners and the Lincoln Beautifiers are busy working out last minute details concerning their joint "open meeting" scheduled for Monday, Nov. 23, 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Prairie-Lincoln Elementary School, 4900 Amesbury-wy.

Serving as general co-chairmen will be Mrs. Henry Warner, Prairie Gardeners and Mrs. Donald E. Brunelle, of the Lincoln Village Beautifiers. Presiding at the tea table will be the two club presidents, Mrs. Philip N. Reger of the Lincoln Village Beautifiers, and Mrs. W. J. Stormont of the Prairie Gardeners.

The program "Holiday with the Starrs," will be presented by Mrs. John Starr of London, who will give a demonstration of holiday decorations for the home.

This meeting is open to anyone interested in garden club work and area garden clubs have been extended invitations, as well as regional and state officers of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs, of which both clubs are members.

Bishop To Consecrate Eastview Methodist

The resident bishop of the Ohio West Area of the Methodist Church, Francis Gerald Ensley, will consecrate the Eastview Methodist Church and preach in the consecration service, Sunday, Nov. 22, at 3 p.m. This service will mark the climax of a decade of service.

Eastview was constituted as a congregation in November 1954. The first unit was completed and occupied in November 1957. The recently completed phase of building saw the addition of a sanctuary, additional educational facilities, church office, and minister's study.

Ralph Orr and Son served as the architects; James Campbell and Associates, Inc. the general contractor.

The superintendent of the Columbus district, Dr. Louis R. Wolter; the ministers of Eastview, James B. Foster and Eli R. Anthony; Ralph Orr, architect; M. D. Coons, vice-president of Campbell and Associates, and Glenn Bundy, chairman of the board of trustees, will also participate in the service.

Friends and neighbors of the community are invited to tour the new facilities during the open house and tea which will conclude the activities.

Ex-Businessman To Give Lecture

The availability of true freedom and harmony will be emphasized in a public lecture to be given Monday, Nov. 23, 8 p.m., by Elbert R. Slaughter of Dallas, Tex.

Mr. Slaughter will speak at Second Church of Christ, Scientist, Park-st at First-av, under the auspices of Second Church on the subject "Christian Science: What It Is and What It Can Do For You." The lecture is free and local members have invited the public.

A member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Mr. Slaughter is a native of Edgewood, Tex. He became interested in Christian Science in 1936 when he accepted a friend's invitation to attend a Christian Science lecture. In 1943 he withdrew from a business career to devote his full time to the public practice of Christian Science healing.

LATIN CLUB INITIATES NEW MEMBERS

Solemn Service Set Nov. 20 For Late President

In observance of the anniversary of the assassination of the late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Agudas Achim Congregation will conduct a solemn memorial service Friday, Nov. 20, 8:15 in conjunction with the late family worship.

Rabbi Samuel W. Rubenstein will lead the tribute to our martyred president, and Canter Philip H. Gellman will chant the traditional prayer in behalf of his soul.

Members and friends of Agudas Achim are asked to participate in this public memorial service.

EXHIBITION SET

Some 45 pieces of oils, watercolors and sculpture will be on exhibit in Capital University's Schumacher Hall from Nov. 22 to Dec. 18, when members of the faculty and administration display works of art which they own.

LION's ROAR

By MIMI DEATON

Dave Herwald and Woody Jones were elected 1965-66 football co-captains last Tuesday at the football banquet. Dave also received a belt buckle as the award for two years on the varsity team, and a trophy was given to Woody for his third year award.

Also at the banquet, senior Jim Nowacki, this year's captain, was presented with a third-year trophy. Seniors receiving belt buckles were Gary Herwald, Tim Greiner and Joel Kaufher.

Joe Sebring, Tom Williamson, Ed Klopfer, Kenney Stone, Bob Simcox, Robbin Wells, Dave Fraach and Tom Miller are the seniors awarded a first year letter. Harvey Handler, Dan Vogel and Ed Wagstaff received service awards.

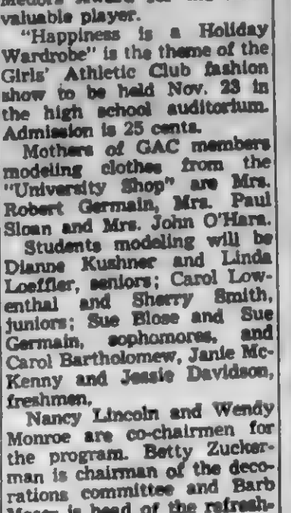
Juniors Pat Leach, Rick Weber, Chris Harbold, Mike Luby, Fred Grimm and Bruce Levin received first year letters. Sophomores Doug Felger and Paul Shultz also received letters.

New members of the Shoulder Pad Club (which inducts the toughest football players and boys who have made the most tackles in one season) are Jim Nowacki, Joel Kaufher, Gary Herwald and Dave Herwald.

Gary was chosen for the first team defense lineup in the CBL. Jim and Dave received honorable mention. Gary also received the Fred Medors Award for the most valuable player.

"Happiness is a Holiday Wardrobe" is the theme of the Girls' Athletic Club fashion show to be held Nov. 23 in the high school auditorium. Admission is 25 cents.

Mothers of GAC members modeling clothes from the "University Shop" are Mrs. Robert Germain, Mrs. Paul Sloan and Mrs. John O'Hara.



Students modeling will be Dianne Kushner and Linda Loeffler, seniors; Carol Lowenthal and Sherry Smith, juniors; Sue Blose and Sue Germain, sophomores, and Carol Bartholomew, Janie McKenny and Jessie Davidson, freshmen.

Nancy Lincoln and Wendy Monroe are co-chairmen for the program. Betty Zuckerman is chairman of the decorations committee and Barb Moser is head of the refreshment committee.

The Four Dimensions, a Bexley combo, and the Waysiders, an Arlington folk singing group, entertained Y-Teens members at the annual Y-Teens Singspiration.

Jeff Bloom, Charlie Burkam, Fritz Laird and Bob Karr are the Four Dimensions. Members of the Waysiders are Rob Reider, Nancy Armstrong and Jerre Dean. Pam Smith and Ellen Williams planned the program.

Members of the debate team are Robbie Solomon, Mike Halpern, John Ludlum, Chuck Schottenstein and Pat Abbot. This year's topic is "Resolved: That the control of nuclear weapons be placed under an international organization.

"What will you be doing the night of July 4, 1982?"

Whitehall-Yearling High School

RAM-blings

By SARAH WINGO

Four one-act plays will be staged at Whitehall Yearling Thursday, Dec. 3. The production is sponsored by Whitehall's troupe of the National Thespian Society. Most of the cast members come from Yearling Players and NTS, dramatic societies in the school. Thespian members are directing individual plays with Mr. Kline as overall director.

Teri Hiatt will direct "A Feminine Monkey Wrench," a comedy about a girl who is more interested in motors than boys. Laura Fields will be Dorry; Sharon Pugh, Mother; Steve Kegg, Danny; Tom Richwine, Bill, and Joe Beh, Curt. Dianna Rush will be prompter for this play and Jack Miller will be stage manager.

"The Plum Tree," a serious play about the old people in an institution, will be directed by John Nimitz. In the cast are Joy Hanson, Angeline; Cheryl Workban, Davey; Melissa Hannum, Whipple; Teddy Sharp, Cobb; Linda Bulman, Rust; Karen Stevens, Tiddle, and Linda Bakenhester, Christianson. Stage manager is Cheryl Bankenhester and prompter is Sue McCreary.

Rhonda Hopkins is directing "Ringing In The Groom," a comedy about a boy who is so busy taking all the problems of his family upon himself that he hasn't time to marry the girl he's been engaged to for four years. Barbara Chambers is grandmother; Evelyn Diller, Bertha; Darryl Bojanowski, George; Linda Ray, Ruth; Diana Demley, Aunt Ella; Jim Scott, Wilbur; Kay Shipley, Mildred, and Sarah Wingo, Harriet. Janie Fisher is prompter and Margaret Queen is stage manager.

The fourth play is a comedy about a couple of boys who try to meet a girl by posing as vacuum cleaner salesmen. It is entitled "Swept Clean Off Her Feet." The director is Marlene Smith. Kim Glass will be Ruthie; Lloyd Perine, Joe; Albert Evans, Mack; Jane Swain, Gwendolyn; Dixie East, Doris, and Gary Tyon, John. Linda Lamme is prompter, and Cindy Shipman is the stage manager.

The technical crew for all of the plays includes: Jim Arbuckle and John Holtsberry, stage managers; Larry Shanks, lighting; Ronita Terrell and Sue Valentine, crew; Willa Hsueh and Stephanie Manack, costumes; Sherry Hull, Connie Atkins and Sharon Wells, make-up, and Grey Martin and Karen Roberts, properties.

Arrangements have been made to present the three comedies to Rosemore Junior High School, Wednesday, Dec. 2. The time of the Dec. 3 performance and admission prices will be announced at a later date.

The East Columbus Science Seminar accepted 13 Whitehall-Yearling students this year. These people were admitted on the basis of their school records, recommendations from teachers, and scores made on a test given Oct. 14. Those accepted are John Norris, senior; Ken Lewis, junior; Randy Srba, Sharon Nicholson, Sally Shadwick, Larry Cunningham, Stan Finkelstein, Linda Bulman, Tunney King, David Replogle, Greg West and Ralph Denick, sophomores.

Area Gridders On All-CBL 11

Whitehall's senior place-kicking tackle, Jim Rodenmayer, joined junior linebacker Rick Foltz and senior guard Don Gale on the All-CBL grid squad that was announced recently. Bexley's fine linebacker, Gary Herwald, also received a first-team slot while Lions Jim Nowacki and Dave Herwald were honorable mention selections along with Whitehall's Tom Barton, Harvey Eader, Ken Koetz and John McQuaid.

Store potatoes at temperatures ranging from 40 to 45 degres.

Loop Title For Little Bucks Second Straight Ohio Valley

The Little Buckeyes, defending champions of the Ohio Valley Conference, were crowned for the second straight time this year. The Buckeyes compiled statistics which even overshadowed last year's unblemished record.:

Under the direction of Buckeye Athletic Director Tom C. Krieger, the Little Buckeyes, with a record of 8-0 for the season, scored 391 points in league play while yielding only two touchdowns by conference opponents for a 65-point spread per game. Last year the Ohio Valley Conference champions scored 296 points in league play while holding the conference opponents scoreless for a 50 point spread per game.

ACE BUCKEYE Kenny Levin set a new conference individual scoring record of 166 points by scoring 27 touchdowns and four extra points. (Old conference record was 122 points set last year by Buckeye Ace Marc Trimmer.)

Buckeye signal-caller John Ferrante ranked second place in conference individual standings with 80 points. The Buckeyes held the first four places in scoring for the conference final individual standings and held eight out of the top 15 individual scoring slots for the conference.

The explosive Buckeye offense was triggered by John Aggas, Jim Fausnaugh, John Ferrante, Steve Flower, Alan Kletecka, Kenny Levin, Phil Mirvis, Tim Pettorini, Lynn Stoner, Ken Terry and Bill Vest. The Buckeye defensive unit was dependent upon Gary Ballen, Stu Brownstein, Rick Caner, Guy Dunn, Gary Evans, Dean Goldberg, Jim Lesher, Gene Lynn, Mike Mack, Dana Morrison and Tim Squires.

COACH KRIEGER attributed the successful seasson to the great team effort of each Buckeye leader and to a splended job of coaching by Tackle Coach Doug Bedell, Backfield Coach Nick Cooper, Guard Coach Tim Ellifritz and End Coach Rick Jacoba.

The Little Bucks will have a celebration party Friday, Nov. 20 at Christ Methodist Church.

Eastmoor High School

Warriors' Spear-It

By MARCIA BRUCE and JOYCE FINKE

Tryouts for the hootenanny sponsored by Senior Choir, were held Nov. 12. The hootenanny will be presented Friday, Nov. 20, during the last half of both lunch periods.

Students participating are Dina Caldwell, Dennis Conley, Diana Delong, Terry Dickson, Steve Gellman, Jerry Gerard, Suzanne Goldberg, Myra Gurevitz, Suzanne Jackson, Ray Jones Bob Krupnick Leslie Podkin, Paulette Taylor, Dixie Zinnecker and M. C. Frank Relle.

Director of the program is Neil Davis, vocal music instructor.

Tomorrow night, Nov. 20, from 8 to 11 Eastmoor's senior class will hold a mixer for seniors only. "The Tides" will provide the entertainment and music for dancing.

Overall chairman is Sharon Ijams. Other chairmen are: Jan Rosemond, refreshments; Jerry Groves, tickets; Craig Denmead, publicity, and Ron Siegel, entertainment. Tickets are 50 cents.

Student Council's Thanksgiving project this year is collecting clothing and canned goods and buying a turkey for a needy family. The project will continue through Nov. 24.

Thanksgiving assembly, sponsored by Y-Teens on Nov. 25, will feature Rev. Shutz of Brookwood Presbyterian Church as guest speaker. The Senior Choir will sing.

First varsity basketball game will be Wednesday, Nov. 25, at 8, at Marion Franklin. Coach Courtney is happy that there are five returning lettermen on the team. They are Ron Bollie, Gary Cochran, Doug Cromer, Jerry Groves and Steve Howell. The reserve game will begin at 7.

GAA is starting intramural basketball games with Hartley and Walnut Ridge. Officers for this year's GAA are, president, Joyce Yake; vice-president, Toni Williams, and secretary-treasurer, Sharon Ishida.

In order to prepare Eastmoor college-bound students deficient in math and English, remedial courses are being offered at 8 a.m. daily. The program includes two seven-week sessions. One has been completed and the other is now under way.

For the second year in a row, Eastmoor's Track Club is making and selling student directories. The directories sell for 25 cents each, and will be available at the school. Co-editors are Gary Knaul and Ron Siegel.

Track Club officers are president, Gary Knaul; vice-president, John Mooney, and secretary-treasurer, Ron Siegel.

YASSENOFF HONORED

LEE YASSENOFF, 512 S. Hampton-rd, was honored at Friday's Hartley-Whitehall game. Yassenoff received a plaque from Hartley School for "many years of service and outstanding contribution to athletics." He also received a trophy from Hartley coach Jack Ryan and the Hawk athletes which read, "to the number one sports citizen." Among those honoring Yassenoff was Dick McCann, director of the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton. Above, Yassenoff talks football with Hawk mentor Jack Ryan and Hartley gridders (from left) Joe Gatto, Ray Riley and Larry Irwin. Lee, a former athlete himself until he lost the use of both legs, is an ex-St. Louis Cardinal scout.

Dottie Survives Upsets; Claims Grid Jackpot

Dottie Pidock, 207 Wilbur, survived the rash of pro football upsets Sunday which help knock 211 other entrants out of the running, to collect $25 as The Spectator's Football Contest winner.

Dottie missed seven of the 28 games to edge out Joe Uhl, 868 Stewart-av, who also errored on seven games but lost out on the tie-breaker.

Seven other contestants finished close behind with eight incorrect selections. They were: Ernest L. Milburn, 479 Columbian-av, Terri Fishking, 1343 Picard, Del Walters, 26 Sturbridge-rd, Sheri Pidock, 3585 Cushing-dr, Brian M. Healy, 222 Parklawn-blvd, Sandy Fishking, 115 Shumaker and Joey Uhl, 868 SStewart-av.

This will be the tenth and final week for The Spectator's Football Contest. Inside this paper today you will find 28 grid games to select. Simply place the winners in the contest blank opposite the advertiser who carries the opponents in his ad block.

Mail your entry to: Football Contest Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad Street, Columbus 43204. Your entry must be postmarked no later than midnight, Tuesday, Nov. 24 to be eligible.

Remember this is your last opportunity this year to win as much as $100 in The Spectator grid contest. Send us your entry today!

MRS. LEA FISHKING, 1343 Picard, flashes a $25 smile as the winner of The Spectator's Football Contest last week. Mrs. Fishking missed only three of 28 picks.

EAST COLUMBUS Recreation Center

Judy Kere
BE. 1-6428

East Columbus Recreation Center began its winter program last week, with a program of activities from 4 to 6 p.m. daily and 9 to 12 on Saturday mornings.

Arts and crafts include ceramics, sewing, knitting, clay modeling, paper crafts, weaving and wood crafts.

Dramatics include puppetry, storytime, plays and poetry. Classes are also conducted in baton, folk dance and weightlifting.

Bridge Club

The teenagers have formed a bridge club which meets Tuesday and Thursday, from 7 to 8:30.

In a Junior basketball game at the center, the Tigers were victorious over the Globetrotters, 31-11. Leading scorer for the game was Gary Wilks, with 16 points.

Season's End

East Columbus' six-man football team, the Butes, ended the season with a 36-6 loss to the undefeated Donkeys from Linden.

The season will end Saturday with the All-Stars going against the champion Donkeys. Members of the All-Star team from East Columbus are Arnold Fuller, Ken Souls and Chuck Wycoff.

The recreation center will be open Friday Nov. 27, 12 to 8 p.m., and will be closed on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day.

Area Building Permits Granted

Two building permits have been issued in the East Area.

The City of Columbus, City Hall, has been granted a building permit to erect a masonry building at Big Walnut Park, E. Livingston-av. Valuation is $8,000.

Airway Lodge of Columbus, Inc., Cleveland, has received a permit to make an addition to a brick and concrete block building at 4300 E. 17th-av. Valuation is $10,000.

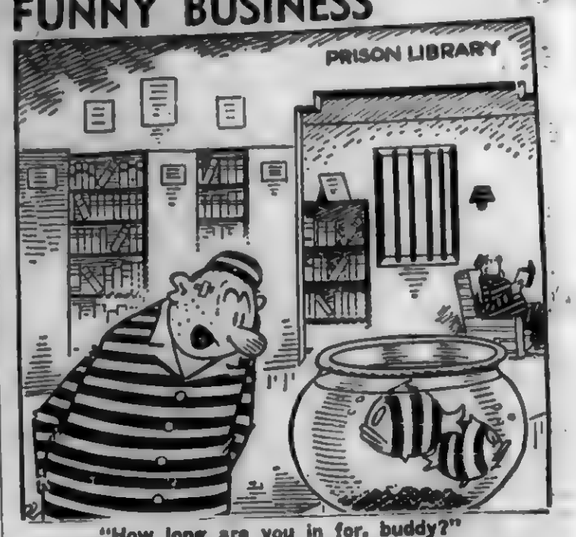
Dads Invited To Y-Indian Guides Meet

YMCA Father and Son Y-Indian Guides will organize new groups tonight, Nov. 19, at Grace United Church of Christ, 1226 Shady Lane-rd, at 7:30.



All fathers interested in finding out more about the national movement are invited to attend. Current members of the Y-Indian Guides will be present to help explain the program.

The Y-Indian Guides have increased nearly 33 percent in the past year in Franklin County and include nearly 1450 fathers and sons. Each tribe is composed of six to nine fathers and their sons, ages six to nine.

Purpose of the program is to multiply the number of things that fathers and sons can do together. Regular meetings are held every two weeks in members' homes and are one hour in length. Special events include trips, tours, ball games and camping.

Anyone interested, but unable to attend the meeting, may contact Ray Leinbach, Boys' Branch YMCA, 224-1131, for information. A similar meeting will be held in Whitehall in the near future.

CRUSADERS FINISHED 7-1

Capital Closed Finest Grid Campaign Ever

They carried the fullback off the field on their shoulders and dunked the coach in the shower. That's how the Otterbein game ended that gave Capital the winningest season in history.

The fullback, Piqua's Gordon McMaken, a 210-pound block-buster, had mangled the Otters defense for 116 yards in 22 carries and tallied two come from behind touchdowns.

THE COACH, Gene Slaughter, had parlayed a chunk of talent into a six game winning streak by the end of the season and a 7-1 record, quite a turnabout from the 2-6 record a year ago.

Slaughter enumerated four ingredients that went into the making of an all-time best season; "Morale, control of injuries, aggressiveness, and most of the time we blocked and tackled better than our opponents.

"These guys," commented Slaughter, "knew they could do it. Both offensively and defensively, they came up with the big play when it was needed—two things that earmark a good football team."

Two of those big plays came up Saturday. Trailing 10-7 to a fired-up Otterbein eleven late in the fourth quarter, and needing yardage on a third down and seven situation on Cap's 35, quarterback Ron Paxson connected with end Dick Angelou for a nine-yarder and a first down.

TWO PLAYS later, Paxson hit Jim Makar for 31 yards and a first down on the Otters' 25. Three plays later McMaken stormed in from the 16 for the go-ahead TD. The two aerials were Paxson's only completions of the game.

Otterbein reached the scoreboard first on a 37-yard field goal by Dave Green, his sixth of the season, in the first period.

In the second quarter, Cap launched an 85-yard drive from its own 15. It took 10 ground plays with Paxson lugging the ball in from the 22 for the Crusader score.

The Otters controlled the ball for over nine minutes at the start of the third quarter in a 74 yard march. Dave Hoerneman bounced in from the one to put the Otters ahead, 10-7.

Cap got the ball for only seven plays and the Otters started another drive that took them into the fourth quarter. They got as far as the Capital 10 before the Crusader defense stiffened.

After McMaken's TD, the Otters gambled with a fourth and 11 on on their own 28, when the play failed, McMaken lugged four times for the last score. The final: Capital 19; Otterbein 10.

SYMBOLICALLY, Slaughter stated: "It was a lot of satisfaction to come back the way we did this year."

CAP stats: Cap set four new offensive marks this year, tied another . . . two new defensive marks, tied another . . . punter Jerry Addy set two individual career records and a new Ohio Conference record . . .

Team Off. Marks	Old Record
Rushing 1st d., 102	87 ('58)
Total 1st d., 139	137 ('52)
Rushing yds., 1984	1913 ('52)
Points, 231	230 ('56)

(Tied record for rushing TDs, 23, set in 1955)

Team Def. Marks	Old Record
Least TDs allowed, 9	10 ('54)
Least pts. alwd., 67	68('54)

(Tied record for least scoring passes allowed, two set in 1954).

Addy, in four years, booted 144 times for 5021 yards . . . Cap outscored opponents in the fourth quarter alone . . . racked up 90 tallies in the final stanza . . . the TD Otterbein scored was the first in 15 quarters against the defense . . . in two years, Cap teams have set 24 new team and individual standards and six conference marks . . .

Hawks Tip Rams, 28-8 In Finale

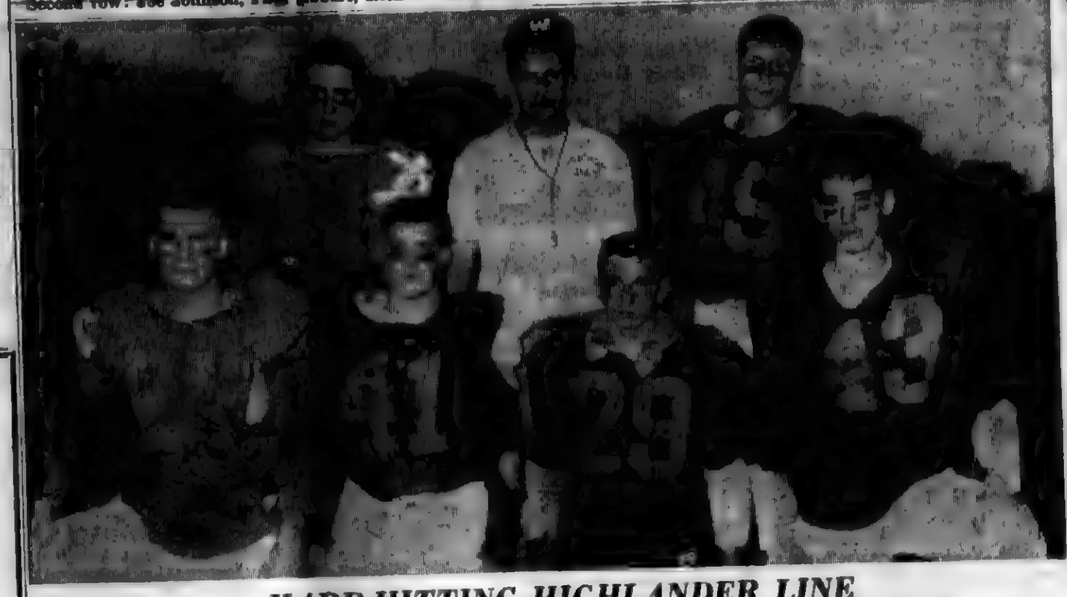
Jack Ryan's Hartley Hawks avenged a 53-0 loss to Whitehall last year with an impressive 28-8 victory last Friday night as slick Tom Schlager and junior fullback Scott French paved the way with outstanding performances.

Schlager passed 12 yards to senior end Bill Wood for one score and threw to Dick Timko for the conversion while still finding time to run 56-yards on a "step and go" quarterback sneak and ramming over the PAT. French, an All-OCL selection, tallied twice on runs of six and seven yards to round the scoring for the Hawks who finished 3-5-1 on the season.

JIM BLINE'S Rams got on the scoreboard in the third quarter as Harvey Eader capped a sustained Whitehall drive with a short dive and soph Count Fuller bulled in with the conversion.

Rick Foltz was outstanding in defeat at linebacker for the Rams along with mates Don Gale and Jim Rodenmayer as Whitehall finished up with a 6-4 season ticket. Jerry McMenemy and Bruce Fraher were leading the Hartley line play.

Area Gridders Hang Up Cleats



'64 WALNUT RIDGE STANDOUTS

WHITEHALL'S BANTAM GRID KINGS

HARD-HITTING HIGHLANDER LINE

HAWK BACKFIELD STALWARTS

Whitehall Bantam Grid Loop Enjoyed Fine Initial Season

Whitehall has completed its first year of Bantam Football with two weight divisions; the Pee Wee's (composed of boys nine to 12 years of age are weighing 90 pounds or less) and the regular Bantam League which has a weight limit of 110 pounds and an age limit of 14 years of age and under.

The leagues were instigated by John LaCort, Whitehall Athletic Director and in the few weeks from the first meeting until the first week of football games a great amount of hard work was put forth by the elected officials and Mrs. Keller of the Finance Committee.

THE OFFICIALS headed by President Mark Wilson; Vice Pres. Thompson McCabe; Treasurer Earl Fait; Secretary Dave Ebbert, and Coach Representative Bill Darnell who handled the weigh-ins, league schedules, ordering of all equipment and insuring of all the boys.

Each boy competing in the leagues (six team in the Pee Wee, and three in the Bantam) was issued helmet, shoulder pads, jersey, football pants with pads and long stockings and was also insured.

The cost to the league for each of the 215 boys on the teams was $26 and the expenses for the league is being raised over a two-year time allowance by contributions from Whitehall Businesses and citizens of the area plus the sale of Booster window stickers.

Kegler Made 7-10 Before It Was Split

One of the most unusual hits in the world of bowling occurred this week at Berwick Plaza Lanes when Gary DeForrest toppled the 7 and 10 pins only on the first ball after three consecutive strikes.

In other action at the lanes, Joe Kuhn, rolling for Berwick Major League, settled for a 608 three-game series, while teammate Paul Wilhelm tallied 594 for his three.

Berwick Classic Leaguers Jim Hendricks and Bob Lieby rolled series of 591 and 585, respectively, as Lieby tallied a 214 single. Other top-flight series were credited to Ben Carsey (576), Jack Innis and Doug Ranake, each with 574's.

A 243 single game score was marked by Jim Aleksa of Berwick Major, as Jim Hendricks, rolling for the Berwick Park Civic group, had a 237. Four 226 marks were recorded by Bob Cupp, Ben Carsey, Jack Innis and Gerald Carter during the week.

High three-game series for team play was recorded by the Duthaler Five as they toppled 2,720 pins in a night of bowling.

Around the World With STAN DELAPLANE

"Do you think Spain would be the cheapest place to live abroad for a year? Our funds are limited. . ."

It appears the island of Madeira might be better. (Spain has been rising in price.) You can rent a two-bedroom house for $25 a month — you rent the furniture for $25 more. A cook costs $11 a month, $8 for a maid. Steak of 75 cents for 2.2 pounds. Fish is almost nothing. Weather is warm — this is off the coast of Africa, 500 miles southwest of Lisbon.

"We would like to retire in Mexico — (have been reading what you say about it) — but I would like at least part-time work. Is this possible?"

You must live in Mexico as an "immigrant" for five years before they let you work. Some retired Americans have found part-time real estate gives extra money and an interest. But you must wait five years.

"How about retirement in the Caribbean Islands?"

I don't think work permits are easy except in U.S. associated territory — the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico. The Virgin Islands are moderately priced. Puerto Rico is a little higher than Continental U.S. The value would be that the weather is tropical. And you have splendid beaches.

"Would we be safe on a fixed income in these countries? Or are costs rising?"

They're rising — in Mexico, Spain, the Caribbean and Portugal. Mostly at the same rate that cost of living is going up in the U.S. But in some places, like Spain, where the living cost has been regulated, it's jumping faster.

"We would like to live in the tropics but under the American flag. . ."

Then your choice is: American Samoa, U.S. Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, Hawaii.

"In the so-called "cheap" countries, where do you save? Where do you lose?"

You save on labor, housing, clothing. You CAN lose on your tastes — imported food, liquor, household equipment like refrigerators. But if you don't need these imports, you win.

NEW LOW PRICED HEARING AMPLIFIER PERFECTED

Hearing is rapidly becoming the most neglected of the senses. Thousands of Ohioans having sub-normal hearing live with mounting strain and tension because they cannot afford expensive aids.

A PERSONAL AMPLIFIER has just been perfected that offers new hope to these people. Designed for those who can hear when sounds are louder and for those who can hear but do not always understand, this tiny compact unit can provide the help people need to live full active lives. Weighing only a third of an ounce, without wires or cords, this amazing electronic marvel hides behind the ear. Space-age techniques make it possible to offer the PERSONAL AMPLIFIER at a very small fraction of the cost of a hearing aid.

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

Dear Dusty—

Hope you don't mind if your personal mail is exposed to over half a million people. But this is one letter I feel should be read by more people than just Dusty Miller.

Last week when Doc Cowles told me he had been over to see you Tuesday morning I wondered if there was anything I could do for you since you had done so much for so many. Sure enough, when I visited you Wednesday, you politely thanked me and did the very thing I knew you would—explained to me how the only real joy that comes to a person is when he does something for someone else.

I thought of you as I drove over your way Wednesday and it was like having the Man from Upstairs sitting right alongside me. We had a nice chat about Dusty Miller.

We both agreed that this world has been enriched by his presence and the good things he has done for so many through his humorous philosophy.

I vividly remember how even He laughed as He recalled your story about the two fellows who got out of bed at the sound of the alarm clock. One went to the window and said, "Good Morning, Lord." And the other said, "Good Lord, morning."

It was a pleasant visit that you and Gracie and I had. I'll never forget the photo of you two in the old buggy and how you told about that October day so many years ago when you saw that sweet little doll in the bright red dress and how your life went in only one direction thereafter.

On the way home it seemed that I had a Companion again and He said, "Isn't it a remarkable thing the joy that can come to a man and a woman who live for each other, but in doing so are friends and helpers to so many others along the way?"

But there is little wonder that the life of Dusty [redacted] has been so good for so many when his own life has been so enriched by a woman whose first objective has been that of making him love her.

Old friend, yours is a life that has reached out and touched thousands. The joy you have spread has been like the taste of ice cream to a youngster on a hot summer day.

Please relax and get your strength back 'cause there are a lot of people waiting each week to digest the Grist ground out in The Spectator by Dusty Miller.

I'm sure there are others who will be glad to know you are coming along fine at your home at 1783 Ridgecliff-rd. I hope a lot of them will address a card your way.

—C.C.H.

HISTORICAL PUZZLER:

Empty Spaces In City Hall Gallery

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

Marching in orderly array down the walls of the second floor west corridor of City Hall are dignified portraits of an august body or men, whose staring eyes have looked upon the drama, growth and history of this bustling city.

They are the portraits of the former Mayors of Columbus.

One which attracts attention is that of John Brooks, Mayor of Columbus in 1834-35.

It is not the stern, bewhiskered visage of John Brooks that is particularly noticeable. It is the date.

One might conclude, finding no earlier date on the other portraits, that here is the mayor who tucked the first swaddling clothes about a new-born city.

With due respects to the Honorable John Brooks, who had nothing to do with the hanging of the portraits, nothing could be further from the truth.

It is true that a new charter was enacted by the General Assembly on Mar. 3, 1834. It is true that John Brooks was the first Mayor to hold office under the new charter.

But 18 years earlier Columbus had acquired corporate existence. An act, passed Feb. 10, 1816, by the General Assembly sitting at Chillicothe, made it lawful for qualified electors to elect nine suitable persons by ballot, one of which would later be selected by the nine to serve as mayor.

Under this act the first borough election was held on May 6, 1816, at the Columbus Inn, which was then located on the southeast corner of High and Town-sts.

The nine candidates elected by the people were Jarvis Pike, John Cutler, Henry Brown, Robert Armstrong, Michael Patton, Jeremiah Armstrong, Caleb Houston, Robert W. McCoy and John Kerr.

These nine later balloted, as authorized by the act, and Jarvis Pike became the first Mayor of Columbus, serving 1816-17.

Following Pike, and preceding John Brooks, seven other duly-elected mayors lent a hand in wrestling Columbus

City Council Arches Eyebrows At The Straw Hat Man's Budget

By TED BEARDSHEAR

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner took a look in his straw hat and presented City Council a $24 million general fund budget for 1965 — nearly $1 million more than the previous year.

Included in the budget were: funds to hire some 100 new policemen; a subsidization of the Columbus Convention Bureau, the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts and the Poison Control Center at Children's Hospital; the operation of the new Linden and Barnett-rd city recreation centers; the establishment of a city architects' office; the maintenance of Columbus Zoo Buildings; two swimming pools; and five new playgrounds.

City Council will have time to slice, carve or fatten the spending proposals before it adopts the 1965 budget in January.

The magic hat held no promise of a water bill reduction, however.

The $6.6 million parking garage underneath the Statehouse grounds opened Monday morning. Some 300 civic leaders, state, city and county officials, along with representatives of contracting firms, were present.

Governor Rhodes and Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner rode in the car that broke the tape tagging the garage as officially open.

Is Your Community Group Listed In UCC Directory?

The United Community Council which plans for and coordinates the work of health, welfare and recreation services in Franklin County is compiling a Directory of Area and Neighborhood Councils.

The list is designed to enable various councils or neighborhood groups to communicate and work together on things of common interest.

The UCC is especially interested in learning about councils that are functioning or are being organized. When a directory is completed, copies will be made available to all groups listed.

Area or neighborhood council members should contact Leonard Walker or Harry H. Feldman, Recreation and Group Services Division, United Community Council, 137 E. State-st, or phone 228-5696.

Willard Merry Is Elected Head Of WWI Vets Group

Willard F. Merry, 201 S. Sylvan-av, has been elected commander of Capital City Barracks 461, Veterans of WWI. Merry and fellow officers of the Barracks will be officially installed during ceremonies to be held Dec. 6 at Veterans Memorial.

Mr. Merry, who succeeds Oscar Fonday, 3669 Darbyshire-dr, as commander, will be assisted by Julius G. Schmitt, 782 S. Brinker-av, the senior vice-commander; and Roy E. Curtis, 1517 Genesee-av, junior vice-commander.

The Barracks has functioned as such since February, 1956, and has about 245 members at present. Average age of the members is 73½ years.

Only men and women who served in the Armed Forces between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918, are eligible to become members. This means, according to Mr. Merry, that "our potential membership is less and less, day by day." Objectives in his administration will be to increase the membership to one of the largest in the United States.

Other members who were elected to office are: Erwin J. Young, 3150 Ontario-st, as judge advocate; John A. Reilly, 1191 22nd-av, chaplain; Paul E. Andre, 1950 Northwest-blvd, quartermaster; trustees, Edward L. Knight, 440 W. Main-st, West Jefferson, for one year; Ruben O. Murphy, 1917 Belmead-av, for two years; and Oscar F. Ohio Needs Answer For Future Funding Of Highway Program

By FRANK RYAN

Ohio Highway Department officials are looking for the answer to a $200 million annual question mark hovering over near-future highway plans.

The state's highway construction program over the past 10 years has been dominated by aggressive leadership in the National Interstate System, a program financed by 90 percent federal funds. Federal Interstate money allocated to Ohio during this period has totaled almost $1 billion.

The 1964 allocation to Ohio for interstate construction totaled $176,952,100. Interstate money allocated to the states is in addition to federal "ABC" funds for primary, secondary and urban highway construction projects financed by 50 percent federal money.

In the past 10 years, Ohio has been granted more than $300 million in "ABC" funds, including $37,415,935 in 1964.

Ohio Finishing Early

The big problem for Ohio and other states is that the vast, 41,000-mile-$40 billion Interstate system is nearing completion. Ohio—two years ahead of schedule in completing its 1,550-mile portion of the superhighway system — will receive its final allocation in 1970.

It is a foredrawn conclusion by all highway planners and administrators that there will be some type of national highway program to replace the Interstate system. But as of now, Congress—the final authority for such a program—has no plan to consider.

Ohio highway officials are the more concerned over the problem of transition from Interstate construction to another federally supported program because of an earlier end, here, to Interstate construction— and federal allocations. They hope that some constructive guidelines will come from the December convention of the American Association of State Highway officials.

AASHO, perhaps the leading single force in helping Congress to shape national highway programs, will convene in Atlanta, Ga., from Dec. 5 through 11.

The top document expected from the national group of highway administrators and planners will deal with an "After 1972 Needs Study." It is expected that the group will authorize the compilation of a "Highway Manual." The report will be the basis for suggestions to Congress on the most suitable national follow-up to the Interstate program.

In considering the potential scope of a new national highway program, the highway experts will consider the following questions:

What About Maintenance?

Should the Interstate System be expanded? Should the 90-10 cost sharing formula be continued for operation of the Interstate System once construction of the original 41,000 miles has been completed? (Maintenance of Interstate highways is currently a state-local goverment responsibility.)

It is expected that the state highway builders will call for a complete re-evaluation of the "ABC" highway network, and state-federal relationships in this field. An alternative to a "second tier" Interstate network might be to call for greater federal financial participation in primary, secondary and urban highway construction.

The state highway officials will also be looking to protect all present sources of federal taxes earmarked for national highway programs. They will push for continuation of the present "Trust Fund" for national highway work, and will resist any attempts to divert highway user taxes to the general treasury fund.

And even if the state highway leaders, collectively, secure from Congress a revamped national highway program, the battle will not yet be over. Once a program has

Quick Named New OASA President

Thomas Quick has been nominated president of the Ohio Association of School Administrators and will be formally elected during the annual meeting at the Neil House Friday, Nov. 20.

Quick, superintendent of Franklin County Schools since 1958, will speak on the "OASA in 1965."

He has been a member of the organization since 1951 and has served as the chairman of the legislative committee, on the board of directors and was president- elect during 1964.

A native of Pomeroy, the local superintendent received his bachelor's and master's degree from Ohio University and has completed further graduate work at OSU.

He came to Franklin County as executive head of Marion Township School in 1955, becoming the principal of Barrett Junior High School when Marion Township was annexed to Columbus.

In addition to active membership in a number of professional societies, Quick is a 32nd-degree Mason and past-master of the Granville Lodge and a Worthy Patron of the Eastern Star; a member of the Southeast Columbus Lions Club and co-editor of the Lions Roar, and has been extremely active in Scouting since 1936 and the YMCA since 1958. He is superintendent of the Brookwood Livingston Avenue Presbyterian Church Sunday School.

The new president and his wife who live at 3068 Marwick-rd, have two married children.

CITY SQUIRREL DISCOVERS NEW NUT

Funny Dog Likes To Play In Same Tree

How's a dog to know that squirrel season closed Nov. 14, if he can't read the newspaper?

Mike can't read, but he does love to show the squirrels that he can get frisky a tree, too. Mike is Michael Von der Straithomberg, a playful, good-natured Great Dane clown who is well-liked by neighbors and lives with his mistress, Miss Donna Cooper at 88 S. Central-av.

To Mike — who is three years old, stands well over six feet on his hind legs, weights 165 pounds and diets on about five pounds of meat each day — even a legal bag of only four squirrels is only a tidbit.

Mike mourns the fact that he was born in the wrong era. In 1807 squirrels were so numerous around his neighborhood that it was the sworn duty of every taxpayer to kill them.

In those days, a citizen toted a poke of squirrel scalps with him when he went to pay his tax bill. For every scalp over his quota, he received three cents, but he was fined two cents for every scalp he was short.

Records show that in April, 1822, taxpayers took more than 9,000 squirrel scalps in Franklin County. Once, during a one-day roundup with a barrel of whiskey for a prize, 19,600 scalps were counted.

Despite his tree-climbing ability, Mike reports that he failed to count a single scalp during the squirrel season which just closed.

Now where . . ?

Oh, there he is . . .

IT WAS A NARROW ESCAPE

ONE YOUNG MAN, Henry Aldridge, Jr., of 1936 Frank-rd, should think twice before dashing across the street after he had a brush with tragedy Saturday afternoon. The fact that Mrs. Gladys Thomas, 2255 W. Broad-st, driver of the car in the path of which the child ran, had slowed to about 10 mph to make a left turn from Thurman-av to City Park saved him from serious injury. However, as he lay on the ground awaiting the arrival of the emergency squad, his pitiful question, repeated between frightened cries, "Am I going to die now?" proved too much for a relative. She is shown under the stretcher carrying Henry, after she fainted dead away. (Staff photo—Jane Robinson) from the pioneer wilderness and shaping it into a city.

These were John Kerr, 1818-19; Eli C. King, 1820-21-22; John Laughry, 1823; William T. Martin, 1824-25-26; James Robinson, 1827; William Long, 1828-29-30-31-32, and P. H. Olmsted, 1833.

Their term of office was for one year and, according to historians, was marked with depressions, sickness and politics, just like those of later years.

If one looks closely at the portrait of John Brooks, there seems to be a quizzical glint in his staring eyes, as if he were wondering why the portraits of these other legally-appointed Mayors of Columbus have not taken their place on the wall beside him.

Of course, it must be realized that sometimes it is a problem to locate old pictures.

It took almost an hour to search out a reproducible picture of William Long, five-term Mayor of Columbus during 1828 through 1832.

Long's picture was found in in the Lazarus Collection in the Columbus Room of the Columbus Public Library on Grant-av.

Somewhere there may be pictures of the six other "lost" Mayors who tended Columbus during its infancy. If found, they would be an appropriate addition to the gallery on the second floor west corridor of City Hall.

So too, would be the portrait of another notable personage.

On Feb. 10, 1814, General Assembly passed a joint resolution naming William Ludlow as "Director" of the Town of Columbus. Ludlow was reappointed a year later. Under his supervision most of the actual construction of the public buildings was accomplished.

As Columbus' first administrator, his picture, or at least an artist's conception of his likeness, deserves a place of prominence in the gallery.

VD Topic Of Local Meeting

On Monday evening, Nov. 23, at the auditorium of the Agricultural Administration Building of OSU, 8:30 to 10 p.m., the general public is invited to attend without charge a program on "Venereal Disease and the Realities of Adolescent Life."

The program is sponsored by the Columbus Jaycees, the Metropolitan Health Committee, the Columbus Health Department, and the Academy of Medicine of Columbus and Franklin County.

Doctor Homer Anderson, president of the Academy of Medicine of Columbus and Franklin County will preside as Raymond A. Bichimer, president of the Columbus Jaycees, will introduce the importance of community-understanding and awareness on this leading communicable disease in Columbus. John Cuber, Ph. D., professor of Sociology and Anthropology, OSU, will speak on the topic "Venereal Disease and the Realities of Adolescent Life."

A panel, moderated by Simon Dinitz, Ph.D., will follow and will consist of Ollie M. Goodloe, M.D., health commissioner of Columbus Health Department, Mrs. William Miller, parent and volunteer worker, and Doctor Sheatsley, director of health, physical and safety education for the Columbus Public Schools.

Emphasis will be placed on the medical and sociological aspects of venereal disease, child development in home environment and need for venereal disease education in the schools. VD was chosen as the topic for this civic meeting on the basis of the 900 percent increase in VD in Columbus since 1963, with the greatest increase occurring in the 15 to 19-year-old category.

is what it has to say about the year ahead:

The year (Jan. 1-Dec. 31, 1965) will average 47.17 degrees temperature, or 1.13 degrees below average. There will be 47.39" of precipitation, or 1.18" below average. Although Spring will be unusually early—and Fall linger unusually long—growers are cautioned to hold off planting until after the first good rain in the last week of May or first week in June. Also, August will be dry.

The Winter (Nov., Dec., 1964, Jan., Feb., Mar., Apr., 1965) average temperature will be 34.15 degrees, slightly (.15 degree) below average. Precipitation will be 21.23" for the six months—4.88" below average — but snowfall will be 75.85", some 11.25" above average — with most of the increase over last year falling in January.

The 105th Ohio General Assembly jumped into its second week of nip-ups Monday as it started work on an agenda of 25 proposals including a constitutional amendment for a $275 million bond issue.

Reapportionment loomed large as a log jam but reports have it the stream will run free.

If the Downtown Area Committee's River Front Committee had its way the banks of the Scioto River would accommodate an ampitheater on the bank near Central High School; the Greenlawn Dam would be raised eight feet; Washington-blvd would be turned into a mall; a boat dock and fishing pier would be built; and boating would be permitted from Greenlawn Dam to Fifth-av on the Olentangy River.

Unfortunately, the committee doesn't have its way and these things are only proposals.

All's not well in welfare these days.

Director Richard Cassidy abolished the jobs of assistant welfare director and staff development director. Eugene R. Neeff, former assistant welfare director, and Anne Saucier, former staff development director, were naturally somewhat peeved at having their jobs dissolved.

Charges, counter-charges, appeals, and explanations have stemmed from the incident, the latest being Cassidy's alleged accusation that the two employes somehow were responsible for their original applications disappearing. In answer to that Cassidy withheld the final paychecks and Neeff protested to commissioners.

To show the ridiculousness of the situation, another employe of the office found the missing applications in a different place.

All's quiet at present with the exception of the rankling jobless. Paychecks have been issued. Applications were returned to the right file.

Perhaps they can go on welfare, as suggested last week.

All the same, all's not still well in welfare.

When in doubt, ask a committee.

The best solution to Columbus mass transit problem is a metropolitan transit authority with private management.

At least that's the opinion of the Citizens Transit Study Committee.

Columbus City Council President William Fornof and Edward Pellissier, president of the company, said the idea allows great latitude and would require close study.

Five gets nine the matter is placed in the outstretched hands of another committee.

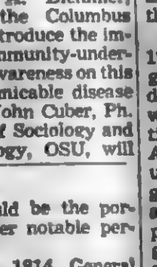
FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

For Thanksgiving -- Turkey, Your Budget Buy

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Mrs. Franks



Meat, Poultry—turkeys, pork loin roasts, hams, ground beef, fryers, eggs (medium Grade A)

Vegetables—brussels sprouts, leaf and Bibb lettuce, new cabbage, all-purpose potatoes, yams, turnips, winter squash

Other—dairy products, canned pumpkin, mixed nuts, dates

Nature has supplied plentifully for our Thanksgiving dinner. You'll enjoy shopping for both the specialties and basic foods.

There's no question about turkey being the bargain for the coming week. According to the Crop Reporting Board, U.S. turkey growers are sending to market, 98.7 million birds in 1964 — an increase of six percent over last year. As a result, wholesale prices are a little lower than last year and most stores are featuring turkeys at near wholesale cost as their Thanksgiving special.

As you have observed, most of the turkeys are quick-frozen. This is done to maintain top quality and to facilitate marketing them. So, if you are wondering about the difference in quality between the frozen and fresh form, forget it — there is little difference, both are fresh. Consider the kind and amount of storage space you have, then select the one that is easy for you to handle.

To get the best, select a turkey with plump, meaty breast, short thighs and a layer of fat well distributed under the skin. These are an indication of lots of meat, little bone, and indirectly tenderness. U.S.D.A. Grade A label and U.S. Inspection Seal on the package are other guides to quality.

Cranberries—a "must" on most folks' shopping list this week—might be listed as the bargain fruit. Prices are lowest for the year, for wholesale prices on fresh cranberries have advanced since your grocer planned his ad for this week. While this year's cranberry crop is a good one, it is not harvesting out as big as earlier expected. Also, many more fresh berries will go to processors to meet the growing demand for cranberry products, particularly cranberry juice cocktail.

You have a choice now between the Early Black and Late Howe varieties of fresh cranberries. The latter are the larger, brighter berries and certainly the more desirable if you plan to freeze them.

Apples need buyers . . . quality is excellent on local varieties and prices are low. But, the picture may change some after Thanksgiving when apples move from storage at slightly higher prices. Oranges look good, flavor gets better as the season goes along; the same is true of grapefruit.

Dark green Hubbard squash — available in pieces or whole — seem just right for the Turkey Meal. And, there are purple top turnips and big yellow turnips that pull down the average cost with the more expensive shipped in vegetables. You'll do well to pick up Danish cabbage, too, for it is fine in quality and in good supply.

Local greenhouses furnish the perfect salad — crisp leaf and Bibb lettuce and smooth red tomatoes—so easy to fix and serve. The bright sunny weather of past weeks has put color and flavor into the greenhouse tomatoes that you will enjoy.

'Our Way Of Life In Real Danger . . . America Arise!'

Editor's Note: Following is the complete text of a speech delivered recently by Dr. Philip Auer at the Ohio District Convention of Kiwanis International at Toledo. Dr. Auer, a retired Presbyterian minister, for many years at Galion, O., now lives at 2879 Sherwood-rd, Columbus.

It has been a published fact that a high ranking person in Washington, D. C., has a lighted globe on his desk. Any time that he comes into his office, he gives the globe a whirl and then when it stops without looking he points a finger and says, "There is trouble there." And invariably he is right. That is the kind of a world we are living in today.

If we had a globe which had on it only a map of U. S. and would give it a whirl, when it stopped, we could point the finger to a particular spot without looking and say, "There is trouble there." And invariably we would be right. That is the kind of a country we are living in today.

And if we were to investigate the cause of these troubled spots we would discover, unfortunately, that they have come from within rather than from without. We have allowed certain phases of our American way of life to be undermined by others through our lethargy and indifference. Without trying to be an alarmist today, I think it can be honestly stated, because the facts prove it, that America is on the other side of the hill where the slope is downward, fast and dangerous.

The Great Wall of China was built approximately 228 B.C. The wall was 1400 miles long and built of earth and stone varying in height from 18-30 feet. On the wall soldiers stood constantly on guard. Yet, in spite of this, this wall was breached and China was overrun on several occasions by her enemies. The reason: Because of treason and treachery on the inside. The guards were not above being bribed. Destruction came as a result of weakness from within.

Khrushchev has said, "We will bury you and without firing a shot." What did he mean?

"Attack will be made from within until the inner structure is so rotten, the outer structure of American life cannot help but fall. You dig your own grave and when you have, we will push you in and cover you up."

I present to you the tragic assertion that he is on his way to at least partial success. America stands in great peril today and it behooves every one of us to be alert and on our guard lest tragedy overtake us and the bright star of these United States, shining so brightly for the last 188 years, begins to greatly diminish in its brilliance.

That is why I present to you, the challenge:

"America, Arise!"

I shall endeavor to point out to you two phases of our American way of life which are today in great jeopardy.

The first phase which we believe is sending us on a downward course is this: The Downgrading of Morality. What I have to say here may cause some to say: These are the ravings of an old man who is out of touch with the times in which we are living. Today we have dangerously changed the price tags and switched the values on many of the things of life. We in America are in grave danger of failing for the old cliche: Everybody is doing it so it must be right.

Let us begin by mentioning juvenile crime and terror in the streets. There are many more good young people in this land than there are bad. And in many instances the primary cause of juvenile crime has its roots in parental delinquency. The fruit can be no better than the tree. Moreover the defiance of law by youth has been encouraged by the defiance of law and police authority through riots in general which have been dotting our land.

But let us take a look at the facts: In Columbus Chief Detective Tom Sawyer says, "Juveniles accounted for 50 percent of all crimes, 60 percent of all burglaries and 85 percent of all auto thefts." Further statistics indicate last year 70 percent of the

ONE MAN'S Opinion . . . It's A Personal Thing . . .

In my family album is a photograph — a blurred image from a television set. Moving across the screen is a horse-drawn caisson, pulling a slight grade at the entrance to Arlington Cemetery. The photo was taken Nov. 25, 1963.

So much happened in that long, depressing weekend that it is difficult to decide just what is significant — what must be remembered.

Bruney

One sobering effect was the fact that an entire generation which had spent the better part of a decade branding itself with the philosophy "sophistication above all — hold nothing sacred" learned to cry in the space of an hour.

The confused numbness of the four days begins for me with the voice of Walter Cronkite — which had carried many heavy messages in times past — cracking under the weight of the statement, "Ladies and gentlemen, the President is dead." It ends with the sour note in the last phrase of "Taps" which signalled some vague but rude awakening in all of us.

Of the week or so immediately following, two things seem most worth remembering: the disgusting spectacle of America's wide-awake, pocket-jingling hustlers, who hopped on the bandwagon and competed fiercely in sales of portraits, magazines and records — and the awkward appearance of the legal-moral system which found itself, quite frankly, not knowing what to do with an assassin's assassin.

A year has passed. The books have been written. The records are official. The Warren Report, in all its cold, scientific detachment, has been released.

We have witnessed two extremes of organized "public" reaction. First the confused, near-pointless, over-publicized mourning-for-mourning's-sake, more sacrilege than tribute. This was followed closely by the wave of "he-wasn't-such-a-great-guy-after-all" sort of garbage.

We are all now like fumbling do-it-yourselfers who have given up the attempt to fix an appliance and have turned it over to a professional repairman. We have resigned ourselves to letting the historians decide just what, exactly, happened, and what was felt as a result of it.

We have given up any try at identifying with a collective emotion, and have turned instead to ourselves, each of us grasping at some little personal point of reference.

I have a blurred photograph . . .

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Parents: Desert Has Lesson For You

TUCSON, Ariz.—If you would discover how to raise strong children, capable of breasting an uncertain future, go into the desert and look around you.

The things of the desert have survival power.

There is the art of seizing rare opportunity. The barrel cactus sucks the infrequent rains into its central reservoir and lives through burning months like a contented camel. The chollas send out widespread shallow roots to gulp the showers.

Jones

There is the art of resisting the bad and thirsty times. When the rains quit the ocotillo sheds its leaves to conserve its moisture. During the drouth the desert mariposa looks absolutely dead, hiding its living bulb deep beneath the ground.

The Arizona roundtail ground squirrel sleeps through the summer. The mesquite sends a taproot far down to cool subsoil where there is a trace of wetness.

There is the art of making do with what you have. The jackrabbit gets most of its moisture from the juices of plants and can go months without a proper drink. But the kangaroo rat is more marvelous. Alone among the animals on earth it takes hydrogen from the seeds it eats and oxygen from the air it breathes and by a chemical process not yet understood it manufactures its own H-2-0. It never drinks at all.

The desert is a marvelous testimonial to the power that life possesses if life only conditions itself to use that power. The garden plants, the hothouse flowers, the animals of the woods and streams and meadows will not survive upon the desert. The desert bakes and frosts in a 24-hour cycle. The desert blows and sometimes washes fiercely. Yet, except where the sands are shifting or the bare rocks come through, you'll find life teeming.

Unlike a plant or desert animal, a child is highly mobile. It doesn't have to spend its life in one environment. It needn't be conditioned to unbroken bleakness or unrelieved struggle. In raising a child there is nothing wrong with a good roof, a warm room and an appetizing table. And there is nothing wrong with all the security that love and understanding can bring.

But there is no absolute guarantee that good things will continue through a lifetime. Material blessings can vanish. Love can be unrequited. Ambitions may be thwarted. There could be days of physical danger. And health can break.

Spoiled children are hothouse flowers. Their wants are supplied as soon as expressed, and maybe sooner. They are fertilized and cultivated, nurtured and sprinkled. They struggle against no weeds. They know no winds or snows or days of searing heat. And while they may grow luxuriantly, their capacities for raw survival lie undeveloped. They have no inner reservoirs like the barrel cactus, no spreading roots like the cholla. If something happens to the greenhouse they've had it.

This is not to suggest that a child should be brought up in cheerless austerity. Austerity, itself, can stunt and harden and dehumanize a human being. No one wants to cuddle a cactus or pat a Sonoran rattlesnake. But the capacity to survive discomfort or frustration and come up smiling is a precious one.

It is a wisely-raised child who knows the lump of a rock beneath a sleeping bag. It is a wisely-raised child who doesn't flee from the shower if the fish are biting. It is a wisely-raised child who resists the impulse to drink whenever he is thirsty if he is only carrying one canteen.

It is a sage parent who explains to the 15-year-old girl that going steady is not for her even if the crowd is doing it, that it is better to miss a few dances than to throw away one's youth in a strained and premature monogamy that can result in tragedy and heartbreak. It is a wise parent who points out that the coveted hot-rod is not as important as the grades or the painfully-accumulated college tuition fund.

The child who finishes cutting the grass, even while the gang needs a shortstop, is exercising more muscles than his legs. He is learning how to get a job done. The child who is taught early the joys of giving as well as getting is developing spiritual resources that will stand a lot of drouth.

There is the art of inner-entertainment as opposed to the outer-entertainment of the movies, or the bridge table, or the TV set. It is that inner depth born of reading and reflection that makes one good company for oneself, even on lonely nights, even after the kids have grown up and moved away, even in years of widowhood.

No one but an ascetic courts privation. But a child can gain no finer legacy than the capacity to overcome privation. The house could burn, and then there would be only the open sky.

Even as on the desert.

'THE GRIST'

(Ground Out by Dusty Miller)

NEGATIVES—If my having voted in 15 presidential elections, and being familiar with five earlier ones qualifies me as an expert witness, I will offer this testimony: The campaign of 1964 had more negatives than any of them. Allergic as I am to negatives, I disliked it. But maybe I can help kindred souls laugh it off.

Until recent years a president's leaving Washington was a rare occurrence.

While Calvin Coolidge was president, an exotic B&O train carried him and his official family to the Minnesota State Fair.

"Ernie" Baugh, for many years the popular superintendent of the road's famous dining cars, told me this story:

President and Mrs. Coolidge were eating breakfast. A super-alert steward overheard Mrs. Coolidge say something about the coffee. Instantly he was at the table asking: "Was there anything wrong with the coffee?"

"Oh, no," smiled she. "I was just saying how good it is."

"Silent Cal," in the whimsical fashion that endeared him to humor lovers, said:

"What did you think was the matter with it?"

REVISED TEXTBOOK—Is telling little Ivan and Nita ruddy-faced little Nikita is going to the big city and is being not done right by. Phhhtttt!

ECONOMY — It would be a lot cheaper for Americans to go BY the polls than TO the polls.

DEAR FIDO — Let not fireplugs and trees — Be your selection goals — Far better than all of these — Are the election polls.

"BASICALLY" — Radio interviewer to coach: "Do you think your team's having lost to this team so often will have any psychological effect on your team?" The coach: "Basically, it's hard not to anticipate the past." Basically, it's darn near impossible.

Cites Apathy On Crimes Against Women

To the Editor:

I am not a crusader or an intellect. I can not quote statistics or names. I am only a woman, wife and mother.

I should feel proud and a little important but lately I feel expendable.

We live in the densely populated north side. This makes me hesitant to move freely through the streets; I keep a watch dog, go out only in a group and yet I feel uneasy.

Crimes against women in this city do not even rate newspaper space anymore, not to speak of police investigation. An alarming number of women (one would be enough) have been brutally murdered, some "only" raped, and what is being done? If they had been policewomen would they then have rated more than routine investigation?

City officials say we need more policemen, more cruisers, when we don't need anything but organization. These men are only as good as city government demands they be.

They are certainly adept enough at apprehending traffic violators on freeways and parking zones. And yet even this area of the law is lacking. Our neighborhood streets are treacherous with speeders, not to mention our school zones. And city government is only as good as we citizens demand.

They manage to solve commercial robberies. Why not murders and rape and other crimes of violence against private citizens? Is it because business taxes, revenues from traffic violations or being a policeman is more important than "just" a woman.

I am angry, confused, and frightened not just for myself or the north side, but for the city of Columbus and other places that become so complacent that if it doesn't happen next door let's not fuss about it.

This is a malignancy that will spread. Once it's outside of the "university district" will the people of Columbus get together and do something?

Can "just plain people" do anything anymore? As an individual you know nothing can be done. (You can't fight city hall). Maybe, only maybe, we can as a group.

God help us if we can't, as we now reside in a community where only the deviate or criminal can walk freely.

'Fairwood-Frebis Is Dangerous'

I am writing this to ask for help.

We in the South Side need an overhead bridge across Fairwood-av at Refugee-rd. Due to the increasing population south of Refugee and the heavy traffic on Refugee every day people are taking chances and endangering their lives just to cross this street.

The railroad crossing on Fairwood is a great hazard, it should have been corrected a long time ago. Our experience at this crossing must have happened to hundreds of other people. We have been held up by a train from 20 to 30 minutes several times; also, we have waited 15 to 20 minutes for traffic on Refugee to pass just so we could get across, then at a great risk. Even a stop light would help some.

'Think Of Passengers First'

To the Editor:

Please forgive me for criticizing but here is "Another Woman's Opinion" regarding Mrs. DeWitt's article "What Price Hurry?" on the Nov. 5 editorial page.

Certainly to see a puppy killed is a most distressing thing! You choose to blame the drivers of 16 cars "which passed over the little body." Let us look at this from the point of view of those 16 drivers.

First of all, most people have an affection for animals. Not very many would deliberately run an animal down on a city street or on a highway.

West Broad-st is, as you said, a busy main street. With three lanes of traffic going in one direction a driver needs to concentrate in many directions and stay alert at all times. He must also consider the safety of his passengers and the people in the cars in front, behind and on each side of him.

If you had to make a decision to stop your car without warning in heavy traffic or hit an animal how would you make this choice? Have you seen the results when a person goes through a windshield and hangs on the jagged edges of broken glass?

If the owner loved his dog he would have kept him confined for his own safety and for the safety of people as well.

If you really want to take up a crusade make it one to enforce the dog laws of our city. My sister and her family were the victims in a car-dog accident so I speak with some knowledge of the subject.

Backs Teacher's Discipline

To the Editor:

The maintenance of discipline in a public school system is essential to the successful functioning of that system as an educating force in the community. The Hamilton Local Board of Education has formulated rules and established policy with regard to discipline and the administration thereof.

Recently, legal action was initiated by a parent against Hamilton Township High School Principal Mr. Jack Rumora. The Hamilton Local Teachers Association . . . believes that Mr. Rumora was well within the limits of the policies established . . . and that he acted in the best interests of education in the district. We do, therefore, support him in this matter.

U-A Chairman Says 'Thanks'

To the Editor:

May I offer my heartfelt thanks and sincere appreciation to you and your associates for the coverage you afforded us throughout the 1964 United Appeal campaign.

Your co-operation in bringing the UA message before the public was a significant contribution to our third consecutive victory. Certainly you have earned the gratitude of both myself and the thousands of Franklin County residents who will benefit through UA services.

"The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked: who can know it? I the Lord search the heart, I try the reins, even to give every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings." Jeremiah 17:9-10. In view of the events many years ago, God inspired the prophet to write this.

Rev. Kline

We see the rapid increase in crime, the outbreak of war, and ask—why? We've advanced so much in every field of secular endeavor. More buildings stand erected as places of worship today than ever before. Why then so much strife and misunderstanding? There must be some reasonable answer.

The search for peace in our day far exceeds that of any previous generation. Conferences, held in the interest of peace, only make this issue more confusing when we witness the skirmish of war in some old or new area. Almost staggering sums of money are being spent in efforts to arrive at a state of peace among men. What is the [illegible]?

God's Word reveals the solution in no uncertain terms. It sounds too easy. Much to our shame we've looked in other directions. Man must be at peace with God before he can live peaceably among his fellowmen. Man must have a clean heart! Herein lies the answer, and only God can do what needs to be done.

Christ comes directly to the point in John 3:3, "Ye must be born again." This means a spiritual birth! It happens instantaneously! By faith we know when this great transformation occurs because "His Spirit bears witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God." Romans 8:16. This is not just a reformation!

Even our greatest world leaders stand helpless without having experienced this. Consider current events. Compare them with those of past generations. It is still the same motivating force at work in human hearts that results in crime, war, etc. You say, this can't be! It's true.

I challenge you today, now, ask the Holy Spirit to shine His searchlight into your heart. Let Him reveal to you what's there. Accept by faith what God has for you. Then, and only then, will you have found real peace.

IN MEMORIAM, 1963

The President is dead. God save the President who has retrieved the torch from falling hands forever still.

Now once again we mourn
as we have mourned.
And now we drink a mingled, bitter wine from sorrow's cup.

Though we may stand absolved by circumstance, yet shall we keep a memory of darkness long endured before the light.

Now we are getting far enough away from President Kennedy's assassination to view it in proper perspective.

The time of dumb dismay and disbelief is over. The period of hectic hysteria has passed. The extreme right and the far left have hurled their reckless, irresponsible accusations when the rest of us got caught in the crossfire. The fantastic idea of national guilt was suggested and then was found utterly absurd when exposed to the light of calm reason.

We saw, too, the swift, orderly transfer of authority from one pair of shoulders to another.

It says here . . .

Assassination is a crime against the integrity of a nation.

Way Of Life In Danger—

2.25 million crimes in the United States, one every four minutes, was committed by persons aged 15 to 24. Yet such persons constituted only 15 percent of the population.

A disrespect for law and a leniency in the infliction of punishment are great contributing factors in these startling figures. I was in personal contact with a young man who smothered his sister to death with a pillow and took her body out and dumped it in the woods. He was apprehended and after being given the proper tests was declared sane and sentenced to prison. After serving a minimum sentence he was paroled, moved to another part of the state where he raped and murdered three more women and once again was given a prison sentence. I wonder how long it will be before he is paroled again to continue his record of crime.

Parental delinquency, disregard for law and police officers, extreme leniency in dealing with criminals, a lethargy and indifference on the part of many who shrug the shoulder and say, "That's the kind of society in which we are living today." These are some of the contributing factors for juvenile crime and terror in the streets that plague the villages, towns and cities of our land today.

Our appreciation of moral values is slowly but surely being undermined and we are traveling the way of self destruction. What a challenge to all to intensify our service to youth, and go before the youth of our land with an example they can be proud to follow.

Another contributing factor to the downgrading of morality is the obscenity to which we are exposed today and which many of us have come to take for granted The U. S. Supreme Court has been, and rightly so, under fire by Protestant, Jewish and Catholic clergymen for "Virtually promulgating degeneracy as the standard way of American life" They gave the green light to novels and plays like "Tropic of Cancer" and the French film, "The Lovers," which has been ostracized in many states because of their filth. Four Archbishops joined in the following statement:

"These supreme court decisions cannot be accepted quietly by the American people if this nation is to survive. Given free reign to the vile depiction of violence, perversion, illicit sex, is an unnerving sign of progressive decay and decline. The obvious and regrettable conclusion is that the community standard prevailing among the five judges (who constitute the majority) is far below the standard of the people of the nation, upon whom they do not hesitate to sit in higher judgment."

References were made to Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan, Arthur J. Goldburg and Potter Scott. Religious leaders of all faiths have banded together vociferously decrying the fact that the court in this and other instances has presumed to recast the moral law That is why I say, "America Arise!" We are sliding and sliding fast.

There is a second reason for my injunction and that is the decline of our American religious heritage and again the judicial arm of our government has greatly contributed to it.

Some short time ago we read this true story that happened in a Kansas school. A terrific tornado was sweeping across the countryside and evidently came with such suddenness the pupils could not be evacuated from the school. As the storm broke on the school, tearing off the roof, the pupils were ordered to take refuge beneath their desks. While the wind was blowing fiercely, one little girls peeked out from beneath her desk and whispered to her teacher who was not too far away: "Teacher, is it all right if I pray now?"

I do not know what answer the teacher gave her, but strictly speaking, the supreme court of these U. S. has described as illegal all forms of prayer in a public school because it resembles an act of worship which the court construes to be a breach of the constitution that congress shall establish no religious faith for the people. The recent ruling of the Supreme Court is a far cry from the interpretation that has been given the constitution in the past and the background against which it was written.

"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord." Our fathers before us believed this. The American people of today must believe this. And those who are in high places in Washington had better believe this if our nation is to continue. We are a young nation, only 188 years old, and the history of other nations has invariably been that as soon as they began to forget this primary premise, they started on the way that led to their ultimate downfall and destruction.

Let me quote briefly from one of our most priceless religious heritages, the Declaration of Independence, to indicate that a recognition of God was definitely in the minds of those who wrote it: "All men are created equal and are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights . . . We, therefore, appeal to the Supreme Judge of this world . . And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

Lincoln in his immortal Gettysburg speech said, "We here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain . . . that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth in freedom." As we know, Lincoln's phrase "under God" was added by the Congress of the United States officially as a part of our allegiance to the flag. In 1955 it was ordered that all our money bear the inscription, "In God We Trust." And in 1956 this was made the official motto of the United States.

All of this indicates that we have come from a heritage that is definitely colored by a firm faith in God and a reliance on Him if we are to continue as a blessed nation.

Much of this rich religious heritage has been forgotten by many of our American people and definitely by those who sit in high places in Washington. And acting contrary to this religious heritage we have begun to change values and price tags and build up a materialistic philosophy under the guise of freedom which would make us independent of God, deprive our children of the religious heritage we ought to hand down to them, and so set the course of our nation on a downward trend that is bound to end in failure and destruction. All past history proves our independence is dependent on God.

In forbidding the reading of the Bible and praying in our schools the court has said: "There is no place under the American Constitutional system for prayer, reverent Bible reading or devotional exercise of any kind in the public schools" If carried to its full limit, as it ought to be, this would definitely forbid a baccalaureate service which included such things as this plus a sermon. It would forbid prayers of any kind in connection with a commencement service.

Now this is a radical decision and it marks a turning point in our history. It adds up to a major revolution. A tradition is dead that began back in 1648. It is a direct turnabout from our previous American religious tradition. The reason we are so concerned about the Supreme Court decision is that it symbolizes more than it enacts. It symbolizes a turning point in the process of secularization not only in public schools, but in all American life.

This is a serious matter and it means that as a nation for 188 years we have believed one thing and now suddenly the ship of state has been turned in the opposite direction.

What we need to do is to scrutinize cliches like: Religion is the business of the home and the church and has no place in the school and really ask ourselves what do we, as a nation, think about God and civil order. You hear it said the Supreme Court had no choice but to strike down Bible reading and prayer but, I claim, they did have a choice not to do so on the basis of our past tradition and the overwhelming will of the majority of people today who wanted it and still want it. People who say they had no choice little realize they are not only closing the doors on all past history but at the same time they are opening the doors to radical liberals to let in a tide of spiritual and moral weakness that will sweep us far from our ancestral moorings.

Permit me to quote from The Wall Street Journal: "What the Supreme Court has done in the name of protecting us from the establishment of religion by the state, is to establish secularization —atheism, if you would have it blunty—as the one belief to which the state's power will extend its protection."

There are two words in the court's decision that disturb me no end. The first is this: Neutrality. Mr. Justice Goldberg says and I quote, "It is said, and I agree, that the attitude of the state toward religion and God must be one of neutrality." This certainly flouts all our past religious heritage as a nation. It definitely clashes with the annual proclamation of the president of the United States each November declaring a day of national thanksgiving and calling on all citizens to worship and thank God. The boys in Washington ought to get together and decide who is boss.

Furthermore, if the attitude of our government is one of neutrality toward God and religion, it is definitely contrary to the statement to which we all subscribe. "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord." And it definitely reminds us of the words which God spoke in the last book of the Bible when He said: "Because thou art neither hot or cold, but lukewarm, I will spew thee out of my mouth." A neutral attitude toward God can be a dangerous attitude for any government to take and past history tells us that it has invariably meant the beginning of the end of that nation.

The second word that disturbs me in the court's decision is the word: Inconsistency. What is the real principle that has prompted the court's action against the schools? It is this: Public schools are tax supported as are the teachers who teach in them and no tax collected money may be used for the expression of any religion.

But how inconsistent can you get? The same Supreme Court which says to the schools, no, you can't do that because you are tax supported, opens every one of its sessions with a prayer spoken by a man who is paid out of tax collected money: "God save the United States and this Honorable Court."

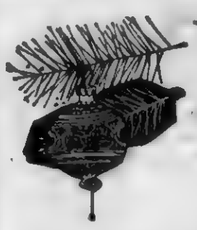
This same court permits every session of Congress to be opened with prayer by a man who is paid with tax collected money. This same court permits tax collected money to be used to pay chaplains in the various armed forces as they minister to the spiritual need of the men. Now, I am wondering what they are going to do when one of these days, some individual who disagrees with one of these practices, brings that case to their attention. There is only one thing they can do and be consistent. That is: rule them out of order, and contrary to the constitution of the U. S.

And do not think for one moment that these are remote possibilities of the imagination. Right now in Hawaii and in California there are cases pending to strike out "one nation under God" from the pledge of allegiance to the flag; for the removal of chaplains from the armed forces; for the omission of all prayers from the opening sessions of congress. Imaginary cases?

I quote you this news item: "The Military Chaplaine Association has pledged to use its resources in an impending legal battle to preserve the military chaplaincy in the U. S. This action was taken after chaplains heard that units of the American Civil Liberties Union have challenged the chaplaincy as being unconstitutional."

The question now is: What to do about it? One answer of course is: Nothing. And this is the reply which many are giving because it is so easy to drift in a society that is absorbed by pastimes and because so ofttimes in contrast to our forbears in the wilderness we are fast becoming a conformist people.

Others have advocated an amendment to the constitution. The governors of our 50 states in their annual meeting in Hershey, Pa., in 1962 and in Miami in 1963 heartily endorsed such action. I, personally, am of the opinion that the constitution does not need to be amended. It needs to be let alone and allowed to serve as faithfully as it has for the past 188 years. What needs to be done is to forcibly call the attention of the learned minds in Washington who constitute the Supreme Court that they have dumped all American religious heritage overboard and are going contrary to the general public opinion of the American people.



I think the best course is education and mobilization of public opinion, that we let it be known through our representatives in congress that we feel we are a nation under God and that "In God We Trust" are not empty words but the true declarations of a people's faith.

We predict that all attempts to sterilize spiritually and religiously our public school system will fail as it deserves to fail. For this is contrary to our history, to our traditions and our deepest instincts both as religious people and as American citizens.

To me these two things: The downgrading of morality; the decline of our American religious heritage — are matters that light a red lantern for us today to warn us we are treading on dangerous ground. Greek civilization fell into ruin; the powerful Roman empire fell into decay because the people of that day failed to heed these warnings. And these are the self same things that helped them to fall to destruction.

"With all the help you've been giving me how could I do bettern' a 'B' in it?"

Glee Clubs' Concert Set At Mershon

The tenth annual joint concert of the Men's Glee Clubs of the University of Michigan and the Ohio State University is scheduled for 8 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 21, in Mershon Auditorium.

The Michigan Club has received the highest praise in recent years in Europe, and it has recently appeared on the Perry Como TV Show.

The OSU Club has appeared many times on nationally televised programs including the Ed Sullivan Show and the Voice of Firestone.

Area seating tickets are available from the OSU Men's Glee Club members and from the Mershon Auditorium Ticket Office, 15th-av and High-st.

TV-4 Dates New Series

A new series of programs, "In Fairness," presenting controversial points of view will premiere Sunday, Nov. 22, at 1 p.m. on TV 4.

The purpose of the series is to provide expression of the ideas and opinions that have not been aired in normal news, entertainment or educational programs.

The first program's views are on "Medicare" and "Fluoridation." Sidney Spector, a representative of the National Council of Senior Citizens, will speak for Medicare, and Jonathan Forman of Columbus will speak against fluoridation.

This first program will be hosted by Merv Durea, WLW-C program director, and Morrie Butler, WLW-C special broadcast services director. They will use this program to explain the WLW-C responsibilities in being fair to controversial points of view under its license and will outline the station's policies.

Martha Roundtree To Talk At Mershon

"The Role of the American Woman in National Life" will be discussed at Ohio State University's Mershon Auditorium Tuesday, at 8 p.m., Dec. 1, by Miss Martha Rountree.

The former co-producer and moderator of television's "Meet the Press" will address the University's 1964 convocation on "Continuing Education for Women."

AN EXHIBIT of paintings entitled "The World of the Mentally Ill" will be displayed at the Columbus Plaza Hotel from Nov. 19 through 22 in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Ohio Mental Health Association. Artist is the nationally known painter and illustrator, Russell Hoban. The public is invited to view the paintings.

Mental Health Association To Present Painting Exhibit

Paintings depicting "The World of the Mentally Ill" will be on display at the Columbus Plaza Hotel for four days in connection with the annual meeting of the Ohio Mental Health Association from Nov. 19 through Nov. 22, it was announced by Mrs. Marion S. Wells, executive director of the Ohio Mental Health Association.

This is the first Coumbus showing and the second for Ohio of a series of 12 paintings by Russell Hoban, nationally known painter and illustrator, whose work has appeared in "Sports Illustrated," "Time," "Fortune" and other magazines.

The public is invited to view the paintings, and those interested are welcome to attend any of the sessions of the Ohio Mental Health Association meeting, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20 and 21 at the hotel.

The series was commissioned by the Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, Philadelphia, a manufacturer of mental health drugs. It has had showings throughout the country through such volunteer mental health organizations as OMHA.

The paintings are Hoban's expression of what he observed in mental hospitals and clinics in three states during 1960 and 1961. They portray the inner world of the mentally ill, psycho-pharmaceutical research, admission of a new patient, psychological testing experiences, mental hospital recreation and other situations.

The paintings are done in casein, a water base medium, and are accompanied by a descriptive text containing quotations from the artist.

Hoban, 38, resides in Connecticut. He is a native of Pennsylvania and in 1956 gave up a career as a television art director with a New York advertising agency to become a free lance artist. The artist is also known as a writer and illustrator of children's books.

Hoban worked on the mental health series for a year. They were commissioned to reflect their sponsors concern for mental health progress and the importance of educating the lay public in this regard — which makes them a natural to tie into showings collateral to meetings such as that sponsored here by the 34 year old citizens' vounteer organization, the Ohio Mental Health Association.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Having promised my son to buy overshoes for his dog for Christmas, I'm now in a quandary. What kind to buy?
—R. Y.

DEAR R. Y.: The best in canine's clodhoppers fall into one of these categories: (1) Those designed to keep the feet dry and protect them from ice and snow are made of rubber or vinyl.

(2) Leather footwear is designed for cross-country capers and protects from thorns, rock bruises and general wear and tear. (The in-between bootie built for both jobs may fail to do either one very well.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: Califlower just celebrated her 13th birthday. She is still a pretty healthy cat except she has halitosis. What makes it worse is that she has always draped herself around anyone's neck when they sit on the couch. She still wants to but we can't stand having her that close. Is this something we have to put up with because of her age? We still love her only now it's a lot harder. —G. C.

DEAR G. C.: Most such cases of dwindling feline popularity are due to bad teeth and gums. A few may involve ulceration on tongue or lips. Califlower's social acceptability should be greatly enhanced by an early trip to the doctor.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My bird, Mandy, a parakeet, bites VERY hard. Yesterday she made by father's finger turn black and blue. Is it natural for her to do this? My father thinks it has something to do with her being a female.

Could she be spoiled or what? Mandy and I are the only ones who get along together. Father says he doesn't think they are ever going to be very good friends. Is he giving up too soon?
—V. L.

DEAR V. L.: Your father's lack of enthusiasm is understandable. Female parakeets DO bite harder than males, and this process can prove discouraging, eventually. As long as you and the bird get along well, why not let father off the hook—beak in this case—as Mandy may continue to resent him anyway. (Probably Mandy is spoiled, and your father's ideas for correcting this condition might become more and more drastic as time goes on . . .).

DEAR DR MILLER: It's our new dog, Barkus, who has us confused To all appearances he is a normal, two-year-old Doberman. But you should see him eat! I know he has teeth (big ones!) but he doesn't ever use them for eating purposes.

Here is his routine: He approaches the food dish rapidly and all the food disappears into his stomach in one huge gasp. Then he gulps twice (on what I don't know, the food's gone already) and the show is over. Total elapsed time one and a half seconds.

Barkus hasn't seemed to suffer any ill effects so far, but we are worried that his stomach will collapse from the strain. How can we possibly slow him down at mealtimes? My husband wants ME to hand-feed Barkus, but HE won't try it! —S. D.

DEAR S. D.: Barkus has table manners typical of most large dogs and of numerous small ones, too. They can afford to be greedy because the strong stomach acids are quite capable of handling the entire platter of food in a completely unmasticated form.

Unless a dog is suffering from some digestive upset, there isn't any need to try to make a careful consumer of him. (Toy breeds or others that usually are dainty eaters can be expected to have trouble with his hi-speed inhalation technique.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: How necessary is it that I build our cow pony a barn? My wife thinks Cinder will get pneumonia without it.
—A. Y.

DEAR A. Y.: A full barn is more elaborate than necessary. A three-sided shed should do even for the most severe winter storms, provided Cinder has adequate rations. (The food should include grain, preferably barley.)

Contest Open To Senior High Students

Senior high school students are invited to design and construct Christmas tree ornaments for a teen-craftsman competition being sponsored by the Beaux Arts Club and the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts.

All entries submitted will be displayed in the gallery after Dec. 3, at which time they will be judged and awards given.

The ornament can be made of any material and can be any size as long as it is suitable for hanging and is viewable from all sides.

Entries will be received at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts on Dec. 1 and Dec. 2 from 1 to 5 p.m.

Those who wish to mail the ornament must have it inconspicuously labeled with the designer's name, address, age, and the name of his school. Mail entries must be received by Dec. 2.

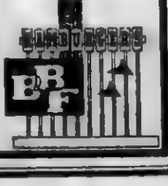
BAND TO PERFORM

Capital University's Concert Band performs Sunday, Nov. 22 at 3 p.m. in Mees Hall under the direction of Wilbur Crist. Featured will be soloist, Alice Kennedy on the French Horn and the Clarinet Choir conducted by David Hite.

Nature Movie To Be Shown

Movie scheduled in Beech-Maple Lodge at Blacklick Woods Metropolitan Park Sunday, Nov. 22, with one showing at 1:30 p.m. and the second at 3 p.m. is "The Touch of Nature"

This nature film explores the relationships of some of the plants and animals in the forests and fields of the upper mid-west. It shows how seemingly unrelated birds, mammals, and insects are linked together in unexpected ways, and how their activities can affect our own lives.



Bird Walk

An early morning bird walk will be conducted Nov. 22 at Blendon Woods Metropolitan Park. Participants may meet the naturalist at the trading post at 8:30 a.m. Checklists and binoculars are furnished.

Do You Have Sales Ability?

. . . Do you have an honest desire to meet with people and help them plan their future? Do you have a sincere yearning to be associated with a major corporation selling a nationally advertised product? If you can genuinely say "yes" to both these questions and want to supplement your present income, then we'd like to talk to you about a particularly fine career opportunity. Our employees receive complete sales training, excellent sales tools and qualified leads to help them make above average earnings. To learn if you can qualify, call or write us in complete confidence.

OIL OIL OIL
Attention Investors

. . . We are planning a 100 well drilling program in Ohio's largest proven oil field in Van Wert County. The 1st 3 wells are in and producing. We do not expect any dry holes, as we are drilling between old wells, using new methods to produce the 80% oil left in the field. These wells should pay out in 12 to 18 months, with profitable production expected to last 18 to 25 years.

Crippled Children To See Raggedy Ann At Party

Raggedy Ann is celebrating her 50th birthday and has invited children attending the treatment center of the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children to come to her "party" to be celebrated Monday, Nov. 23, at the center at 555 S. Monroe-av.

The local party is one of a series to be held at Easter Seal Centers throughout the United States during Thanksgiving Week.

The festivities for the handicapped girls and boys will include gifts of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy dolls, a book of Raggedy Ann stories and a record of Raggedy Ann songs.

Per capita consumption of fresh potatoes decreased from 113 pounds in 1947-49 to 99 pounds in 1962. During the same period, frozen french fries and other frozen potato products increased from 0.1 pound to 9.3 pounds.

Columbus Firm Reports Oil Find

D.S.H. Holding Co., 2690 Burnaby-dr, reports a successful strike of oil in its new drilling operations in Van Wert County, near Venedocia, Nov. 9.

An associate, Howard Shaw, said the well owned by Jay Holt, is producing about two barrels an hour. Two offset wells are being drilled nearby.

Last summer the firm tried unsuccessfully to locate oil at Oakhurst Country Club in southwestern Franklin County. Other drillings in Morrow, Delaware and Fayette counties were dry.

Shaw said his firm is using new techniques to reach what are belived to be untouched reserves in the nation's oldest oil-producting in northwestern Ohio.

Eagles To Hold Dinner, Dance During Week

The Ritual and Drill Team of Columbus Aerie No. 297, Fraternal Order of Eagles, 771 N. High-st, is sponsoring a spaghetti and meat ball dinner, Sunday, Nov. 22, from 5 to 7 p.m. This dinner is open to all Eagles and their families only. Donations are $1 for adults.

Aerie No. 297 and its Auxiliary will hold the 14th annual dance to raise money to help in the battle against cancer. The dance is for the benefit of cancer research and the Franklin County Units of the American Cancer Society.

This will be a Hobo Dance, and will be held Wednesday, Nov. 25, from 8:30 to 12:30 a.m. at the Eagles Home. Music will be furnished by Al Baumbush and Charles Clark's Orchestra.

The Cancer Research Hobo's Dance is open to all who wish to do their share to help stamp out cancer. Admission is $1 per person, and tickets can be purchased at the secretary's office or at the door on the night of the dance. There will be special awards every half hour.

The public is invited. Questions will be answered during a coffee hour after the program.

THE BIRTHDATES, marriages, and other memorably happy events in the lives of many generations of Columbus families are well known to (from left) Jack, Albert and Harold Kull at 205 S. High-st. A fine community has grown and prospered around them, and their store is a reflection of the lasting beauty of treasured things.

A Fine Jewelry Store Is A Community Gem

By CHARLES McDERMOTT
Business Editor

Part of the pride of Columbus as a nice city in which to live lies with its many stores and establishments which, over a span of many years, have gained the respect and confidence of succeeding generations.

Kull Jewelers, located at 205 S. High-st, recently observed its 54th business anniversary.

Albert H. Kull, founder, was an apprentice under Fred F. Leindecker, who is remembered by many Columbusites. His store was located at Main and Fourth-sts.

When he had reached professional status, Albert Kull opened his own establishment on Sept. 10, 1910. As the years passed he expanded, acquiring the Luchtenberg Jewelry Store in 1953.

A fine jewelry store is an asset to a community, and when its has operated for many decades and has become a stopping place for thousands in the community, it evokes an obligation for the family of the proprietor to perpetuate such a business.

Harold and Jack, two fine jewelers in their own right, responded to the obligation they felt toward a community that had been so kind to their father's business. They joined him some years ago and the store became known as Kull and Sons.

Today, it is nice to drop in and talk to these old-timers on the local business scene and see their truly fine display of silver, crystal, and English bone china. Their diamonds and other gems are as breathcatchingly beautiful as you will see anywhere.

The operators here are members of the Registered Jewelers of America Gem Society.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Issues Warning On Photographs

The Professional Photographers Association of Ohio issued a warning this week against door-to-door photographers and high pressure telephone calls offering free portraits.

"Of all complaints filed with Better Business Bureaus in the country, complaints on itinerant photographers lead the rest," said Harry L. Pluto, president of the association.

Photographers carrying the letters CPP (Certified professional Photographer) with their name, have filed with the Better Business Bureau, and are ethical and resopnsible he said.

Engineer Passes Registration Test

Marvin E. Monroe, 1950 Korbel-av, has qualified for registration as a professional engineer, and will receive his certificate Nov. 24.

In announcing results of the examination, the Franklin County Chapter of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers stated Monroe received the highest grade in the State for Engineer in Training in electrical engineering.

Insurance Firm In Expansion

The Fidelity National Life Insurance, 34 N. High-st, has promoted three home office executives as part of its expansion program, president Fred H. Johnson announced recently.

George P. Sesais, 3636 Paris-blvd, Westerville, an Ironton native, has been promoted to Resident Manager.

John L. Fraley, 1818 Elmwood-av, Upper Arlington, active in the National Safety Council and YMCA, becomes Director of Training

Artist Commissioned

Leland McClelland, Columbus artist, has been commissioned by Allied Van Lines for a series of new pictures to be used in the company's customer relation program. The original silk screen prints depict colorful Central Ohio landscape scenes. The Edwards Moving and Storage Co., 120 W. Chestnut-st, is local agent.

Sheridan Collins

Radio Station Promotes Two

Joseph D. Bradshaw, vice-preident-general manager of WRFD, has announced two major staff appointments.

Phil Sheridan has been named director of FM Operations. Sheridan, an associate of the WRFD stations for approximately 14 years, has been serving in the capacity of program director since 1958. In his position, he will be in direct charge of all FM operations.

Replacing Sheridan as program director of WRFD is Bill Collins. An associate of the WRFD stations since 1953, Collins has most recently served as production director and is heard daily at 4:05-5 p.m. on his own WRFD music program.

NOV 1964

An Amelia Simmons, who published a paper-backed volume of recipes in 1796, is said to have established for all of us an American mode of cookery. Her book introduced in recipe form many foods unique to this new land.

Time To Talk Turkey About Coming Holiday

Among the "first" recipes this lady introduced in "American Cookery" is cranberry sauce. Little could she dream that her instructions for using this blush-red berry would, within a few years, become part and parcel of the nation's Holiday culinary scene.

Making the best use of Amelia's instructions, here is a recipe for a turkey and stuffing casserole which comes out of the commonplace through the use of the cranberry. If Amelia were here today to savor this dish, she would hasten to add the recipe to her very own treasured collection. Why not add it to yours.

CRANBERRY TOPPED TURKEY AND STUFFING CASEROLE

1½ (7 to 9-ounce) packages seasoned bread stuffing mix
2 cups chopped celery
2 cups cooked, cut up turkey or chicken
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 chicken bouillon cubes
2 cups boiling water
½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups whole cranberry sauce or cranberry orange-relish

Combine stuffing mix, celery, turkey and beaten egg. Dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water; add butter and stir until butter is melted; blend thoroughly with stuffing mixture. Pack lightly into a greased deep 8 or 9-inch baking dish. Cover tightly with foil and bake in a moderate oven (350°F) for forty minutes. Spread cranberry sauce evenly over top of stuffing. Bake uncovered ten minutes longer. Let stand a few minutes before cutting into serving pieces.

Yield: 9 servings.

SERVING TURKEY

Chicago Avenue Christian Church, 33 Chicago-av, is holding its annual public turkey dinner Friday, Nov. 20. Serving is from 5 to 8 p.m. Tickets are $1.25 and 75 cents.

ALL LITTLE, BIG AND MEDIUM GIRLS (AND MEN) ARE INVITED TO DOLL SHOW

For just one Saturday, would you like to forego the rootin', tootin', shootin' of television and do something different? Such a Saturday is in the offing, Nov. 21, from 1 to 9 p.m., at the South Side YMCA, 190 Southwood-av.

Meg, Amy, Beth, Jo and "Marmee" of Little Women fame will be on hand to greet you, but do pardon them if they are silent when you meet them. You see, they're really dolls, and just five of the scores that will be exhibited at the South Side Y that day. Dorris Syferr, of the Ohio Valley Doll Collectors Club and owner of a vast collection of dolls, will explain interesting facts about the dolls she has loaned for the occasion. Some of her fellow collectors will also have doll dispays.

Devotees of the needecrafts will be charmed by the displays shown by Mrs. Fred Rogers. Her work has brought her thousands of ribbons and awards from all over the country, plus the coveted title, "United States Champion," a few years ago.

Just in time for the approaching holiday season, other items will be available at the Doll Show, such as dresses for the "modern" doll. Refreshments will be served.

Because the sponsoring group, the South Side Branch YMCA Mothers' Club, wants as many folks as possible to view the dolls, they decided to make the admission price 50 cents, adult or child. Youth group (Camp Fire Girls, Scouts and others) will pay only 25 cents. To be able to take advantage of this discount, the organizations must be in groups, uniformed, and accompanied by the leader.

Tickets may be purchased from members of the South Side Y Mothers' Club, the South Side "Y" or at the door.

MRS. MARGARET STEFFENS, president of the Mothers Club, and Bob Davis of the YMCA staff, "handle with care" the dolls loaned to them by Mrs. Dorris Syfers, who recently took second prize for her collection of Jacqueline Kennedy dolls at the convention of United Federation of Doll Clubs in Cincinnati. The large doll is a German bisque and next to her is an apple-cheeked china doll. The tiny soldier doll is termed Franco-Prussian and the two little ones are Flemish dolls.

Jerri Mock To Be Feted

Beta Sigma Phi International Sorority will make Jerri Mock an honorary member, Nov. 20, 8 p.m., at its annual pledge ritual to be held at the Fort Hayes Hotel. Guests from the city councils of Worthington, Delaware and Reynoldsburg Chapter will be in attendance.

This marks the first time the Columbus Chapters have taken in an honorary member.

EUCHRE PARTY DATED

Women's Auxiliary 357 of GM Local 969 is sponsoring a euchre party Friday, Nov. 27, 8:30 p.m. at the Union Hall, 3761 Harding-dr. Over 65 prizes will be awarded at this last big party of the year. Proceeds will help needy families this Christmas.

First-hand "taste-test" was made by parents of elementary school pupils in Kettering, O. As part of National Lunch Program Week, parents were invited to visit school lunchrooms and sample the food—at adult prices. Last year, about 3,100 parents took advantage of the offer.

Dinner Arranged By Singletons

November meeting of the proposed Columbus Chapter of the United States Singletons will be held on Tuesday evening the 24th at the Seneca Hotel, according to James T. Callaghan, 3718 Ekin-rd, acting chairman.

Dr. John L. Terry of 226 Brighton-rd, will speak on his experiences on the Ship "HOPE." He will illustrate his talk with colored slides.

Callaghan said the United States Singletons is the only national service organization limited in membership to unmarried men and women between the ages of 25-45. Men must have an income of at least $5,000 a year and women $3,600. Chapters engage in civic and welfare activities with a well-rounded social program, he said.

Callaghan added that the local group hopes to elect permanent officers this month and complete formal organization.

Qualified Columbus residents invited to attend the dinner may make reservations by calling Callaghan at BR. 4-3472 or Donna Snyder at 291-9626.

Localites Selected As Suburban Homemakers!

From Columbus . . .

For the third straight year, Hartley Newspapers called on its readers to help in a search to find the community's top Suburban Homemakers.

The search, sponsored locally by The Spectator, and nationally by the Suburban Press Foundation in cooperation with the American Dairy Association, was a genuine national effort to pay tribute to the often unrecognized backbone of community life and service — the housewife.

Those nominating were asked to select their candidate on the basis of the following points: how she contributes to creating a good family relationship (mutual love, respect, child training, mental and emotional health); how she reveals her spiritual and moral strength in home, church and community; participation in civic and community affairs; skills in meal preparation, handling family clothing, housekeeping and shopping; personal appearance, habits and attitudes toward fitness of self and family.

Sixty entries were submitted to The Spectator from local readers nominating these "special" women. Four local judges, with varied backgrounds associated with suburban home making, personally interviewed all finalists before selecting:

Mrs. Robert Arnold, 72 W. Main-st, Hilliard; Mrs. Lindley Kumler, 891 Linwood-av; Mrs. Roy Vonins, 51 S. Brinker-av, and Mrs. Paul Morris, 970 Plum Ridge, Reynoldsburg.

Nominators of winning homemakers were Mrs. Milton C. Mann, 341 Conklin-dr, Hilliard; Mrs. Richard L. Kuhn, 3001 Walcutt-rd, Hilliard, and Mrs. D. W. Stauch 307 S. Algonquin-av (all three nominated Mrs. Arnold); Mrs. Joseph Palmer, 496 Northview-dr (nominated Mrs. Morris); Mrs. Donald Ehman, 321 S. Southampton-av (nominated Mrs. Vonins) and Linda and Mary Kumler, 891 Linwood-av (both nominated Mrs. Kumler).

If one of the local nominees should be selected as the national winner, her nominator would receive $500.

The four winners, along with the judges, were guests of publisher C. Carlton Hartley at a special Recognition Luncheon Friday at the Lincoln Lodge.

At the luncheon, the winners were briefly told of their trip to the National Conference in Chicago and introduced to their Spectator hosts for the journey—Mrs. Glenna DeWitt and Mrs. William Jones.

Publisher Hartley presented the winners with silver

. . . To Chicago

The ladies representing The Spectator today and tomorrow in Chicago as local Suburban Homemakers of the Year are taking part in a national conference which is impressive both in its purpose and its program.

The national homemaker conference will be important to one woman in particular — the woman who is selected as the National Suburban Homemaker of the Year. She will receive $5000.

It is unlikely, however, that any contestant will leave Chicago empty-handed.

For the national conference, sponsored by the Suburban Press Foundation, is much more than "a give-away show." Conferences and panel discussions, which bring together truly some 50 top homemakers from all over the country, must provide benefits in both inspiration and ideas.

Every woman will come away a better homemaker for her experience at the conference.

Appearing on the Chicago panel which will discuss problems and providence of the local homemaker will be four nationally-known men and women who have already contributed to the cause of suburban homemaking.

The panel includes Dr. James E. Etzel, technical director, Water Research Institute. Dr. Etzel will discuss problems of water supply and distribution which have been brought about in part by the population explosion to the suburbs.

Frank R. Neu, director of Information and Public Relations for the American Dairy Association, will speak on the matters covering the whole field of nutrition, its trends and modern theories. Neu will undoubtedly touch on the subject of "faddism" in nutritional theories.

Third panelist is Mrs. Rhoda Pritzker of the Association for Family Living. The association's official purpose is "to provide as a social service parent education designed to help parents to rear emotionally healthy children."

Mrs. Marianne Scott, Women's Editor of Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill., will anchor the panel. Mrs. Scott, who heads the society staff of one of Chicago's leading suburban weeklies, will discuss how her responsibilities to the women of the community have grown in direct proportion to the phenomenal growth of Suburbia.

The highlight of the two-day conference, however, will

Mrs. Morris Knew Role At Early Age

By BETTY DAFT

Mrs. Nancy Morris always knew what she wanted to do with her life, and started early to prepare herself for her role of homemaker, wife and mother.

"I knew what I wanted to do when I was a little girl," she said, "and I never changed my mind."

Cooking and sewing courses in school expanded her enjoyment of the arts, and in 1951 she was graduated from Muskingum College with a degree in home economics.

"It was a way to insure the future by preparing for a career if I ever needed it, and still learn more about homemaking . . . and this I enjoy most of all," she explained.

And her home at 970 Plum Ridge, bright and shining from loving care, and her six healthy, happy children reflects her professional know-how, as well as the enjoyment she finds in her chosen role.

Others have found inspiration from the manner Mrs. Morris manages her home and family and her obvious happiness with the life she has shaped — the students she taught during her year as a home economics teacher, the girls in the Blue Birds group she leads, and her friends, as well as her own daughters.

"Jeanne, at 12, and Susan, eight, already enjoy cooking, and are starting to bake cookies, and do some hand sewing," Mrs. Morris said. "Jeanne thinks she also wants to become a home economics teacher. She's very young and may change her mind, but I was sure at her age."

Mrs. Morris also puts her teacher training into practice in the Pre-School Department of Bexley Methodist Church, where she is program chairman for her Woman's Society of Christian Service circle.

She sings in the church choir, and is currently organizing a new Camp Fire group for junior high girls.

And the house where they live is truly "home" to the Morrises, tailored to their own tastes and the needs of a large famiy.

Its construction was subcontracted by Paul Morris, vice-principal of Marion-Franklin Junior-Senior High, and the design modified by him from plans ordered from a magazine.

The tri-level dwelling, with large living room, dining room and roomy kitchen is furnished simply and tastefully, for full family enjoyment and comfort.

A recreation room is under the living area of the home, and bedrooms are lo-

WINNERS GET WORLD'S 'BEST SELLER'

We Sent Four But Everyone Was A Winner

It isn't often that everyone who enters a contest can be listed as a winner. And yet, every woman who was nominated in The Spectator's search for a Suburban Homemaker can proudly wear the mantle of royalty.

Of course, only four women were sent to Chicago to compete for the title of Suburban Homemaker of the Year but they certainly weren't the only winners.

Any women nominated by a friend or relative can count herself as being "someone very special". She is the real winner in their eyes.

It was indeed gratifying here at The Spectator to read so many fine letters, nominating so many wonderful women.

We count them all as runnerups. They are only runnerups because everyone can't be first. Inside this section today, you may read letters nominating some of our Homemaker candidates. Space does not allow us to print all 60 of them. We submit a few as representative.

Now we would like to introduce you to some very special people—winners all in that most important of all roles in community life, the Suburban Homemaker:

Mrs. Howard Fridley, Rt. 2, Canal Winchester; Mrs. Norman Ealy, 2468 Spaatz-av; Mrs. Paul Crossier, 260 S. Algonquin-av; Mrs. Janice M. Fagan, 651 Raleigh-dr.

Mrs. Alice Hussey, 3006 Crescent-dr; Mrs. Edwin D. Sparks, 996 S. Richardson-av; Mrs. Robert G. Arnold, 72 W. Main-st, Hilliard.

Mrs. Robert Kirschner, 78 N. Everett-av; Mrs. Robert N. Martin, 3848 Washburn-st; Mrs. Mary Ann Langholz, 3353 Roswell-dr.

Hilltop Homemaker Helps Build 'Castle'

By JANET MICHAEL

Ten years ago a woman and her husband moved to the Hilltop from Baltimore, O. She was reluctant about the move, fearing the city life would be strange and the people cold.

Today that woman is in Chicago vying for the title of National Suburban Homemaker of the Year. And all over the Hilltop are the neighbors and friends she never thought she would have . . . rooting for Dorothy.

Dorothy (Mrs. Roy) VonIns still doesn't know how it happened.

"There are so many women that do so much for their home and community . . . I just can't figure how I was chosen."

A lot of goodness is sandwiched in between her childhood years and her debut in national competition.

She never knew wealth as a child. Her mother was an invalid and her father worked long and hard hours at the town's paper factory. Immediately following graduation from high school, Dorothy took a job as a typist to supplement the family income. Quitely, she accepted the fact she would never receive a higher education.

But she was happy.

Much of her happiness was because she was in love. She and Roy were high school sweethearts, planning a future together. Roy was a sophomore at OSU when the two were married and settled down in Baltimore.

Following graduation Roy served with the Army. Upon his return, the young couple spent eight years on his grandfather's farm near Baltimore.

During that time Dorothy filled the cellar with canned goods — tomato juice, peaches, cherries, green beans and apple sauce. She also held several office jobs and worked for some time at North American Aviation.

"The double income was a big help, but Roy decided if we were ever going to have a family, we would have to learn to live on one check."

Dorothy and Roy soon found that they were much richer with two children and one income.

It was in 1954 that the family moved to the Hilltop and Roy took a job at City National Bank.

"It really didn't seem like the job for him . . . he got his degree in agriculture."

But apparently it was the job for Roy as he has "cultivated" his position to cashier with offices downtown.

THESE JUDGES DID THE IMPOSSIBLE!

MISS SHELIA A. Castellaris, 503 Latham-ct, added her experience as General Home Service Director, Columbia Gas, to help judge Homemaker entries. A graduate of St. Mary High School and OSU (Home Economics), Miss Castellaris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Castellaris of the Latham-ct address. The Spectator and our community salute you, Miss Castellaris.

MRS. D. BRUCE Bishoff, 1839 Beaumont-rd, was one of four local Homemaker judges who did the impossible by helping select four representatives from the 60 fine nominees. Mrs. Bishoff, mother of two sons and two daughters, is immediate past president of Central Deanery of Catholic Women and the Women's Chairman of Cancer Crusade. The Spectator and our community salute you, Mrs. Bishoff.

MRS. WILLIAM Miller, 1463 Berkshire-rd, was another busy judge who gave so generously of her time to make the Homemaker search a success. Mother of a teenage daughter, Laurie, Mrs. Miller is the president of United Church Women of Columbus-Franklin County and a six-year member of YWCA Board. The Spectator and our community salute you, Mrs. Miller.

MRS. MARY Falkenberg, 287 Kanawa, took time from her duties as Home Lighting Advisor at Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. to judge Homemaker candidates. A graduate of OSU (Home Economics), Mrs. Falkenberg is the mother of a married daughter (Mrs. Jerry Simpson) and a son, Barth, who is a high school senior. The Spectator and our community salute you, Mrs. Falkenberg.

Ten Little Kumlers Mom's Best Asset

By GLENNA DE WITT

One little, two little, three little Kumlers, four little, five little, six little Kumlers, seven little, eight little, nine little Kumlers, 10 little Kumler kids.

This might well be the theme song for the family that has lived at 891 Linwood-av for the past 16 years. Lin and Helen Kumler moved into the now 50-year-old house as almost newly-weds with a already blossoming family.

Six children came in the first six years of marriage and now they have 10 ranging in years from 18 all the way down to two.

Helen is still a little overwhelmed by the big city. She grew up in a small Missouri town which was a Lutheran stronghold as far as religion was concerned. From a nearby Army base she met and fell in love with a young soldier whose home was in faraway Columbus, Ohio.

Together the young couple considered the way of life they wanted for their family and after much deliberation were both baptized, along with their first two children, into the Catholic faith.

They have never wavered from that decision and have built a rewarding life which includes family, church and each other.

The light that comes from a deep love still shows in the eyes of both mother and father and Helen is quick to say, "The only way I can manage is because I am sure of Lin's support every minute"

Five bedrooms, containing 12 beds, using 24 sheets per week, is just a beginning on the giant-size job of making a home for this large, active family.

Helen does four laundry loads each day in addition to all those sheets. She has a daily routine for keeping house which begins with straightening the house each morning, making the beds, washing the clothes, and then baking the hot breads and desserts that come daily from the Kumler kitchen.

Special days bring special treats such as candied apples and popcorn for Halloween. Helen is now in the midst of baking 1500 cookies as her contribution to her daughters' Girl Scout troop Christmas fund.

She operates on a strict budget of $60 per week for food which must include 10 dozen eggs and 13 gallons of milk. Casserole dishes are her standby fare with roast beef on Sunday.

During the recovery period that followed every birth, Lin has taken over the kitchen. When the children begin to tease him about being on an egg diet, he

Son Rates Winner 'Best Mother Ever'

By MRS. WILLIAM JONES

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arnold have different ideas of what it takes to make a successful homemaker. But both were touched by the answer the other gave.

"The secret to Dorothy's success," Bob Arnold says, "is that she is a homemaker and doesn't try to be anything else."

Dorothy modestly and affectionately counters, "Behind every successful homemaker there's a husband who is loving, kind, considerate and understanding. It takes teamwork!"

One thing is without question. For 17 years the Arnolds, who live at 72 W. Main-st in Hilliard, have worked as a team, raising and molding their family into a healthy, happy unit of lovely, charming people.

The six Arnold children, Doug, 15; Dan, 14; David, 11; Dawn, 10; Darcie, 9 and Dian, 6, are a picture of well-scrubbed health and exuberance. Dorothy's friends say that although the family unit is most important in the Arnold activities, each child is treated as an individual and nurtured in his development.

Noting that seven of the eight Arnolds have names that begin with "D," Dorothy said that to make it complete they call Bob "Daddy" Arnold.

"We named Doug after a relative and gave Dan and David Bible names," she said. "After that it became habit, but now it's confusing when I call them by name."

Dorothy says the most unusual thing about their family is the fact the three boys came first, followed by the three girls. The kids agree it's nice to be evenly divided.

A large family has never been a hardship on Dorothy. She believes a homemaker should make things as easy for herself as possible and has thus trained her children to help her. "Why, I've hardly changed a bed myself in five years," she said.

She also pointed out that children are capable of doing more and taking more responsibility than one might expect. Little Dian is the disciplinarian of the family, seeing that roller skates are kept off the carpet and clothes are picked up, etc.

The Arnold family is practical-minded in many respects. Bob and Dorothy moved into their present home when they were first married and have completed many do-it-yourself projects to add to the coziness. In turn, they are teaching their children to take care of themselves.

"The boys look over Bob's shoulder whenever he's working on the car or fixing something," Dorothy said. "It costs so much for repairmen these days and they never know if cated on the third level, above the attached garage.

Drapes throughout the house are the handwork of Mrs. Morris, as well as many of the girls' clothes.

School musicals, Independent Players' productions that her husband directs, also benefit from her proficiency, for she contributes many of the costumes.

"And we belong to lots of PTA's," Mrs. Morris added laughingly. "There's Marion-Franklin, of course, because my husband is so interested, and Woodcrest and Walnut Ridge, because the children attend those schools.

"I would like to be more active in these groups, but there's so little time."

And careful budgeting of time is necessary with a family of six ranging from three to 12.

Jeanne, 12, is a seventh grader at Walnut Ridge Junior-Senior High, and Lee, 10; Susan, eight, and seven-year-old Ruth Ann are enrolled at Woodcrest Elementary.

The little ones, Janet, five, and three-year-old Brian are still at home.

Leisure hours are very precious, and Mrs. Morris fills hers with gardening, reading, cooking and sewing, and her youth group activities.

"I love flowers and this year, since the children are a little older, I was able to do more. I do like flowers, but I like kids even more; there'll be more time for flowers when the children aren't so small."

Her reading preference is for historical novels. "All the children really enjoy reading, too, and I'm so glad they do."

And cooking? "I really like baking best, but don't do so much anymore. I start Christmas cookies at this time and freeze them for the holidays. And I enjoy working with recipes, trying new ones and adjusting them to our own tastes.

"The children don't care for new experiments," she added laughingly, "but Paul does — he'll try anything."

She and her husband met while both were attending Muskingum College. Mrs. Morris was a native of Findlay, and he was from Pittsburgh.

HOMEMAKER WINNER Mrs. Paul Morris poses at the top of the Morris family stepladder which extends from husband Paul to three-year-old Brian, youngest of the Morris clan. Pictured between are Jeanne, 12, Lee, 10, Susan, eight, and Janet, three. The Morris family lives at 970 Plum Ridge in Reynoldsburg.

RUNNERUP

Heart Surgery Didn't Slow Nominee's Effort

Margaretta Farkas is a most extraordinary woman for she is a successful wife, mother and homemaker in spite of a rheumatic heart condition that became so serious she had to undergo "fingertip" heart surgery three years ago.

She's adept at all the taken-for-granted duties of a homemaker yet finds time and energy to develop those talents that make an individual a ne'er to be forgotten personality. Her many skills include sewing, weaving and ceramics.

Marje (as she is known to her friends) is an active member of the Shady Lane Presbyterian Church and a former Sunday School teacher. She is a volunteer for the Cancer Society, busy in PTA and Band Parents.

She was a Girl Scout leader for 10 years and also served as neighborhood chairman. Currently she is secretary of an all girls' Investment Club.

The true measure of a parent can be determined to a great extent by the individual success of the children. Margaretta Farkas excels when the lives of her children are examined.

Son James was chosen to be a foreign exchange student to Japan. Jim's home training and excellent character so impressed his Japanese parents that they recently came to America to visit Jim in his own home. Margaretta also was "Mother" to an exchange student from Turkey.

Her love for young people, her understanding of their needs and desires has won her a place in the hearts of many. She is chairman of the Homes Selection Committee for Foreign Students so we see her using her good judgment and kindness plus her motherly influence here and abroad.

Attractive and youthful in heart and spirit, no one would expect her to be a grandmother but daughter Carolyn is awaiting her first child in early January. Jim is now a "Plebe" at Annapolis and little Marilyn (age nine) is already active in Girl Scouts.

Marje is always a gracious hostess, charming and interesting, yet one cannot help but notice the unusual closeness of the family. The intimate smile exchanged and the almost feather-like touch shared between Tony and Marje—and you at once perceive that here is love and understanding in full bloom.

Then there are the muted whispers and stifled giggles between mother and daughters and the comraderie of son Jim. All this makes it apparent that this home has the ideal base — love, respect, understanding and sharing.

You come away from their home knowing that our country will continue to be strong and unconquerable with such families as the backbone of the nation.

Non-Ferrous Tanks Best

As a rule, non-ferrous (no iron) water heating tanks are considered superior since they will not rust. Such units are surfaced with glass, monel (non-rusting) alloys, copper, molded stone or cement.

However, the type best suited for an individual homemaker's needs often depends on the nature of local water. Insulation is another important quality to check.

ONLY FIVE PERCENT

While costs for landscaping sometimes run up to 15 percent of the cost of the home, for as little as five percent of home cost an adequate landscaping job can be professionally done.

FABRIC SOFTENERS

In order to be effective, fabric softeners must be left on the fabric at the end of the washing process. Use them only in the final rinse.

Try These Homemaker Receipes!

LASAGNA
Meat Sauce

1½ lb. ground beef
2 ten oz. cans tomato sauce
1 six oz. can tomato paste
½ cup water
½ cup diced celery
1 envelope spaghetti sauce mix
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard

Brown the ground beef. Add ingredients and bring to boil. Simmer for 10 to 15 minutes.

Lasagna

1 box lasagna noodles
1 tablespoon salad oil
2 bay leaves
1½ tablespoons salt
1 lb. cottage cheese
6 to 8 oz. Mozzarelli cheese
½ cup Parmesan cheese

Slide noodles into boiling water. Add oil, salt and bay leaves. Add meat sauce. Slice Mozzarelle thin into squares and add to mixture. Oil 12 by 8 baking dish. Make layer of lasagna strips. Spoon ⅓ sauce over top with ½ of cottage cheese, Mozzarelle and Parmesan. Repeat for top layer. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Serves eight. — Mrs. Arnold.

BEEF STROGANOFF

2 lbs. round steak, cut into one-half to three-fourths inch cubes
1 large onion, sliced
1 can mushrooms
4 tbsp. catsup
1 pint commercially-soured cream
2 tbsp. soy sauce
Paprika, salt and pepper

Cook onion in butter until transparent. Remove from skillet and brown meat. Add all seasonings and last add sour cream. Cover and cook in oven one and one-half to two hours.

Serve with rice.

—Mrs. Morris

CINNAMON NUT ROLLS

2 cakes compressed yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups milk, scalded
½ cup margarine
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, slightly beaten
7 or 8 cups flour
1½ cups sugar
3 teaspoons cinnamon
1 cup softened margarine
1 cup pecans or walnuts

Dissolve yeast in water; add two tablespoons sugar.

Combine cooled milk, margarine, salt, sugar and eggs. Add to softened yeast.

Stir in flour to form soft dough. Beat vigorously; cover and let rise in warm place (85°) until double in bulk.

Turn ½ of dough at a time onto slightly floured surface and roll into 16"x8" rectangle.

Spread with butter, sprinkle on sugar, cinnamon and nuts. Roll lengthwise as for jelly roll; seal edge. Cut into ½ inch slices. Place cut side down in greased pan. Let rise until double. Bake at 375° for 30 or 35 minutes.

ICING

Add sufficient top milk or cream to two cups confectioners sugar to make desired consistency. Add dash salt and one teaspoon vanilla. These may be iced while warm. Makes five dozen rolls. — Mrs. Helen Kumler.

CHERRY YUM-YUM

1 stick butter
½ pound crushed graham crackers

Mix together and press in 9x13 baking pan and chill: 8 oz. softened cream cheese and one pint whipped cream. Spread over crackers and chill. Spread one can pie cherries over all.

PEANUT BRITTLE

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
½ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
½ to 1 pound unroasted nuts
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter

Combine sugar, syrup, water and salt in large heavy frying pan. Place over medium heat and stir until sugar dissolves. Cover and cook for three minutes. Remove cover and cook to soft ball stage (234 degrees). Add nuts and stir until brittle (300 degrees). Remove from heat, add remaining ingredients. Stir until well blended. Spread on a well-greased 14½x17-inch cookie sheet. As candy cools, loosen edges gently to stretch candy as thin as possible. Store in tin or closed container.

BLUEBERRY AND CHEESE DESSERT OR PIE

24 graham cracker (crumbed). Save few for top of pie.
½ pound butter
½ cup sugar

Spread 8 oz. cheese, 2 eggs and ½ cup sugar over crumbs and bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Cool.

2 cans blueberries
1 pt. whipped cream

Spread one layer blueberries, then whipped cream, blueberries and finish with whipped cream. Sprinkle remainder of crumbs on top. Keeps several days. Makes 14 to 16 servings.

CHICKEN SANDWICH FILLING

7 chicken breasts
8 boiled eggs
Inside of celery stock

Grind and add mayonnaise to spreading consistency. Makes about 30 fancy sandwiches.

laughs his solid laugh and says he "can fix eggs in more ways than the recipe book says."

Seven of the children are now in school. The oldest daughter, Linda, graduated from Bishop Hartley High School last June and, perhaps because of all her experience at home, is now learning to be an oxygen therapist at Children's Hospital. She had spent several years during high school as a volunteer at St. Ann's.

Two young brothers, Tim, four, and Tom, two, still keep Mrs. Kumler company during the day. She also cares for several neighbor children several hours a day.

Charles, a senior in high school, works in a neighborhood drug store, acts as an altar boy at early Mass, and is learning to drive the family station wagon.

His dad wishes there were just more hours in the day to spend more time hunting and fishing with his boys, a pastime that is enjoyed by both generations.

Then a monopoly of five girls arrived: Martha, Mary Beth, Chris, Teresa and Nancy. Martha is attending St. Joseph's on a scholarship and everyone in the family is happy about her good fortune. Mary Beth frankly admits she didn't try very hard on the examination because she preferred to be "where the boys are."

David, eight, broke the long line of females and his bright black eyes disclose that he is "all boy." Each child has a deep dimple in his chin, a gift from their father, which Helen explains means, "Dimple in chin, devil within."

The Kumlers operate their large, modest home on a unyielding budget that has been altered throughout the years, only to include an ever growing grocery list.

They have provided an emergency fund to cover large purchases such as washing machines that must be replaced every three years. Lin Kumler not only earns the money from his job as serviceman at Central Ohio Tractor, but also manages it once it comes home.

This arrangement was agreed upon at the beginning of the marriage and Helen says with pride, "Lin is an excellent manager and I am really happy that it is one thing I don't have to worry about."

The family all piled into their station wagon last summer and visited Helen's home in Missouri — all of them except Linda, Martha and Chuck who had full-time jobs at the time. The Kumler car also acts as a school bus each morning, driven by Lin before he reports to work.

All the children have always been healthy. Helen Kumler is gracious in her praise for Dr. Clarence Gallagher, their family physician who delivered the last nine children, and who always stands ready to care for them.

Helen believes she can say "thank you" to God for her own family's good fortune by helping on every health drive that comes her way.

Mother Kumler, with two or more children skipping along beside her, climbing up steps and ringing doorbells to gather funds for less fortunate families has become a familiar sight on the south side of Columbus.

This homemaker's horizons are not bound by the four walls of her home. She serves three PTA's and has been a room mother every year she has had a child in school.

She is a member of two Girl Scout Troop committees and she and her husband are discussion leaders for St. Paul's Guild an organization at their church, Corpus Christi, to introduce new converts into the working Catholic church.

They also attend the Cana group there. And, once in a long while, they manage a dinner out and a movie together.

The children, six with their father's coloring and features and four tending toward mother, have never received allowances. Up until the time they could earn their own money, which was early, they discussed their needs with their parents.

Now, each child has developed a way of bringing in a little extra. David rakes leaves, Nancy runs errands for the many elderly people in the neighborhood, and the older girls have steady baby sitting jobs.

The girls also help in the kitchen preparing the salads, setting the table and cleaning up.

There is a strict study time rule which goes into effect at 7:30 p.m. There are no phone calls after that time and no television. Two of the children study at the kitchen table, one at the desk in the hall, and the others go to their bedrooms.

In a neighborhood that is rapidly changing, the Kumlers are often complimented on the good behavior of their many children.

For several years they were torn with the idea of moving to a small farm where the children would have much roaming space, and their own animals, but together Helen and Lin decided that a good parochial education was more essential than wide open spaces so they stay on — a warm example of a close-knit family unit.

Each Sunday morning finds as many of the family worshipping together as possible. As the family becomes older and has separate responsibilities, each child decides on which Mass is more convenient for him.

But on Easter and Christmas they all go together and crowd into one pew. The Kumlers say the rosary together at home and have grace before each meal in their friendly kitchen whose largest piece of furniture is the table with all the leaves always extended.

Helen takes great pride in showing the apron she wears which was decorated by her mother with all the names and birthdays of the 10 children.

Smiling, she tells about a man she was serving at a St. Joseph dinner one evening who kept looking at her in the strangest way. His wife finally told her he was merely trying to count all the children.

Lindley Kumler always had the privilege of caring for each new child during the first few nights after coming home from the hospital. He looks tenderly at his wife and says, "They always did sleep better for me."

For Helen and Lin being parents has always been a full-time job. He puts his arm protectingly around her shoulders and speaks about the grandchildren that are bound to come by the dozen to them. Both of them, and the ten new lives they have nurtured so well, look hopefully into the future.

Dynamite Does Come In Smaller Packages

Dynamite comes in small packages, and living proof of this cliche is a five-foot, 90 pound whirlwind of pure good friend and neighbor. She is a never-ending source of good cheer and good deeds.

I nominate my neighbor Mrs. Charles Swerdlow — Donna, to everyone — as Homemaker of the Year.

She is never too busy with her own home, husband or children to help a friend. We all know that we can call Donna anytime to baby sit, run arrands, chauffeur our children, take us to a doctor (and wait for us), or go grocery shopping when she doesn't need anything herself.

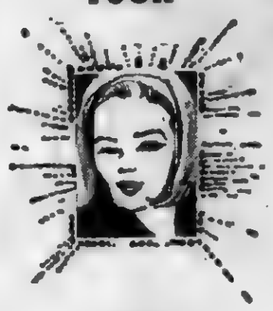
The nicest thing about Donna is that you don't have to ask her for help—she volunteers before you get a chance.

Unstintingly she gives her full dedication to her daughter Paula's Girl Scout Troop, of which Donna is leader. All the girls' welfare interests are Donna's concern, and Paula gets no special favors.

Donna is also a member of the Montrose Elementary School PTA Board, and B'nai B'rith and other local organizations. Besides her civic work, she finds time to knit beautiful sweaters for herself and her family.

Donna is the kind of hostess who makes everyone feel welcome and like someone special when visiting her home. Fresh home-baked pastries and a gleaming coffee pot are on constant alert, ready for the expected as well as the unexpected.

Before almost every holiday she bakes hundreds of cookies, which she shares with all who know her. And these prize recipes are not secret — they're available to all who ask. Sharing must be Donna's middle name.



This dynamic person is so full of energy that she never walks, she always seems to be running. Her kindness and warmth rub off on all who come into contact with her, and they feel better for having known her.

She's A Happy Person

My nominee, Joan (Mrs. William Roecker), is, in my opinion, the perfect Suburban Homemaker. In the eight years I have known her I've always felt she deserved an award.

She creates good-will and friendly relationships everywhere she goes.

Her husband discovered this "jewel" in faraway England. Just last week she became a citizen of the United States. She teaches her children to respect adults, to be fair — and she enjoys them.

She is a friend to every child she meets. Cookies, kind words, swimming lessons and band aids to all children are routine with her.

Hot cross buns, serving for friends, homemade bread (I could go on and on) are a few things she does for neighbors.

Sunday School help, community drives, PTA, baby sitting are done with cheerfulness. Joan expects nothing in return. Her return is the joy of doing for others.

Her appearance is excellent. Her home is always neat and clean. Her cooking is just marvelous. She sews like a "whiz."

A good manager, she keeps herself physically fit and trim. She is a happy person. My opinions of Joan, I'm sure, are shared by many. In November, she had the proud privilege of voting for the first time.

But I have the privilege of casting a vote now for a real winner.

'Ask Bertha' Is Policy In Winchester Area

Does anyone need some serving done? Maybe a wedding dress or perhaps an alteration? Do you have an appointment and have no one with whom to leave the baby? Or do you just need someone to listen to your tale of woe?

If a need like one of these comes up in our community, we turn to Bertha—Mrs. Howard Fridley, that is. And she gives unstintingly of herself whenever she sees a need.

To her, being a Christian is an everyday affair. Sunday finds all the family at Sunday School and church. Bertha and Howard have always taken their boys to services — not sent them.

She has been superintendent of Sunday School, helped organize the church choir and served as president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Bertha is the one to whom the new preacher turns for help in getting acquainted in a new community. And he finds himself enjoying her excellent cooking again and again.

With two boys in school she has found herself involved in projects on their behalf. She has served both as president and secretary of the PTA. And when the need arose she has even officiated at the baseball games in elementary school.

Bertha is not acquainted with the word "can't." An upholstering job from which many would shy away she tackles. For years she has been in demand to hang wallpaper.

And because her satisfied customers pass on the good word to their friends she often finds she has more than she can do.

Perhaps now it is apparent why I believe my nominee is a good candidate for Suburban Homemaker of the Year.

'Your Search Is Over'

Your search for the special Suburban Homemaker is over. I found her almost 16 years ago. Now it is your turn.

My wife has created a happy home for our family, has remained personally attractive, and is still "so nice to come home to." The reports we receive from our daughter's superiors are encouraging. As a Junior Girl Scout and a good student, we have high hopes for a good future citizen.

Ann is an active communicant of St. Edward's Episcopasl Church, past president of the Women's Guild, served on numerous committees, visits and welcomes newcomers, and is always willing to help with behind the scenes contributions.

Civic and community affairs? Her interests know no limits. She was founder of the Suburban Women's Club, an active member of the Southeast Community Council and an avid politician.

As any election approaches, the telephone is busy urging people to vote, to support school and bond issues. She takes people to the polls as needed.

As a homemaker, she is terrific! Her meals are nutritious, well-planned and good. She makes almost all the clothing for herself and our daughter. Once she entered items in the Ohio State Fair and won prizes on all.

Our home is neat and clean. Evidences of her handwork are everywhere; draperies she's made; walls and furniture she's helped paint and re-finish, etc. Our home is attractively decorated because of her quiet good taste. The things this gal can do with a dollar never ceases to amaze me.

She is never too busy to help a friend or neighbor, to enjoy a group of children (staged a program for neighborhood children recently and I never know which ones are staying for dinner), or to be a gracious hostess.

Somehow she manages to keep herself neat and smiling and is more attractive to me now than when I married her. As previously stated, I found her first. She ended my search and I'm certain your search will be ended as well.

Husband Comes First In Homemaker's Day

There are many wonderful reasons why I wish to nominate Rita Sampson for your Suburban Homemaker contest.

She has the energy of 10 people and does the work of those 10 people with the perfection of a specialist. Her home is kept in meticulous order — but still remains a home. Her three children fairly give off bubbles. They are so lively and vivacious.

Scottie, her little boy, says, "Lady's first and nothing could budge him to take first or go before a lady.

Rita goes to any length which will aid her children develop their talents. I've seen her (in order to teach the little ones to read) write the name of an article of furniture — put it on paper — tape it to the furniture and then proceed to learn from a game.

She and her husband constantly do God's word and live it. They are always willing to help their relatives and friends. Recently they took in her husband's diabetic uncle who needed a place to recuperate after the loss of a leg. It's so wonderful to see a young family care for relatives when so many won't.

I guess Rita's relationship to her family can best be related by this incident. One day, I stopped at her house. The phone rang. She talked for some time. And when she ended the conversation, she came over and said something I'll never forget.

"I'm sorry. If that had been a friend or even my mother I would have asked them to call later — but that was my husband."

You can see why I'm very proud to submit such a person as Mrs. Sampson to your contest.

Daughter Pays Tribute To Homemaker Mom

Everyone in our family is taking his part helping to write this letter. My name is Phyllis and I would like to nominate my mother, Mrs. Agnes Haynes, as Suburban Homemaker. I speak in behalf of my family and our many friends.

I am very sure my Mother loves each and every one of us. Mom never thinks of herself, for you see out of love and kindness she takes care of three foster children.

Besides caring for them, I have a sister, Mary, and a brother, Bobby. Mom does everything in her power as a mother to make us happy. She even does without so that she may fulfill our needs.

She respects us a great deal and lets us carry our share of the responsibilities, training us for our future.

Mom never lets anything get her down. Whatever comes up, she's always prepared for it. With three small children under the age of four, it isn't always possible for her to go to church. But she always sees that we're there, even if she can't go.

It seems she's always helping out somewhere. She went to band camp to help chaperone 100 band members. Because of her fine personality and wonderful sense of humor, most all my friends call her "Mom Haynes."

It seems she can create a good meal out of a few everyday odds-and-ends. Everyone seems to enjoy eating at our house and we always have enough Sunday dinner company to prove it.

My sister and I have our share of housework but I've got to hand it to Mom. She takes care of house for eight people and still has a few hours spare time.

We want my Mom to win this contest more than anything in the world. We want her to see that we love her as much as she loves us.

HERE ARE THE WINNERS OF THE 1964 MRS. SUBURBAN HOMEMAKER CONTEST.
OUR CONGRATULATIONS!

How did these "winners" find the time and energy to serve both their families and their communities so well? A great part of their secret lies in one word: electricity! Electricity does their most wearing and time-consuming jobs. Electricity helps them to enjoy serving their families, their friends and their communities.

Mrs. Lindley Kumler

Mrs. Robert Arnold

Mrs. Paul Morris

Mrs. Roy Vonins

the ELECTRIC co.
COLUMBUS AND SOUTHERN OHIO ELECTRIC COMPANY

THIS HAPPY FOURSOME composes the Roy Vonlns family and contains Suburban Homemaker winner, Mrs. Dorothy Vonlns. Posed around the local Hilltop winner are 14-year-old daughter, Mary, husband Roy and 17-year-old son James. The Vonlns family lives at 51 S. Brinker-av.

Hilltop—

Dorothy spoke lovingly of her two teenagers.

"Jim and Mary Ann are truly individuals. Jim is an average student . . . they tell me C's are average . . . and doesn't take anything seriously. He's just a fun loving, good natured, all-around boy. Mary Ann is an honor student, very sensitive and takes everything to heart."

Dorothy recognizes each child for his own personality and tries to nuture each toward his own best trait. Jim, a 17 year old student at West, hasn't yet decided what he wants to pursue in college and she doesn't push him. He is in his glory when playing football or on a fishing trip.

"Once he talked about becoming a minister. That would please me very much. But before he would choose that for his life's work, he would need to experience a spiritual awakening and a calling to that field."

Not that the family doesn't wherever they go. Each Sunday at Westgate EUB, Rev. Howard Buckley can look over his congregation and spot the Vonlns family.

"As for Mary Ann and what she would like to be . . . it's hard to say. A girl of 14 changes her mind many time before she decides.

"I'm glad she's an A and B student now rather than the all A student she was last year. It's not that I wasn't proud of her but she wasn't too interested in other activities . . . spent all her time studying. Now she has broadened her interests and joined several organizations at Westmoor."

The Vonlns home at 51 S. Brinker-av fairly breathes with life and love. Although she could easily afford to employ help, Dorothy does all of her own cleaning, cooking and decorating. The lawn and garden are immaculate and well planned and she has the faculty to make a game of difficult household tasks, with her husband and children forming the team.

The sewing machine is a busy piece of equipment and she, her daughter and the home flourishes her handiwork.

"Mary Ann wears a size 15 . . . and all the young looking clothes in that size are usually gone from the rack. We invariably end up with a pattern and some material and another homemade dress."

When Dorothy isn't sewing for Mary Ann, she has something else to thread the needle for. All the drapes that grace the newly painted walls got there by way of Dorothy's sewing machine.

The "back porch" is no longer what the words infer. Roy paneled the walls, Dorothy made the drapes and covered the cornices and now the room invites one to "kick off your shoes and stay awhile."

"We love the Hilltop and all our friends here. Some expected us to move to a fancier place when Roy got his last promotion. But we fixed our home the way we like it and we're going to enjoy it."

To see Dorothy's two healthy children, her distinguished husband and her lovely home, one would think that this would occupy all her time.

Not so.

Taking advantage of the Indian summer, Dorothy is making good use of her golf clubs hoping to improve on her 115 average.

Dorothy loves a good game of bridge with friends and rolls a pretty decent bowling average . . . but all is not play. Among her community activities are: West High's PTA affairs, treasurer of both the TOPS club and De-Molay Mothers group, and chairman of personnel committee and representative to United Church Women.

For the past five and one-half years she has been advisor to a group of Camp Fire Girls; and the chaperoning of a bus load of eighth graders to the nation's capital is only a small example of her diversified efforts.

She is a very active member of Westgate EUB Church and was president of the Women's Society for four years. As a member of United Church Women she is helping evaluate television programs for the betterment of the community.

During the Billy Graham Columbus Crusade, Dorothy and Roy worked far into the night sorting and counting the collections taken at the services.

A New Testament lies on an end table in the living room. Inside is a letter from Bill Brown, Crusade director, thanking the Vonlnses for giving their time and prayers.

Says Mrs. Donald R. Ehman, who nominated Dorothy, "She is strong whenever a crisis arises and many have felt and been helped by her quiet strength."

At this moment Dorothy is in Chicago, sharing her warm smile and quiet magnetism with women from all over the nation. Whether or not the judges select Queen Dorothy to reign over the nation remains to be seen.

Every king's castle has a queen.

And Dorothy's castle awaits her on the Hilltop.

'I Wonder How She Gets Everything Done'

I wish to nominate my aunt, Mrs. James Shelhart, as "Homemaker of the Year." Since my own marriage, I have grown to wonder how one woman can do and be all the things My Aunt Ann is.

She seems to have conquered the secret of molding her house into a home and the members of her household into a family. Ann is a vibrant woman who seems completely satisfied and fulfilled with her role as homemaker.

Ann is active in local school affairs, PTA, and a Family Conservation Club. She shares her husband's responsibility of Boy Scout Leader by being a Den Mother.

Ann is a devout Catholic at church and home. She teaches her children Christian principles through example. I have never heard her gossip or say one bad thing against anyone. She is kind and charitable to anyone who needs help.

The family spends much time on Ann's aged parents' farm helping in butchering, wine making, harvesting and other chores of farm life.

She is a mer scm

She is marvelous and economical cook with Strudel as her specialty.

A do-it-yourself interior decorator, she knits and sews many fine garments for the whole household. Just last Christmas, all her small daughter wanted was a "combat suit" to play soldier like her older brothers.

Being budget-minded, Ann found an old pair of Army fatigues and made a very professional-looking outfit to fit her daughter. Her husband, three sons and daughter praise her aloud for her many tal-ents.

She has encouraged her children to develop many interests and hobbies through her own formula of a balanced amount of freedom and supervision. She is endowed with an enduring patience as she is silent as snakes and other "not-so-lovable" pets are carried home along with old bicycle parts, TV parts and other discarded junk that her three boys want to "fix up."

Perhaps her greatest achievement, though, is that with all her skill in the out-of-doors, she still remains completely gentle and feminine.

Instead of competing with her husband, she serves to compliment him and project the mother image to her family.

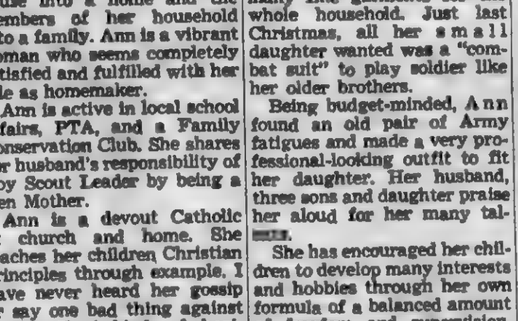
'63 Winner Tabs Honor As 'Ruby'

To each of us there comes many moments of joy and fulfillment but some become and remain for ever "the highlight."

For each woman there are many of these moments; her wedding day, the birth of a child, recovery after a long illness and many more. All these I have experienced and cherish in my garden of memories but last year was really the crowning highlight of my life when I was chosen as Suburban Homemaker to represent my community.

Many times throughout the year there were incidents when the joy and the thrill of the trip to Chicago was relived. The privilege of competing, meeting so many wonderful women, to exchange thoughts and ideas, to be challenged to do more for our country and our community, the new friendships made, all add up to an unforgettable experience.

Truly you put the ruby in my crown of happiness when you so honored me.



Your paper and staff are to be commended for the outstanding way in which you honor the "Homemakers" of our communities. There are many more deserving homemakers and I hope that this year will be the year in which you have the national winner.

Thank you again for my wonderful experience and fond memories.

Sincerely yours,
Cecile Mosher

GATHERED TOGETHER in a home setting the seven biggest boosters of Homemaker winner Mrs. Dorothy Arnold show their approval of the judges' decision. The young ladies (from left) include: Dian, six, Mrs. Arnold, Darcie, nine, and Dawn, 10. The gentlemen of the Arnold family are David, 11, Dan 14, Doug, 15 and Mr. Robert Arnold. The Arnolds live at 73 W. Main-st in Hilliard.

Son—

in the future they will have money for things like that."

Bob and Dorothy's children are well-behaved, as the result of loving, but firm parental discipline. Asked if they believed in the good old-fashioned spanking, Dorothy replied, "We certainly do!" From across the room came a timid, "I don't!," from little Dian.

The Arnold children have not been spoiled or pampered, Dorothy said. They do not receive allowances. The older boys have part-time jobs and the smaller children earn money by helping them on their paper routes. The children usually pool their money to buy things that would be mutually enjoyable.

They don't splurge on Christmas and birthday presents either. "I've never seen a toy yet that equals a big cardboard box or a tree to climb," Dorothy said. "If they cry for something around here, they don't get it."

Pretty, petite red-haired Dorothy is wise in the ways of feeding a family. The old-fashioned "Basic Seven" usually appear on her table every day and the family eats what is fixed. However, knowing the ways of a child's appetite, Dorothy plans to please.

"If we're having something like vegetable soup, I'll bake a black raspberry pie, too. That way I know they'll get at least a cup of soup down first."

Like many talented homemakers, Dorothy sews a great deal. She makes most of the girls' clothing as well as items for the house and articles for bazaars at school and church.

After completing a tailoring course at the high school last year she even made herself a coat and sport coats for Bob and the boys. She finds the most relaxing time to sew is late in the evening while she watches "Johnny Carson."

Bob and Dorothy say that they have few outside activities except for their church work. This isn't entirely so. With children in four different schools, there is much work to be done on PTA committees.

In addition, Dorothy took an active part this fall in campaigning for her party and helped with voter registration and transportation to the polls. Bob, who is a process engineer at Ternstedt, General Motors, is also on one of the city planning commissions.

But church work definitely is their first love and they are recognized as dedicated lay leaders at Resurrection Lutheran Church in Hilliard. Dorothy is chairman of Sarah Circle and teaches a second grade Sunday church school class. The children sing in three choirs.

It is reported that on many a summer day the entire family can be seen mowing the grass at the church and doing other odd jobs, since the church does not employ a janitor.

As for hobbies, Dorothy and Bob said they see what other people are doing and get ideas for things to do themselves. Four years ago they began camping on their vacations and claim there is no other way to go with a family the size of theirs.

Dorothy says she loves living in a suburban community. "Our children go to school with children who have both more and less than they do, thus learning to live with others of all walks of life. Another advantage is that we don't have to drive our kids anywhere.

"One thing I've learned is that kids appreciate your little acts of love, like troning the creases the right way in their pants. My children are so appreciative that it makes being a mother worthwhile. When one of them brings me a box of candy I know it's not because they have done something wrong."

It's evident from her outlook on life and the glow of her face that Dorothy Arnold loves her family and her role as a homemaker. She said, "On questionnaires when it asks for occupation I'm proud to write 'Homemaker.'"

They like to see places of educational interest as well as fun for the family. Several years ago they went to Illinois and Bob walked the Abe Lincoln trail with the boys so that they could pass a merit badge in Scouting.

A tear came to Dorothy's eye as a loving son summed up the feeling of her six children. "She's the best Mother I ever had!" said Doug.

Consumers Ask For Swivel Too

Furniture producers tell us the old rocking chair "ain't what she used to be." Consumers want a rocker that not only moves forward and in reverse but a chair that turns freely in all directions.

Sturdy metal swivels combined in one fixture with resilient metal springs which provide rocking action seem to be the answer to the consumers' desire, producers say.

To Chicago—

be saved for the closing luncheon session of the two-day conference.

Guest speaker for the keynote address will be Mrs. Katherine S. Oettinger, chief of the Children's Bureau, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mrs. Oettinger will speak on "The Community's Role in Homemaker Service."

Speaker at the Thursday luncheon will be Shelbey E. Grey, deputy director, Bureau of Education and Voluntary Compliance, Federal Food and Drug Administration.

Grey will explain how the new FDA will function to inform and assist the consumer.

Also included in the Thursday sessions will be a Forum on Fashions, consisting of visual displays and demonstrations on fashion in food (Pillsbury Company), home decorating (Martin-Senour Co.) and make-up and clothes (Montgomery Ward and Co.).

Announcement of the national winner will come at the final session of the conference Friday morning.

Three distinguished judges will have the difficult task of selecting the National Suburban Homemaker.

Judges include:

Dr. Freda S. Kehm, director, Association for Family Living. Dr. Kehm, in addition to a daily radio program and weekly newspaper column "Marriage and the Family," is a member of the board of Advisory Editors of "Parents Magazine" and "Today's Child."

Dr. Hazel K. Stiebeling, retired deputy adminisartor of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Research Service. Her field is human nutrition and her many commendations include the 1959 President's Award for Distinguished Federal Civilian Service — the nation's highest civilian government employe award.

Dr. Richard L. D. Morse, a member of the President's Consumer Advisory Council appointed by the late President Kennedy, is head of the department of family economics at Kansas State University.

Mom Adds Coaching To Active Schedule

Having had the privilege last year of going to Chicago and seeing the type of woman chosen as National Homemaker of the year, I think I know the perfect candidate and would like to nominate her as Homemaker of the year.

My nominee is Mrs. John Sines (Belva to all her friends). I can think of no one who deserves the title more.

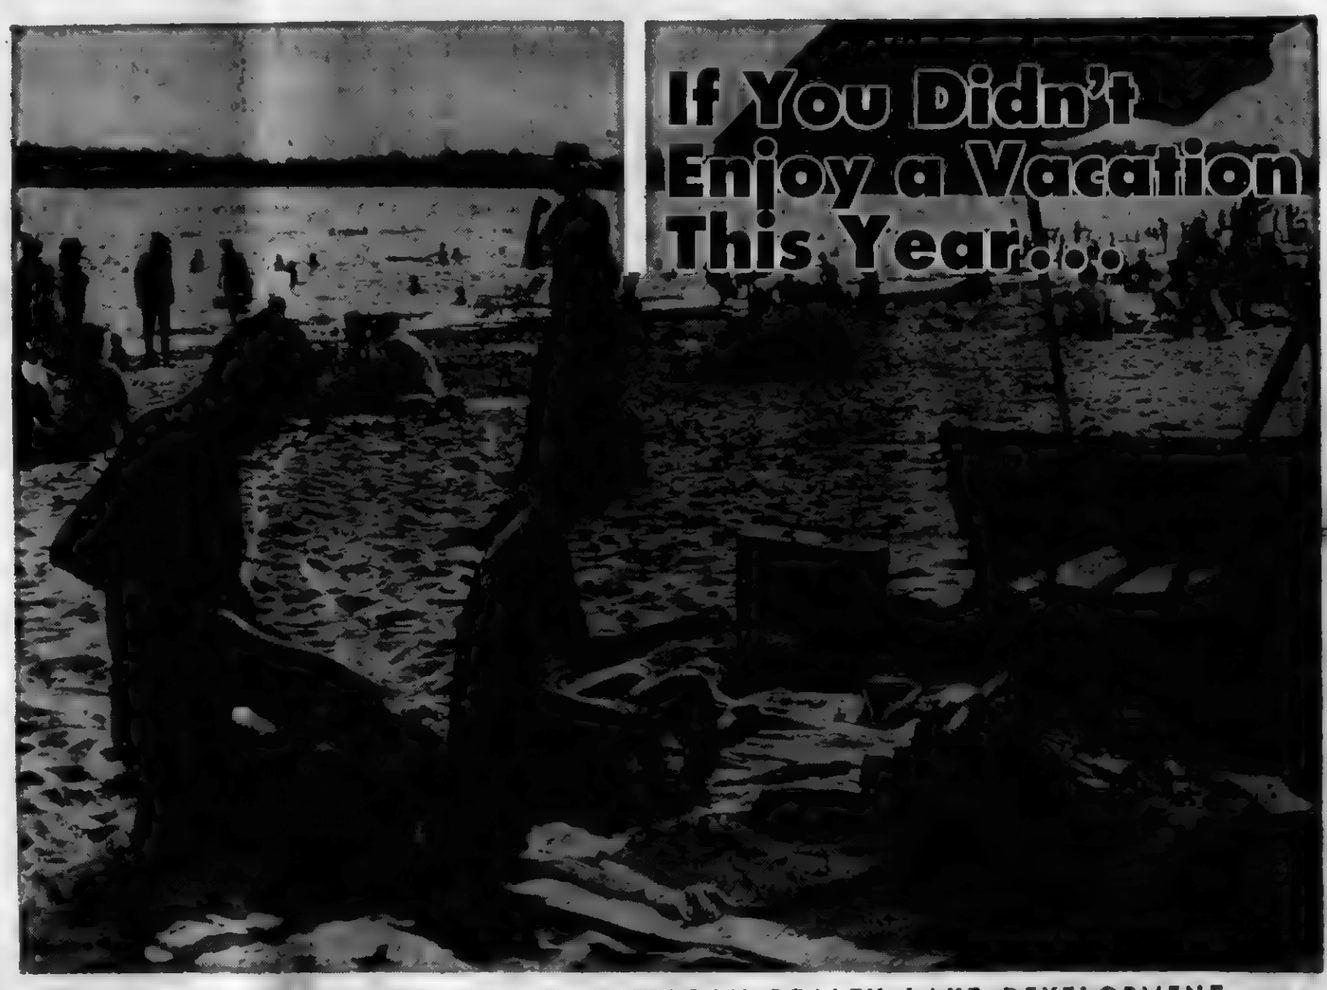
Belva is the mother of three teenage children. They are Dick, a college student, John and Deborah, Senior High students. She always takes an interested part in any of their many activities.

She has worked for a number of years with Debbie in her Girl Scouts as leader. Before this she was very active in Cub Scout work with her sons.

Belva has the honor of being the first woman in our church, Hillcrest Baptist, to serve on the recreation committee—an honor she has certainly earned. We have had for some years basketball and baseball teams for our teenage boys. Belva is one of their most loyal supporters, always being on hand to cheer them on to victory.

In fact she has at times served as their manager and one of their coaches. She is vitally interested in all activities that help the young people live good wholesome lives.

At church you will always find Belva busy. At present she is teaching the Junior Hi Young People (and I feel quite fortunate to have a daughter in her class). She is also a very energetic missionary circle leader.



As if all these activities weren't enough Beva has taken up sewing in the past few years. She has really become quite professional at it.

With all this you might think that she skimps on her "home work," but this isn't so. She is a very good cook and loves trying out new ideas. She is also a very neat and orderly housekeeper.

Mrs. R. D. (Frances) Fannon

Is There Someone You've Forgotten?

In these hurried expressway days of gobbled lunches, jet-propelled travel and the Pepsi Generation, those who would stop to reflect generally fall asleep.

The universal questions include how, when and where. Few ever pause to ask why. There just isn't time.

All too often, Mr. Businessman USA seldom questions why it's so nice to come home each evening or why he enjoys life. If he did, he would probably find the answer in his home itself and the people living therein.

But the real reason "why" is generally found in his wife — the homemaker. To her husband, she's "the little woman"; to her children, she's "Mom"; on official papers under "occupation" she's a housewife.

She's the foundation on which the family rests. She's security in a checkered apron; she's responsibility on a snug budget; she's half of the whole.

Today The Spectator pauses on honor our Suburban Homemakers. But our tribute can never be as warm, as thoughtful, or as personal as that which you can pay your Homemaker.

Isn't there someone "very special" you've taken for granted lately? Why?

From Columbus—

serving trays, engraved "Suburban Homemaker 1964," and framed Homemaker certificates.

The ladies also received deluxe, Morocco-leather Bibles, compliments of The Christian Book Store and Collins Publishing Company, and perfume and gift certificates from Montaldo's.

With the best wishes of four husbands and 24 children behind them, the four winners departed for Chicago at noon Wednesday, headed for Chicago's Drake Hotel, headquarters for the National Conference where the country's number one Homemaker will be awarded $5000 Friday.

The four ladies will return TV celebrities since the complete final selection proceedings will be televised in Chicago Friday.

The winners are scheduled to arrive at Port Columbus via TWA jet flight 118 at 6:16 p.m. Friday.

The Spectator salutes our community's finest — our Suburban Homemakers.

Joining us is the United States Government which also paid tribute this month in a special way — by issuing a four-color postage stamp honoring "U.S. Homemakers."

We don't feel we could ask for better company.

HOMEMAKERS GAIN REMEMBRANCES

WINNING Homemakers received some remembrances of their selection as local contestants to the national competition Friday at a luncheon sponsored by The Spectator. The ladies received Bibles from the Christian Book Store, perfume and gift certificates compliments of Montaldo's plus framed Homemaker certificates and engraved silver serving trays from The Spectator. Displaying their gifts are (standing, from left): Mrs. Lindley Kunzler, Mrs. Robert Arnold and Mrs. Paul Morris. Seated is Mrs. Roy Voulas (Homemaker photos by Harley Groom).

'She's Doing It While We All Wish We Had'

The little lady whom I wish to nominate for Suburban Homemaker does all the jobs a good wife and mother must do — very well, and adds many for the enjoyment and betterment of her family, home, church, PTA and young fry athletic leagues.

She is an excellent cook and housekeeper. She taxies her two sons, Darrell and Eddie, to all their church, school and athletic interests. She takes her small daughter Kim with her weekly when she takes a widowed neighbor to do her shopping.

She taught in Vacation Bible School as well as an officer in her own class at Glenwood Methodist Church.

Easter season found her togged out in football gear selling flowers for the football league. Early Sunday mornings finds this petite, full of vim mother helping Darrell with his paper route. She is a loving and understanding wife who gets meals at all hours for her husband Ed, who is owner and operator of a super market.

Doris is one of the most thoughtful and considerate people I've ever known. She is one of those rare people who do things for others while the majority of us sit back and think "Why didn't I think of that?"

Tears of compassion come quickly to those shining eyes when there is trouble for any of her friends. She stands pat on what she feels is right and just. She is a frank and true friend.

How do I know all this about this sweet girl? She's the girl our dear son Ed has loved and been married to for 16 years, the mother of three dear grandchildren, our daughter-in-law, Doris Louise Sparks whom I feel sure could represent The Spectator and make it and Columbus proud.

Scotch Pine Is Favorite

Of the 10 to 15 different kinds of Christmas trees offered for sale in Ohio next month the species most preferred will be Scotch pine.

Ohio producers indicate they expect to market 1.5 million Scotch pine trees during the '64 season with white pine running second (525,000 on market).

In Columbus last year, Scotch pine represented 35 percent of all tree sales while 26 percent purchased Balsam fir and 18 percent more decorated white pines.

'DAD' BREWS

Surveys show that "Dad" brews more coffee at home during the year than 'Mom."

We Call Her Homemaker Every Year

My candidate for Homemaker of the Year is Mrs. Helen Phillips. As I am her 19-year-old daughter, my views may be a little prejudiced.

However, as I watch my mother go about her home and civic duties, many times I can observe the feelings of others toward her, and the high respect many hold for her.

My mother is also a mother to two sons, one 21 and the youngest of the family, a nine-year-old. She is not only a mother, but also a friend and companion to us all.

She cares deeply for her family as is evidenced by her never-ending home chores as a conscientious wife and mother. She keeps us very well fed with her carefully planned meals and her delicious preparations.

My clothes and her own clothes bear my mother's label but an experienced eye would never know it. She has a wonderful talent for sewing. Along with this goes an interest in hat-making.

She has registered for an adult education course in home decorating and furniture refinishing which will no doubt result in much of our furniture taking on new life at the touch of her hand.

Mother is not only a homemaker, but also an active member in community affairs. No community could ask for a more interested, conscientious, and hard-working civic leader. Being a fine Christian woman, she serves as Vice-President of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Bexley Methodist Church.

She is also serving as Membership Chairman for the Cassingham PTA and Chairman of her Link of the South Side Settlement. She's also an active member of the Bexley Woman's Club.

Mother is loved and respected by many but most of all by her family. As a loving and gentle wife and mother, she guides us along the brightly lighted pathway to happiness and successful Christian lives.

Her community and family would be deeply proud to see such a fine woman receive this high honor.

Miss Karen Phillips

Nominee Must Have Inside Track To God

My nominee for "National Suburban Homemaker of the Year" is Mrs. Emily Davy. I feel she is quite qualified for this honor. She has raised five children and now has six grandchildren. She has raised her children by making each one feel as an individual giving them her love and training. Each child contributes its individual talents to the family, thus making family harmony.

She dealt with each child's problems as they came and this made them always feel free to talk things over with Emily. She stuck to her decisions and her children therefore gave her much respect.

Emily, I know, must have some inside track to our great Creator because this woman seems to have great inner strength. She has many times nursed the sick around the clock plus her everyday housework and still has a kind word for anyone who may seek help and guidance.

At one time she taught a boys' Sunday School Class. She now teaches an Adult Class. She is past president of P.T.A., holds an office in the Women's Society of Christian Service, is an active member of the Eastern Star, helped with the Billy Graham Crusade and also took the Counseling Course, writes to her Congressmen when necessary and urges everyone to vote regardless of their politics.

She is an excellent cook and cooks my lunch every day but is no happier then when the whole family (children, grandchildren, aunts and uncles) gets together for a holiday at her home.

When her children were at home she made some of their clothing and now crochets doll clothing for her grandchildren. She also knitted socks for soldiers in World War I.

Emily is now a widow and lives on a pension. She still has to budget her money as she did when her five children were at home. She retains her own home, lives alone except for a few friends dropping in and spending time with her.

You can see the reason I think this woman is so great is I married one of her daughters and Emily is my Mother-in-Law.

HOME BUYING 'UP'

A recent survey by the University of Michigan's Research Center indicated that 6.2 percent of all families questioned will or probably will buy a house during the next year. A year ago, only 5.1 percent of the families had plans to buy homes.

Germans Lead World Builders

Although she lost over a fifth of her dwellings in WW II, Germany has set the building pace for the Common Market countries in the past 15 years.

Between 1949 and 1963, Germany built seven million new housing units, setting a world record annual building average of 10.3 dwellings per 1000 inhabitants.

DESIRE BEDROOM

Researchers asking the question, "What do today's home owners want?" discovered that more than 50 percent of those owners questioned wanted an extra bedroom or family room. About 14 percent said they could use another bathroom. The survey, conducted by the American Plywood Association, polled 2500 consumers.

She's First To Admit That Husband's Boss

Mary Ann Langholz is, in my opinion, a rare combination of traits that make up the type of individual we all would like to be, but could never accomplish with the ease and naturalness she achieves.

She has the admiration and respect of her neighbors, friends and, most important, her family. She is such an outgoing, but modest, person and truly knows the meaning of helpfulness and friendship.

Mary Ann is the first to admit her husband is boss, but they enjoy and respect each other. She has succeeded in making her home a place of relaxation and enjoyment.

She and her family attend church every Sunday, where she sings in the choir with a beautiful voice and a love of music. More important, she knows her church and has taught her children the importance and ease of being good church members.

Mary Ann has many different interests and finds time to give her best to each one. Among these are Twigs, president of her Capital University Alumnae Group, complete charge of the current three-day dedication festivities at Capital, PTA, bowling, bridge, etc.

She is a tremendous cook—knows how to make attractive tasty meals, which is a bit difficult as her husband has an ulcer.

She always has cookies, etc., baked ahead and is an excellent hostess and planner for dinner parties or just a couple in for the evening.

This gal is a beautiful seamstress and makes many of her own and her children's clothes, thus saving money that can be put elsewhere. Her husband is a teacher and what they buy must be thought through and carefully purchased.

Her home is always spotless and she achieves this because of her knack for organization.

Mary Ann always looks exceptionally neat and takes the time to make sure she looks nice for her husband when he returns from work.

I know your newspaper article said she needn't be beautiful, but on top of everything else, she is this, too. She has the humility with all these traits that makes her the envy of everyone who knows her and certainly deserves consideration in your Suburban Homemaker Contest.

Mrs. Robert Compton

RATHER STAY THAN SWITCH

As many as 43 percent of the 16 million homes built since the end of WW II are said to have too little space. Yet, many such homes are in well-established neighborhoods and the owners would rather stay than buy a new home.

REMOVE CHLORINE

If a garment turns yellow or retains a strong chlorine odor after being bleached, the retained chlorine may be counteracted by soaking the fabric in a solution of two tablespoons of sodium sulfite and one half cup white vinegar per gallon of water or a color remover.

Waste Cut? No—Broken

When you turn on your garbage disposer switch, a round 'table' whirls at high speed, flinging garbage against the sides of the chamber where the shredding ring or 'grater' is located.

The force of the food waste hurtled around the ring is great enough to wear it down into tiny particles which fall through small holes in the table and through channels in the shredding ring. Then, they simply wash down the drain.

Free Inspection Might Be Costly

Attorney General William Saxbe warns Ohio homemakers that each year hundreds of their ranks are defrauded by a scheme initiated by the offer of a free inspection of some part of their homes.

Saxbe urges Ohioans to do business with established, reputable firms rather than following the advice of unsolicited inspectors.

BATHROOM LIST

When considering a plan for modernizing your bathroom, check to see if you have accomplished these seven points: shelves, bathroom library (to hold magazines), recessed soap holder, angle grab bar, double robe hook, square towel bar and recessed toothbrush and tumbler holders.

COFFEE BREAK

It's PTA Season Or— 'My Favorite Reruns'

By ADELINE DALEY

The open-season on parent-teacher conferences has begun at school and at the risk of appearing the know-it-all, I am not expecting to find out anything new about any of my children from them.

It's because our particular kids seem to follow a set pattern. In stage one they are always in a "shell." Overly shy and too timid to make new friends. They never open their mouths in class and when they do, they recite in inaudible whispers. (I find this hard to believe, because at home their clarion voices are enough to arouse the dead).

None of them hear too well, either, according to their teachers. Otherwise, they wouldn't be missing all those assignments. But I am not taking any of them to an ear specialist yet as I did with Patrice. It turned out she had such superb hearing that the doctor almost wanted to do a medical paper on her for the AMA Journal.

In the final analysis we are urged to make them more outgoing. Apparently we always succeed too well because by stage two the teachers would be happy if they returned to their shells.

For one thing, they are "too interested in their neighbors" which is a polite, school-ese way of saying that they send notes and jabber constantly with their umpteen friends during class.

By stage three, thank heavens, they finally seem to realize that they had best get with it, and my husband and I chalk up a victory for our side and the educational process.

Unfortunately, we were not always as well-acquainted with the nuances of the conferences as we are now. In fact, when our oldest, Kathy, now in college, first brought a note home from school, indicating that the teacher wanted a private meeting with me, we immediately assumed that they wanted her to skip a grade.

Before the scheduled conference my husband and I debated the issue. He wanted Kathy to skip the grade because he felt she should be permitted to be with her mental equals. I thought it best she remain in the first grade with her friends because I had always felt sorry for geniuses who enter college at 12.

We needn't have bothered. Her first grade teacher consoled me with, "I wouldn't worry about Kathy, Mrs. Daley. She'll catch up."

TODAY'S REPORT

By ABE MELLINKOFF

In an amazing reversal of the trend, there is one less new country in Africa now. Tanganyika and Zanzibar have made their union complete by dropping both names and now go forth as Tanzania.

This, of course, puts an added burden on seventh-graders studying geography, but otherwise it's a net gain.

Now, maybe Tanzania could combine with some other country and then with another. In 50 years there will be no chance for it. By then each new nation will have had time to develop traditional enemies, vested office-holders and hallowed flags.

If they ever do get around to combining, I have a good name for the new country. Africa.

DON'T 'OVERWATER'

Although plants require different quantities of water, few can stand overwatering. A porus clay pot, which leaches out excess water through pot walls is the best insurance policy against 'drowning' plants.

Daffodils give a more spectacular display when planted in clumps. Set the bulbs six to 10 inches deep and about four to eight inches apart. Closer spacing means the clumps will have to be dug and divided every three years or the daffodils will not flower.

A MESSAGE FOR PARENTS—ABOUT RESPONSIBILITY...

Parents who teach their children sensible eating habits help the young avoid costly food faddism

IT HAS BEEN ESTIMATED that Americans spend from 500 million to one billion dollars each year needlessly on food fads, vitamin pills that are not necessary, and so-called "health foods" which may be perfectly good foods but which do not live up to some of the elaborate health claims made for them and which may not be worth the premium prices charged. Parents really interested in getting their children off to a good start in life should be alert to food faddism and health quackery and should prepare their children to avoid being victimized by the faddists and quacks who prey on the young, as well as the aged, because they know of the concern the young have for health and strength and body development.

Although scientific research has demonstrated that drinking milk on the day of an athletic event apparently has no adverse effects on the athletes' performance, there are still athletic coaches in high schools and colleges who instruct their teams to avoid milk at certain periods or meals. Some physical education teachers, who influence the attitudes of young people they are instructing, are not well informed about sound nutrition principles.

Parents concerned about the good health of their children should be aware of what the children are being taught, if anything, about what they should eat and why. Generally, schools use nutrition teaching materials prepared under careful supervision of nutritionists who know their business, but there are some cases in which nutrition teachings are not based on well established nutrition principles.

PARENTS CAN TEACH THROUGH GOOD EXAMPLES

In most families, it is likely that the examples set by adult members in their own eating habits will be a very strong influence on the children's eating habits. If adults shun certain foods, then the children, especially the teen-agers, may assume they, too, can avoid these foods. Parents should understand at least the fundamental principles of good nutrition so that they can guide their children toward sensible eating habits and toward an understanding of the role which food plays in health and development.

Parents need not be walking textbooks on nutrition. Nutritionists have made life much easier for us by developing the Daily Food Guide. Family meals may be planned for both taste appeal and good nutrition by selecting from four major food groupings: (1) Milk and Other Dairy Foods; (2) Meats, Fish, Poultry, Eggs, Dried Peas and Beans, Nuts; (3) Fruits and Vegetables; (4) Breads and Cereals. The groupings are based largely on the kinds of nutrients provided by each group. The Guide recommendations provide only a foundation for a well balanced diet. Depending upon total calories required, other foods not included in these four groups may be selected to round out the daily diet.

The Daily Food Guide is excellent because it fits the needs of the entire family. Food selection varies only in terms of individual nutrient needs. In other words, an adult whose life is quite sedentary does not require the same quantities of food as a very active teen-age boy or a growing child. (See below for instructions on how to receive your copy of the Daily Food Guide for your family.)

THE DAILY FOOD GUIDE IS EASY TO USE

The Daily Food Guide is designed to make food selection for the family as easy as possible. Here is an example of how the Guide suggests that selections be made:

Milk and Other Dairy Foods: The Guide suggests 3-4 glasses of milk daily for children and teen-agers and 2 glasses daily for adults (or the equivalent amounts of milk in other dairy foods such as cheese and ice cream). These quantities of milk are recommended because milk provides important nutrients for all age groups.

Milk is a leading source of calcium, essential for the development of bones and teeth and required for proper functioning of muscles and nerves and for normal clotting of blood. Milk is also an important contributor of riboflavin—which is vital in the body's metabolism—and high quality protein that provides the amino acids needed for body tissue growth and repair. Milk also supplies other vitamins and minerals.

For a moderately active adult man, two 8-ounce glasses of milk provide about 10-13% of his recommended daily calorie allowance; about 25% of his protein; about 70% of his calcium; about 45% of his riboflavin; about 15% of his vitamin A; and over 10% of his thiamine.

For an adult woman percentages of these nutrients provided by 2 glasses of milk would be slightly higher because of the generally lower nutrient recommendations for women, but the calories in 2 glasses of milk still provide only 14-20% of the recommended daily allowance for a moderately active adult woman.

Selecting foods from the other food groups in proper quantities provides the additional nutrients recommended. If the entire family follows this very simple Daily Food Guide, and if reasonable effort is made to develop understanding among the young why it is wise to select foods in this pattern to provide a balanced diet, then it is likely that the young will be less susceptible to the siren songs of faddists and quacks who promise them a "quick and easy" path to super bodies and brains via their pills and "health foods."

For complete information on the Daily Food Guide, write: Daily Food Guide, Dept. SPF, American Dairy Association, 20 N. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

Under Buckeye Skies

By KEN MACK McCREARY

Deer Dodgem . . .

Boaters around Spectatorland are always looking for new aquatic areas to enjoy . . and if plans which are currently in the "kicking-around" stage are carried to completion, members of the local boating fraternity will have a brand new and slightly unusual new facility, complete with some rather non-typical scenery.

Said scenery would include a close-up look at the skyline of downtown Columbus.

THE PLAN, which is currently under consideration by the River Improvement Subcommittee of the Downtown Area Committee, would result in the Scioto River becoming a major recreational facility in the heart of the Capital City.

As it is envisioned, the Greenlawn Avenue dam would be increased some eight feet in height, which would presumably make the river deep enough for boating and perhaps even water-skiing from that dam north to the junction of the Scioto and the Olentangy. In addition, the river and its banks would also undergo a face-lifting.

Another part of the development would see a large amphitheater constructed in front of Central High School, probably facing the river.

ACCORDING to spokesmen for the Downtown Area Committee, boaters would then be able to anchor off-shore or dock their craft to enjoy band concerts and other entertainment features.

The study committee's next apparent step is to figure out the costs of such a wide-sweeping project. The city, state and federal governments presumably would share in the costs.

Both Bob Levy, who is heading up the study group, and city Councilman Bob Southwick are reportedly enthusiastic about the possibilities of developing such a large-scale recreational project in the heart of the city. Whether the boaters will share their optimism is still a question mark.

PERSONALLY, when I want to get away from it all and enjoy some quiet hours afloat I can think of more picturesque scenery than that offered by downtown Columbus.

Speaking of "downtown," several motorists could hardly believe their eyes on that recent foggy morning when they came dangerously close to running down a large, well antlered white-tailed deer as they headed onto the Mound Street Freeway at Front-st.

After several close calls, the lost buck apparently made his way back out into the countryside.

Not so lucky was a 150-pound seven-point buck which was struck and killed by a bus at Studer and Frebis a few minutes later. The children of Franklin Village are enjoying the venison

STILL another white-tailed deer tangled with civilization and lost a few days later. The 100-pound doe dashed into Waggoner-rd, just north of Main-st in suburban Reynoldsburg.

The motorist involved, John L. Peltz, reported that the young deer slipped and fell in front of his auto and he was unable to avoid striking and killing the animal. Who was it that was telling me that there aren't any deer around highly-civilized Franklin County?

In recent columns we've covered some aspects of pollution here in Ohio. On that subject, here's a real shocker for you — a biologist from De Paul University says that Lake Erie is the most polluted of all the great lakes.

THE GAL-TYPE scientist, Mary Alice McWhinnie, who is making a detailed study of the lakes, reports that Lake Erie pollution has reached the "critical" stage. She attributes the fast-mounting problems to "technological demands of citizens and their abuses."

'Fearless' Predictions

The "Fearless One" hit on all seven of his final predictions last week to close out his '64 grid season at a 158-38 mark which figures out to be slightly over the 80 percent reading.

The following is a letter penned by "Fearless" to his fans which we submit in its entirety:

Dear Fans:

As you know for the past two years following the high school football season, I always departed to the South—either voluntarily or otherwise.

I often found it necessary for reasons of health and well-being to leave town immediately following the grid season (and sometimes sooner).

However, due to an amazingly accurate predicting season this past fall, I have decided to show how proficient I am in all fields of crystal-gazing sports by staying on for the basketball season.

I will forecast winners of weekend cage games. Thank you for the many cards and letters I received urging me to continue with my almost supernatural ability to sort winners and losers of given games.

I will also extend my predicting to games involving teams not included in Hartley Newspaper coverage until the recent Metropolitan coverage got under way.

Although I realize this latter move cuts off the last available escape route from my underground bunker here at The Spectator, I remain,

"Fearless"

JFK MEMORIAL SET

"An Essay on Death," a memorial to John F. Kennedy by National Educational Television, will be shown on Channel 34 Friday, Nov. 20, at 8:30 p.m.

THE SICK AND POOR WELCOME THEM

CREED, RACE OR COLOR are not considered when the Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor give their services to those who ask it, and the Dominicanettes, the high school girls who help them never know exactly what will be asked them. But each works willingly whether it is clerical work, practical nursing services, house cleaning or a party for the children of patients that needs their attention. This Saturday at 4 p.m. the doors of St. John's Hall, next door to the Sisters' Convent at 168 E. Lincoln-st, will swing open for the annual Fall Festival for which the girls have worked for weeks. Above is shown Sister Ambrose, mother of the house, with, from the left, Mary Mertens of the St. Leo Parish, Theresa Canty of the Immaculate Conception Parish, and Elizabeth Evans of St. Leo's. The public is invited to the Festival, which will feature a white elephant sale, a bake sale, toys and dolls, and a miscellaneous booth and will offer guests a choice of pizza or hotdogs.

THE NEW Northwest Junior Achievement Center at 2390 Wellesley-ln will be dedicated Monday, Nov. 23. The organization trains teenagers in the ways of free enterprise by helping them organize and operate their own businesses.

New Northwest JA Center To Open Monday, Nov. 23

Dedication and open house for the Northwest Junior Achievement Center at 2390 Wellesley-ln will take place Nov. 23.

Festivities will begin with a 6:30 p.m. dinner meeting of junior Achievement board members and Upper Arlington Civitan Club at Gus' Fine Foods. William Paxton, 1759 Andover-dr, president of the Achiever Association of the Junior Junior Achievement of Columbus, will speak at the dinner.

Paxton

The dinner will be followed by an open house at the new center from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. hosted by the JA board members. A ribbon cutting ceremony will be performed at 8 p.m.

Junior Achievement with Columbus headquarters at 214 N. High-st, trains teenagers in the ways of free enterprise by helping them organize and operate their own businesses. At present there are 37 JA companies employing approximately 750 Columbus teenagers. The Columbus program is headed by Ansell Estell, chairman of the board. Paul Fry is executive secretary.

Capital To Have Art Open House

The public is invited to an open house reception of art, Sunday, Nov. 22 from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Schumacher Gallery on the Capital University campus.

The show features displays of original paintings and sculpture owned by faculty members at Capital.

The exhibit of some 45 pieces of oil, watercolors and sculpture will be open from Nov. 22 to Dec. 18.

Schumacher Gallery, located in Huber Hall of Fine Arts, is open from 1 to 4:30 p.m. each weekday and from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Elks To Meet Here Nov. 21-22

The Elks No. 37 Lodge and Club, 1045 S. High-st, will host several hundred Elks from South Central Ohio this weekend (Nov. 21 and 22) during the annual fall district meeting of the Ohio Elks Association.

Carleton Riddle of Willard, State president of the Order is scheduled to attend the meeting with other state officers. Leo Morgan of Circleville, district activities chairman, will preside at the two-day session.

Reports will be heard from committees on cerebral palsy treatment, Veteran's hospital entertainment, youth activities, Americanism and other charitable programs sponsored by Ohio Elks.

Census Checking Employment

Questions designed to provide national information on employment and unemployment will be asked in the Census Bureau's current population survey here during the week of Nov. 15. Answers to questions furnished by local sample households will be combined with those gathered in 356 other sample areas is the country to obtain national estimates of the November employment developments.

Interviewers who will visit a scientifically chosen sample of local households include Joanne Miller and Kathleen White.

FARM FORECAST

Four Ohio counties were honored at the 46th Ohio Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting last week at the Neil House and presented Advisory Council awards, according to Maurice Wieting, director of education for OFBF.

Winning counties were Allen in the northwest region, Huron in the northeast, Champaign in the southwest and Pickaway County in the southeast region. They were selected for the proud accomplishment of securing the most new advisory councils in 1964. Congratulations to the winners! !

If you live in one of the many subdivisions and small communites surrounding larger cities in Ohio, you'll be interested in a book entitled "Neighbors," a report of the underlying reasons why we choose to live in these communities. It is, in essence, a comparison between suburban life in the United States and England and well worth your time in reading. Dr. Merton D. Oyler, department of sociology and anthropology and department of agricultural economics and rural sociology, the Ohio State University, and author Howard E. Bracey, outstanding rural sociologist from the University of Bristol, England, collaborated on this fine book.

Mrs. Charles B. Harris, Waverly, was named Poultry Woman of the Year 1964, with the Ohio Poultry Association's Golden Egg Awards going to John G. Sutherland of Waynesburg and Freeman S. Jacoby of Columbus. Jacoby was the Ohio State University's first poultry scientist, starting in 1911. The first poultry buildings on the campus were established under his supervision. He is now retired.

Young people interested in a career in agriculture would do well to attend the Career Day in Agriculture and Home Economics at the Agriculture Administration building and Campbell Hall at OSU on December 5. Your contact is Austin Ritchie, OSU.

Dec. 14 you are invited to the Ohio graded feeder pig sale at Kidron, Ohio. Contact Russ Beals, Rt. 1, Kidron.

Saturday, Nov. 21, the Catawba Methodist Church will feature an old - fashioned Smorgasbord at their church, serving 5 to 8 p.m. They will feature a bazaar table. See you at Catawba.

See Clay Eager's Farm Forecast, weekday mornings, 6:30-7:00 a.m. on TV 4.

MOVIE SCHEDULED

A color motion picture of "America's Wonderlands, Our Western Parks," will be personally presented by Arthur Dewey at The Wagnalls Memorial, Lithopolis, Sunday, Nov. 22, at 2:30 p.m. Through the courtesy of the board of trustees, this film will be given free of charge

RUNNERUP

Teaching, Community Service High On List

If you haven't had the opportunity to get to know my warm and vivacious friend, Martha Lou Cort, then you indeed have something to look forward to. Martha's enthusiasm in everything she tackles, whether it be in the home or in the community, is admired by many.

A great deal of Martha's time has been devoted to teaching children in a number of capacities. Her children, April 11 years, Denny seven years, and Scott two years, can always depend upon understanding and assistance in their many activities.

Marty, as she is known to friends, has taught the Junior Girls Scouts and was recently room mother at the Herbert Mills School. As a board member of the American Association of University Women, Marty is chairman of their child study group.

As a member of the Methodist Church she serves on the program of the Womar.'s Society of Christian Service and devotes a great deal of time teaching Sunday School to fifth and sixth graders.

At the present time Marty is serving as consultant for the Herbert Mills Library, which at the present time is being completed.

As the parents of two children with hemophilia, both Marty and her husband are enthusiastic campaign workers for the Hemophilia Foundation.

With all her many activities, Marty still easily manages her home and family. She sews beautifully and makes the children's clothing as well as many of her own clothes, along with items for the home.

She has upholstered and made a bench of which she is very proud. It is common knowledge that there is always a mouth watering treat baking to greet an unexpected guest.

Marty's sincere willingness to help out friends and neighbors at a moment's notice, has not gone unnoticed. It is her desire to continue her education and her ambition to put her education and her help to work in her home and community wherever possible. Because the spirit of unselfishness is Marty's code, she certainly deserves the title of Suburban Homemaker.

Marines Set 'Toys' Drive Here Dec. 5

Local Marine Reservists will launch their annual "Toys of Tots" campaign this week, Maj. Mark T. Jurkovich, Jr. and Capt. R. S. Guy, the commanding officers of Company M and Company L, 3rd Battalion, 25th Marines, announced recently.

The home collection will be made by approximately 10,000 Boy Scouts on Saturday, Dec. 5.

"This will be the 13th drive conducted in the Columbus area," Maj. Jurokvich said, "and if the coming campaign is as successful as those in past years, we expect to make a lot of children happy this Christmas."

A year ago Marines working with local business and civic groups collected over 50,000 new and used toys for distribution to needy children.

Joining the Marine Reservists and the Boy Scouts in this year's "Toy for Tots" campaign are the Franklin County Department of Welfare, Belleau Wood Detachment, Marine Corps League, Columbus Police Department, and the Columbus Fire Department.

The Columbus Marine Reservists ask that you give a new or useable toy to "Toys for Tots" when a scout calls at your door on Dec. 5.

ORCHESTRA TO PLAY

The Cleveland Symphony Orchestra will appear at Ohio Wesleyan University Monday, Nov. 23, 8:15 p.m. in Gray Chapel. The symphony is the third event on this year's artist series. Admission is by reserved season ticket but a few additional performance tickets are expected to be available.

'GREAT PAPER'

Russ Davis of Russ Davis Electronics, Worthington, ran a Spectator Want Ad for TV testing equipment. He had six calls on the ad and reported to us that he sold all the items advertised. He added, "you have a great paper." It's easy to place an ad in the Spectator. Just call BR. 4-1155 and ask one of the ad takers to help you.

Sudanese Official Observes City Government In Whitehall

A government representative from Sudan, in this country to gain some of the Yankee know-how in supply management his country so desparately needs, spent last Friday in Whitehall, observing operation of the city's service department.

"Sudan, independent for only eight years," Kamal Hussein Ahmed explained, has no time for the trial and error method. Big equipment — tractors and dozers are needed to develop industry, but these things cost hard currency.

"And hard currency, dollars or sterling, are scarce so must be spent wisely," he continued. "Our own money is not acceptable in all countries."

Ahmed, organization and management specialist in Sudan's central government, is one of many representatives studying ways and means in countries throughout the world.

He is currently working at Ohio State University, following visits to Dayton and Cincinnati, and will leave Columbus Nov. 26. After observing methods in Chicago and San Francisco, he will start for home on Dec. 21.

Ahmed discussed frankly the problems facing a country 90 percent illiterate at the time of its independence, and the organization and concerns of its government.

"What comes first among so many needs? Education and health," Ahmed said promptly. And the government's vigorous campaign has already reduced the country's illiteracy rate of 69 percent.

"There is a school center in every village now, and it is the duty of each Municipal Council to provide such a center. Adults and children are taught and, in two months time, can read and write. They receive a simplified magazine then, and through this continue to develop their skills while learning simple history and increasing their general knowledge.

"Women are also taught to sew and to care for their children in the modern way, and health inspectors make frequent visits to villages to inspect conditions and make recommendations."

Sudan, south of Egypt, west of Ethiopia, north of Congo and east of the Central African Republic, is about one-third the size of the United States and numbers 12 and a half million population.

"Mostly agricultural, there is some light industry," Ahmed said, "as textiles.

"And our government is the same in many ways as yours, different in many others. Our parliament is patterned after the British, and our five-man Supremacy Council, which operates as your president, is similar to the three-man Swiss Council."

On the local level, all civil servants are trained and assigned by the Central Government, and they remain in office. Only council members are elected, and they choose a president who has many of the functions of our mayors.

"These council," Ahmed explained, "regularly go to the people, explain what they have been doing to represent the voters' viewpoint, and answer any complaints."

Ahmed received his master's degree in public administration from New York University in 1961, and returned to the United States last year to attend a conference at Michigan University for foreign executives.

His duties as organization and management specialist for the Central Government include advising and organizing municipal governments, and helping them on specific problems.

"Our country was only independent for a couple of years before the military took over," Ahmed said, "And they went back to the barracks about two years ago," he added wryly, "so we're looking forward now to our election in March."

His observations of the issues of our own national elections, compared to those of a new nation struggling for its very existence were, "It does seem the people's complaints are so small."

Holzhause-Moling Battle?? It Looks That Way—Today

By FRANK RYAN

...Hold onto your hats, Whitehall Republicans! You are going to have a choice in the 1965 GOP primary. Former Mayor Walter B. Moling is going to challenge Mayor Bill Holzhause next May. (If Moling doesn't change his mind again. If Holzhause doesn't run as an Independent and if there really is a GOP primary.)

The Republican "togetherness" movement came apart at the seams during a Saturday "unity" meeting called by Holzhause in a "Dear Fellow Republican" letter. Prime participants in the meeting weren't saying much "for the record," but Moling "re-announced his candidacy on Monday.

Moling, who first declined and then accepted an offer to become Whitehall tax commissioner, seemed to close the door tight against the job in his Monday statement to The Spectator.

on Main-st, in the apartment

"I have already told him I will not accept it," Moling said of Treasurer Francis Shaeffer's offer of the tax job. "I will definitely file for mayor."

Shaeffer contacted Moling with the job bid after present tax commissioner Irvin Beck announced that he planned to retire. Shaeffer said that his proposal was based on the fact that he considered Moling qualified for the job; that he had no other applications, and because of the opportunity to create party unity.

The treasurer expressed disappointment with some of the news stories dealing with the offer of the tax job to Moling. He said that he was not contacted by reporters, although the news stories concerned an office under his jurisdiction.

Shaeffer was not the only Republican who favored the appointment of Moling as the means of avoiding a mayoralty fight in the primary. But it is already difficult to find any other local Republican ready to share with him any "blame" connected with the failure of the "deal" to materialize.

Moling answered with an emphatic "no sir" when asked on Monday if he might again change his mind. Asked if he would run for mayor as a Republican, Moling said:

"You're darn right. I am a Republican and have been for over 40 years. I have also voted in the primary so they can check it."

Moling comment about voting primaries was an apparent dig at his potential primary adversary. Holzhause, who defeated Moling by a scant 49 votes out of almost 4,300 cast in the 1963 election, ran as an Independent. He has not shown a partisan voting record for at least the past four primary elections—a fact that leaves him legally free to file on either party slate, or again as an Independent.

The so-called unity move came in for heavy criticism from Walter J. Siemer, Republican president of council. Speaking as an "official" spokesman for the GOP in Whitehall, Siemer said:

"None of the Republicans on council were involved in

LEVINE TO PRESS TAX OFFICE MOVE

By BETTY D..FT

Councilman Marvin Levine, chairman of the city's Finance Committee, this week made known his firm intention of pursuing an effort to return the tax commissioner's office from the treasurer's to the auditor's office, and place the department's employes under Civil Servic..

Levine, reacting to last week's announcement that the post of retiring tax commissioner Irvin Beck had been offered to former Mayor Moling, served notice at council meeting that he would ask city solicitor Paul Haytcher to prepare the legislation.

The announcement that Moling would not accept the offer but would, instead, be a candidate for mayor in the GOP May primary, did nothing to deter Levine, who said:

"The tax department belongs in the auditor's office, it is there in almost every city . . . the department employes should be under Civil Service."

"I was not attacking Moling personally," he continued. "The announcement that he had been offered the job merely triggered my action against the situation.

"But again I wish to stress the importance of the tax commissioner's office. It should not be used as a haven for unemployed politicians."

In the name of party unity, Republicans had prevailed upon Moling to accept the tax commissioner's job rather than challenge Mayor William Holzhause in the primary.

And Levine had attacked the plan as making "the tax commissioner's position a political plaything . . . using it to fulfill a political sellout."

This week Levine pointed to military cutbacks as announced by Secretary of Defense McNamara that may result in a reduction of revenue to Whitehall, as the result of shutdowns or transfers at the Columbus Defense Construction Center.

"This makes it imperative," he explained, "that the new tax commissioner be a person trained in accounting. He should also be an aggressive person capable, as Beck has done, of auditing accounts, and following up in areas such as builders and subcontractors doing work in the Whitehall area.

Whitehall Policeman Appeals Suspension

Civil Service Commissioner Joseph Shannon acknowledged Tuesday that Whitehall Patrolman Al Ballenger, through his attorney, James Maxwell, had filed an appeal to his 21-day suspension from the force.

Ballenger was suspended by Safety Director Darrell Todd after departmental hearings on misconduct charges stemming from an incident involving Police Officer John Clark, during Clark's off-duty hours on Oct. 23.

Clark, dismissed from the force by Todd on the misconduct charge appealed to the Civil Service Commission, who modified Todd's decision to 30 days' suspension. Clark was to have returned to the force Wednesday.

Ballenger, charged with "hindering departmental investigation" of the incident, was suspended for three weeks starting Oct. 25, and has since returned to duty.

The appeal will be heard in an open hearing within 30 days, Shannon said.

Shannon said that the commission, in modifying Todd's decision, had found Clark guilty of misconduct, but felt that his misconduct was not grave enough to warrant dismissal.

State Route 33 Water Line Job Gains Approval

Columbus City Council Monday night authorized an appropriation of $89,000 for furnishing and installing of a water line in State Route 33 from Livingston-av to Petzinger-rd.

Also approved by council was resolution of intent to pave Barnett-rd from Medway-av to a point 553 feet south, and Medway-av from Napoleon-av to Barnett-rd.

Introduced to council was an ordinance to establish the grade of the second alley north of Livingston-av from the second alley west of James-rd to James-rd. Private improvement of the alley is planned, and the ordinance also seeks approval of plans and specifications for the work.

East Area Churches Share Blessings At Thanksgiving

As Americans — one should be specific and say as North Americans — we have to be grateful for this Thanksgiving season. Perhaps we are a little bit blase about the matter. And perhaps some of us consider Thanksgiving just another one of the many holidays we celebrate in an offhand, casual fashion. To some of us it is the football day of the year. To others, it is "a day off," a welcome interlude to enjoy a lavish turkey dinner and then laze around the house in slippers and robe.

It might be wise to think for a moment and realize that this Thanksgiving Day will simply be another 24 hours of gnawing hunger for peoples of many areas. Experts say that by 1971 hundreds of millions of children and adults in Asia, Africa and Latin America will face slow death by starvation.

America's three major religious faiths during the Thanksgiving season are calling on their more than 100,000,000 members to support the Fall United Appeal for Religious Overseas Aid, each through his own faith.

The fall emphases of the Tri-Faith effort include the Protestant "Share Our Substance" appeal to help finance free distribution of foods from America's agricultural abundance to the hungry abroad; the Catholic "Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Collection" which seeks millions of pounds of clothing and other relief materials for the needy overseas, and the "United Jewish Appeal" which asks aid for recent refugees and others in acute need abroad.

Make your abundant Thanksgiving be felt in other parts of the world by attending the church of your choice and contributing to its worthy cause.

SPECIAL SERVICE

The Christ Lutheran High School Girls' Circle will present a Thanksgiving Eve devotional service at the Lutheran Senior City, Wednesday, Nov. 25, at 7:30 p.m. Theme of the program will be "Fruits of the Spirit," based on the fifth chapter of Galatians, verses 22 and 23.

Tangible fruits of the harvest will be in evidence as the girls fill a basket with colorful fruits to be left as a Thanksgiving centerpiece for the residents of Senior City.

Girls participating in this special program include Carol Becker, Janet McCleary, Penny Main, Suzellen Gall, Barbara Lee, Lynella Gall, Suzi Long, Janet Klopfer, Muguet Smith, and Karen Gingrich.

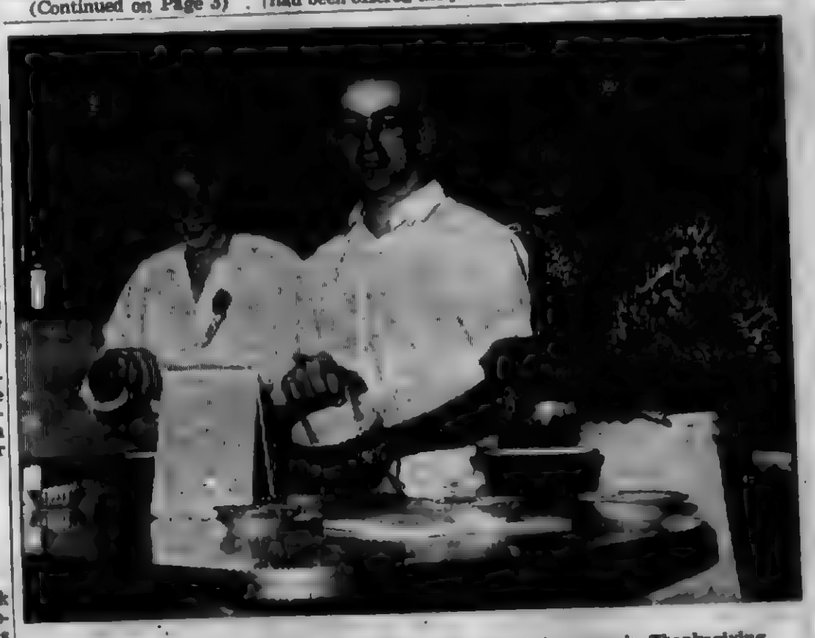
Ex-Academy Head Dies



Service for Sumner Frank Dennett, 71, 270 N. Ardmore-rd, who retired in 1960 as headmaster of the Columbus Academy, was held Nov. 23 in First Congregational Church. Cremation was at Green Lawn Cemetery by the Schoedinger Funeral Home.

Donnett a lifetime teacher, was headmaster of the 1939 Franklin Park South boys' school from 1944 until his retirement. He was with the academy for 39 years. Before being named headmaster, he was head of the English Department.

He received his AB degree from Portsmouth College in 1915 and started at the academy in 1921.

Dennett was a member of the First Congregational Church and the Country Day School Headmasters' Association.

Survivors include wife, Gertrude H.; daughter, Mrs. J. Arthur Bryant; sister, Dorothy B Dennett; three grandchildren.

Eastmoor Pupils Will Contribute Pumpkin Pies To Family Feast

Traditional as turkey on Americans' Thanksgiving tables is pumpkin pie, and Eastmoor High's halls were filled with the spicy, sweet fragrance last week when members of the school cooking class turned out the golden beauties as their lesson for the day.

Most agreed they would practice their new know-how at home, as their contribution to the family feast.

Students sifted and stirred, measured and sifted flour and shortening, eggs, spices and pumpkin, and slid the pies into the oven, while pupils in other classes sniffed appreciatively.

The following recipe was selected by teacher, Mrs. Thelma Warren:

2 eggs, slightly beaten
1½ cups pumpkin
¾ cup sugar
½ teasp. salt
1 teasp. cinnamon
½ teasp. ginger
¼ teasp. cloves
½ teasp. allspice
¼ teasp. nutmeg
1¼ cup evaporated milk, top milk or light cream
1 nine-inch unbaked pie shell

Mix in order given. Pour into shell and bake at 425 degrees 15 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 45 minutes longer or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

NEW ICE SKATING RINK PLANNED FOR WHITEHALL

AN ICE SKATING RINK on this lot on Yearling-rd, south of Mayflower-blvd, and across the street from City Hall, will be ready for winter fun by the first of December, according to Mayor William Holzhause. The 80 by 200-foot rink will be raised four inches above ground, and a plastic liner will contain the water during periods of thaw. Fires in two salamander type barrels on both ends will provide heat, and benches will offer seating for spectators. Grading and leveling of the ground owned by Don M. Caste, Jr., will get under way this week.

'Thanksgiving Gone' Sets Holiday Mood

The Dramatics Department presented a play Nov. 25 on "Thanksgiving Gone," written and produced by Carol McCue. Music was furnished by the Seniors Boys' Glee Club and Senior Mixed Ensemble under the direction of Jerome Maxwell.

Students were Cathy Dick, Mike Mulligan, Beth Scurlock, Toni Bruce, Karen Miller, Craig Hewitt, Bill Smith, Carol Frazier, Lynn Blair and Gary Spang. Charles Stephenson was spokesman.

Dramatics Club officers for this year are Dana Rutledge, president; Cathy Dick, vice-president; Linda Mosic, secretary and Carol McCue, treasurer.

Presidents of all clubs attended the President's Luncheon held in the band room Nov. 19. Second part of the luncheon consisted of an informal business meeting, when presidents expressed their ideas on providing students with a wider variety of activities and promoting a better understanding between the clubs

BANKS OF MASON RUN ENFORCED

SHORED WALLS of Mason Run will put an end to overflow woes for residents along Doney-at in Whitehall. Service Director Poizer used blocks of paving, taken from Ross-rd during the recent resurfacing of the street, to reinforce the banks. Roots of the tree, at left, were exposed before the banks were filled and shored, and the bridge was threatened. The west side of the run was to be completed this week.

NAACP Opens Fund Drive

The Columbus branch of NAACP will participate in the organization's nationwide fund-rasing effort, with the local goal set at $5,000, Rev. Phale D. Hale, president, announced this week.

A portion of the funds raised will go to the National Freedom Fund in New York and the remainder will be used to continue operation of the local branch.

Young, smooth - barked shade trees, such as sugar and Norway maples, and dogwoods, are susceptible to winter - burn. The damage usually occurs on the southwest side of the tree and is caused by rapid and extreme temperature changes as the sun sets on a cold winter day. Any wrap can be used which will outlast the winter and not harm the trunk — commercial tree wrap, burlap, plain wood boards tied around the tree trunks or white wash. Wrap spirally around the thunk and up to the lower branches.

Whitehall-Yearling High School

RAM-blings

By SARAH WINGO

This year is patriotism year at Whitehall Yearling. In past years, Student Council has set aside one month for emphasizing patriotism, but this year, the entire year will be devoted to promoting democracy, its processes and its ideals.

Today, Nov. 25, Thanksgiving Assembly keynoted the idea with a pageant of flags and a program featuring American Thanksgiving traditions.

For the month of December, Student Council plans to go Kinder Key caroling to benefit the Heart Fund at Children's Hospital. And there will be a drive to send clothing to needy children in the Appalachian Mountain Region.

In January the procedures of democracy will be reviewed, for in that month, the executives of Student Council will be elected. American government classes will take charge of the voting, which will include registration, ballots and the actual voting.

Projects for February will include a contest in which students may set forth in essay, poster, or poetry form their ideas or thoughts on a specific topic related to patriotism. There will be a winner for each of three categories.

A leadership workshop will be conducted in March. Purpose is to develop leadership abilities, to aid in the understanding of parliamentary procedures and group dynamics, and to graduate students who understand democratic ideals, are devoted to them, and have had experience in them.

These projects are only a few of those which Student Council plans to accomplish this year.

Whitehall's basketball season officially began this week, and Coach Phil Allen is looking forward to a successful season.

Returning lettermen are John McQuaid, Gary Beckley and Mark Blackstone. Coach Allen also expects a lot from newcomers Jeff Barker, John Turkal, Mike Tarleton and Jim Dildine.

Girls' Athletic Association's bowling tournament ended Nov. 24. Participants are looking forward to a banquet, to be given by Main Lanes, to honor the winners.

Y-Teens took a field trip to Franklin Village Nov. 18 to discuss the possibilities of adopting the children in a cottage. The would enable the club to present gifts to the children.

DIVIDE BY NINE

To determine the yardage of carpeting you will need in a room, first multiply the number of feet in the width by the number of feet in the length.

Second divide the number of square feet by nine. Don't make the common mistake of dividing the square feet by 'three.' This error will actually triple the correct figure.

Meanwhile a new potential GOP mayor candidate has entered the pre-filing maneuvering. Former Service Director Robert E. Mickey denied a report that he is circulating petitions for office, but said that he "might" run.

Mickey, who has not been invited to meetings by either the "unity" or "no unity" Republican factions, said he will wait a week before making up his mind.

The Barron Now At Hairdressers

The Hairdressers, 3942 E. Main-st, celebrated its grand opening this week with open house festivities which included introduction of The Barron, newest member of the staff.

The Barron, who trained under Andre of London, received specialized schooling from world-champion hair stylist Silvio Camello. He worked with the Olympic team while a member of the Birmingham Styling Club, and, before coming to the United States, received advanced training from France's two top hair stylists.

His clientele included top models, theatre and TV stars, and the wife of the Mayor of London.

The Hairdressers is open daily and Saturday, and appointments can be made by calling 237-0444.

IT'S THE LAST LAP FOR LIONS

THEY'RE ALMOST READY—are you? The Southeast Lions have burned a lot of midnight oil in getting ready to go to press with the greatest "Lions Roar" of them all. Next Friday night, Dec. 4, it will be their turn to burn up the shoe leather as they bring the papers to every South Side home. It is upon the lack of the Roar that the Lions depend to carry out their school and community projects which have totaled almost $144,000 during the years. Pictured is the ad committee whose sales make the publication of the paper possible. From the left are Jack Woodruff, Ernie Barta, John Marshall, Dave Wood and Bob Alspach.

Tax Chief Dies At 64

Dr. Jerome D. Folkman, senior rabbi at Temple Israel, will speak. Dr. Folkman's background includes his chairmanship of the committee on marriage, home and family of the Central Conference of American Rabbis and his presidency of the Ohio Conference on Family Relations.

Dr. Folkman's knowledge of children is emphasized by his membership in the editorial advisory board of "Highlights for Children." He is also a regular participant in the well-known television program, "House Divided," which acquaints the public with methods of counseling.

Dr. Jerome Folkman

He has written "The Cup of Life," and "Design for Jewish Living."

This meeting will be a prologue to Council's 1965 "School for Community Action" entited, "The Immovable Middle Class." Refreshments will be served. If transportation is needed call Mrs. Barry Turner.

Phil Faine Nabs Grid Contest $$

Phil N. Faine, 1608 Bostwick-rd, picked up $25 this week as The Spectator's Football Contest winner.

Faine topped 199 other entrants in the contest by missing on only eight of the 28 contest games.

Five other contestants closed one step behind winner Faine with nine miscues. Runnerups were: Larry Link, 614 Wiltshire; Paul W. Hunter, 238 N. Warren-av; James Harmon, 259 N. Remington-rd; Tom Morgan, 325 Nashoba-av and Sam DiVito, 1710 Simpson-dr.

Since games which will be played this weekend mark the close of the season's Football Contest, you will find no entry blank inside today's edition.

Be sure to look for the winner in next week's Spectator!

Third Session Of Institute Features Rabbi

Dr. Jerome Folkman, rabbi of Temple Israel, will be the speaker at the third session of the Jewish Communal Workers Institute, Monday Nov. 30, 9 a.m. at the Jewish Community Center. Dr. Folkman will speak on "The Changing Jewish Family in America." Mayer Rosenfeld, executive director of the Jewish Community Center, will serve as chairman and discussion leader.

Dr. Folkman is a graduate of Hebrew Union College, and received his Ph.D. in sociology from Ohio State University. He is a noted speaker and lecturer, and is a marriage and family counselor. He appears frequently on television on the "House Divided" program.

This is the third program in a series of five designed to bring new concepts in Jewish understanding to the staff members of all of the Jewish agencies and organizations in Columbus. Future programs will feature Daniel Harrison, executive director of the Columbus Hebrek School, and Jacob Mirviss, Ohio University professor.

Nine Area Petitions Heard By Planners

Area petitions heard by the Columbus Planning and Zoning Commission at the Nov. 18 meeting included approval of five conditional use permits and one rezoning request. One petition was withdrawn and another denied.

Conditional use permits were granted to the following petitioners:

Donald F. Morris, 529 W. Town-st, for a drive-in restaurant at 3771 E. Livingston-av; Olympic Amusement Corp., 3232 Cleveland-av, for a coin-operated car wash at 1430 S. Courtright-rd; Lex Mayer's Chevrolet, Inc., 2212 E. Main-st, for new and used car sales at 5005 E. Main-st; Davis Investment Co., 1312 E. Broad-st, for a coin-operated car wash at 1375 Courtright-rd, and William C. Davis, 1312 E. Broad-st, for a coin-operated car wash at 3564 E. Broad-st.

The commission also approved a zone change from Suburban Residential to C-3 Commercial on the west side of Hamilton-rd, 700 feet north of Livingston-av, to permit extension of an existing neighborhood shopping center. Applicant was Reformation Lutheran Church, c/o Harrison W. Smith, Jr., 50 E. Broad-st.

Denied by the commission was a request to change from a residential to commercial zoning at 1622 Newton Alley. The petitioner, R. H. Lowry, Groveport, had proposed operation of a repair garage.

Tabled until the Dec. 16 meeting of the commission was a request by Lloyd Wetzel, 22 E. Gay-st, for a zoning change for the east side of Hamilton-rd between the Expressway and Refugee-rd. Existing zoning is for Restricted Rural Residential and M-1 Manufacturing. The petitioner wants zoning to permit apartments, a shopping center, offices and a golf course.

The petition withdrawn from consideration asked a change from Suburban Residential to Apartment Residential on the north side of Refugee-rd on Marwood-rd in Walnut Bluff No. 1 and 2 sub-

Ministers Hear Donald Thatcher

Whitehall Ministerial Association met Nov. 18, at the Perkins Pancake House, Hamilton-rd.

Donald Thatcher, principal of Walnut Ridge High School, presented aims and problems which confront the educational process at Walnut Ridge and also shared some of the common problems which both school and church have. The main thrust of his talk was concerned with an over-all view of the high school student, his concerns, ambitions and problem areas.

This talk followed a talk last month by the principal of the Whitehall Yearling High School, Austin Peale, and superintendent of the Whitehall Yearling System, Robert Crabbes.

By having such speakers, the Ministerial Association is able to become aware of some common concerns which confront all institutions in the community.

East Area Congregations Invited To Fellowship Night

Dr. T. S. Liefeld, vice-president and professor of New Testament at the Lutheran Seminary, Capital University, will speak at the East End Ecumenical Fellowship Dinner at Bexley Methodist Church, Wednesday, Dec. 2, 6:30 p.m. Reservations for the dinner may be made through the church office.

Dr. Liefeld has just returned from the Faith and Order Conference in Denmark and a trip through Europe, the Holy Land and Ethiopia. An evening of fellowship across lines of creed has been planned. The event is sponsored by the church through its committee on ecumenical affairs, composed of Mrs. John Dickey, Mrs. W. Emory Hartman, Mrs. Charles Salt, Jr., Mrs. Karl E. Kuhn (chairman), Mrs. Norman Engelberg, Fred Apel, Zalie Thoris and representatives from other commissions. Chairman of the dinner is Mrs. Lawson Wiggins.

Invitation have gone to Protestant, Catholic and Jewish congregations of E. Broadst and the East end from Alum Creek to Reynoldsburg. Any interested church of the area may call the church for reservations.

Dr. D. S. Mills, 'Radio Preacher' Due At Whitehall

Dr. D. S. Mills who served for many years as pastor of the Avondale EUB Church, and was known as the "radio preacher," will hold a series of evangelist services at the Whitehall EUB Church, Etna at Bernhard-rds, starting this Sunday, Nov. 29, and continuing through Sunday, Dec. 6. Dr. Mills will bring the message both Sundays at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. and each evening through the week except Saturday.

Dr. Mills also served his conference as a superintendent, prior to his retirement, and his visit to the Whitehall Church will be a part of the preparation of the church for the Advent season. The public is invited.

Defense Depot Shuffle To Net Job Increase

Columbus defense depot will lose one unit and gain another in the wake of Defense Secretary McNamara's closing and consolidating of military installations.

One section, Subsistence Stock Control and Accounting, will be moved to a Defense Supply Agency center in Philadelphia by next spring.

Another unit, the industrial plant equipment storage and maintenance operation at Terre Haute, Ind., will be placed at the Columbus depot.

The shuffle will increase total employment at the depot by one person.

A Look at the Cross on THANKSGIVING

"Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows: yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted."

"But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed."

"All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all." Isaiah 53:4-6

Our prayer this Thanksgiving Season is that everyone will attend the house of God, giving thanks unto him for his great gift, which is eternal life through his son.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Fabric Doctor
"How Much Is My Dress Worth Now?"
—Mrs. P.N.G.

Dear Mrs. P. N. G.:

The worth of a garment after it has been worn for a season or a year has always been a problem. If a drycleaner loses a garment or if it fails to service and the owner wants the manufacturer to settle with her, it has been difficult to arrive at a value that is satisfactory to all parties.

Recently the National Institute of Drycleaning introduced a "National Fair Claims Adjustment Guide for Consumer Textile Products." This Guide is designed to provide a reasonable means for arriving at a fair value. It takes into consideration the age of the item, its normal life expectancy, its condition, the cost of replacement and with these facts, arrives at a fair value. Based on these conditions the Guide suggests payment for textiles at rates from 10% to 100% of replacement value.

In preparing this Guide, which is too lengthy to reproduce here, the National Institute of Drycleaning consulted a leading insurance claims adjustment firm as well as the Association of Better Business Bureaus, National Retail Merchants Association, American Home Economics Association and others. As a result of this plan it may be possible, for the first time, to determine a fair value for a textile after it has been subject to use.

We would suggest that you discuss the probable value of your dress with your drycleaner in relation to the standards in the Guide.

Our Thanksgiving Wish . . .
From prayerful moments in the church of your choice to family gatherings around the festive board, spread with turkey and all the trimmings, Thanksgiving is truly a time to give thanks. In the traditions of this day, treasured since the first Pilgrim feast, we gratefully take account of bountiful blessings. For health and happiness, prosperity and pleasure, we solemnly express our gratitude and dedicate ourselves to wholehearted new endeavors whereby we may fully use the advantages given unto us, to move forward to ever greater achievements.

As we gather together at this season of Thanksgiving, all of us would like to send to all of you our sincere thanks for the privilege of serving you. We join with you in heartfelt appreciation for the great benefits bestowed upon this nation. We have indeed much to be thankful for, in our whole way of life, its abundance, its security, its freedom. We are most happy to be part of this progressive community, and to all our neighbors who share our common heritage, we extend our warm and sincere wishes for a most joyful holiday.

Farm production costs are expected to increase again in 1965. The continued upward trend will result from the rise in cost of non-farm produced goods.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS SLATE CEREMONIAL

FIRST HONOR BEADS will be received by Eta-ka-ha Camp Fire Girls in a ceremonial Wednesday, Dec. 2. The girls "flew up" Sept. 17, and have since been busy earning their honor beads. They are now selling candy during the annual Camp Fire Girls Candy sale. From left are, Darcy Browne, Jonnie Katz, Marci Mark and Susan Mack. Other members of the group are, Susan Cutler, Jane Downey, Debbie Fortner, Holli Knolls, Leslie Levine, Toki Skilken, Nancy Skuller and Marcie Thall.

'Prevue Of Christmas' Tour Planned By Wellesley Club

Six homes in Columbus will be visited Tuesday, Dec. 1, on the 9th annual "Prevue of Christmas" tour, arranged by the Columbus Wellesley Club. Money from the tour of homes will go to the faculty salary advancement fund at the college.

The following homes will be included in the tour and may be visited any time between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.: Governor's Mansion, Mrs. James A. Rhodes, 556 N. Parkview-av; Mrs. J. Ralston Werum, 2130 E. Broad-st; Mrs. Joseph S. Platt, 112 Stanbery-av; Mrs. Howard Park, 407 Northview-dr; Mrs. Louis J. Krakoff, 91 S. Merkle-rd and Mrs. John E. Brookhouse, 4407 Shull-rd.

Tickets for the tour are $2.50 and are available by calling Mrs. Claude McLesky, HU. 4-1011 or Mrs. Bruce Lorig, CL. 3-6908.

Luncheon will be served at the Rocky Fork Hunt and Country Club between noon and 2 p.m. Cost of luncheon is $3 and reservations must be in by Friday, Nov. 27. Call Mrs. Edmund A. Donnan, president of Columbus Vassar Club, at 252-4827.

Smith College Alumnae will participate by selling pecans at the tour homes, and Goucher College Club will display Christmas ribbons and bows to be used with Wellesley wrapping paper.

Hostesses have requested: "Please, no spike heels."

Food consumption in 1964 increased nearly one percent over the previous year. This was the largest increase in five years and was brought about mainly because of increases in per capita consumption of beef and poultry.

EASTVIEW PROGRAM ARRANGED

The Eastview Methodist Church WSCS will meet Dec. 1, 7:30 p.m., with "The Birthday of a King" as the theme. The birth of Christ will be presented in scripture and music by Joan and Alice Circles.

Mrs. Nadine Flugge will be supervisor and accompanist for an ensemble group of nine and three soloists from the Chancel Choir, who will provide the music.

Hostess will be Mrs. John Harper of Evelyn Circle, and refreshments will be served by Helene Circle.

WEARING WINDOWS
Who said glasses don't have sex-appeal? A famous poet called them "windows for lovely eyes." One movie genius says they're "mysterious, like a Venetian mask!" Don't ever sell-self to task just because the doc orders spectacles. Don't tuck them in your bag or hide behind contacts . . . if you wear glasses, put them on and come into our salon, we build beauty around them.
SHAPELY SECRETS
Glasses look quite decisive so we add a softening balance and create to make you even prettier when you wear them. Most of our magic depends on the shape of your specs and the rest on the shape of your face. Diamond-framed faces need fullness above the ear-line. Heart-shaped need off-center parts. Square faces get flattery from curled hair and the round faces take it from delicate detour-line.
FLUFF STUFF
Glasses look quite decisive so we add a softening balance. Sometimes it's height, fluff, or a sweeping grace, all depending on your own special face. Sheep-dog bangs look get-behind . . . they fight with glasses, but too severe lines may blossom when we add a beauty bang. You need the boost of a beauty salon permanent because straight hair seldom helps that softness you need. So if you need' that number is BE. 1-4100, call and see why glasses do bring passes.

Bexley High School
Lions' Roar

By MIMI DEATON

Thanksgiveng for Bexley students is the beginning of a four-day weekend.

The Y-Teens and High Y sponsored a Thanksgiving assembly today, Nov. 25. Chuck Hoffhine, chaplain of High Y; Linda Ahrens and Paula Young, Y-Teens worship chairmen, and the Bexley High choir, under the direction of Mr. C. Robert Myers, presented the program.

"A Thanksgiving Song Fest" was the theme of the Latin Club meeting and members sang Thanksgiving songs in Latin. Dan Masys, Hannah Frankel, and Dianne Loehnert sang an original song about the story of the Oddessy. Alice Schottenstein was mistress of ceremonies, and Betsy Frampton gave the history of the cornucopia.

Also in connection with Thanksgiving, Future Teachers of America Club sponsored a dance after the Bexley-Grove City basketball game with the theme "Turkey Trot." Entertainment was by the Four Dimensions.

Forty - eight seniors took the Ohio General Scholarship Test last Thursday. To be eligible for the test, one must be in the upper 40 percent of his class. The five areas tested were science, history, vocabulary and reading comprehension, English and mathematics.

Pictures of club officers, Torch and Bexleo staffs, the varsity football team, and the Y-Teens and GAC cabinets were taken for the Bexleo yearbook on Monday.

Mike Halpern, junior, was recently elected president of the Tra Ja Co Junior Achievement company. Ron Grove, also a junior, is vice-president of the Co-Plas-Co, and Diane Siegel, senior, is corporate secretary of the TeenJa Co.,

Other Bexley participants in JA are Steve Hopkins, Ronni Altman and Jim Bensky.

A contest for best program cover for the city-wide Y-Teens Hootenanny is now in progress at Bexley High. Entries must be submitted to Susan Koebel, Nancy Schoedinger or Mimi Deaton by Friday, Dec. 4.

Entries will be sent to the YWCA where the best cover will be chosen from all those submitted by Y-Teen clubs in the Columbus area. The winner will receive free passes to the hootenanny, to be held Jan. 30, 8 p.m. at Veterans Memorial.

Tickets must be purchased at the school. None will be sold at the door. They will be on sale for a dollar each approximately two weeks before the show.

The Four Dimensions will represent Bexley at the hootenanny. Members of the group are Jeff Bloom, Charley Burkam, Fritz Laird and Bob Karr.

Judy Furman and Bob Green are co-editors of the Torch, Bexley High newspaper. Page editors are Jon Kaplan, Marcia Ziskind, Marc Gertner and Jack Roth.

Other editors are Dianne Kushner, features; Alice Schottenstein, clubs; Peggy Ewart, exchange, and Marcia Bolin, art.

Special page editors for the Christmas issue are Carl Japikse and Mimi Deaton. Members of the staff are Karen Birch, Dave Cooke, Hannah Frankel, Carl Japikse, Mark Kaplan, Debby Kayne, Lance Lisle, Carol Lubin, Ronnie Shkolnik, Steve Samuels and Mimi Deaton.

Leon Friedland, Rick Weis, Phil Sphon and John Staker received first year letters for being managers. Bob Karr, also a manager, received his second year belt buckle.

Thirsty Ohio youngsters gulped down more than 152 million half pints of milk during 1963-64 in school lunchrooms participating in the National School Milk Program. A total of 3,453 schools took part in the program, according to the State Department of Education.

Shield 7 Reveals Officers; Offers Homemade Cookies

Christmas cookies, homebaked by members of Grant Hospital Shield 7, may be ordered until Dec. 12 by calling 866-2600 or 866-2950.

The group met recently at the home of Mrs. Edwin Jenkinson, 1409 Clemens-pl, to finalize plans for the cookie sale and elect officers for the coming year.

New officers are Mrs. John King, 7079 Roundelay-rd South, chairman; Mrs. James Steer, 6670 Rocky Den-dr, treasurer; Mrs. James Dindot, 6837 Retton-rd, vice-chairman; Mrs. Paul McMullen, 256 Church-st, Pickerington, secretary.

Committee appointments by Mrs. King were: projects, Mrs. Dindot; historian, Mrs. Alex Graye, 1863 Steckel-rd; publicity, Mrs. Harold Herd, 7023 Roundelay-rd South; telephone, Mrs. James Bourdrie, 7007 Roundelay-rd South; program, Mrs. Jenkinson; sunshine, Mrs. John Gonce, 1426 Clemens-ln; decorations, Mrs. Herbert Tinkham, 1252 Aida-dr; yearbook, Mrs. Sheldon Paley, 1066 Briarcliff-rd.

Mrs. Paul McMullen will be hostess for the December meeting.

The number of one and two-room schools in Ohio dropped almost 66 percent during the last six years, according to the State Department of Education.

Wait until spring to give your fruit trees and plants a haircut. Trees pruned before winter sets in are often seriously injured by sub-zero temperatures. This is especially true of peaches, raspberries and grapes.

ALLEN REBUILDING

Three Returning Vets Key To Ram Success

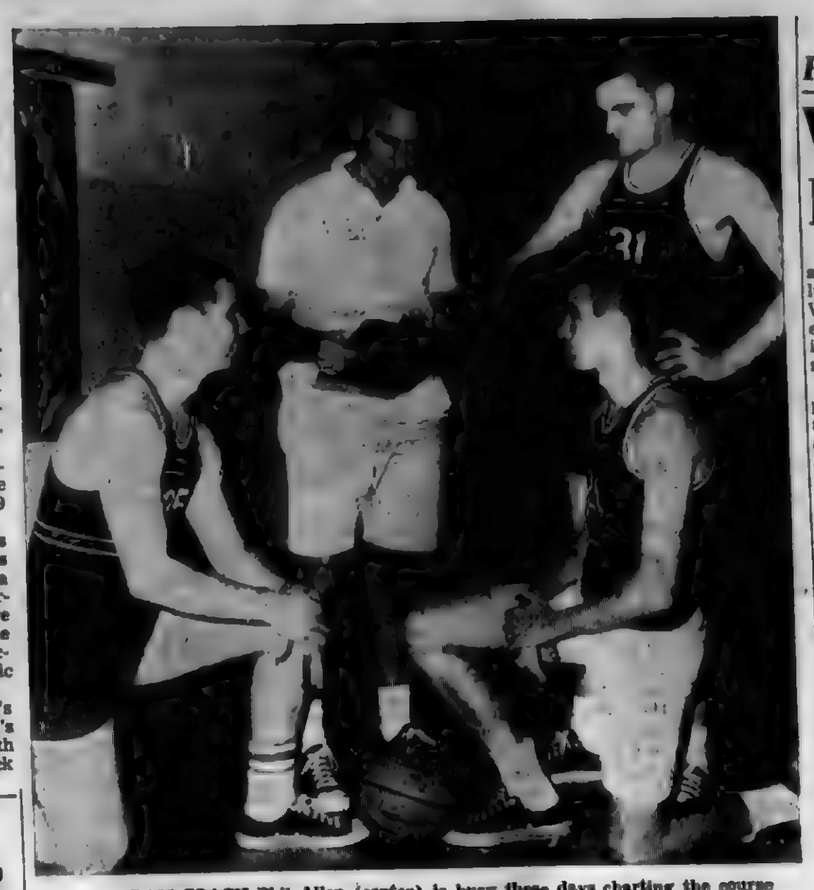
Whitehall basketball boss Phil Allen is facing a big rebuilding job this winter after losing four starters from his fine 12-9 unit that finished in a third-place CBL tie with Worthington (8-6) last year.

The personable Muskingum grad has a trio of three-year veterans back to build his '64-'65 cage edition around as seniors John McQuaid (6' forward), Mark Blackstone (6' guard) and Gary Beckley (6'2 forward) all return for one more Ram campaign.

"WE'LL BE primarily a senior club," comments Phil, "but we also have eight juniors and nine sophomores on our 27-man squad which is an indication of our upcoming youth."

McQuaid and Beckley will be backed up at forward by seniors Dan Kaufman (6'2) and "Reb" Hiatt (6'1) while junior Jim Dildine (6'4) will anchor the Ram pivot post ahead of junior hook-shot ace Mike Tarleton (6'3).

Blackstone and senior John Turkal (5'11), a transfer from Portsmouth Notre Dame, will get the nod at guard ahead of seniors Jeff Barker (5'11) and Mitch Joseph (5'9).



The former is a South transfer and is the younger brother of former OSU and St. Mary cager Dave Barker.

RICK FOLTZ, a well-muscled 5'11 junior, will give the Rams depth along with 5'9 senior Bud Ramsey.

Missing from last season's squad are All-CBL selections Ken Maxwell (15 points a game) and backcourt ace Jerry Ramsey. Also graduated are leading rebounder Mike Schmidt, Jay Ketzmler (second top rebounder) and Eric Ford

Looking over this year's talent, Allen likes McQuaid's aggressive play underneath and newcomer Turkal's quick

RAM COACH Phil Allen (center) is busy these days charting the course of his '64-'65 basketball squad. Phil's rebuilding job this season will be eased somewhat by the return of these three Ram lettermen. The Ram returnees include (from left): Senior forward John McQuaid (6') who is seeking his third varsity letter along with senior mates Mark Blackstone (a 6' guard) and forward Gary Beckley (rear).

BEVERIDGE IS KEY

Moore Hopeful Of W-R Improvement This Year

Veteran basketball coach Jackie Moore, now entering his fourth season at Walnut Ridge after a 12-year tenure at East High where his squads won three of four reserve titles and his varsity won four of eight City League championships and three District crowns, is highly optimistic about his promising '64-'65 Scottie cage squad.

Despite the fact that Jackie welcomed back only three lettermen from last winter's 3-14 squad that finished 2-9 in the City, Moore is very enthusiastic about improving on last season's overall mark.

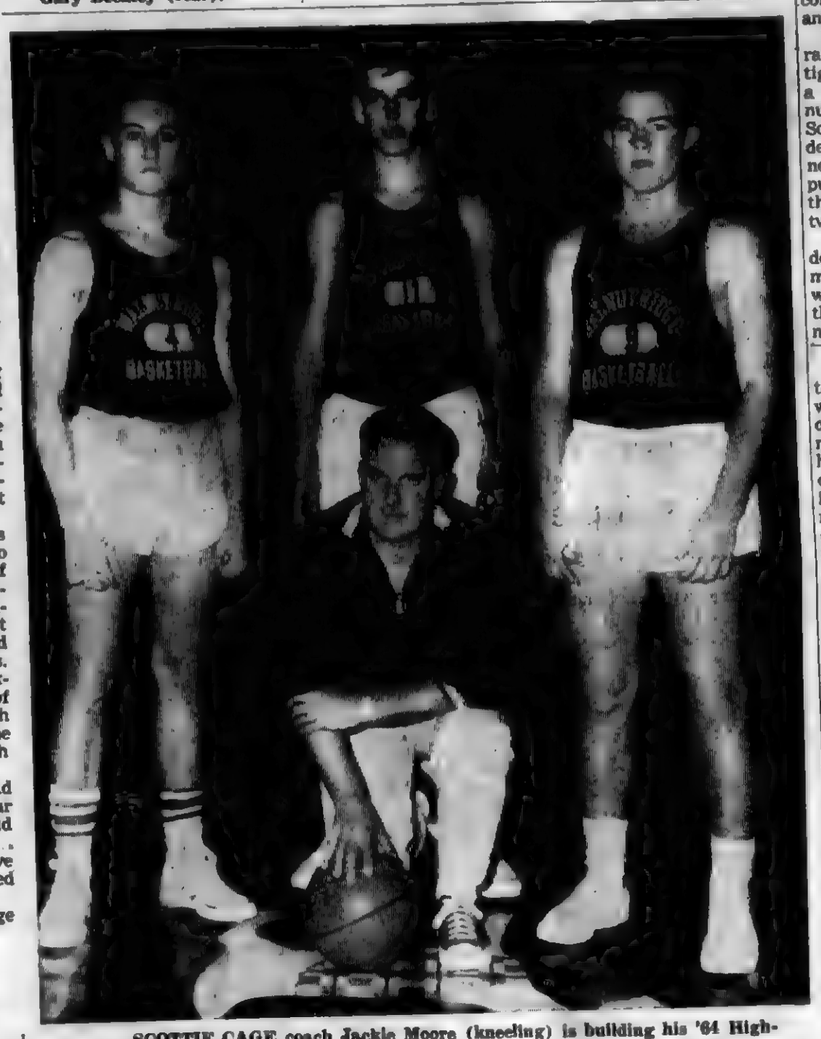
"WE LACK experience and height but our team spirit and hustle has been tremendous . . . the sport is starting to come in this area as evidenced by the greater number of baskets on the garages in this vicinity," comments the amiable Scottie coach.

Junior Pat Beveridge, a 6'5 center and recently named to the All-City football squad, heads the list of letter winners returning to Moore this year. "We'll build around Pat's size this year," states Jackie.

The only other lettermen available are seniors Dave Feyh (6') and Eddie Radcliffe (5'11). The former is seeking his third W-R stripe while the rugged Beveridge and Radcliffe are looking for their second monogram this year.

SENIORS Gary Carter (5'8), Dennis Ecklon (6'5), Bernie Fleming (6') and Deryck Barber (5'10) are still battling it out for a starting nod along with juniors Rick Houchen (6'1), Mike Tanner (5'9), Bob Wetzel (6'2), Bill Beavers (5'10), Dick Wollett (5'8) and Chuck Crook (6').

Houchen, Beavers, Fleming and Crook are all forward candidates while Carter, Wollett, Tanner and Barber are backcourt candidates. Ecklon and Wetzel are pivot candidates and should give Beveridge ample back-up support this season.



Moore hopes to use Ecklon's mammoth size (6'5 240) to good advantage this season if Ecklon can shake a knee injury suffered in football. Radcliffe is also on the ailing list and hasn't quite recovered from a seige of mononucleosis.

IN THE CITY circuit, Jackie sees nine teams capable of winning the whole cake with just the Scotties, Whetstone and Aquinas having a tough time of it.

Jackie adds, "This squad won three of its last four games last year and should improve with experience . . . with our tremendous desire we should be a much-improved team by tournament time."

Here is the Walnut Ridge schedule for 1964-65:

NEW LOW PRICED HEARING AMPLIFIER PERFECTED

Hearing is rapidly becoming the most neglected of the senses. Thousands of Ohioans having sub-normal hearing live with mounting strain and tension because they cannot afford expensive aids.

A PERSONAL AMPLIFIER has just been perfected that offers new hope to these people. Designed for those who can hear when sounds are louder and for those who can hear but do not always understand, this tiny compact unit can provide the help people need to live full active lives. Weighing only a third of an ounce, without wires or cords, this amazing electronic marvel hides behind the ear. Space-age techniques make it possible to offer the PERSONAL AMPLIFIER at a very small fraction of the cost of a hearing aid.

Hawks Primed, Ready For CCL Pennant Race

First-year Hartley cage coach Geary Bradley may have inherited a powerhouse five from departed Paul Drotovick since his Hawks are co-favorites with Watterson to cop the '64-'65 Central Catholic roundball crown.

Bradley, after leading the Hartley reserves for two years, is in his maiden season as head coach but the young Mt. Union grad hopes to mold the remainder of last winter's 12-6 squad into a title threat after a third place (6-4) finish in the CCL a year ago.

MISSING FROM the Hawk ranks this winter will be graduated starters Jerry Ferris, Mike Diamond and Randy Rodich, the latter an All-CCL choice. On the brighter side, Bradley welcomed back leading scorer and rebounder Tom Schlager, seeking his third Hawk stripe after an All-CCL season (18 points per) last winter.

Also returning are starters Dave Thomas (center, 6'2) and senior guard Frank Tafoya (6'1). Steve McGrew, a 5'10 guard, has been real impressive in early sessions and appears to have one backcourt post locked up while the other forward slot is up for grabs between junior Dave Rogers (6'4), senior Ray Riley (6'4), junior Tom Miller (5'11) and senior Steve McLaughlin (5'11).

"We feel we're strong off the boards and we can hold our own in most cases," comments Bradley. "We'll average around 6'3 on the front line." Bradley continued. "The league looks real tough this season. It (the title) should be a tossup between Watterson and us, with DeSales and St. Charles definitely in the 'dark horse' role."

BRADLEY FEELS the Hawks' weakest point right now is the tendency to shoot too quick. However, the Hawks poured 23 points through the nets against Ready in eight minutes last Saturday night which is indicative of the Hartley firepower this winter. The Hawks will be a man-to-man outfit defensively this year as a rule and will operate from a 1-3-1 setup on the offense.

"These kids have played together since their sophomore year and if we can hold down the turnovers and keep getting those good shots, then we'll be able to match last year's fine record," concluded Bradley.

Here is the Hartley cage slate for 1964-65.

FIVE VETERANS KEY

Warrior Five Preparing To Make Most Serious Title Bid Since '61

Bill Courtney's seventh season at Eastmoor might be a lucky one since the veteran Warrior cage figure has five experienced lettermen returning (four starters) from a 9-9 squad last winter.

The only loss Courtney experienced last winter was starting guard Cecil NewLin, a fine play-making guard who averaged eight points a game.

BACK TO bolster Eastmoor's serious title bid since 1961 when the Warriors won the City League crown are seniors Doug Cromer, Steve Howell, Jerry Groves, Ron Bollie and junior Gary Cochran.

Howell, an agile 6-4 All-City selection at center, averaged just over 20 points per game in the City loop last year as he paced all scorers with 224 digits. He was also the top Warrior rebounder last season ahead of Cochran.

Groves was the Warrior floor-leader last winter and still found time to average 11 points per outing the same average maintained by Cochran. Bollie will start opposite Groves in the backcourt after hitting just under 10 tallies per contest last year.

CROMER, a letterman but a non-starter, is seeking his second letter and should help control the boards with Howell and Cochran this season.

Looking at the City League race, Courtney forecasts a tight circuit. "It's going to be a real dogfight with any number of teams (East, West, South, Marion-Franklin, Linden or us) able to win it . . . no club in the league will be a pushover this year . . . I think the winner will lose at least two times."

"Offensively, we'll use the double post (Howell and Cromer) and we'll fast-break if we get the ball out and off the boards . . . however, right now four of our first five are football p'ayers and they still haven't smoothed out their finesse yet," Courtney commented.

DEFENSIVELY, the Warriors hope to use some type of pressure defense but will stick basically with a man-to-man with a little half-court and full-court press mixed in.

The friendly redhead concluded, "We have that valuable experience and the boys learn real quick and are easy to coach . . . we're moving the ball well and we're starting to come around, we'll play them one at a time and hope to be right in the thick of the City League race this year."

Here is the 1964-65 Eastmoor cage slate:

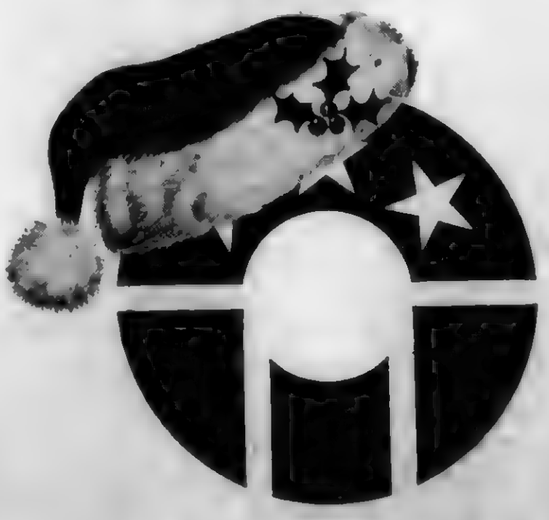
Area Fives Show Well In Preview

DeSales and Newark Catholic each won two one-quarter contests last Saturday night in the Mission Preview at DeSales High. Newark tripped Rosary, 13-8, despite five points by Jim Groce and added a 16-12 win over St. Charles.

DeSales downed Watterson, 13-12, and Hartley, 14-13, while the Hawks mauled Heady, 23-10, behind Dave Thomas' nine digits.

READY tripped Watterson, 18-14, behind Hank Martensen and Mike Horgan's play while St. Mary logged a 14-13 'overtime' victory over Rosary on George Maurer's clutch three-point tie-making play and Mike Shawver's post-game foul shot.

St. Charles also logged a 12-10 win over St. Mary after Mike Potochina pulled the Rams within two with a last-second steal and layup. John Shepard, George Maurer and Rod Webb added Ram buckets against the Cards.



One of the best innovations to protect rose plants from winter is the use of a cylinder of roofing paper or similar material about 24 to 30 inches high and 12 to 15 inches in diameter, slipped over each individual plant. Tie up the rose stems, slip the cylinder over them, trim off protruding ones, fill the cylinder with crushed corncobs, sawdust, buckwheat hulls, shredded styrofoam or similar material right up to the top, then cap it with black poly-plastic film. When spring arrives, all you have to do is lift the cylinders off, letting the mulching material spill around the base of the plants.

Eastmoor High School

Warriors' Spear-It

By MARCIA BRUCE and JOYCE FINKE

The annual conference of Columbus and Suburban Teachers of Mathematics will be held at Eastmoor Saturday, Dec. 5, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Dr. Harold Trimble, head of the department of mathematics at Ohio State University, and Dr. Irvine Brune, professor of mathematics at Bowling Green State University, will speak. Both men are authors of articles and books concerning mathematics.

All teachers of mathematics may attend. A 50 cent registration fee is required.

The first two home basketball games will be held Friday and Saturday, Dec. 4 and 5, with North and Upper Arlington respectively. Game time is 8 p.m.

Eastmoor will participate in WBNS-TV's program, "Youth Reports," a documentary film dealing with a particular interest of youth in the school. Eastmoor will be featured Mar. 29.

The script will be written by members of the Radio-Speech class. Chairman of the project is Roger Masten.

The annual PTA program will be presented Tuesday, Dec. 8, 8 p.m., in the high school auditorium. The Senior Choir, under the direction of Mr. Neil Davis, will sing Christmas selections, and the Dramatics Department, under the direction of Mr. Phil Wilson, will present a program.

McMaken Third In OC Rushing

Capital's finest-ever football season (7-1) had many highlights this fall as the Crusaders led the Ohio Conference in rushing offense (248 yards per game) and ranked second in pass defense by yielding a mere 68.1 yards per contest.

Cap's earth-moving junior fullback, Gordon McMaken, placed third on the final rushing list as he carried 113 times for a 658-yard combine. McMaken never lost a yard this fall as the Crusaders finished in a two-way tie for second with Muskingum behind title-winning Wittenberg (7-0).

AMERICAN HISTORY TRACED IN COUNTRY'S 20 FLAGS

ALL THE FLAGS that have ever flown over our country, beginning with the Viking flag of 1003 and continuing through the familiar 50-star flag, was included in the pageant of flags, featured at the Thanksgiving assembly today, Nov. 24, at Whitehall-Yearling High. The 20 full-size, authentically scaled flags were sewn by Lynn Ford of the school's student council, sponsor of the program. Completing planning details of the ambitious program are student council members, from left, seated, Cheryl Welch; Rhonda Hopkins, secretary; Jim Arbuckle, parliamentarian; Sarah Wingo, secretary; Bill Barnhill, president, and Lynn Ford, and standing, Dave Hurst, treasurer; Tom Richwine, announcer for the program; Mrs. Lucile Compton, faculty adviser, and Rick Fehr, Council executive board members absent for the photo were Teri Hiatt, chaplain, and Paul Fjelsted, vice-chairman. About 100 students will take part in the program, including the choir, directed by Richard T. Neikirk. Don Bell will be in charge of the audio.

East, Eastmoor Look Best In Pre-Season Mat Lineup

The 1964-65 high school wrestling season will get under way in a couple of weeks.

In this Spectator area, six schools will field mat squads, Walnut Ridge, Whitehall, Eastmoor, East, Bexley and Hartley.

Here is a preview rundown of the area teams:

EAST

Both City League and District opponents of East, who commonly refer to the Tigers as "perennial favorites," are not changing their tune this season.

Last season, the Tigers of Jim Porter whisked through an 11-match dual meet schedule unbeaten before closing as district champions.

Gone from that championship squar are such performers as Roger Young (127-pound City and District champ), Dalton Boseley, Jim Hough and Otis Wingo.

Young and Hough, along with returnee Roland Martin (21-2-1) were members of The Spectator's All-Star wrestling squad last year, Young selected as honorary captain.

In his 60 man turnout this fall, Porter lists only four returning lettermen — junior Will Ivory (103), junior Clarence Bennett (138), senior co-captain Gary Rispress (154) and senior co-captain Martin, City and District defending champion at 175 lbs.

But Porter can hardly be pessimistic with a bevy of talent up from a championship reserve squad.

Top performers in open slots plus likely competition for letter-winners are:

133—senior Tilton Reed; 145—senior Steve Thigpen, juniors Paul Stith and Jim Jim Jones; 165 — senior Harvey Alston and junior Warren Handon; heavyweight—junior Grady Bobo and soph Stan Harrat.

Porter sees Brookhaven and Eastmoor as East's chief CL opposition with Arlington and Worthington again looming as the cream in the district.

The Tigers open Dec. 17 at Westerville (4:30 p.m.) but Porter sees his club's big match Jan. 29 when the Tigers compete with Brookhaven, Arlington and Worthington in a big quadrangular match.

WALNUT RIDGE

Rick Cermelj, taking over grappling reins from Ralph Webster this season at Walnut Ridge, has five returning lettermen and "a lot of sophomores" to toss into the fray this season.

The Scotties, who copped the City League title last season besides adding the District's runnerup spot, might have a tough road to travel to duplicate a fine 11-1 dual match finish last year.

Most sorely missed will be starters Jerry Lynn, Tim Hansley, John Roop and Kearney Pinkston. Pinkston was the District's 133-pound champ while Roop finished as District runnerup (154). Both were members of The Spectator's All-Star mat squad.

Cermelj and his Scottie grapplers took it on the chin during the late grid season also as two returning lettermen — Jack Brown and Dave Walters — sustained injuries which will keep them out of competition this mat season.

On the brighter side, W-R looks solid at five spots with vets back. Scotties who will bolster Cermelj's hopes are: Gary Britton (112), Tex Rife (120), Steve Roberts (127), Roy Andrews (138) and Bill Masch (145).

Other top prospects on the Scots 35-man squad are: 103—Paul Hoffman and Terry Roberts; 133 — Al Frazier, Jim Riggsby and Mike Roush; 154 — Jay Hill and Orville Fields; 165—Chris Geer; 175—John Cruse and heavyweight Tom Tompkins.

As far as the City League mat race goes, Cermelj sees East, Brookhaven and Central as his Scotties' chief roadblocks for a repeat.

Walnut Ridge, whose home meets are scheduled for 3:45 in the Scot gym, open at West, Dec. 17.

WHITEHALL

Whitehall's new mat coach, Ernie Spychalski, is looking through his Rams' 35-man turnout this week, searching for a combination which might boost the Rams above their third-place District finish last season.

But the job won't be easy with only two lettermen back from Vince Gorino's successful '63-'64 squad.

Key man in Whitehall's win plans this winter should be 120-pound sophomore Steve Beery, who nabbed Whitehall's lone District berth while compiling an impressive 21-3 mark last season as a freshman.

Besides Beery, Spy can look only to senior Wes Seymour (138) to provide his Rams with some seasoned savvy.

Most sorely missed will be Steve Heisel (103), Bill Landis (hwt) and Larry Pauley (112). The latter, along with Beery, took spots on The Spectator's All-Star mat squad last season.

Whitehall will have a young squad, as evidenced by the 42 freshmen and sophomores out for the sport this season.

Most positions are still wide open with several boys vieing for starting nods. Just such a case is the 154 slot wrere Tom Barton and Dale Hunt are currently battling for the berth.

Spychalski is encouraged by the return of Randy Catalina, a top-notch mat performer as a freshman but lost to the Rams as the result of a swimming pool accident.

Catalina has been given the medical OK and figures to bolster Whitehall in the 127 pound slot.

Spychalski, whose Rams open Dec. 18 at Dayton Stebbins, looks for East, Arlington and Worthington to dominate District competition.

BEXLEY

With five lettermen back to spark his squad, Bexley mat mentor Ben Tenwalde looks for an improvement on his Lions' 1-10 '63-'64 dual mat season.

Forming the Lion nucleus are: sophomore Reese Lattimer (103), sopho Tom Shaffer (112), junior Jim Kelley (133), senior Jim Schottenstein (145) and senior Rick Doty (154).

Tenwalde also looks for some big things from 138-pounder Dave Price, who finished fourth in District competition last season.

Other likely top performers on Bexley's 44-man squad this year are: junior Dave Herwald (154), soph Bob Smith (112), senior Dave Reed (hwt), senior Larry Miller (175), junior Bruce Levin (145) and senior Gary Herwald (145).

The Lions open their season Dec. 17, hosting Hamilton Township.

EASTMOOR

Bob Naumoff, the area's third new mat coach, was sitting pretty until wrestling practice got under way last week.

Naumoff, who replaces Jim Ferrell at the Warrior helm, had nine returning lettermen back — on paper. But when final nose count was taken last week, six remained on Eastmoor's squad of 35.

Even so, the outlook is far from bleak and the Warriors might just better last season's fine 10-3 dual meet mark before it's all over this time.

Top returnee to Eastmoor's team this season must be District runnerup Roy Leonard, who compiled a 20-3 mark during the '63-'64 campaign.

Leonard, a member of The Spectator's All-Star mat squad last year, has advanced to the 112 class this season.

Also back are veterans Vince Rutledge (120, junior), Mike Grelle (133, senior), Pete Johnson (138, junior), Mike Sullivan (145, senior) and Dan Goldberg (165, senior).

Naumoff is uncertain about starters in the 103, 127, 154 and 175 classes.

One interesting battle has developed at the heavyweight vacancy with Steve Guttridge, Steve LeFebvre and Gary Stewart all vieing for the nod.

Also likely to see plenty of service is junior Paul Goss.

Farrell, speaking in Naumoff's absence, remarked, "We expected a real good team but the unexpected loss of those three lettermen could hurt. Right now, it's too early to tell."

moves and hands. "Dildine has an excellent jump shot and we're looking for some rebounding strength from Tarleton and McQuaid this season," states Phil.

"OUR STRONG points this season will be our speed and aggressiveness and our fine depth at guard," contends Allen, "but our lack of experience and height will be definite drawback."

Defensively, Phil plans to 'mix it up' with man-to-man and a zone and on offense he plans to go with a slow, deliberate type game taking the percentage shot and using a pivot man.

In the CBL, Phil tags Urbana as the club to beat since the Hillclimbers have all five starters back. "Mt. Vernon should be tough again while Arlington should be improved," he continued.

SUMMING UP this season's outlook the former Muskingum athlete concluded, "I look for a real good season when some of our younger boys gain some game experience and our club jells as a unit."

Gahanna Youth Included In BG Honor Program

Rondal E. Moor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin W. Moor, 206 Carpenter-rd, Gahanna, will participate in the Bowling Green State University's 1964-65 Honor Program.

Program director Dr. John R. Coash said admission to the program is based on high school records, interviews, letters of recommendation and test scores. Students are expected to have been in the upper quarter of their graduating class and to have scored in the upper 10th percentile of the College Testing Program.

Moor is majoring in business and is a 1964 graduate of Gahanna-Lincoln High School.

Spectator Thanksgiving

If Thanksgiving comes can Christmas be far behind?

In our various ways we will celebrate with a day of thanks on Thursday but perhaps the biggest item of conversation and concern on that day will be Christmas. Seems it is just a good time to kick off the Christmas season.

And what is more appropriate since anticipation is a great part of the joy we get in life and the real spirit of Christmas is caught only though the thought and planning that goes into doing something for someone else.

So on Thanksgiving eve we join in a big "Thanks" to everyone and say emphatically, "We hope you will enjoy every little move that takes you up to Christmas."

WE ARE THANKFUL FOR . . . Another year that is rapidly slipping away . . . The opportunities we have had to know more people and enjoy them . . . the privilege of good health . . . the opportunity to work in a community where opportunities abound . . . a belief that what we are doing is worthwhile and while each day provides labor of a sort, it is enjoyable . . . Next week members of local Kiwanis Clubs all over the area and the Southeast Lions Club will take to the streets in their annual welfare newspaper sales.

You will do a service to your community and have a fine feeling in doing so if you buy a paper, and make the offer generous.

Thank God for service clubs! The Coluntary efforts of these men in providing worthwhile projects for their communities are to be lauded. In a world that is rapidly becoming regimented, it is a refreshing moment to observe men doing something they don't have to do for people who need a helping hand.

Turkey Winners Are Announced

Three families will have the pleasure of eating turkey as the guests of The Spectator.

Two weeks ago a coupon ad in this paper advised that three turkeys would be given away to someone sending in his or her name. As of this past Saturday morning a total of 3,382 coupons had been received.

Winners selected by a drawing are William L. O'Brien, 175 W. California-av; Betsy Victor, 1507 Wyandotte-rd; Anne Rose, 2807 Cheafield-dr. Turkeys were delivered to the winners Tuesday.

WE THANK YOU, GOD . . .

Thank you God—for leaves and little girls;
For all the senses, especially common sense.
Thank you God—for light and dark
And all the wonders in betwee.

Thank you for a child's sweet innocence
And the warming smile.
Thank you for that full feeling after dinner
And for payday in the nick of time.

Thank you God—for the right to say 'no'
And for the fair and just.
Thank you for love and tears and rest when we are weary,
For Right and Wrong and choice to travel either road.

Thank you for forgiveness, compassion and courage;
And Spring never too far away.
Thank you for my every day and for my passage
When You call me Home.

Thank you God—for mind and body
And for your patience when I forget their purpose.
Thank you for the times of trial
To make me stronger if I try.

Thank you for the young man's strength,
The old man's wisdom.
Thank you for the opportunity
To make this sick, tired world a better place to live.

Thank you God—for truth and knowledge,
For the satisfaction of friendship.
Thank you for our belonging to another.
Thank you God—for You and me.

Columbus Faces Acute Police Recruit Shortage

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner's unprecedented call for the hiring of 100 new police officers to bring uniformed strength to 660 during 1965 may be jeopardized by lack of police applicants.

About 60 applicants have applied for the job during the current recruiting drive which began Nov. 9 and closes at 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 5. From applicants who apply during this four-week period, the Municipal Civil Service Commission hopes to assemble a class of 40 to begin training in March at the new police academy on McKinley-av.

The goal of 100 policemen marks the first time in the city's history that so large a number of new officers has been asked for during one fiscal year. To dramatize the fact, the mayor noted that in the 10 years prior to this only 100 policemen had been added to the force.

However, Police Chief George Scholer has stated that out of the total number of applicants applying at Civil Service, past experience has shown that only about five percent end up on the police force.

By these calculations about 800 applicants would be needed during the current recruiting drive to insure the needed 40 recruits.

Cites Obstacles

Mayor Sensenbrenner feels three obstacles confront Civil Service in its effort to get policemen. They are:

1. Times are too good and the $440 per month beginning patrolman's pay just doesn't seem adequate to many young men of the caliber that the city would like to recruit.

2. A belief that sufficient challenge does not exist in today's police career, compared to other fields of endeavor.

3. An element of fear, highlighted by the recent slaying of veteran Police Lt. Allan Fraley, motivating many who might otherwise consider police work to decide on less hazardous work.

Chief Scholer agrees with the mayor, but would put a fourth reason at the top of his list — "an increasing dislike among today's young men of physical contact; cases of which have been on the increase recently across the nation with various types of demonstrations and disturbances in our society."

Mayor Sensenbrenner is hopeful that enough new police recruits can be persuaded throughout 1965 that challenging, good-paying careers do exist for police officers in light of new emphasis the department is putting on training highly professionalized officers. "We're going to greatly increase the opportunity for schooling among our policemen."

Points To Milwaukee

Sensenbrenner points to Milwaukee, Wis., as the city after which he would like to pattern the Columbus Police Department.

Milwaukee was the subject fo a recent article in the New York Times Sunday Magazine, which pointed out that the city of 750,000 population has a 1,500 uniformed officer department — or two policemen for every 1,000 residents. The national average is slightly under 1.5 for every 1,000 persons. Columbus has 1.1 policemen for each 1,000 inhabitants.

"Schooling throughout the careers of its police officers is a very important factor in contributing to the excellence of its department," Mayor Sensenbrenner adds.

Milwaukee sends its officers to the FBI National Police Academy, the Northwestern University Traffic School, the Southern Police Command School, and takes advantage of many short courses for policemen offered by the University of Wisconsin, Marquette University and the University of Chicago.

The advantages and results of such training are that many young energetic officers who exhibit the necessary poise, intelligence, common sense and dedication move rapidly through the ranks to positions of responsibility with commensurate pay.

This has also been the case in recent years in Chicago, where a once scandal-ridden police department has been forged into one of the nation's best by nationally-known Police Commissioner Orlando Wilson, a former professor of penology at the University of California.

To point up his drive for the 100 new policemen during 1965 and greater emphasis on professionalization, Mayor Sensenbrenner allotted $400,000 for improvements of services in the Division of Police in the new budget, presented to council a week ago Monday.

The large increase is needed to keep pace with the city which has grown almost one and one-fourth times in land area since 1954 when he first took office and more than 120,000 new residents.

Of the 100 new officers, Sensenbrenner hopes to put on 24 foot patrolmen in problem neighborhoods throughout the city.

Police recruits must be between 21 and 31 and have a high school diploma or its equivalent.

One proposal in the latest series would abolish the Pardon and Parole Commission and the Bureau of Probation. The functions of the two agencies would be transferred to a new setup in the Division of Corrections.

Redistricting and reapportionment may come to a vote this week if Republicans can muster enough strength to assure their passage, it was reported.

Discovery Of Frontier Preacher's Legacy Unfolds Tale Of Drama

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

No story of fiction is more replete with drama than the true story of a pewter tankard and four chalices which are reverently displayed in the narthex, or vestibule, of the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church at 2930 W. Broad-st.

The story of these relics reaches back through Ohio's history to the year 1805.

That was the year James Hoge, a Presbyterian "circuit rider" serving the Northwest Territory, arrived in Franklinton. The date was Nov. 19, 1805.

The pioneer preacher came west on horseback and traveled extensively throughout the wilderness which had just become Ohio, the 17th state of the Union.

With him in his saddlebags he carried the five pieces of pewter.

The pieces were the Communion utensils he used in services which he conducted for frontier settlers.

Ohio's history was occurring paragraph by paragraph and the devoted frontier pulpit orator is mentioned often in the chronicle.

He held the first Communion in the newly-formed state in quarters of its Supreme Court. Despite lack of historical data, it is presumed he used the five pieces of pewter.

He organized the first church of any kind in Franklin County. And, again it is presumed, the congregation of 13 pioneers received Communion with the five pieces of pewter.

When Rev. Hoge was instrumental in having free schools, established against violent opposition, when he swayed the legislature into establishing the first Ohio school for the deaf, when he was a trustee at Miami and Ohio universities, when the scourging Asiatic Cholera killed or drove away a third of Columbus' populace, when he inspired the state to establish a school for the blind, when he paved the way for the birth of Wooster College—during 50 years of preaching, and practicing what he preached, Dr. James Hoge held Communion and used the five pieces of pewter.

Found in Old Cabin

He died Sept. 22, 1863. No one thought to record the disposition of the Communion pieces.

Then, one day, a youth was hunting game near Chillicothe. He met a boy with five pieces of pewter.

The pieces had been found in the loft of an abandoned cabin nearby.

What caused the paths of these two youths to cross?

What possessed the first youth to trade his gun, right on the spot, to the other boy for the five pieces of pewter?

Dr. Hoge had traveled often along this same trail where the two youthful hunters met.

And what possessed the first youth some time later, to give the tankard and four chalices to his uncle who lived in Westgate, near the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church which was originally built in 1906 as a centennial memorial to the pioneer preacher?

On the base of the tankard a silversmith had once inscribed Dr. Hoge's name. Today it is faint but still legible.

It was the name on the tankard which prompted the Westgate resident to give the Communion set to the church.

Or was it?

The spirit that moved legislators, wealthy merchants, Indians and frontier settlers certainly was an unusual and a strong spirit, a spirit that STEEPED in early Ohio history, the "five pieces of pewter" now used for Communion by Rev. Calvin W. Didier (above) of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, were trail pieces carried by Ohio's "Father of the Presbytery," Rev. James Hoge (inset) as he traveled the wilderness of the Northwest Territory.

SHRINERS PLAN SHOW

TRI-VILLAGE Shrine Breakfast Club is preparing for its semi-annual ceremonial show and breakfast to be held Saturday, Dec. 5, starting at 6:30 a.m. at First Community Church. New Shrine candidates will be the performers in the show which is entitled "Miss America 1965½." Pictured are members of the Tri-Villians who prepare and direct the show. Seated, left to right, are show chairman William Dougherty and co-chairman Robert Cooper. Standing, left to right, are Robert Fulton and Art Holliday.

Leaf Cleaning Schedule Lists A North Eastern Route

The City of Columbus has released leaf cleaning schedules for the week beginning Nov. 30.

In the event of dry weather dampened leaves are more easily handled by the city's equipment. Leaves should be placed in the street only on the evening before the pickup.

Residents are requested not to park cars on the streets scheduled for cleaning.

The schedule is:

Crew 1

Monday, Nov. 30, from 11th-av to 17th-av between the North Freeway and the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Cleveland-av.

Tuesday, Dec. 1, from 17th-av to Hudson between the North Freeway and the Pennsylvania Railroad, east of Cleveland-av.

Wednesday, Dec. 2, from Hudson-st to Weber-rd, between the North Freeway and Hamilton-av.

Thursday, Dec. 3, from Hudson-st to Weber-rd between Hamilton-av and the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Cleveland-av.

Friday, Dec. 4, assessed streets only.

Crew 2

Monday, Nov. 30, from Cleveland-av to 20th-st between Broad-st and Mt. Vernon-av.

Tuesday, Dec. 1, from 20th-st to City of Bexley between Broad-st and Mt. Vernon-av.

Wednesday, Dec. 2, from Parsons-av to Wilson-av, between Broad-st and Main-st.

Thursday, Dec. 3, from Wilson-av to City of Bexley between Broad-st and Main-st.

Friday, Dec. 4, assessed streets only.

Many of our readers this Thanksgiving week will have the usual homecoming dinner with "ole Tom," pumpkin pie and mincemeat pie, cranberries and all the goodies that lead to the bicarbonate of soda and new "tummy pills." This is also the day that most families take a minute for family devotion to offer thanks for the many things we lucky Americans have received, from God and our free wonderful nation.

This is also National Farm-City Week and many communities in Ohio celebrate with rural-urban dinners, farm-industry exchange tours, city-farm exchange visits, community barbecues, newspaper editorials, and special town-city social clambakes to better understand each other. Rural-urban inter-dependence, quoting Dr. Smith of OSU, "makes us aware of our nation's high standard of living, with its great abundance of food and necessities and luxuries."

The Ohio Outlook Guide for 1965 has been released. This is the annual handbook of economic information on general business, general agriculture, family living and commodities designed for county leaders, agents, and others involved in studying the outlook, writing articles, and leading general farm discussion groups. Copies are available from county extension agents, or the Agricultural Extension Service, OSU.

In answer to many inquiries, the Vegetable Growers Association of America will convene at the Netherlands Hotel in Cincinnati. Their 1964 annual meeting will be held Dec. 7 through 10, with the first general session and keynote address Dec. 7 at 1:30 p.m.

Dr. N. C. Brady, director of science and education, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, will speak on "Perspective on Pesticides."

A top-ranking farm official, Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy says "our first step in coping with the problem of poverty in rural America is to give our rural youth a chance to compete successfully for a decent income . . . either in the city or in the country. Many of us believe that the No. 1 farm problem now and for the future is the widespread deficiency in rural education."

The farm official says in essence that commercial farmers are near a parity of income with other Americans, but people on small farms and in other rural areas have decided problems.

It's so easy to save this way. And makes for a happier Christmas for the entire family.

1 out of 2 men wants a flameless electric range in his new home.

7 out of 10 women prefer one.

You can tell who cooks, bakes, cleans up, —almost lives in the kitchen!

1,011 women in The Electric Company service area recently compared ranges, feature for feature, in an independent study. They gave lots of reasons why flameless electric ranges are preferred.

Most of the features of electric ranges women prefer show up where it counts: in the kitchen. More and more, busy homemakers appreciate the time-and-work-saving conveniences of flameless electric cooking.

We even found out from a group of women planning to buy new houses that 7 out of 10 preferred electric for their new ranges — and some of them wouldn't buy the house if it wasn't.

Women who cook electrically are convinced it's best!

In fact, more than 8 out of every 10 women who own an electric range said they wouldn't have any other kind. Right in their own family kitchens, they've proved flameless electric cooking is as easy, as fast and effortless as cooking can be!

Only owners of electric ranges are that convinced!

It' easy to see why!

Good cooks know accurate control of pure electric heat means better baking!

Every good cook knows that dependable accurate heat is vital to best baking results.

Flameless electric baking is naturally accurate because an electric oven is a precise, fine-tuned instrument. Set the dial for 350° and you're sure it will be 350° inside the oven as long is it's "on".

An electric oven is insulated on all six sides, so little of the heat escapes. (That means a cooler kitchen, too!)

It's the same with surface cooking. You've got perfect control of every cooking temperature merely by flicking a switch.

But better baking and surface cooking are only two of the features more and more women prefer about modern flameless electric ranges.

Electric ranges preferred 10 to 1 for keeping kitchens cleaner!

Women who recently purchased a flameless electric range are positively enthusiastic about the way their kitchens stay cleaner and cooler.

Most of them were in a position to compare—and said so! They've found there's less all-out kitchen cleaning to do, because wall, cabinets and curtains stay fresh-looking longer.

(Even owners of other kinds of cooking appliances admit electric ranges keep kitchens cleaner and cook cooler!)

Electric ranges preferred 3 to 1 for cleaning ease!

Recent purchasers also expressed decided preferences for the easy way both electric ranges and ovens clean up, and other more modern features.

It doesn't take long to discover how much time and work electric ranges save all around. You see, electric heat is pure, radiant heat, exactly like a light bulb. And just as clean. Pots and pans stay "bright-as-new". You clean the surface unit of an electric range by turning it "on". Drips and spills burn away quickly. And an electric oven, glass-smooth inside, wipes clean in a jiffy. Some new models even clean themselves!

No wonder more women mention how clean electric cooking is.

More and more families plan to buy flameless electric ranges!

That's an indication why an increasing number of women said they plan to replace their present cooking appliance sometime this year with a flameless electric range.

Today's younger homemakers revealed a definite preference for electric, too. The majority of recent range buyers were under 40, and they chose electric 3 times out of 5.

It's a trend!

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric!

Someday you will want a new range for your home.

The chances are good you're thinking about one right now.

By all means, visit your appliance dealer's showroom. That's the best place to slam doors, turn knobs, feel finishes. Think about your choice of colors, too, and compare prices.

But remember that the important differences of flameless electric ranges don't show up until you get one home. And those are the benefits that count.

They're the features preferred by more and more women like yourself.

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric.

You'll prefer electric, too.

Even more when you get it home.

Teens To Work For TB Drive During Vacation

Teenagers of Columbus and Franklin County are giving up a vacation day to aid the Tuberculosis Society's annual Christmas Seal campaign.

Friday, Nov. 27, more than 300 teenagers will be participating in the TB Society's "Teenage Round-Up Day" held at the YWCA, 65 S. Fourth-st, starting at 9 a.m. Lunch will be served and a special guest appearance will be made by Melva Gornall, 1780 Courtright-rd, Miss Teenage Columbus.

The teenagers will be helping the TB Society "round up" Christmas Seal returns by attaching address labels to reminder notices to be sent to late or forgetful contributors in the 1964 Christmas Seal campaign.

All Columbus public and parochial high schools have been invited to participate.

The Christmas Seal campaign, which began Nov. 16, will continue through Christmas.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We haven't had The General, a cockatoo, more than two months but already his bill is getting awfully long. We have been told it should be cut but our friend said he didn't want to help us with it. How do you go about it? Thank you for any help.
—S. R.

DEAR S. R.: Some friend! He should at least have told you why he didn't want to help. The tremendous power of a cockatoo's beak is such that an amateur attempting to trim it could find his fingers pared down to nubs in the process. Then there is another reason for having someone else do the trimming.

These birds have excellent memories. Should they be handled too roughly while being trimmed (this is hard to avoid) they will hold a grudge. If the owner is one of those who aided in the process, he may be resented from then on.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Because we just moved to this area, I had to take my two-year-old dog to a new veterinarian to sew a cut foot. While I was there, I was asked about my dog's distemper shots and was told he should have a booster shot now.

I'm willing to spend the money on my dog if he needs it, but I don't care to shell out money for a shot that isn't needed, either. I want to know why I should have to get another distemper shot for my dog when my old veterinarian gave him permanent distemper shots when he was six months old. What gives.
—J. D.

DEAR J. D.: Your confusion is understandable. Your pup's originals should have been called adult shots, not permanent shots. Up to this time there is no such thing as a permanent vaccine for distemper. Booster injections are needed periodically to keep the dog's resistance high.

• • •

DEAR DR. MILLER: What should we expect to happen to our goldfish if we leave them outside this winter? How will we know if they will make it.
—L. Q.

DEAR L. Q.: Assuming your fish are in a pool, their chances of survival depend on the following: (1) How cold does it get? A frost or skim ice in a pool shouldn't harm healthy fish. (2) How big is the pool? A pool deep enough to have substantial water below the ice all winter is comparatively safe. A pool that freezes solid — or almost solid—is understandably hazardous.

(3) How tough are the fish? Some strains are naturally more vigorous, and particularly healthy specimens could even survive being frozen solid, if allowed to thaw properly. (Other strains of goldfish may not even survive one chilly evening.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: The Kaiser is our Standard Schnauzer. His health and habits leave nothing to be desired. My only reason for writing is to ask you if it is necessary for him to be mated in order to be healthy.
—L. F.

DEAR L. F.: No.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Boy have we got a stupid dog! He is eight months old already and doesn't know anything. You can't teach him anything either. Zipper (that's his name) is good at eating, sleeping and messing up the yard. We bought him for a watchdog but he never barks. My parents think he is mentally retarded. What do you think?
—O.B.

DEAR O. B.: Why not have your local veterinarian check on Zipper's mental faculties? Not all dogs are bright, certainly, but comparatively few are hopeless. Odds are that Zipper's behavior is due to environmental factors, not mental incapacity.

A DON'T FOR DO-IT-YOURSELFERS

Don't grab just any handy disinfectant to daub on cat wounds. Even medication specifically intended for the skin of cats should not be applied too liberally. Cats will invariably lick the treated area clean, and in so doing will naturally swallow whatever was applied.

Because this species is poisoned by a wide variety of household products (many are found in the medicine chest), nothing should be used on the cat unless it has been prescribed by the veterinarian. (Flea powders specifically made for feline's might be an exception, though some cats are even allergic to these.)

• • •

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Some Homemakers Poor Food Managers

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Apples, Florida oranges and grapefruit, bananas, cranberries.

Vegetables — Celery, cabbage, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, leaf and Bibb lettuces, potatoes (yams and all-purpose)

Meat — Pork roasts (loin and shoulder), bacon, sausage, beef "specials", ground beef.

Other — Medium Grade A eggs, dairy products, canned vegetables and fruit "specials", dates, nuts.

"American homemakers are better hostesses than they are food managers" likely will apply to many of us on Thanksgiving Day. We linger at the table, visit friends and family and let the remains of the turkey and other foods stand at room temperature until "the company" goes home.

herself as soon as the meal is over and get all perishables into proper containers and into the refrigerator or freezer. This is important for safety and to retain the best in flavor.

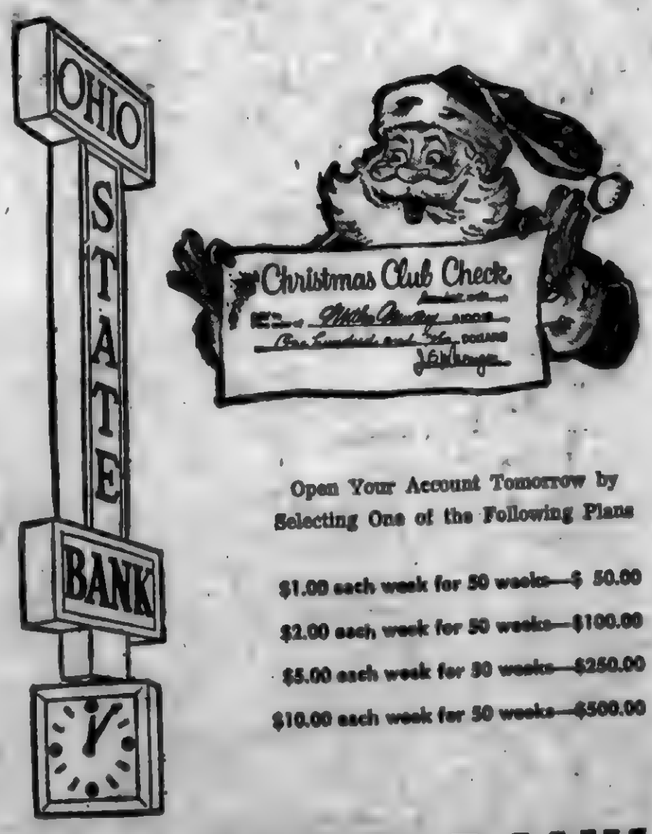
As for the turkey, you've done smart buying if you purchased enough for future meals at the Thanksgiving special price . . . that is, if you rescue it from the table in time to preserve its delicious flavor.

Home economists recommend that as soon as possible after serving, remove every bit of stuffing from the wishbone and body cavities. It's best to remove the meat from the bones; important to refrigerate promptly. Refrigerate turkey meat, dressing and gravy in separate containers.

Research shows that cooked turkey meat will hold flavor better in the freezer than in the refrigerator, even if used within a few days. Small meal-sized units, properly wrapped, may be frozen and held up to one month. When held in the refrigerator, the meat should be wrapped in foil or waxed paper and used within a few days.

The same principle applies to all other left-over food — the sooner from the table to the refrigerator, the better it will taste.

Recent increases in bread prices have been of interest to both producers and consumers. The question is "why?"



One look at a September report from USDA on Spread In Farm Retail Prices Of White Bread really gives the answer. The report shows a breakdown in cost of bread for 1963 when the average retail price was 21.6 cents for a one-pound loaf. The wholesaler got 11.8 cents, the retailer 4.2 cents, the farmer 3.3 cents, the miller 1 cent, and the other 1.5 cents went for transportation and handling.

Farm values of wheat, sugar, milk and lard are such a small portion of the retail price of bread that large fluctuations in farm prices can take place with little effect on the price of the finished product.

The report goes on to explain that it's the increased labor costs in the process of getting bread baked, packaged, sold and delivered that accounts for most of the rise in bread prices to consumers.

TODAY'S REPORT

By ABE MELLINKOFF

Everything's rockets these days. The Russians rolled one into Red Square on 14 massive tires — whitewalls, no less. And we are busy shooting at Mars.

I wonder what a Russian thinks about those 14 opulent tires when it takes him three hours in line to get an extra pound of white flour — not a new invention either.

Probably thinking the same thoughts as an American who spends the day working on an antiseptic rocket because we want no germs on distant planets. But he lives in or at least drives through a rat-infested slum on his way to the assembly line.

The Russians may be nuts, but sometimes I think we are not all there, either.

Bill Fornof's Idea Makes Good Sense

An ordinance sponsored by William R. Fornof, Columbus council president, may prove to be a solid beginning towards solution of the touchy water rate problem. And in the process, council and the city administration may also find answers to other water-related problems.

Fornof proposed the hiring of a cost accountant to be assigned to the city's water division. This is a sound, reasonable first step in any attempt to determine the all-important cost of service factor in establishing a permanent water rate structure.

It has been almost eight months since council passed a "stop-gap" water rate ordinance. Assuming that the cost analysis proposal is properly instituted, it will probably require another 18 months to complete a report worthy of action.

In the meantime, both council and the city administration should resist the temptation to use the water rate problem as political ammunition for next year's councilmanic elections. Both the executive and legislative branches of the city agreed to the 35 percent increase which took effect last April 1. They should likewise agree to an orderly study that will be neither accelerated nor stalled for reasons of politics.

In setting into motion the machinery for any cost analysis program within the water division, both council and the administration should continue to welcome the cooperation and assistance of responsible civic groups. The Development Committee for Greater Columbus, Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce and League of Women Voters were first to insist on a cost of service report. They should share in shaping such a study.

A citizen's committee of wide general representation may be formed to advise council and the administration concerning the scope and direction of the study. This is a good idea — but only if such a committee can be formed and informed without causing an undue delay.

It would seem most unwise for council to attempt to change any basic patterns of the present water rate structure until completion of a cost of service study. A workable rate base can not be effected by piecemeal legislative acts.

Some council members advocate a rate decrease, while admitting that such action would be temporary and would be followed by correspondingly higher increase. The better course of action would be to determine the proper balance between needs and revenue sources, and then devise a workable, permanent rate structure.

EDUCATOR—The chairman of a Westinghouse auditorium of college alumni asked: "How many in the auditorium know Dr. Holt's given name?" One hand went up. "It's Erman," said Thurman.

Nelle, whom Thurman knew before she became Mrs. Holt, and some back-home folk still use his ladhood middle name. Other intimates call him "Ed."

Middlenames "Erman" and "Thurman" have served for affectionate spoken and written greetings for two-score years. In that period Thurman has seen Erman progress from country school teacher to superintendent of schools at Higginsport, Georgetown, Hillsboro, Marion and Springfield, and cap-sheaf his career as State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Ohio.

The last-gasp railroad train was worrying its all-stops dilly towards an hour's dally in Lima. Across the aisle sat a pretty girl. Her luggage bore Miami University labels. I told her of a bug-in-a-rug snug eatery nearby where the coffee is good and the pies mama-made.

Back in our seats, I said: "I know a lovely girl in Miami. She is quite tall, very pretty and high IQish. Her name is Jane Holt."

Her eyes a-sparkle she exclaimed: "She's my roommate!"

It was such a short ride the rest of the way to Dayton.

Frosting On The Cake

One of the greatest and most spiritually significant holidays in this great land of ours, is Thanksgiving Day.

Thanksgiving each year should be observed and honored, not alone for liberty and abundance of things, but renewed awareness of God's Divine Destiny for man.

Our way of life was born out of danger, starvation, even death, but the dream of man to be free has never been destroyed by any or all of the stupidities of selfish and misguided men.

Many millions now believe that the time has come for this great and rich and powerful country to get down on its knees, instead of "riding high-wide-handsome" on some Trojan Horse now loose amongst us.

THANKSGIVING

We thank Thee, Lord, for common joys,
For the sound of laughter of girls and boys;
For the lighted window and open door,
For love that enfolds
us more and more;
For the home that is snug
and safe and warm;
For the calm that comes right after a storm,
For the summer's heat and winter's snows,
For the loved ones around a fire that glows.

We thank Thee, Lord, for these and more—
For all the riches from
Thy great store,
We bow our heads and humbly pray,
God Bless us all this Thanksgiving Day.

A Lot to Be Thankful for

Guest Pulpit . .

Psa. 50:14 "Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pray thy vows to the most High"

A seven-year-old lad was excitedly telling me of a recent luncheon engagement in the home of a playmate. "They sat down at the table and didn't have the blessin' or nothin'," Gary said indignantly. "They just began eatin' like a bunch of hogs!"

This young lad grew up in a home where expressions of gratitude were a daily habit. To him, it was unthinkable that a family could sit down to a bountiful meal without pausing for a moment of thanksgiving. This was his first look at our far-too-ungrateful world and the shock was almost more than he could fathom.

Rev. Lewis

Thanksgiving is more than a privilege. It is, indeed, a responsibility. Surely none of us would accept a precious gift from a kind friend without, at least, giving a hearty "thank you" in return. Yet, every breath we breathe is a gift from God! How often we, like the nine ungrateful lepers, never bother to lift our eyes Heavenward in grateful appreciation. Perhaps ingratitude is, as some suggest, the essence of all sin.

When the Pilgrim Fathers first came to America, they endured many privations and difficulties. Frequently they would gather together to fast and bemoan their hardships, petitioning God for help and deliverance. In this atmosphere of gloom and despair, many longed to return to the homeland while all were discontent. As they were planning another day for fasting and prayer, a godly old colonist rose in the meeting and addressed the group.

"Sirs, I think we have brooded long enough over our difficulties. It seems to me high time we should consider our mercies. The colony is growing strong, the fields are increasing in harvests, the rivers are full of fish, and the woods are full of game. The air is sweet, the climate salubrious, our wives healthful, and our children dutiful. Above all, we possess what we came for: full civil and religious liberty! On the whole, I would amend the resolution for a fast, and propose, in its stead, a feast—a day of thanksgiving." His advice was taken.

Many decades have passed since that first Thanksgiving, but human nature remains the same. How prone we are to gripe and complain when thanksgiving should be our theme.

In this land, so bountifully blessed above all the nations of the earth, let us "give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth forever." (Psa. 107:1)

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

TV Today: Corrupter Of Young Minds

The 10-year-old's best friend laughed at him for the high handlebars on his bicycle. The 10-year-old was furious. He went home and got his dad's shotgun. One dead boy. What's so terrible about that? Guys get shot all afternoon and night. The young murderer had seen 50 men killed that very week — on TV.

A U. S. Senate sub-committee, after hearing lengthy testimony from psychiatrists and juvenile court officials, recently said this:

Jones

"On the basis of expert testimony and impressive research evidence, a relationship has been conclusively established between televised crime and violence and antisocial attitudes and behavior among juvenile viewers."

The committee praised the Columbia Broadcasting System, alone among the networks, for "a perceptible decline in the extent to which it features acts of violence," but it added that violence continues undiminished in television programming as a whole.

Of course it continues. The blood runs deep in the living rooms. And that's not all. There's the celebrated defense lawyer who proves week-after-week that district attorneys are never right and are always trying to convict innocent people. There are cynical private eyes chasing round-heeled females. There are glamorous gangsters, attractive gun-fighters, sympathetic dance hall girls, cowardly judges and crooked cops.

No wonder our youngsters are confused.

But mostly there is blood. Sometimes death is quick and clean. But often recently there has been torture. And sadism. And steadily-more-explicit rapes.

This packs in the kids. The drama is easy on the brain. It gets the ratings. And ratings get the advertisers. Out of the smoke from the burning alky distillery the drooling announcer appears to urge his viewers to fill their cheeks with "that crunchy, chewy goodness," and then the announcer fades away and gats growl and mobbies crumple.

Foreigners who have seen this fare are sure that Americans are a cruel and crude lot, steeped in crime. It is easy to believe the Communists who say, "If you do not think the American imperialists have no respect for life, look at their entertainment."

The plain fact is, of course, that the easiest way to rivet the immature mind to the Cyclops eye is to keep the scout cars screaming and the O.K. Corral popping. This requires no subtlety of dialog or plot. Any hack writer can whip it out like carnival taffy. And to the thud of fists on jaws and the plop of bullets into bellies, young America squats on the rug in peanut-butter-and-pop euphoria and subconsciously concludes that the inflicting of pain and the elimination of life are of no great consequence.

The broadcasters have from time-to-time advanced the rebuttal that much of classic literature involves crime and killing. Look at Shakespeare. Well, let's look.

Macbeth is a bloody play. But what Macbeth is all about is the enormity of taking human life to further ambition, and the inevitability of punishment. There is nothing glamorous about the killings, only horror.

In Hamlet, murder brings retribution, but even the justified avenger doesn't survive his act. The oratory of Marc Antony sets the mob on fire with the outrage of Caesar's death. The Furies, loosed by the awful crime against the little princess in the Tower, follow Richard III to Bosworth Field. And Othello says:

"Though in the trade of war I have slain men, yet do I hold it very stuff 'o the conscience to do no contrived murder."

Now, imagine what TV script writers would do with these bare plots in the 24 minutes left after the product plugs. The castles and forums would be filled with bodies. You couldn't take a chance on soliloquy, because the kids might go to the toilet and perhaps they'd still be there during the commercial.

It has also been argued that the sight of violence releases hidden tensions and has a therapeutic effect upon young minds. Hooey! If this were true, children raised in neighborhoods where drunkenness, debauchery, fights and stabbings were most prevalent would behave themselves best. Do they?

Because violence is easy to comprehend, and because young or immature mentalities prefer the obvious, and because we have an enormous amount of goods that we would like to unload on these markets, the airways drip with gore. And the graph of teenage murders, beatings, and collective rumbles looks like the take-off trajectory of a successful Saturn rocket.

But there are other types of drama that ought to be obvious enough to draw an audience and perhaps even uplift and inspire. World literature is full of great human stories which the ex-pulp writers who do the TV scripts have never read.

Can't we sell that "crunchy, chewy goodness" with a little goodness?

OUR READERS' Views . . .

Letters to the Editor on topics of public interest are always welcome. They should be written or typed legibly on one side of the paper only and limited to 300 words. Always sign your name and address so that authenticity of the letter may be checked if necessary. The writer's name will not be printed if so requested.

Whose Responsibility?

To the Editor:

It was printed last week, in The Spectator, that our daughter had joined the Bluebirds. On the second meeting, the leader sent a paper home for our signature. This was to give our permission for her to go on field trips during the year with the group. However, there was a clause stating that our signature would release the driver or whoever, the responsibility of our girl.

This we could not sign because as parents we feel that we do have a responsibility for the care and welfare of our children and further we believe we must have full responsibility from leaders to guide and train them. Our refusal to sign this release of responsibility has, at the Bluebirds' request, prohibited our daughter from attending further meetings. I offered to drive our daughter to where she could join the group, but this too was refused.

As the leader stated: "What if something should happen to your daughter at our house during one of the meetings? What we have isn't much, but we don't care to have people suing us."

This is what we carry insurance for and though we have all kinds of coverage would our insurance be worth anything if we were to sign such a release?

If I were to be a leader, surely I would accept the responsibility that goes along with it and especially, if I had to ask parents to release me of responsibility, I would not consider myself a fit person for this leadership.

A Victory For Liberalism

Mr. Editor and Publisher:

We have changed our opinion and you should change your stated goal of being a newspaper for all the people to being one for the minority conservatives as shown in the overwhelming victory of President Johnson and liberalism . . .

If ever a President received a clear mandate for his policies on which he campaigned and on which he was chosen by 44 states out of 50 . . . it is President Johnson. With a sympathetic Congress and resounding electorate approval, he would violate this trust and mandate from the people if he failed to immediately enact Medicare and all the humanitarian legislation his election dictates.

The Democratic party is and will continue to be the majority party for the foreseeable future because it represents all the people, not just the selfish conservatives who care only for themselves. The GOP must serve the people with deeds instead of lip service.

Locally, you project Don Hollenback for council to promote the conservative cause. You are right that Don and his Dad may be listed as Democrats but this is just a cover-up as they serve the GOP North-End admirably.

Columbus is a politically afflicted city in that a partisan GOP press propagandizes our readers to retain such men as Sam Devine in Congress to represent only the financial interests.

Fortunately, we have one oasis in this desert of public information in the WRFD Commentator which is liberal in its views but prints both sides of public issues so readers can make up their own undictated decisions.

Candidates Say 'Thanks'

I want to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to you for your support of my candidacy. It was particularly gratifying to me to have the endorsement of your paper along with 78 others in the state.

While my election efforts in 1964 were unsuccessful insofar as the outcome was concerned, it was a tremendous thrill to campaign across the entire state. We visited in 83 of Ohio's 88 counties and tremendously appreciated the hospitality and welcome we received.

Oliver P. Bolton

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all the wonderful people who worked so hard for my candidacy during the campaign. Without their help we could not have waged the hard campaign that we did.

While our cause was not successful those workers can be proud that they helped tremendously toward carrying the Democratic message to the voters of Franklin County. They can be proud also that their efforts helped me get more votes than any Democratic Congressional candidate from this district has ever received.

To Congressman Devine I wish success and may his actions in Congress always be beneficial to Franklin County and the nation.

Robert L. Van Heyde

Through your facilities I wish to extend my sincere thanks for the vote of confidence given me and my staff by the citizens of Franklin County in my re-election to the office of County Engineer on Nov. 3.

Guy Elbin

I'm sincerely grateful to my fellow citizens for the confidence they have expressed in my integrity and ability.

I have a deep and abiding conviction that a judge must always demonstrate qualities of integrity, ability, impartiality, diligence and common sense; and this I shall do as I shall answer unto God.

Judge Fred J. Shoemaker

A Good Word For The Birds . . .

To the Editor:

In the very busy whirl of modern life seldom do we take time to notice the struggling existence of birds against the elements.

Through some instinct far beyond human understanding these feathered friends without map or compass wend their flight across unchartered waters and wastes, making their pilgrimage to their host and hostesses, secure in the knowledge of a welcome and a haven of refuge.

In our daily routine of life more of us should enjoy birds and gain their confidence and friendship by giving them our care and attention in supplying their food.

We are repaid when they greet us with their cheerful songs in the spring.

Supersonic Travel Is Both Bitter And Sweet

BY BOYCE BRIER

When the jets came (late 1950s) a foremost operational problem was longer runways.

But the jets were immediately successful with passengers, who still haven't tired of eagle rising over the shrinkage of time on transcontinental and transocean flights.

As technology in recent decades has been moving in a sharp spiral, the supersonic plane came into planning while the 600-mile jets were still young. It is not certain, however, that halving the time between, say, New York and London or San Francisco and Tokyo, will repeat the pleasant psychological effect with passengers that the jet involved.

In any case, runways are the longer the foremost operational problem when, and if, the double or triple supersonic jet is developed and put into use. Some of the problems now seem to stubbornly resist solution.

First, the supersonic planes with bigger motors and thrust will raise the decibels at airports, and residents nearby are already complaining about the racket.

But in theory, and by some experiment with supersonic military planes, noise now promises to accompany a plane along its entire flight course, and possibly 50 miles each side of the flight course, according to recent tests in Oklahoma. There is also the related problem of sonic boom.

Other problems include heating (standard aluminum alloy sheathing weakens above 1,500 m.p.h.), and economics, and the last is a tough one.

For a year airframe firms and the government have been quibbling over sharing the cost of development of a 2,200 m.p.h. plane, once put at $1 billion, now much higher. If the target date is 1970, this means current jets would become obsolete after 12 years of operation, a big factor for airlines.

The American project took on a prestige color last year, when Britain and France joined to produce a 1,450 m.p.h. commercial airliner called the Concorde. Considerable work has been done, and eight airlines have placed orders for 43 planes for future delivery.

But development costs, once put at $240 million for each country, now appear unrealistic, and may double.

Hardly had the Labor Government taken office in London, than it began to fuss about Concorde. Plagued with deficits, the government is now calling for "early and urgent" meetings with the French. The Aviation Minister is going to Paris, where great concern is expressed lest the British pull out of Concorde.

They could, and this might leave our own planes in the air. No doubt you will one day zoom across the Atlantic in two hours or less, the Pacific in four or less, but the day may not be close.

Auto Registration Revenue Figures Are Released

Almost $1 million more in automobile registration revenues than that received during a similar period last year will be distributed to local taxing districts, State Highway Safety Director Warren C. Nelson reported to Gov. James A. Rhodes upon receiving information from Lou Wilsch, Registrar of Motor Vehicles.

A total of $19,341,873 will be returned to the taxing units, as compared to $18,342,200.40 in 1963.

The money, from automobile registrations, will be divided among the 2350 taxing districts, which include municipalities, counties and townships. All of the money returned is used for the maintenance and improvement of roads in the districts.

Distribution of 1964 revenues in Spectator area counties is as follows:

Fairfield, $143,188.72; Franklin, $1,348,185.72; Licking, $226,011.22; Madison, $66,481.72, and Pickaway, $78,348.22.

Heart Fund Tour Set

A tour of research showing Heart Fund dollars at work will be held at Ohio State University Hospital, Saturday, Dec. 5, according to an announcement by Wiley L. Forman, M.D., president of the Central Ohio Heart Association. The COHA is sponsoring the tour in cooperation with the university. It is open to all members of the 47 county associations affiliated with COHA. "Interested non-members will be welcome," Dr. Forman said.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of causes of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which neither the Ebb method nor any other method is effective, and the Ebb method will not help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

If your scalp is still creating hair and you have dandruff, or excessive hair fall, excessive oiliness, dryness, or itchy scalp you should take 20 minutes of your time to see what you can do.

Many have reported satisfaction from the Ebb Scalp Method. Why burden yourself with unhealthy hair and scalp? It costs you nothing to come in and learn how many people have been helped by the years of Ebb experience. Why not take advantage of this wonderful opportunity for help?

Just go to the Neil House Hotel in Columbus, O., on Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 2 and 3 only, between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Ask the Hotel Desk Clerk for P. L. Starkey.

Consultations are given in private. You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way.

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

There is only one thing worse than a loud wife and that's a loud TV commercial. Unfortunately, they're both on the increase, but if it will provide any comfort for those who care, it must be noted that the chairman of the FCC is attempting to do something about the problem — loud commercials, that is, not loud wives.

There are some things even a government commission can't alter.

In a recent New York speech to broadcasters, chairman E. William Henry announced that one of the chief concerns of the FCC is the problem of loud commercials. There seems little hope for more tranquil ones.

Aid To Education

Also high on the list of FCC concerns is the means of getting financial aid for the nation's 93 operating educational stations which are continually in a financial crisis. San Francisco is lucky. Its educational station is on a low-number channel and it is one of the very few in the nation that telecasts six days a week.

Even in big, rich, New York City, its educational station was recently forced to eliminate its Saturday programming because of lack of funds. But programming costs money and the costs are rising every day.

After acknowledging ETV's debt to many sources in the past, Henry recognized the growing need for funds to support educational stations in the future. He made a particular bid for funds from the commercial nets:

"There is nothing startling in the thought that those who reap a profit from the use of broadcasting frequencies have a special obligation to contribute to the support of educational television. If you have already done much; you should do more. Educational television is entitled to look to you for a portion of its financial support.

"You broadcasters operate the most powerful selling instrument ever invented. If it can sell soap, automobiles and potato chips, it can certainly sell an idea with the intrinsic merit of educational television. You have the know-how and you have the facilities

One of the most interesting developments of the new season has been the emergence of ABC. Nielson averages of all prime-time, sponsored network shows place ABC in first place; CBS second and NBC third.

NBC's chairman of the board, Robert Sarnoff, once asked me, "Why do all you columnists deplore ratings and yet you always give them plenty of space in your columns?"

Answer: The ratings are still based on woefully meager information and they vary as much as bartenders' jiggers, but they are important only because the broadcasters consider them important. Any means of audience measuring which determines what viewers will be allowed to see is newsworthy but not necessarily praiseworthy.

The romances of Richard Chamberlain on the "Dr. Kildare" series have a history that would frighten Typhoid Mary. Whenever the young bachelor would kiss a young lady she either died of an incurable disease, fell off a surfboard or was hit by a truck.

Currently Kildare is having a love affair with an Italian actress named Daniela Bianchi. I hate to tip off the ending, but it's so unusual I can't resist. He doesn't get the girl — but she LIVES!

PROWSE PRANCES

JULIET PROWSE will perform on the "NBC Follies of 1965," this season's first "sneak preview special," starring Steve Lawrence, Jill St. John, Nipsey Russell and Alan Sherman, which will be colorcast Friday, Nov. 27, at 10 p.m. on TV-4.

Mershon Announces Schedule

Mershon Auditorium programs for the month of December have been announced.

Continuing Education for Women is presenting Washington newspaperwoman Martha Rountree in a free-admission lecture appearance at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 1. Miss Rountree's topic is "The Role of the American Woman in National Life." The public is invited.

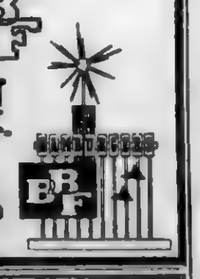
The New York City Opera Company plays a two-night engagement presenting Gounod's "Faust," in French, Dec. 2 and Strauss' comic opera, "Die Fledermaus," in English, Dec. 3. Both operas are at 8 p.m.

Henry Mancini and his orchestra make a first OSU campus appearance Friday, Dec. 4, with performances at 7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Reserved seat ticket sale is in progress for all programs for which admission is charged.

Every morning, noon and night during the Christmas rush the postman faces nothing but mountains and mountains of mail. You can help . . . shop early and use ZIP codes.

Dates Major Production



Tuesday, Dec. 1, the second major production of The Ohio State University Theatre's 1964-65 season will open with the drama, "The Queen and the Rebels," by Ugo Betti. The production will continue nightly at 8 p.m. through Saturday, Dec. 5, with a special matinee at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 5.

Seats for the OSU production of "The Queen and the Rebels" are sold out for Friday and Saturday nights, Dec. 4 and 5, but seats are available for all other performances.

They are now on sale at the Derby Hall Box Office from 12 noon to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday (closed Nov. 26 and 27) or may be reserved by phoning CY. 3-2295 during these hours.

It's Good They Got Together

Fifty years ago your gas company had relatively few customers. Local gas production could meet their demands. Now, nearly everyone in your town uses gas. It heats most homes.

Over the years the tremendous growth in demand for natural gas caused a number of smaller companies to join together for economy and efficiency in operations. Gradually, they faced the problems of supplying gas service not to just hundreds of consumers — but to hundreds of thousands.

Today, your gas company is part of the Columbia Gas System. That's one big reason you can enjoy the best possible natural gas service and the wonderful advantages of natural gas at reasonable rates.

Four Happy Homemakers Jet Back Home

LUNCHEON, DINNERS and award banquets were among the activities squeezed into the threeday National Suburban Homemaker finals in Chicago last week. Though Mrs. James Sharon of St. Louis, Mo., had just been announced the winner, "our gals" were still smiling at the Awards Luncheon. Runners-up included a lady who does all all her own canning and doesn't even own a can opener, and a New Jersey woman who is mother of six children, including an adopted Korean boy, all under the age of seven. Left to right are Spectator winners, Mrs. Paul Morris, Mrs. Roy VonIns, Mrs. Robert Arnold and Mrs. Lindley Kumler.

BAG AND BAGGAGE, the trip was nearly over, or so they thought as they checked out of the hotel and left for the airport. But a blinding blizzard hit the windy city and the girls' flight home was delayed four hours. The 28 finalists in Chicago left a total of 123 children at home. A quick count showed that 24 of those were waiting at the Port Columbus Airport to meet the Spectator winners when they arrived. Shown loading into cabs from left are Dorothy VonIns, Helen Kumler, Glenna DeWitt of The Spectator staff, Dorothy Arnold and Nancy Morris.

COFFEE BREAK

Yes, Jack Benny And I Are The Same Age

By ADELINE DALEY

To my knowledge no one has ever described me as having beady eyes and a shifty look, and I like to assume that I am a trustworthy soul. So is it asking too much of my kids — from ages 17 down to four — to stop following me around like a "truth squad?"

It isn't that I don't admire the unvarnished truth, but why should a friend who drops in for a cup of coffee and who, incidentally, uses only Lenox china, be advised that the cup she is using came free inside a box of oatmeal?

But far be itf rom me to ever claim that any of my dishes are "collector's items." My kids would agree and then explain that we "collected" some of them by purchasing gasoline and the rest with S&H green stamps.

I don't mind our financial status being broadcast like year-end corporation statements, either, but when our little ones play house with their friends, do they have to use our bills as part of the act?

I might as well give up trying to pass off any of them as being underage to save on a fare of an admission price. Who is any longer going to believe that four-year-old Jan, for instance, is under two when she tries to carry luggage onto the airplane?

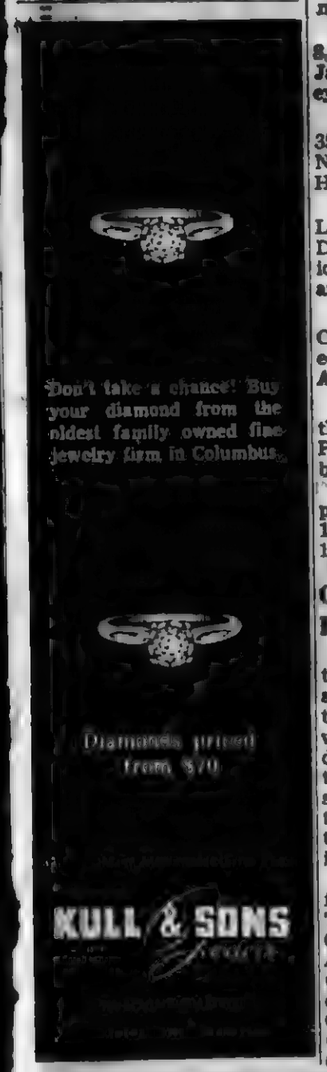
Fortunately, I am getting accustomed to such unbridled honesty. Thus, when someone asks me if I'm a natural blonde and I answer in the affirmative, I am not surprised to hear one of them ask, "But, Mom, how come you use Golden Highlights Shampoo?"

It's all right for Zsa Zsa Gabor and every other movie star to lop a few years off their age, but around here my family would like photostatic copies of my birth certificate for distribution to curious passersby.

Thus, you can imagine my concern when Patrice came in the house the other afternoon to inform me that Diane was going up and down the block like a census-taker revealing my age to the neighbors.

"For goodness sake, get her in here at once!" I ordered, going into my usual tirade about nothing being sacred any more.

I was somewhat shaken when Patrice became sympathetic. "I don't blame you, Mom. Diane hasn't got any business telling everybody you're 34 years old."



I reflected for a moment and then motioned Patrice to come back. "Look, if Diane wants to be a blabbermouth, let's just let her go ahead."

SOMETHING MARVELOUS IS HAPPENING

Twenty Girls Will Present Water Show

Columbus Coralina Club of the YWCA will present its annual water show Nov. 27 and 28 at the YWCA pool, 65 S. Fourth-st. Both Friday and Saturday at 7:45 p.m. a cast of 20 girls will present the program entitled, "International Water Show Time" Tickets for the shows are available from any member, at the door or at the pool office.

A special feature will be the AAU National Indoor Champions, with a six-girl team performing the award-winning number, "Night Time In Rio." Proceeds from the show will be used to help finance the group to Guadalajara, Mexico, this summer to teach the girls there synchronized swimming.

St. Mary Choir Ses Joint Sing With Notre Dame

The College of Saint Mary of the Springs Concert Choir will appear with Notre Dame University Glee Club in a joint concert in Erskine Theatre on the campus, Saturday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m.

Under the Director of Sister M. Nathanael, O.P., and Prof. Daniel H. Pedtke, the groups will sing various polyphonic, traditional and Christmas selections.

For the first time the concert choir will introduce its newly-formed folk group.

In previous years, Saint Mary's choristers have performed with the Columbus Symphony, Villanova University and Saint Joseph Rensselaer, Collegeville, Ind. Later this year, they will also combine with the John Carroll University Glee Club.

As the climax of the Easter season, the choir will tour three eastern states and highlight the trip with a concert in Washington, D.C.

Adventists Begin Missions Appeal

The 61st annual World Missions Appeal, sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist church, got under way locally Nov. 21 and will continue through Dec. 24.

Leading the volunteer workers participating in the city-wide drive is Mark Clay, home missions director of the Eastwood church The goal here is $11,000.

Funds will go toward extending welfare, disaster aid, and educational services at home as well as a widespread medical, welfare, and educational ministry in 195 other countries.

The local church operates a Health and Welfare center at 970 N. High-st. Persons in need of assistance or knowing others needing material aid are welcome to visit the center.

Thursday Service Set By Christian Scientists

Thanksgiving Day services will be held at Christian Science Society, Upper Arlington, 3100 Tremont-rd, at 11 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 26. Visitors are welcome.

One feature of the service will be a period when individual Christian Scientists stand up voluntarily to express their thanks to God in their own words.

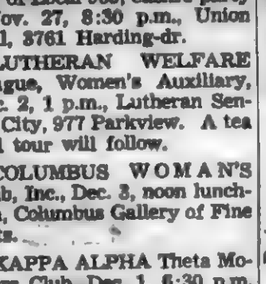
TO GIVE HINTS ON DECORATING

Members of the Northview Garden Club will meet at Warwick's Landscaping and Garden Store Monday evening, Nov. 30, for a demonstration on Christmas arrangements for the home. Mrs. Howard J. Piehler of Gahanna will speak, giving new ideas for decorating during the coming holiday season.

Sliding on skis and skates is fun, but not in your car! During winter months be EXTRA careful. Adjust your driving to all road and weather conditions, warns the Ohio Department of Highway Safety.

Historical Society Sets Old-Fashioned Tour

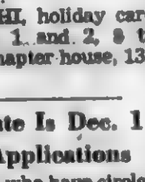
The Worthington Historical Society will sponsor an old-fashioned Christmas open house tour of homes Friday, Dec. 4, 6 to 10 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the restoration fund of the Orange Johnson House, future headquarters of the Society.



The tour will include the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Clark E. Loofbourrow, 28 W. Granville-rd; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Corbin, 721 High-st; Mrs. S. E. Corbin, 683 High-st; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley P. Cushman, 36 W. South-st; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Tomlinson, 60 W. South-st. Also open to the public will be the Snow House, 41 W. New England-av.

Tickets, $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for elementary and high school students, are available now at the Worthington Inn, where a Christmas smorgasbord dinner will be served during the evening of the tour.

NEW MASS TELEVISED



The first televised "new" Mass of Roman Catholics in the Columbus area will be offered by Bishop Clarence G. Issenmann on Sunday, Nov. 29, at 10 a.m. over Channel 4. On that day Catholics throughout the United States for the first time will be hearing English in a large part of the Mass. The complete change from Latin to English is not expected for sometime.

often created seeming mirages.

Recently, Dr. Calvin W. Didier of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church conducted Fall Retreat for senior high school students at Camp Geneva, near Lancaster, along the same trail that Dr. Hoge traveled, toting the five pieces of pewter in his saddlebags.

As Rev. Didier lifted one of the pewter chalices to conduct the ceremony that Dr. Hoge had often conducted with the same chalice, the campfire flickered.

There was a rustling among the trees, followed by a peaceful stillness, as if an unconquerable spirit had paused, then, satisfied, had passed on along a familiar trail.

Rye is used mainly in Ohio for cover crops, late fall and early spring pastures, or for a green manure crop, say OSU Extension agronomists.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

The first American expression of Thanksgiving was when the Pilgrims thanked God in 1621 for the survival of some of them after their first cruel winter in Plymouth. Annual thanks were given by other colonists from various dates. By 1858 a day of thanksgiving had been proclaimed in 25 states and two territories.

President Lincoln was the first to appoint the fourth Thursday in November as a permanent national Thanksgiving Day. Two encyclopedias say this was in 1863. Two more say 1864. It was suggested by the renowned Sarah J. Hale of Philadelphia. President Washington had proclaimed November 26, 1789, as a day to give thanks. But the custom had lapsed until Lincoln's time.

Thanksgiving Day was first observed in Columbus in 1864, just a century ago. The Ohio State Journal, then the leading paper, published on Thanksgiving Day but skipped the next day. Being the morning paper, this gave its employes time off for Thanksgiving Day and night. The same was done in 1865.

First mention of a general city-wide Thanksgiving holiday was in 1864. The day "was almost universally observed in this city by all classes." Services were held in several churches. Offerings in most were given to The Female Benevolent Society to "remember the poor." The society's treasury was empty and the need was great.

One church gave a supper, proceeds from which were used to buy a bell and other needed things for the new structure.

War news was terrible and steady. But even in the midst of a great war the people of Columbus paused to give thanks for their blessings.

It says here . . .

We Americans, in war and peace, give thanks for our blessings. May it ever be so.

Under Buckeye Skies

Thanksgiving . . .

By KEN MACK McCREARY

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving, a holiday which is traditionally an old American custom. To those of us who love, enjoy and appreciate the out-of-doors this day holds a significance and heritage as old as the observance itself.

When a ragged group of Puritan colonists held the American Thanksgiving in the year 1621, our ancestors who passed on their love for the outdoors were very much a part of the celebration.

Ken McCreary

In fact, every one of those settlers was, by necessity, a complete and rugged outdoorsman — if he hadn't been he wouldn't have survived.

To us today it would seem these pilgrims would have little reason to give thanks — the last winter and disease had slashed their number to only 55 men, women and children; life was a constant, back-breaking battle.

But because of a bountiful crop and the hope of a better tomorrow, Governor Bradford, the leader of the struggling band, decreed that a day be set aside to thank God for His mercy and the bountiful harvest.

A select group of hunters was dispatched into the forest to provide the venison, rabbits, squirrels, and — oh, yes — turkeys for the feast. And following impressive church services the settlers sat down to the rough hewn tables, piled high with the first Thanksgiving dinner.

Almost before the first bite was taken, a resounding Indian whoop echoed through the settlement. A scalping raid? No — it was a friendly Indian chieftain, Massasoit, who had seen all the activity and had brought his people to join in the feast (and symbolically, make it an All-American Thanksgiving).

Nearly 350 years have been written into the history books since that first celebration as we pause to express our gratitude today.

Perhaps one of the most precious things we have to thank God for is our great heritage of the outdoors — the heritage which gives us an appreciation of the natural resources we still possess, and the freedom and the desire to utilize and appreciate them.

Each of us holds a wealth of memirable outdoor memories for which we should be profoundly grateful — the sight of a brace of mallard ducks flaring into the purple-streaked sunset, the lonesome call of the whip-poor-will, the pride of a boy catching his first fish, the unrestrained gurgle of a clear, unpolluted stream, the joy of watching a beagle making "trail-music" chasing a rabbit.

For all of these benefits and pleasures of the American out-of-doors, and countless more, we should give thanks. And while looking to the past and present, let us not forget to dedicate ourselves to the future to preserve this priceless heritage so that we may pass it on to our children, and they to theirs.

Perhaps President Abraham Lincoln said it best when 101 years ago, he issued the proclamation establishing the last Thursday of November as Thanksgiving:

"The year that is drawing to a close has been filled with the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies. To these bounties, which are so constantly enjoyed that we are prone to forget the source from which they came, others have been added, which are of so extraordinary a nature that they cannot fail to penetrate and soften the heart which is habitually insensible to the everwatchful providence of Almighty God . . . No human council hath devised, nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the most high God . . . . . "

Plaza President Toasts City At First Anniversary Party

Some 50 business and civic leaders were guests of the management of the Columbus Plaza last Wednesday evening at a dinner in observance of the first anniversary of the motor hotel's opening.

Hans W. Rawe, president, in welcoming the guests, proposed a toast to the City of Columbus and to its future progress. He praised the board of the State Teachers' Retirement Fund for its vision and faith in financing the construction of the hotel which, he stated, "is considered by experts in the field to be the finest in this country."

The volume of business for the first year, Rawe said, has far exceeded expectations and he thanked the public for making use of the facility.

The speaker recounted his personal experiences, having come to this country as an immigrant and earned his first money by washing dishes. Rawe expressed his profound gratitude for the opportunities in America for anyone who is willing to work to achieve success.

"Nowhere else in the world," he said, "is this possible to the degree that it is here."

Kline L. Roberts, president of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce, responded on behalf of the guests and commended Rawe and his associates for providing the leadership that has brought such a change to downtown Columbus in the last four years.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Civic Leader Joins Huntington

Norman Folpe, 5966 Timber-dr, will join the Huntington National Bank as vice-president at the end of this year.

Folpe is presently executive director of the Downtown Area Committee and manager of the Community Development Department of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

He has been active in community affairs for many years. From 1955 to 1960 he was in charge of appraisal, negotiation and acquisition of land for the Columbus expressway system. During this period, over $20 million of properties were purchased, including lands for the Mound, Goodale, Sandusky and North freeways.

Columbia Gas Lays New Line

Work has just started on a $77,520 Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., pipeline improvement and relocation project in Columbus.

Elden H. Davis, Central District manager, said more than two and a half miles of new pipeline — up to eight inches in diameter — will be laid along the Columbus-Lancaster-rd (U. S. Rt. 33) between Brookwood and Refugee-rds, and along Petzinger-rd from Rt. 33 to the Glenbrook subdivision.

Davis explained that the new lines would provide improved service and increased supplies of natural gas to Glenbrook and other homes in that rapidly expanding area.

Traffic will be maintained along the construction route during work on the project. Work is expected to be completed in December.

Midwestern VW AppointsNewVP

David H. Doescher, 2025 Tremont-rd, has been appointed vice-president in charge of parts and service, according to an announcement made this week by the board of directors of Midwestern VW Corporation.

Doescher

Other new assignments for corporation personnel are: David B. Vance, 2385 Bristol-rd, regional service manager; Roger A. Carmody, 1459 Merton-dr, regional parts manager; Donald Wood, 2477 Coventry-rd, regional sales manager; Richard Smiley, 6695 Berendt, Worthington, business management manager.

Richard S. McCutchen, 107 N. Gould-rd, has been appointed public relations manager.

Two Appointed

Basil Rutter, president of Steppe's Beauticians, Inc., operator of the M. Robert Beauty Salons in the Columbus area, has announced the appointment of Edgar Shaw and Robert J. Richardson as vice-presidents.

Financial Bulletin Appoints Editor

Neil Milner, 648 Wetmore-rd, public relations director of the Ohio Bankers Association, has been appointed to an editorship on "The Bulletin," official publication of the Financial Public Relations Association.

Milner will edit the State Association Activities section of the monthly magazine. The association is a national organization made up of some 3,000 advertising, public relations and business development executives of banks and other financial institutions.

SOHIO DOUBLES FUND

CHARLES E. SPAHR, right, president of Standard Oil of Ohio, recently told representatives of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges that Sohio is contributing $80,000 to OFIC this year, more than double the firm's contribution last year. Capital University President H. L. Yochum, center, and W. Lee Culp, left, Wooster College development director, were told the Sohio Scholarship Plan for sons and daughters of company employes and dealers, amounting to $21,000, also will be continued with OFIC for the 14th straight year.

Crosley Names Burpee Director

The promotion of John C. Burpee, 5490 Redwood-dr, to the position of Director of Public Relations and Advertising of the Crosley Broadcasting Corporation was announced today by John T. Murphy, Crosley President.

Burpee, who is presently promotion manager of WLW-C in Columbus, will assume his new position Dec. 1.

In his new capacity Burpee will supervise all corporate advertising, promotion and publicity operations. He will also serve as corporate consultant to the individual TV and radio station promotion and publicity departments. Crosley operates WLW-T Cincinnati, WLW-D Dayton, WLW-C Columbus, WLW-I Indianapolis and WLW radio in Cincinnati.

CTC Elects New Vice-President

The Board of Directors of the Columbus Transit Company today announced the election of Louis D. Pellissier, a veteran mass-transportation official, as vice-president.

A native of Holyoke, Mass., Pellissier "grew up" in the transit industry. His family operated the Holyoke Street Railway Co., where Louis started his career in 1935.

He was elected president and general manager at Holyoke in 1955, the position he held before he joined the CTC.

His brother, Edward A. Pellissier, is president of the Columbus Transit Company.

Since we have a Christmas Club at City National, all of our bills are paid-in-advance. But I'm still glad Christmas comes only once a year.

Say, that's right it does, doesn't it?

NEW JUNIOR HIGH, ELEMENTARY SET FOR FALL

A new junior high school on the Shady Lane Elementary site, and a new elementary in the Cherry Hill-McNaughten area will be ready and waiting for students in Columbus' rapidly growing far southeastern area by next fall.

These projects, as well as additional classrooms at Berwick Elementary, were approved by the School Board Tuesday.

Also approved by the board was a progressively raised scale of the entrance age of kindergarten and first graders that will, by 1968, make children starting to school three and a half months older than at present.

The $12 million building program approved Tuesday is the first money spent from the $34.6 million bond issue passed by voters in November.

The new Shady Lane Junior High, to cost just under $1 million, will house the area's junior high students, relieving Walnut Ridge Junior-Senior High by making it exclusively a senior high school.

Full capacity of the 700-student school is not expected to be filled immediately, but the room will be available as it is needed.

The planned new Cherry Hill-McNaughten Elementary will include 10 or 12 classrooms, a multi-purpose room and office space, and will be needed by next fall to house the area's expanding student population.

The changed age requirements, recommended by the curriculum council, follows a national trend not to admit younger children. Educators express the feeling that children should be more mature when they enter school to fully benefit from learning experiences.

The progressive scale will admit kindergarten pupils in September, 1966, who are five on or before Nov. 30. In 1967 the starting age raises to five on or before Oct. 31, and in 1968, those five years on or before Sept. 15.

At present, kindergarten pupils may start in September who are five on or before Dec. 31.

The starting age of first graders will also raise accordingly, on a scale one year behind that of kindergarten students, to allow those finishing kindergarten to enter first grade at a corresponding age.

Lions Plan Visit From Governor, 'Coffee Break' For Yule Shoppers

Plans for a Christmas coffee-doughnut sale, and a visit from District Governor Donald Welshon next week, are occupying Whitehall Lions Club.

Weary Christmas shoppers at Town and Country Shopping Center, wishing for a quick pickup to battle cold and fatigue, will find hot coffee and doughnuts available during shopping hours the week before Christmas.

Whitehall Lions will serve coffee and doughnuts Dec. 18, 19, 21, 22 and 23, and use proceeds from the sale for charity projects.

The coffee and doughnuts will be served, according to club president, Mayor William Holzhause, from a centrally located mobile unit during regular shopping hours.

The club will also host the district governor of 13 B, Donald Welshon, at its ladies' night meeting Wednesday, Dec. 9, at Desert Inn.

Gov. Welshon will induct new members, Wallace Watson, Don Evans, John Boggs, Mike Winegardner and George Beltzhoover.

Spook Beckman of WTVN Radio, member of Columbus East Lions Club, will be guest speaker.

A few memberships in the club are available, and anyone interested in joining the service organization may contact club officers for information.

Whitehall Mayor William Holzhause is president; Robert Sommers, Paul Keller and Dennis Zody, vice-presidents, and Harold Wood is secretary-treasurer.

Wes Sanders is immediate past president; Ray Caldwell is tall twister; Kenneth Wood, lion tamer, and Lew Bower, William Pettit, John Bishop and Frank Crane, directors.

The club meets regularly at Desert Inn on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month.

Council Creates Trust Fund, Approves Ice Rink Financing

Establishment of a capital improvement trust fund and approval of financing for an outdoor ice skating rink highlighted Tuesday night's session of Whitehall City Council.

And while the business for the meeting seemed to promise some bristling controversy, councilmen chose to remain peaceful and serene as they handled a moderately heavy agenda in just over an hour.

A scheduled public hearing on the proposed Fairway Oaks subdivision was postponed to allow the developer and Fairway-blvd residents to discuss suggested changes in the plan. The housing development plan includes some apartment construction, a point sure to stir council debate.

Another measure with the promise of hard battle is the proposal by Democratic Councilman Marvin Levine to transfer the city's income tax office from the treasurer's office to the auditor's office. Levine introduced the measure without comment, and Republicans chose to hold their comments for a later meeting.

A first reading also was given to an ordinance calling for civil service classification for employes of the tax commissioner's section. This, too, was originated by Levine, but appears less likely to cause any serious arguments.

Fund May Need Vote

The capital improvements trust fund proposal calls for earmarking an initial 10 percent of income tax funds for fiscal year 1965, but provides for a $50,000 minimum. In succeeding years, the trust fund will gain 20 percent of income tax revenue.

Establishment of the trust fund would allow the city the alternatives of cash spending or bond financing of needed capital improvements. Levine has asked City Solicitor Paul J. Haytcher to determine what procedures must be followed if bond financing is deemed advisable.

While bond financing of capital improvements would allow for a greatly expanded program without any form of tax increase, it is believed that any such program would require voter approval.

Find Money For Rink

In authorizing the transfer of funds to permit purchase of a liner for the outdoor ice skating rink, several council members let it be known that they were less than satisfied with the manner in which Mayor Holzhause handled the proposal. The mayor had announced that the liner would be purchased without first determining the method of financing.

The problem was solved when council members, the mayor and the city's recreation commission met last Saturday to discuss the financing problem. It was discovered that the Recreation Department employe salary fund showed a balance of $650. The amount reportedly was available because the department was delayed a month in hiring authorized personnel.

Fourth Ward Councilman Gilbert H. O'Shaughnessy was back in his seat for Tuesday's session, after having missed the past few meetings because of back surgery and convalescence. The city's foremost Irishman surprised his fellow Democrats by returning earlier than expected, although his usual jaunt has been replaced by the temporary use of a cane.

The Recrration Commission recommended to council that the money be allocated to purchase the liner for the skating rink, and councilmen agreed. The rink will be located at Yearling-rd and Mayflower-blvd, across from the City Building.

The rink is expected to be ready within the next week and will be in use, weather permitting, through March.

And while council members complained of the mayor's lack of judgment in announcing the project before securing finances, it was a one-way discussion. The mayor was called from council chambers about five minutes after the meeting began and did not return to the session.

COUNCIL TO ENACT:

Parking Ban, Traffic Issues For Bexley

Bexley Council will hear a recommendation from Mayor William Schneider for the installation of a four-way stop sign at Mound and Euclaire at its meeting Tuesday two other ordinances on parking evening, Dec. 8, and consider ing bans.

Council, prompted by the recent fatal accident at the Mound-Euclaire intersection, the city's first since May, 1963, asked for a recommendation at its last session.

Parking bans on the west side of N. Parkview, and on the north side of Maryland were asked by council at its last meeting, and City Solicitor Howard Parks was instructed to prepare the legislation.

No parking on N. Parkview, from Broad-st north to 30 feet north of Maryland, was recommended by traffic engineer Ralph Wolf.

He cited the governor's mansion and Jeffrey Estates as the reason for heavy parking on the street, and said that Maryland was too narrow for two-way traffic as well as parking on both sides.

Councilman David Shawan asked that parking be prohibited on the north side of Maryland, fro mthe east corporation line to Parkview, from 3 to 6 p.m.

Council agreed that heavy traffic by motorists returning from work during the hours that Maryland School children use the street to return home was a hazard.

In recommending the four-way stop at Euclair and Mound, Mayor Schneider explained that records prove that there are very few accidents at intersections marked in this manner.

He cited the continuous right-turn arrow from Main-st onto College-av, being used by motorists to go south to Mound and then travel east, avoiding busy Main-st, as the cause for increased Mound-st traffic.

TRADITIONAL GIFT OF CAROLS

Capital Choir To Give Concerts

Free concerts at Christmastide is the seasonal gift to the community by the 96-voice Capital University Chapel Choir.

The much-traveled, internationally-acclaimed choir, conducted by Dr. Ellis Emmanuel Snyder, will perform in Mees Hall on the Capital campus at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 12, and at 3 and 8:30 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 13 at Veterans Memorial Building.

Tickets for all performances are free and may be ordered by writing Chapel Choir Office, Capital University, specifying the number of tickets and the performance. Free will offerings will be taken.

The group, founded by Dr. Snyder in 1928 and still directed by him, has sung before audiences throughout the United States, in Canada and overseas in the capitals of Europe and Asia.

This past summer the choir toured hospitals in Alaska, and presented concerts in Japan, Hong Kong and the Philippines, traveling more than 27,000 miles. And in August, the choir was invited to sing before more than 12,000 persons at the International Luther League convention in Detroit.

Singing is in a cappella style, in the sacred tradition, and the choir theme is "Soli Deo Gloria"—"To God Alone The Glory."

The choir features 15 first sopranos, 17 second sopranos, 12 first altos, 13 second altos, 12 first basses, 10 second basses, seven first tenors, and 12 second tenors.

Membership in the group is by competitive audition. Members call 13 states "home," and are planning to be tomorrow's pastors, teachers, scientists, doctors, speech therapists, parish workers, nurses and professional musicians.

Kiwanians Close Newspaper Sale

The three-day Christmas Newspaper sale, conducted by Eastern, Whitehall and Gahanna Kiwanis Clubs, started Tuesday, Dec. 1, will be concluded this evening.

Members will canvass East Columbus area homes, and proceeds from the sale will be used exclusively for Kiwanis welfare and community projects.

BEXLEY WELCOMES SANTA THIS SUNDAY

Community Christmas tree lighting, traditional start of the holiday season for Bexley, will be held Sunday, Dec. 6, 4 p.m. at the circle, E. Broad-st at Drexel-av.

Mayor William Schneider will light the tree, followed by the arrival of Santa, laden with candy treats for all the youngsters and prepared to lend an attentive ear to all their Christmas wishes.

Bexley High School Choir, accompanied by the school band ensemble and directed by Robert Myers, will sing Christmas favorites and join the crowd in carols.

Rev. Charles Lange, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, will give the invocation and present a brief Christmas message.

Bexley Celebrations Association is sponsor of the obervance, and committee chairman is Art Leach.

Consecration Set At Temple Tifereth

On Friday night and Saturday morning, Dec. 4 and 5, members of Congregation Tifereth Israel will participate in services dedicating the chapel, and pay tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Herman M. Katz for their part in making the chapel a reality.

In honor the occasion, Rabbi Simon Greenberg, vice chancellor of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, will occupy the pulpit, and the Tifereth Israel Choir will join Cantor Stanley Burstein in leading congregational singing.

SERVICES HELD WEEKLY

Sabbath services are held at Temple Tifereth Israel each Friday evening at 8 p.m. and Saturday mornings at 9:15 a.m. Rabbi Nathan Zelizer is the spiritual leader of the congregation and Cantor Stanley Burstein chants the traditional liturgy.

Members of the Tifereth Israel Men's Club will serve as ushers, and members of United Synagogue Youth will take care of checkroom facilities.

Rabbi Greenberg, a noted lecturer and scholar, will deliver the sermons on Friday night and Saturday morning. He has been a professor of education and professor of homiletics at the Jewish Theological Seminary since 1932.

Dr. Greenberg is a trustee and member of the executive committee of the Institute for Religious and Social Studies, and is a member of the executive committee of the Institute of Ethics. He is a Fellow of the Conference on Science, Philosophy and Religion, and a leader in its affairs.

He is the author of "Living as a Jew Today," "The Ideals and Values of the Jewish Prayer Book," "The Harishon Series" of text books for use in elementary Hebrew education and "The First Year in the Hebrew School," "A Teachers Guide," and a series of brochures on the "Conservative Movement in Judaism."

Katz, a past president of the congregation, has served as a member of the Board of Trustees since 1936. Among his other responsibilities, nationally and locally, Katz serves on the board of trustees and executive committee of Congregation Tifereth Israel, and is a member of board of overseers of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

Mrs. Katz has served as president of the Tifereth Israel Sisterhood, and is treasurer of the Sisterhood gift shop.

The chapel, used primarily for daily Minyanim (prayer meetings) is also utilized for youth services and small weddings.

Engel Will Bring Message To Dec. 6 Chanuka Festival

Chanukah, the festival of lights, will be observed at the Agudas Achim Synagogue, Sunday, Dec. 6, at 8 p.m.

Cantor P. H. Gellman will intone the benediction commemorating the religious observance. Sunday evening will mark the lighting of the eight candles of the Chanukah lights.

Dr. Izador L. Cabakoff, prominent concert artist, will render selections from the musical comedy "Milk and Honey." Accompanist will be Dorothy Kinsey.

During this season the Jewish people customarily seek to learn more about their brethren who live in the lands of darkness. It is the time when they express their thankfulness to God for His gifts.

Sidney Engel, director of the Joint Distribution Committee operations in Iran, will bring the message of the plight of the Jewish people in underdeveloped countries.

Mr. Engel served on the staff of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees from 1960 to 1962. He has also served with the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration in Geneva and as chief of public information.

Hostesses at the social hour following the program include Mrs. Albert Bein, Mrs. Robert Freedman, Mrs. Martin Keller and Mrs. Al Rudnick.

SOUTHEAST LIONS ARE ROARING TO GO

PROWLING THE STREETS between Livingston-av and Williams-rd and the Big Walnut Creek and the Scioto River this Friday evening from 6 until 10 p.m. will be an army, 400 strong, of Southeast Lions and their helpers, all turned paper boys. The occasion will be the 15th annual sale of the "Southeast Lions Roar," the newspaper which supports the community projects of "The Club That Gets Things Done." Since its beginning, the Roar has enabled the club to complete 230 school and community projects, valued at $139,800. The Lions ask that families who want to help the Lions make the Southeast community a better place to live turn their porch lights on Friday evening, and a Lion will be at your door, with a "Roar" and a smile. Above are shown only a handful of the Lions who will be on the loose on the big night. In the back, from the left, are John Marshall, John Sweeney, Dave Wood, Howard Storch and Dick Poenisch. In the front row are W. E. Cooke, Jr., Robert Aispach, Paul Frebis, Tom Quick, Walter Carlyle and Oscar Wiechers.

JOAN SOUDER TO BE BRIDE OF MR. MORROW

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Joan Shirley Souder is being made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence D. Souder, 3814 Mann-rd, Blacklick. Her fiance is Mr. Richard Eugene Morrow, son of Mr. Joseph Morrow, 80 E. Longview, Columbus.

Miss Souder is a graduate of Gahanna Lincoln High School. She studied German and drama at the University of Vienna, Vienna, Austria, this summer and is now a German major at Otterbein College and a member of Tau Epsilon Mu sorority.

Mr. Morrow, a graduate of Bexley High School, is a physical education major at Otterbein and a member of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity. Both will graduate in June.

An open church wedding is being planned for Sunday, Dec. 20, at Mifflin Presbyterian Church. Rev. Donald Swift will officiate.

Of interest to Women

By JANET MICHAEL

MISS JOAN SHIRLEY SOUDER

IT MAKES NO difference how early one starts preparing for a smorgasbord—there are always last minute details to be worked out. Making a check list of foodstuffs are, from left, Mrs. Robert Scheuneman, Mrs. Richard McAllister, Mrs. Floyd R. Cullman, Jr., and Mrs. Raymond Uhl.

SCOTTWOOD SCURRIES FOR DEC. 5 SMORGASBORD

By SHIRLEY BRIGGS

As any woman will tell you, each dish of food featured at a church buffet or smorgasbord involves untold recipe research, numerous trips to the supermarket, countless telephone calls, a frantic search for the right cooking utensil, and finally, extensive last-minute improvisions to assure that the celebrated dish stays hot until serving time.

This scene will be repeated many times by the Women's Association of Scottwood Community Church as they prepare for their Chritmas Buffet and Bazaar to be held Saturday, Dec. 5, from 4 to 7:30 p.m. In charge of the event is Mrs. Robert Kirschner, 78 N. Everett-av, assisted by co-chairmen, Mrs. C. R. Houck, 3519 Scottwood-rd, and Mrs. Maurice Core, 4170 Etna-rd, who promise a wide variety of traditional foods on the menu. Included will be roast turkey, roast beef, holiday ham, plus innumerable salad, side dishes, and desserts.

Mrs. Richard Heintz, 751 Kingsbury-pl., president of the association, stated that a special feature this year is the "Christmas Pastry Counter," where unusual baked goods may be purchased, complete with a time-honored and signed recipe from the expert who prepared the pastry.

So that guests need not stand in long lines while waiting to be served, they will be given numbers as they arrive, and can be seated until called, or browse at the bazaar for various gift items and decorations offered by the Women's Circles. Parents will receive assistance in carrying food-laden plates for young children. Reservations may be obtained by calling ticket chairman, Mrs. Ray Allen, HU, 8-7126.

Board Adds 25 Members

In the pre-holiday atmosphere, members of Women's Juvenile Service Sustaining Board IV gathered Dec. 2 at home of Mrs. Raymond Bethel, 3177 Dale-av. Twenty-five new members were welcomed to the group.

New members include: Mrs. George P. Smith, Mrs. Michael Traphaggen, Mrs. Samuel E. Crockett, Mrs. John LaMonte, Mrs. David Selby, Mrs. Jerry, Campbell, Mrs. David Evans, Mrs. William Albershardt.

Mrs. Ronald Rardon, Mrs. James E. Elliott, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Thomas Cavendish, Mrs. John M. Sesler, Mrs. J. Richard Bull, Mrs. George P. Smith, Mrs. G. B. Taylor.

Mrs. David Carruthers, Mrs. Philip B. Drake, Mrs. Joseph Berwanger, Mrs. Frank C. Dunbar, Jr., Mrs. William Lewis, Mrs. Walter Hamilton, Mrs. Sidney Foster, Mrs. Walter B. Cook and Mrs. David Cook.

NEW LOW PRICED HEARING AMPLIFIER PERFECTED

Hearing is rapidly becoming the most neglected of the senses. Thousands of Ohioans having sub-normal hearing live with mounting strain and tension because they cannot afford expensive aids.

A PERSONAL AMPLIFIER has just been perfected that offers new hope to these people. Designed for those who can hear when sounds are louder and for those who can hear but do not always understand, this tiny compact unit can provide the help people need to live full active lives. Weighing only a third of an ounce, this amazing electronic marvel hides behind the ear. Space-age techniques make it possible to offer the PERSONAL AMPLIFIER at a very small fraction of the cost of a hearing aid.

Three Youths Earn Eagle Scout Status

Three area Scouts will receive their Eagle badges at an Eagle Court of Honor, held by Boy Scout Troop 234 and Explorer Post 234 of Christ Lutheran Church, Friday, Dec. 4, at Jeffrey Mansion in Bexley.

Slated to receive scouting's highest honor are Scout Frederick L. Moore, and Explorer Scouts Roger Masten and Bruce Honts. All three are members of the Order Of The Arrow, camping honorary.

Dr. Harold L. Yochum, president of Capital University, will make the presentations, and guest speaker will be Brig. Gen. Robert H. Strauss, 801st Air Division Commander, Lockbourne Air Force Base, since August, 1963.

Frederick L. Moore, 14, son of Maj. (Ret. USAF) and Mrs. Frederick J. Moore, 2921 Astor-av, is in the ninth grade at Columbus Academy where he is a high honor student, is secretary-treasurer of the freshman class, and was on the freshman football team this year.

Brig. Gen. Strauss

He won the Acheson H. Callaghan Scholarship Award in the Lower School at the Academy, and the English composition prize given by Mrs. Henry Nelson Rose last June when he was graduated from the Middle School at the Academy.

He hopes to become a nuclear physicist. Fred has been active in Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts for six years.

Roger Masten, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Masten of 529 S. James-rd, is secretary of his Explorer Post, has earned 21 merit badges, and the Pro Deo et Patria Lutheran Religious award for Scouts.

He is a senior at Eastmoor High School where he is a member of Masquers Club and is active in music groups. He is interested in a career in radio and television.

Bruce Honts, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Earle of 2473 Seneca Park-pl, is a junior at Bexley High.

He is a member of the swimming team and French Club at school, and is an acolyte at St. Alban's Episcopal Church.

Bruce started in Boy Scouting in Fort Worth, Tex., is president of the Explorer Post, and past treasurer of the post.

He hopes to enter the Air Force Academy and follow a career in the Air Force, as did his late father who was an Air Force test pilot.

The A. B. Honts Award is established at Edwards AF Flight Test School in honor of his father.

Lions' Roar

By MIMI DEATON

Congratulations to Arlos Shultz and Bill Salt who were WCOL's students of the week last week.

Arlos is secretary of the Student Council, member of the Homecoming Court, and has a 3.9 average. Bill is captain of the basketball team and has a 3.75 scholastic average.

Both Bill and Arlos are seniors and members of National Honor Society. They will each receive a $25 savings bond.

Dave Herwald, junior, recently received the Most Improved Player award at the football banquet. Dave and Woody Jones will be co-captains of next year's team.

Susan Brock and Debbie Greene's names were drawn as recipients of gift certificates from the University Shop at the "Happiness Is A Holiday Wardrobe" Girls' Athletic Club fashion show. Susan's gift certificate was for $25 and Debbie's for $10.

Members of Pep Club have formed a special cheering section for basketball games. Pep Club officers are Marilyn Glick, president; Peggy Hoyer, vice-president, and Sandy Erkis, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the cabinet are Kathy Bellingham, Karen Birch, Sue Blose, Patty Buker, Jayne Dinkelaker, Nancy Glick, Carol Godofsky, Molly Greiner, Margaret Ingalls, Ellen Williams, Wendy Clawson and Debby Harbold.

Boys' Athletic Association has started winter sports. Table tennis, headed by Bill Krakoff and Mark Landsman; basketball, led by Steve Samuels and Dan Sharkey, and riflery, headed by Jim Daughtry and Eric Robinson, begin this week.

Square dancing is a new noon-time activity sponsored by BAA and GAC. Russel Boring, biology and modern science teacher, will be the caller. Jennifer Harr, Betsy Frampton and Phil Dirschnitt are the sport heads.

French Club held a French buffet dinner for members last week.

"Sycamores in Winter" is the second painting borrowed from the Columbus Art Gallery's lending library, and is displayed in the lounge by the Art Club. Jody Marx and Myrna Jones chose the painting.

The artist is Robert Landrum, a construction worker and resident of Columbus, who used a "dark upon light technique." The oil painting is valued at $75.

Chile has three television stations.

delivered to National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) officials for study. Prime consideration in this unmanned test is Gemini's capacity to carry two men into space and return them safely.

Intrepid's retrieval method of the Gemini capsule — devised by the carrier during Scott Carpenter's recovery in 1962 and perfected by the ship during a test last March — involves search aircraft, Underwater Demolition Team (UDT) swimmers and a motor whaleboat.

During last March's practice operations, Dr. D. E. Stullken of NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., said the reason Intrepid is used in capsule retrievals "rests in the ready availability of necessary recovery gear found on board."

In addition, the six Columbus Navy men help make up a crew selected because of their in-being technical capacity for accomplishment of the mission, NASA officials stated.

Groups Will 'Sit In'

Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, one of the leaders in the fight to block the SCD plans for flood control and water supply, said that the city would be represented in hearings at the regular legislative session. Other interested local groups, including the Development Committee for Greater Columbus, Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce and League of Women Voters of Columbus, have indicated that they will testify or be available for committee hearings prior to legislative action.

Two of the prime proposals in the SCD plan, Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects, are now planned for construction by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Funds for start of project planning are reportedly included in President Lyndon B. Johnson's 1965 budget message to Congress in January.

A local delegation from government, business and civic groups is scheduled to travel to Washington early in 1965 for Congressional hearings on the requested funds.

The SCD, meanwhile, has announced that its office and staff will be "de-activated." Arrangements are being made for storage of equipment and terminating of the office lease agreement. A gradual staff reduction has been in process since withdrawal of the SCD appraisal record.

Only two of the original six-member staff remain. They are Richard E. Midden, secretary-treasurer, and Harry H. Turner, Jr., chief engineer. Their employment will terminate with closing of the office, expected late in December or early in January.

Twyford—

portionate, arbitrary and discriminatory.

Contributes Heavily

Twyford pointed out that 99 percent of the Reynoldsburg work force is employed in Columbus, and estimated that Reynoldsburg residents contribute about $250,000 annually in income tax. He contrasted this to a total annual operating budget for Reynoldsburg of only $500,000.

"This heavy imbalance," he said, "is more typical than unique of the problems faced by suburban communities when the "core" city imposes a city income tax.

"The real shame," he continued, "is that the legislature is considering a measure that could further damage the financial stability of suburban communities, rather than to correct this serious problem."

Mayor Twyford directed a specific challenge to Franklin County members of the Ohio General Assembly.

"Our state legislators were elected to represent all of Franklin County — not just Columbus," he commented. "If they fail to meet their responsibilities to residents of suburban communities, they are not effective representatives, and should be replaced.

"We who are concerned with the problems of our suburban communities are not asking favoritism; we are asking that our citizens be given equal consideration in laws affecting orderly growth and financial stability. If either the "core" city or the suburban community is the special benefiter or victim of legislation, the whole metropolitan area will suffer as a result."

Twyford said he would continue to press Franklin County's state delegation for action on tax reform legislation, and would welcome the support of any individuals or groups in working toward such legislation.

Warriors' Spear-It

By MARCIA BRUCE and JOYCE FINKE

Ralph Williams, 1964 graduate of Eastmoor, has been awarded first prize and $500 in Seventeen magzine's annual international art contest. Ralph's painting, "The Beginning," will appear in the January 1965, issue of Seventeen.

Ralph competed with 500 entrants to achieve first place. The 231 finalists were chosen to illustrate top stories for the magazine's annual short story contest.

Ralph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams. He lives at 72 N. Washington-av and his ambition is to become a commercial artist.

Annual PTA program will be held Tuesday, Dec. 8, 8 p.m., and will include vignettes, humorous and serious.

Students participating will come from the dramatics and radio-speech classes, and Senior Choir will sing several Christmas selections.

During Christmas vacation, Eastmoor's basketball team will play at Akron-North on Jan. 2. A chartered bus is scheduled to take students who wish to see the game, at $4.75 per student. This includes transportation both ways, and the ticket to the game.

Senior Choir will participate in the high school choral festival Sunday, Dec. 13, at Central High School, at 2:30 p.m.

The following evening, Dec. 14, the choir will go to Northland Shopping Center to sing Christmas Carols.

Students' Christmas program will be presented on Dec. 23 in the school auditorium. Senior Choir will entertain.

WHITEHALL Recreation Center

DANCES

Teenage dances will be held this coming weekend at the Whitehall Municipal Building, for junior high Friday, 7 to 10 p.m., and senior high Saturday, 7 to 10 p.m.

Everybody must have a membership card, which may be picked up at the Municipal Building Monday through Friday, 3 to 5 p.m., and Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, 7 to 9.

ADULT MEN

Adult Men's basketball leagues play at Rosemore Junior High on Tuesday evening, and East Main Street on Wednesday evening. Both have been filled with eight teams.

SENIOR BOYS

Edward Metzger is still looking for boys in the seventh through 12th grades for basketball. There are four teams, playing every Wednesday at Whitehall from 7 to 10 p.m.

JUNIOR BOYS

Junior Boys' basketball league will get under way the second week of December. Boys who are in the seventh and eighth grades should report to Donald Sapp on Wednesday at Rosemore Junior High, 7 to 10 p.m.

GIRLS' RECREATION

The Searchers' volleyball team defeated the Unscorables two games Tuesday evening, 15-11 and 15-6.

In the first game, Teresa Pickens was high scorer for the Searchers with four points and Joyce Hillicond next with three points. The Unscorables were led by Linda Ludwig with five points and Pam Steward with four points.

In the second game, Bonnie Bryan had four points and Deane Burgess three for the Searchers, and Mary Kay Gilmore was high for the Unscorables with three points.

Volleyball will continue along with relays, basketball and trampoline. Kickball will be started in the near future.

ADULT WOMEN

Adult Women's Recreation program will continue tonight with exercise, volleyball and trampoline. All Whitehall women are invited.

SATURDAY MORNING

Boys and girls who are in the seventh through 12th grades may report to Charles Nielsen Saturday mornings at Rosemore Junior High. Tumbling, basketball and group games are available.

At Whitehall Yearling High School, boys and girls in the first through sixth grades may report to Edward Metzger and Gary Walter for elementary recreation. Programs under way are trampoline, tumbling, relays and group games, 9 a.m. to noon.

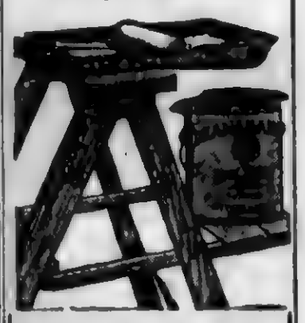
SENIOR CITIZENS

Tonight, Senior Citizens will meet at the Senior Citizen Building at 7, and will have a nomination for officers. Anyone 55 years and over, living in Whitehall, may join the group.

ELEMENTARY

Elementary recreation is held in five schools throughout the week:

Beechwood, Monday, 3 to 5; Etna Road, Tuesday, 3:15 to 5:15; Rae Avenue, Wednesday, 3 to 5; East Broad Street, Thursday, 3:15 to 5:15, and Holy Spirit, Friday, 4 to 6.



The program is for children who attend these schools.

What do big heating bills, wobbly furniture legs, dying plants and colds have in common?
All of these (and other) problems are often related to ultra-dry air caused by winter heating. Ultra-dry air makes furniture shrink until it splits out of its joints and collapses. It kills fragile plant life. Ultra-dry air makes some people feel cold at 72 degrees and turn up the heat to feel warmer. Some medical authorities state that this condition can lead to colds, sinus and asthmatic attacks. A Walton Humidifier corrects these hazards by restoring vital life-supporting moisture to indoor atmosphere.
Ruggedly constructed and tooled to very fine tolerances, every Walton Humidifier is built to provide a lifetime of dependable performance. Designed and made so well, it carries a Double Warranty. Outright replacement of the operating unit if it fails to operate plus a new Double Warranty...plus the usual coverage on parts. It's no wonder why Walton is called the "No. 1 Leader in the Humidification Industry."

A HARTLEY NEWSPAPER

PAGE 1 — Thursday, Dec. 3, 1964

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

Another Committee Is Developed

An interesting news story this past week relates that the mayor has named a Citizens For Good Government Committee, to study the city's government with the purpose of seeking efficiency and economy.

Paul Langdon of Battelle has been named chairman and the roster of members reads like "Who's Who In Columbus."

So far so good. The assignment is a good one and the committee has an abundance of talent. There is little doubt that such a committee can and will come up with some very fine recommendations.

But the first recommendation should be one whereby the committee resolves from the beginning that they will see their job through. This means that after the recommendations are presented someone needs to stay on the job and insist that their findings be utilized.

Columbus and Franklin County has had a remarkable contribution from laymen of the area who have given of their time and energy making investigations, surveys and recommendations. But so many times their efforts are for naught. This happens when the report is handed in and the committee moves off.

A good example was the recommendation of the Development Committee which called for a "cost of service" report for the city water and sewer departments.

Results of the Sawvel report are well known. The committee that originally asked for the report would perhaps be the first to admit that it served no worthwhile purpose and did not provide the information originally sought.

There is every reason to believe the status of the Scioto Conservancy District today would be different had the group of business people who were originally responsible for bringing the group into being been kept informed on the progress of the flood control plan. Instead the efforts of the conservancy group went into a plan that didn't have a snowball's chance in Hades. Now we are almost back where we started and already two groups of volunteer laymen are studying the problem rather than one.

Many business and professional men and women who serve on such committees later have to admit in disgust that their efforts amounted to nothing because the organization conducting the project did not keep in touch with the recommendation after it was made.

There is a real need for the new Good Government Committee.

Their first and last recommendation, however, should be a determination to insist

IT WAS dress rehearsal for Columbus sailors last March as the aircraft carrier Intrepid practiced recovery of the Gemini space capsule. They'll try it for real next Monday or Tuesday when the 4,800-pound capsule is launched from Cape Kennedy. Intrepid is the ship that retreived Scott Carpenter in 1962.

Seven Local Men To Take Part In Recovery Of Gemini Capsule

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Spectator Staff Correspondent

Seven Columbus area sailors are steaming some 2,000 miles down the Atlantic missile test range this week to participate in an unmanned sub-orbital Gemini space shot.

The lucky seven are members of the anti-submarine warfare support carrier USS Intrepid, primary recovery ship for the Gemini launch, which is expected to be fired Monday or Tuesday, Dec. 7, 8, from Cape Kennedy.

The men are:

Ronald Detamore, seaman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Detamore of 1243 Striebel-rd.

Kenneth Woodyard, seaman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Woodyard of 543 Glenmont-av.

Richard Lenhart, electronics technician master chief, son of Mrs. Anna Lenhart of 1459 Whittier-st.

Ronald Reed, inter-communications technician second class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reed of 5511 Satinwood-dr.

Edward Wyman, seaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Wyman of 1017 Lockbourne-rd.

David Morris, personnelman third class, son of Mr. and Mrs H. V. Morris of 1790 Cambridge-blvd.

Jon Sagester, photographer's mate second class, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Sagester, formerly of 27 Linwood-av.

Sagester is a crew member of embarked Helicopter Squadron Seven while the other six are stationed aboard the Intrepid. He is a 1954 South High graduate and attended Ohio State University.

Detamore is the husband of the former Shirley Cuahonte of 630 Robinwood-av, Whitehall, and is a graduate of East High. The other married member of the seven is Chief Lenhart, husband of the former Ilene P. Browne of 795 Stelzer-rd.

En route to the recovery area, the Intrepid is now engaging in anti-submarine warfare operations.

At the recovery site, the Columbus men will aid in picking up the 4,800-pound Gemini capsule, which will be fired from Cape Kennedy atop a Titan-2 missile.

Though unmanned this time, the capsule will carry two American astronauts into space early next year. The Intrepid is expected to take part in that recovery, too, according to Naval officials.

Before returning to homeport Norfolk, Va., next month, the unmanned capsule will be

VOWS TO FIGHT FOR REFORM IN 1965

Twyford Hits 'City Tax' Measure In Legislature

By FRANK RYAN

Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford fired a double volley Wednesday in his virtual one-man campaign, locally, to secure city income tax reform legislation.

He condemned a bill scheduled for passage this week by the legislative special session convened by Governor James A. Rhodes. He termed the measure a further incentive to "core" cities, such as Columbus, to place "an even heavier tax burden on residents of suburban communities who must travel to the core city to earn their living."

The proposed legislation would ease the path for cities wishing to raise income tax rates beyond one percent.

Twyford

Twyford, who is an attorney, also announced plans to join forces with the Association for Equitable Taxation, a Cuyahoga Falls group formed to fight for reform legislation. The AET was formed after Akron voters approved a one percent city income tax. Most of the Cuyahoga Falls work force is employed in Akron.

Both Twyford and AET favor legislation which would prevent collection of a city income tax from non-residents of the taxing district. But Twyford has indicated that he would settle for a less stringent measure, such as mandatory reciprocity between taxing districts. Uuder such a proposal the taxpayer's city of residence would receive the tax payment, assuming an equal tax rate between the two cities is involved.

Another suggested alternative would require the taxing district to return a percentage of revenues collected from non-residents to their "home" communities.

'Cause Further Imbalance'

Twyford said the measure being considered by the "lame duck" session of the General Assembly would only further aggravate a serious imbalance of taxing authority between the "core" city and its suburban communities.

The bill under consideration (House Bill 21) would eliminate existing requirements calling for 55 and 60 percent majorities for passage of income tax rates in excess of one percent. State statutes now require a 55 percent majority of votes cast if such a measure is presented at a general election, and a 60 percent margin if voted on at a primary or special election.

The bill was included in measures presented by Gov. Rhodes for consideration by the state lawmakers. It was introduced by Cuyahoga County Representative William W. Taft to the House Committee on Metropolitan Areas. Taft is chairman of the committee in the present session, but he will not return to the legislature in the next (1965) session. Taft lost a November election bid to the state senate from Cuyahoga County.

The Taft bill was sponsored by the Ohio Municipal League at the request of Toledo city officials who have failed in several attempts to raise that city's income tax beyond one percent.

OML Not Committed

An Ohio Municipal League spokesman said that sponsorship of the bill does not commit the group to opposing so-called reform legislation. He said the OML will take its stand on bills as they are presented to the legislature. To date, he continued, the OML has not taken an "official" stand for or against changes in Ohio laws governing city income tax legislation.

The OML membership includes both "core" cities and suburban communities. The city income tax issue has caused some consternation among suburban officials, who charge that the OML actions to date indicate that the group will side with the "big" cities.

Twyford best explained this feeling by saying: "In effect, we are paying dues to an organization which is working against our best interests in a major area of concern." He pointed out that OML membership fees are paid on the basis of population of the member city.

The Reynoldsburg mayor has previously conceded that there is an inter-dependence between Columbus and the suburban communities. Columbus, he said, is a prime source of employment, but the suburbs furnish the equally important work force. Twyford has said that he does not object, in principle, to Columbus collecting a "service" tax from non-residents who work within the city. But the amount, he says, is dispro-

REP. HOLMES SAYS:

Added Conservancy Measure Is Needed

Ohio Legislators are expected to act favorably this week on a bill revising the state's Conservancy Act. But the measure will have relatively little effect on local proposals for more drastic changes in laws governing the scope and operation of conservancy districts.

Sponsor of legislation being considered by the current special session of Ohio lawmakers is Franklin County Representative Robert E. Holmes. He told The Spectator on Monday that his proposal is of an emergency nature, intended to clear serious impediments to programs authorized by the Miami and Muskingum Conservancy flood control districts.

These two districts were caught in a financial "bind" when court action instituted against the Scioto Conservancy District jeopardized bonds authorized for capital improvements. A noted Cleveland bond counseling firm prepared the basic legislation required to assure bonding for the projects.

Holmes said that the original bill (House Bill 19) has been amended to meet some specific requests presented by Chillicothe representatives of the East Side Civic Improvement Association and the Chamber of Commerce.

Chillicotheans Concerned

These two groups from Chillicothe apparently were the only groups within the Scioto Conservancy District to visit committee hearing on the emergency measure. The East Side Civic Association was a prime source of Chillicothe organized objections to adoption of the SCD plan for district flood control projects.

The appraisal record filed by the SCD was withdrawn from the conversancy court following an avalanche of objections from property owners who were to be assessed.

Columbus city council authorized the filing of court action challenging the SCD proposal, and subsequently passed a resolution calling for legislative action to revamp state conservancy statutes.

The present legislative proposal does not contain the major changes Holmes hopes to present to the next regular session of the General Assembly which convenes in January. Holmes said he will await a report being compiled by the Legislative Service Commission before introducing them.

Outlines Changes

The amendments to the emergency proposal cover some of the objections raised in connection with the ill-fated SCD plan, Holmes said. He said the bill calls for an increase from the present 10 days to 30 days for the filing of protests to any appraisal record filed by a conservancy district. The method of notifying affected property owners is also changed in HB 19, supplementing the present notice-by-legal-advertising method with a mailed notice.

Under HB 19, conservancy districts would be required to include in the notice to property owners such information as description of property affected, parcel numbers, owner's name and address and information relating to the amount of appraisals.

Holmes said that plans for further changes during the 1965 legislative session would include even more basic elements of conservancy law scope and procedure. Chief among those will be a formula

Santa's Twinkle Brightens Christmas Kickoff Parade

By TED BEARDSHEAR

Something magic happened last Sunday.

One could see it in the children's eyes as miles of humanity amassed on High-st to welcome a jolly, fat man in a red suit.

Santa arrived in Columbus during the annual Lazarus parade.

One may have to park upstairs at the Port Columbus terminal parking lot in the next few years.

A consultant is studying the addition of a second deck at the request of the Airport Commission.

Trouble again erupted for the Ohio Youth Commission at the Training Institute, Central Ohio, 2130 W. Broad-st, a maximum security institution for the worst of the state's delinquent boys.

Some 25 cottage leaders at TICO "walked out" by reporting off sick to show disgust with Superintendent Anthony Catalino's projected policy of putting social workers in the cottages.

A spokesman said the move would reduce the status of cottage leaders to "inept, fumbling custodians."

The OYC halted the one-day demonstration by ordering the cottage parents back to work, under threat of suspension. Most reported to work, but the protesters face the loss of a day's pay.

The Juvenile Diagnostic Center, 2280 W. Broad-st, was not to be denied its share of the news.

Cottage parent Wayne Cox, 27, of 150½ N. Burgess-av, who suffered eye and chest injuries after being struck with a chair by a 14-year-old inmate at that institution, is expected to give his statement of the incident to OYC officials soon.

A report by inmates had the boy and the leader "squaring off" with the chairs as weapons.

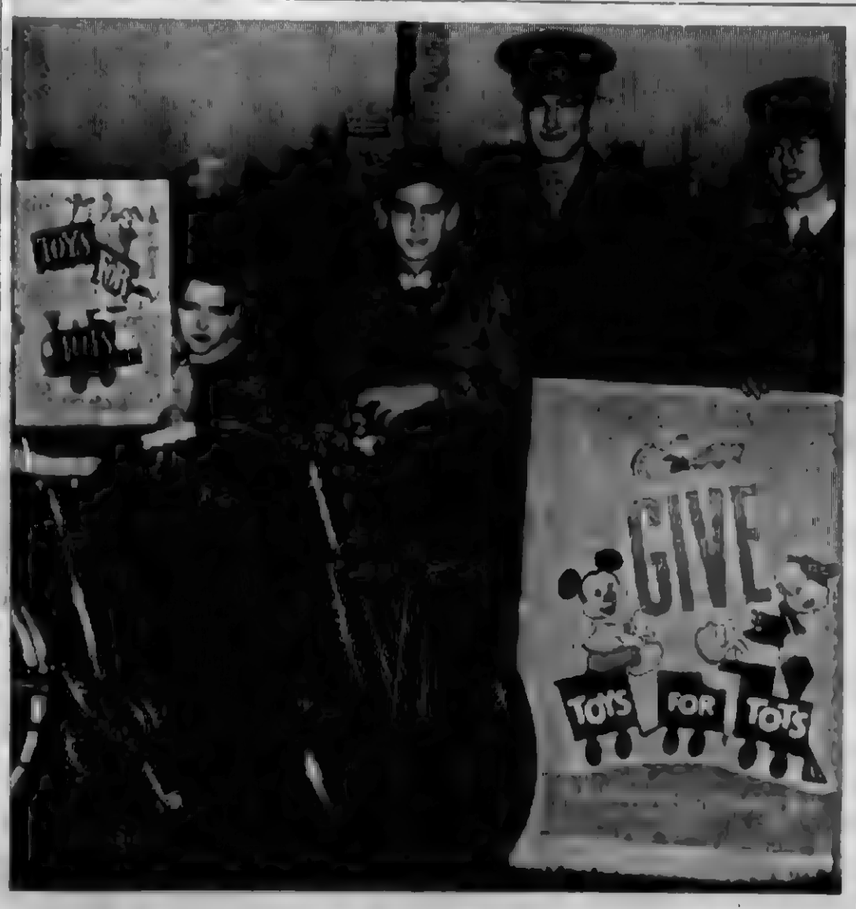
Law Bans 'Periscope Peeping'

How many of us, like the driver of the car at right, hurry off in the morning to beat the time clock, with only a periscope-size patch of vision scratched out on the windshield?



With the frost season at hand, and promises of snow and ice being drafted by our weather prophets, don't depend on that defroster to clear the windshield while you match fenders with the hurrying traffic.

Passing almost unnoticed in the news, City Council recently stamped approval on Ordinance No. 1208-64, affecting every driver operating a motor vehicle on Columbus streets.

The ordinance amends Section 2139.19 of the Columbus City Code, by adding the following subparagraph (c):

"Snow, Dirt, Frost and Moisture Removal. No person shall drive or operate any motor vehicle, trackless trolley or bus, whether or not equipped (with windshield wipers) . . . where the vision through the front windshield is obscured by dirt, rain, frost, snow or other moisture."

Under an already existing ordinance vision to the rear must also be maintained, either through the rear window or by means of an outside rear view mirror.

TO COLLECT 'TOYS FOR TOTS'

LOCAL MARINE Reservists with the assistance of the Boy Scouts will conduct their annual "Toys for Tots" collection throughout the county on Saturday, Dec. 5. Donate a new or usable toy when the Boy Scout calls Saturday and no child will be forgotten by St. Nick on Christmas morning.

'CHRISTMAS—THEN AND NOW' RECALLED

RECALLING THE DELIGHTFUL tradition of the holiday call with tea and conversation, members of the Maple Grove Women's Society, will reconstruct scenes beginning with the early 1800's. The annual Poinsettia Tea will take place Thursday, Dec. 10, 1:30 p.m. at the church and will feature costumes from Goodwill Industries. Acting out the 1910 holiday scene are from left: Mrs. Ed Bland, the visitor; Mrs. H. M. Schaal, hostess and the maid, Mrs. Paul Van Sweeringen. Tickets will be on sale at the door. Public is invited.

My wife's been after me to open a Christmas Club at City National. She says she wants her Santa Claus to be a banker.

Local Scenes To Be Shown In Faith Series

Three TV 4-produced documentaries, a trilogy, to further understanding of the three major faiths in the Columbus area, will be aired three Sundays in December at 1 p.m. These religious programs, with local participants, are the Catholic "The Novitiate" Dec. 6, the Protestant "A Church and Its Steeple" Dec. 13, and the Jewish "High Holy Days" Dec. 27.

"The Novitiate" answers the question 'What is it to become a Nun?" The answer comes as cameras trace the steps of a young girl as she enters St. Mary of the Springs to become a postulant, a novice, and finally a professed sister in the Dominican Order.

Technical advisors for the film were Sister Mary Elizabeth Seton and Sister Charles Anne. The entire film was made at St. Mary of the Springs.

"The Church and Its Steeple," Dec. 13, looks into the activities and life of a suburban community Protestant church in Dublin, O.

Narrator Hugh DeMoss talks with Rev. Robert Morgan, pastor of Dublin Community Church, to learn of the relationship between the minister and his congregation.

In "High Holy Days," Dec. 20, the cameras follow Rabbi Nuthan Zeltzer, rabbi of Temple Tifereth Israel, through the high holy days of the Jewish new year observance.

SO THAT THE PUBLIC will know who benefits from the Olympus Charity Ball, the Spectator camera visited Mohawk School and snapped this picture in the deaf classroom. In the foreground is Jerry Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, 1089 Bellflower-av. Jerry is just one of many students helped by this league. At the desk is Jerry's teacher, Mrs. C. W. Seelenbinder, conferring with league members Mrs. Robert H. Day and Mrs. A. J. Bellar, Jr.

OLYMPUS HOLIDAY BALL TO AID DEAF CHILDREN

Glittering gold Christmas trees and holly will adorn the ballroom of the Columbus Athletic Club for the 21st annual Holiday Ball, sponsored by the Olympus Charity League.

The 28 members of the league have secured the Jerry Kaye Orchestra for the Saturday, Dec. 5, event from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m.

Proceeds from the ball, which is the league's major fund raising event, help to furnish and maintain hearing aids and special equipment for the deaf and hard-of-hearing children in five Columbus schools. There are two classes at Mohawk, five at Kingswood, one at Ninth Avenue, six at Indianola and two at Broadleigh.

Since 1943, this group has also been the only major contributor to "SCHAF"—Special Child Hearing Aid Fund. The committee for "SCHAF" is represented by members from the Olympus Charity League, representatives of the Columbus Hearing and Speech Center and teachers and parents of the handicapped children. Mrs. Robert Day, president of the league is serving as chairman of "SCHAF." Other members are Mrs. George S. Fitzgerald, chairman of the ball, and Mrs. John E. Arthur, past president of the league.

Anyone wishing to contribute to this project may do so by mailing a check to: The Olympus Charity League, P.O. Box 5832, Columbus 12, O.

Tickets to the ball may be purchased from the following members:

Mrs. George S. Fitzgerald, Mrs. George Scully, Mrs. Carl Justice, Mrs. A. W. Flesch, Mrs. William Baer, Mrs. James Jentgen, Mrs. Robert [illegible]nes, Mrs. A. J. Bellar, Jr., Mrs. Norman Matson, Mrs. C. J. Adams, Mrs. William Sheaf, Mrs. Stanley H. Willer, Mrs. Robert Mauger, Mrs. Raymond Bethel, Mrs. Jack L. Wallace.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Tips For Planning December's Menus Given

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Meat, Poultry — Beef "specials," pork loins and shoulder roasts, ground beef, fresh pork sausage, bacon, medium Grade A eggs.

Vegetables — Potatoes, celery, leaf lettuce, broccoli, turnips.

Fruits — Ohio apples, grapefruit, Florida oranges, [illegible].

Other — Cheese, frozen and canned vegetable "specials," peanut butter.

Turkeys, peanuts and peanut products top the U.S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods for December.

Add to these apples, red tart cherries, cranberries, broiler-fryers and beef and you have a wide assortment of foods that reads like a holiday menu.

Mrs. Franks

It's always good news to know that turkeys will be plentiful for Christmas and New Year's dinner. Prices shouldn't be much, if any, higher than those at Thanksgiving, according to poultry economists at the Ohio State University. However, they say that locally produced turkeys, marketed unfrozen, are likely to be priced somewhat higher than in November; frozen turkeys will sell at about the same price.

In the meantime you can enjoy beef, pork and chicken —all in such good supply that they must be competitively priced. Beef marketings this fall will set a new record. Weather may handicap the flow of livestock to market, as it always does in winter months, but supplies will be well above those of a year earlier.

This is still high season for pork. Retailers will give emphasis to pork loin and shoulder cuts but sausage, bacon, spareribs and hams will come in for their share. Broiler-fryers are expected to continue plentiful for December — and at attractive retail prices.

Apples, cranberries and citrus are the most abundant fresh fruits — as well as the most popular at this time of year. Winesaps and Romes are leading the apple varieties now but we know of no common variety that is scarce.

Florida and Texas citrus are making a comeback. The 1964-65 crop will show a marked recovery from the freeze of 1962. Tangerines and tangelos become more plentiful as we approach Christmas, and quality better. California oranges are one crop that benefited from the heavy rains in November. Oranges that were already big could not be harvested and grew bigger.

A record large red tart cherry crop plus a record large pack of frozen cherries will put cherries, cherries, and more cherries on the market. When you finish eating cherry pie, there are plenty of nuts for nibbling. All tree nut supplies are good except pecan and they are not really scarce. As for peanuts and peanut products, the crop is large; so are current holdings.

Root vegetables, squash and members of the cabbage family provide economy at this season. California celery and Ohio greenhouse lettuce and tomatoes are salad items being harvested in volume. For a special treat, don't forget that fresh mushrooms are in peak supply and quality highest in December.

'GOOD NEIGHBOR BANKER...'

EVERETT D. REESE, in a moment of surprise, received the "Outstanding Citizen" plaque and a roomful of praise from the Central Ohio Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America at a Nov. 19 luncheon at the Athletic Club. Herbert Flint, (right) chapter president, presents the award. Reese, who is chairman of the board of City National Bank and affiliated with many other local businesses and institutions, was cited as a "practitioner of public relations in its highest form." Legion Area Wins Award

The 12th District Council, Franklin County, was awarded the "Brown Jug," the Ohio American Legion membership award, in special ceremonies at Veterans Memorial last week.

The 24 Franklin County Legion Posts turned in the highest percentage of quota as of Nov. 17 in the state contest. The local district which obtained 86 percent totaling 4500 members, was in competition with 14 other districts in the state.

Another state award, the "Flying Express" trophy was presented to Franklin Post Commander James C. Kelly. Other Posts receiving awards were: Lazelle Post 411; Memorial Post 614; Paschall Post 164; A. L. Brooks Post 157; Leasure Blackston Post 239; Paul D. Robinson Post 567; Young-Budd Post 171 and Raymond Scott Post 182.

Free Driver Test Class Scheduled

A class to give applicants for temporary driving licenses a better preparation for their examinations will be held Saturday, Dec. 5, by the Columbus Automobile Club's Driver Training School.

The free class will be held in the Southern Hotel, from 1 to 3 p.m. The class is open to new drivers over 16 years of age, and new residents of Ohio having out-of-state licenses, who now seek Ohio driver's licences.

Advance registration is not necessary.

Overseas Calls To Servicemen Contest Slated

In cooperation with the USO, Local 4310 of the Communications Workers of America is sponsoring 10 free overseas telephone calls in the union's eighth annual "Hi Mom" program.

Audrey I. Beerman, president of Local 4310, said anyone with a son or daughter stationed overseas is eligible to receive one of the free calls.

To be eligible, the person wanting to call overseas should write in 25 words or less his or her reasons for wanting to make the call. Letters should be in the hands of Bill Robinson of radio station WMNI, Southern Hotel, Columbus by midnight, Dec. 5.

Judging will be by members of the USO Council of Columbus.

Delaware Dam Discharge Rate Is Decreased

It is reported that Delaware Dam north of Columbus was discharging water at an increased rate in order to draw the reservoir pool down to elevation 910 by this past Tuesday, Dec. 1.

Col. Harrington W. Cochran, head of the Huntington District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said the lake was to be lowered five feet below the recreation level in order to increase flood storage capacity for run-off from winter storms.

It was also reported by Col. Cochran that during the summer dry season Delaware Dam was operated to augment the low natural flow in the Olentangy River in order to sustain the quality of water in the river for fish protection, and for human and industrial consumption.

The low-flow discharge varied from 10 to 40 cubic feet per second, and was carried out between July 1 and Sept. 20.

Americans spend about $40 billion yearly on recreation.

Under Buckeye Skies

Guide . . .

By KEN MACK McCREARY

For Buckeyeland deer gunners, THIS IS IT — today and tomorrow constitute the 1964 season for white-tailed deer. Thousands of nimrods have long-waited this brief chance to bag a doe or buck with shotgun loaded with rifled slug.

Ken McCreary

Realizing that these hunters have spent long hours preparing themselves to make the most of their opportunity, we have put countless hours of research into a handy little field guide which will assist you in sorting out the critter and getting him (or her) in your sights.

IF YOU follow this key faithfully, chances are (1) you'll get a shot; or (2) by the time you figure it out, the deer will be gone and you'll be so confused you won't much care. We sugest you tape this guide to your gun stock for rapid reference.

All set? Well, just start at the top and work your way through it (observantly and carefully, of course):

I. A. The creature walks on its back legs; It ain't a deer; forget it! B. The creature is flying: It's probably no deer, unless it's falling off a cliff. Watch and see what happens when it hits before preceeding. C. The animal walks on its four legs: It could be a deer. Proceed to step II.

II. A. The critter is bright red and has short, fat legs: It ain't a deer, forget it. B. You're bright red and have short fat legs: You're not a deer, but you're sunburned and need more exercise. C. The creature is NOT bright red, and has long, relatively thin legs: It might be a deer. Move on to step III.

III. A. The animal has black and white stripes, a very white face, and small ears. It still ain't a deer. Forget it. B. The creature has no ears, flaring nostrils, long fangs, and breathes purple flames out its eyes: Darned if I know what it is, but better not fool with it. C. The critter is grey or brownish in color, and has rather large ears: It might be a deer; proceed to step IV.

IV. A. The creature has short legs and a long shaggy coat: It's a yak; that last fence belongs to the Columbus Zoo —beat a hasty, strategic retreat. B. The creature has bark: you're looking at a fallen tree—shape up! C. The creature has fairly short, smooth hair: It might be a deer. On to step V.

V. A. The animal has no light-colored or white hair on rump or underparts: It ain't a deer; forget it. B. The critter has short horns and "udderly" distinctive features: don't shoot it, it's called a COW. C. The creature has lighter colored hair on rump and underparts; a long relatively thin neck, and light-colored rings around its eyes: You're getting warm; it might well be a deer. Hurry to step VI!

VI. A. The animal which is probably a deer has a dark head and neck, and dark-color legs: It's an elk; didn't we tell you to get back over that Zoo fence? B. The creature that's probably a deer does NOT have a dark head and neck, or legs, but does have a greyish or light brown forehead and muzzle: ten-to-one it's a white-tailed deer. Move quickly to step VII.

VII. A. The deer has no antlers on its head: It's probably a doe, but don't worry, she's legal game in Ohio. B. The deer has a large bunch of antlers on his head: Don't stand there reading this stuff. Shoot that trophy buck! Then move on to step VIII.

VIII. A. The deer falls down, dead: Congratulations! You got your deer! B. The deer bounds off over the hill: You missed—well, that's life—go back to Step I and start all over again!

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Ara . . .

I can still picture the tears streaming down my young cousin's face several years back when Notre Dame football first hit the skids.

Up to that time, it was hard to find someone to bet against or beat the Irish. They were the "Yankees" of the gridiron. Bookies broke into hysterics anytime someone mentioned "even money."

BUT THE unbelievable happened. Suddenly ND was no longer unbeatable. In fact, just about everybody did slap down the Irish in some of those lean years following the departure of Frank Leahy.

About the only thing local Notre Dame fans had to talk about was the still fantastic win over OSU (18-13) in 1935.

Both my cousin and the bookies are back to laughing this year while nine of ten '64 Irish opponents are shedding the tears.

PLENTY OF ND fans have attributed the Irish success to the rebirth of the ole' Rockne spirit. Maybe so — but the spirit came awfully quick on the heels of a 2-7 mark last season.

Maybe it's too statistical but we'd like to insert the name Parseghian to the 'whys' of ND grid success this season.

When Ara came to Northwestern he was a guy with a name that sounded like cheese who had tutored under Woody Hayes at Miami of Ohio and gained a successful mark as head Redskin chief.

WHEN HE departed for South Bend this year, the cheese was lodged in the throats of quite a few Big Ten opponents. Woody had lost two of his last three meetings with his protege and Northwestern found itself off the Big Ten doormat and upstairs with the big guys.

ND's fine mark under Parseghian has boosted Ara's lifetime mark to 84-42-2. And that's not much off Woody's 90-31-7 standing, generally envied as tops in collegiate football.

Two seasons ago, it was no secret among Ara's band of friends in Chicago that the NW mentor coveted the head coaching spot at OSU.

BUT THE JOB wasn't open then, nor is it now. Notre Dame is a prestige position for any grid coach. It's rather unlikely now that Parseghian would toss it aside if and when any change is made on North High Street.
